ZINA D. H. YOUNG.

A Brief Sketch of Her Life and Labors.

On the 31st day of the present month Sister Zina D. H. Young will have reached the age of seventy-five years.

"Aunt Zina," as the Latter-day Saints love to call her, was born January 31, 1821, in Watertown, Jefferson county, New York, and comes of goodly parentage. Her father was William Huntington, her mother Zina Baker, whose father was one of the first physicians in New Hampshire. Her maternal grandmother was Dorcas Dimock, "descended from the noble family of Dimocks whose representatives held the hereditary knight-championship of England; forbearer, Sir Ed ward Dymock, Queen Elizabeth's champion." Mrs. Young's father served in the war of 1812; Samuel Huntington, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was the uncle of her grandfather, Wm. Huntington, a revolutionary soldier. The family were directly descended from Simon Huntington, the Puritan emigrant, who sailed for America in 1633, but died at sea, leaving three sons and a widow, who were registered in Roxbury, Mass. Wm. Huntington, the grandfather, married Prescindia Lathrop, and was one of the first settlers in the Black River valley, northern New York.

The Huntingtons embraced the Gospel at Watertown, New York, and Zina Diantha was baptized by Patriarch Hyrum Smith August 14, 1835, and soon after went to Kirtland with her father's family. In Kirtland she received many blessings and manifestations, the gift of tongues, and of interpretation; she heard an audible shout of angels singing in the Kirtland temple, and was present at the memorable Pentecost when the spirit of God filled the Temple, like a mighty rushing wind. Sister Zina was a member of the Kirtland Temple choir.

With her father's family Sister Zina passed through the terrible persecutions in Missouri of which there is not time to tell. Like many others she early succeeded in reaching Commerce, afterwards called Nauvoo, where the saints suffered so much. At the place Sister Huntington, the mother, died, a martyr to suffering from the mobbings and drivings.

In Nauvoo Sister Zina became a member of the first Relief Society organization, little dreaming what would be in the future, and how great the work would become. When the Nauvoo Temple was ready for ordinances she received her blessings and endowments therein.

She left Nauvoo with the Saints in the month of February, 1846, with the first company, crossing the Mississippi river on the ice. Arriving at Sugar Creek, where the exiles stopped and made a resting place, her father was taken sick and died. She remained in Winter Quarters on the Missouri river, until 1848, when she started for the valley, beginning the journey in May, reaching the valley in September.

When the Relief Society was established in Utah, Sister Zina was chosen as treasurer of the first society in the Eleventh ward, which she received. Some years after, when Sister Eliza R. Snow was called by President Brigham Young to assist in reorganizing in the wards, Sister Zina was also called by the President as counselor to Sister Eliza, and she was associated with her in the labors of the Home Society and traveled to the interior uniting under Sister Zina's lifetime.

In the silk industry Sister Zina has been indefatigable and untiring, believing as do other women in this Territory has done, to establish sericulture. She has raised cocoons herself, and had charge of President Young's large cocoonery and mulberry orchard. In June, 1876, when a silk association was organized, Sister Zina was chosen president, and she has traveled the length and breadth of the Territory in its interest.

Sister Zina also took a course of medical studies under Dr. Williams Midwife in the early days in the valley, and became familiar with the practice among women, and has given numerous lectures on the subject of nursing, hygiene and other allied topics. She has traveled as extensively among the people and spoken as many times as any other women and perhaps even more. She has a rare locality of ministering to the sick and suffering, and is often alluded to as "Aunt Zina the Comforter," having such houses of mourning, solace in the gift of healing, which she seems naturally to possess. Her presence in the sick room is always soothing and uplifting to the afflicted.

Sister Zina is an inspirational impromptu speaker; her addresses, in form meetings and on various great occasions, have been widely circulated by newspaper reporters. She holds no ambitions without an effort by her natural eloquence.

In 1879 she visited the Sandwich Islands. During this trip she met many noted people. The same fall she accompanied Sister Eliza to St. George. There they labored in the Temple, and among the sisters' organization, held meetings, traveled over a thousand miles, often camping out over night. In 1891 she visited relatives in New York and Vermont and collected genealogical records of her ancestry; and while on her return spoke in Sunday schools and temperance meetings, and conversed with many celebrated divines; attended the Women's congress at Buffalo and a National Suffrage convention in New York city. Sister Zina also assisted the Elders in organizing a Relief Society at Cohoes, New York, during that visit.

In 1882, when the Deseret hospital was established, Sister Zina was chosen vice president, and occupies the arduous position for twelve years; the same year she also attended the National Suffrage Convention in Omaha, and visited relatives in St. Joseph, Mo. At this convention she made the acquaintance of several celebrated women, May Wright Sewall, Phoebe Cousins and others, also Susan B. Anthony, whom she had already met here on her first visit to Utah in 1876, and afterwards in New York. Sister Zina has continued her labors among the people and in the House of the Lord without ceasing year after year, and thousands rise up and call her blessed. She was for thirty years and perhaps even more, a diligent Sunday school worker.

After the decease of Sister Eliza R. Snow in December, 1887, Sister Zina being her first counselor, was chosen acting president until April, 1888, when she was called by President Wilford Woodruff and set apart to preside over all the Relief Society. In 1891 the Relief Society became formally connected with the National Council of Women of the United States, which entitles the president to the position of vice-president in this great council. In 1893, when the congress of representatives women from all the world met in the Art Palace in Chicago at the time of the World's Fair, Mrs. Young was present and had the privilege and the right of taking part in the important proceedings. She also held a meeting of the Relief Society in one of the halls of the Art Palace, which attracted much attention. At this meeting Isabella Beecher Hooker, Elizabeth Lizie Saxon and other celebrities were present, and some of them requested the privilege of speaking. On the Sunday following at the services in the large hall, Mrs. Young was seated upon the platform with fourteen women celebrities of different denominations, conversing freely with them after the service upon the principles of our faith, she also attended the congress of charities and philanthropies, of which she is a vice-president. Mrs. Young's labors have been diversified, and though one her reaches such a great age, her usefulness is not diminished, but increases as the field of her labors widens out, and develops more and more. Her entire time is given to the service of her God, in the duties of her calling in the Relief Society and in the ministrations in the Temple, where she has been called to preside over the sister—a long and a laborious life, of which perhaps the best evidences are given here. Sister Zina is distinctly a woman of the people, beloved by the Saints for her many excellent qualities, her integrity to the Gospel and her abundant charity.

We have only spoken of Sister Zina here as a public woman in the capacity of a missionary laboring among the sisters, but her home life has been equally exemplary and successful. She is tender and motherly in her nature, and though she has not had a large family of her own (two sons and one daughter) she has received several children who call her mother, now grown to manhood and womanhood, to whom she has given the same loving attention as to her own, and who love and reverence her in return as do her own.

Sister Zina became the wife of the Prophet Joseph Smith in Nauvoo, and after his death was married to Brigham Young. It is impossible to enter into details in a newspaper article. Volumes might be written of Sister Zina—her name has gone far and wide, and she is known everywhere for her good works; no woman in the Church is better known or more highly respected, and not only at home but abroad, she is appropriately designated a mother in Israel, which she is in very deed. County Teachers' Meeting.

An unusually large meeting of the Salt Lake County Teachers' association was held at the University this morning, and the program was specially interesting.

First in the order of exercises was the teaching of a class in reading in the beginners' grade. The class was conducted by Mrs. H. T. Rimbaugh, of Farmers' ward, who taught a class of her own pupils, and in a manner to elicit the interest and attention of every person present.

Prof. Nuttall of the University then spoke upon the best method of teaching United States History in the public schools. The professor would waive the more usual prevalent method of textbook teaching, and would substitute in its stead the philosophy of history, surrounding with that subject geography and especially map drawing. The use of relics, photographs of historic scenes and production of the times in warm impressions of events occurred were also recommended as helpful in entering into the spirit and life of a people, and of events around which close circumstances seemingly cluster. The next meeting will occur on Saturday, February 8.

Home Missionaries.

The Social Hall being occupied by the M. I. A. League, the home missionaries of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion will meet in President Angus M. Cannon's office next Wednesday, January 29th, at 7:30 p.m.

The Telephone Company some time ago adopted a plan for furnishing cheap residence telephone service, known as "Neighborhood Service," and it is found very satisfactory by persons now using it. The line is made a metallic circuit (2 wires), so as to avoid electric light and street car noises, and four or more subscribers connected with the same wire; the rate varying according to the number of subscribers on the wire, and as shown above.

Darlington has had an eight party circuit for some months, each party paying only $1.50 a month for his telephone. A six party line has just been completed lower down on First Street, and there are two other party lines now being strung in the eastern part of town.

An Old Soldier's Recommendation.

In the late war I was a soldier in the First Maryland Volunteers, Company G. During my term of service I contracted chronic diarrhoea. Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief it would irritate my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and to-day results followed. I take pleasure in recommending this preparation to all of my old comrades, who, while giving their services to their country, contracted this dreadful disease as I did, from eating unwholesome and uncooked food. Yours truly, A. E. SANDERS, Halsey, Oregon. For sale by druggists.

Some time ago Mr. Simon Goldstein of San Luis Rey, Cal., was troubled with a lame back and rheumatism. He used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and a prompt cure was effected. He says he has since advised many of his friends to try it and all who have done so have spoken highly of it. It is for sale by druggists.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds. It opens the secretions, relieves the lungs and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. If freely used as soon as the cold has been contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it greatly lessens the severity of the attack and has often cured in a single day what would have been a severe cold. For sale by druggists.

ANOTHER RAMBLER DAY.

The Rambler boys made a great showing in the tiddle races. The first event of the day was the ten mile road race, which Mr. Chamberlain finished third, taking third prize and third time prize. The second the track race, Joe Beck taking second in the novice, Fowler first, Wolcott second, and Chamberlain third in the scratch, class B, all "Ramblers" on 1895 mts. In the half mile class A, the novice handicap event, May taking first, Joe Beck second and Mel Gardner third. Fourteen prizes in one day is glory enough for any one.
