

Wednesday seems the pet hymenal day—this week and last, having a host of weddings, while the greater number of those to take place next week are set for Wednesday. Following is a partial list of next week's weddings: Monday, June 17—Miss Mattie E. Bywater and Will Brown. Wednesday, June 19—Miss Louise Evans and Mr. Geo. N. Aulbach. Miss Agnes Davidson and Mr. Amos J. Biddoway; Miss Annie Brown and Mr. Hyrum Duckworth; Miss Myrtle Abbott and H. F. Holmshaw; Miss Meyer and Mr. Joseph.

The week's long list of weddings began on Monday and continued during each day of the matrimony, some of them ranking among the most elaborate of the year. Among these was the wedding of Miss Helen Rothschild, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Rothschild of this city, and Mr. Simon A. Rice of St. Paul, Minn., on Monday night. The event took place at the Ladies' Literary club house, which was beautifully decorated with floral decorations, the platform being banked with palms and roses, while a canopy of roses and smilax hung overhead, and the letters "H-I-R" formed in roses decorated the rear wall.

The bride party entered to the strains of the wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Miss Pearl Rothschild, the bride with her father and attended by her sister, Miss Stella Rothschild and the groom by Mr. Leo Rothschild, the bride's brother. Master North Bohmer was ring bearer. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white tulle and lace, with a train of white tulle and lace, and a canopy of roses and smilax hung overhead, and the letters "H-I-R" formed in roses decorated the rear wall. The bride was escorted by her father, and the groom by his brother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Clarence T. Brown, officiating, and a reception followed in the basement room, which was beautifully decorated, and later a reception was held in a large number of guests being present. Letters of congratulation were read from absent friends, which added to those received from present ones made the evening a most happy one. The bride party were assisted in receiving by Mrs. H. I. Rothschild, Miss Rice of St. Paul, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Bohmer, sister of the bride.

Another pretty, though quiet wedding of Monday was that of Miss Lizzie Smith and Mr. Matt Collins Jr., which took place at noon at the bride's home on Sixth South street, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. Bishop Shreve performed the ceremony. The bride wore a handsome gown of white tulle and lace, and a canopy of roses and smilax hung overhead, and the letters "H-I-R" formed in roses decorated the rear wall. The bride was escorted by her father, and the groom by his brother. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Clarence T. Brown, officiating, and a reception followed in the basement room, which was beautifully decorated, and later a reception was held in a large number of guests being present. Letters of congratulation were read from absent friends, which added to those received from present ones made the evening a most happy one. The bride party were assisted in receiving by Mrs. H. I. Rothschild, Miss Rice of St. Paul, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Bohmer, sister of the bride.

An interesting event of Tuesday was the wedding of Mrs. Ida Deane Cannon, and Dr. Leslie W. Snow, which took place in the evening at the beautiful home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Deane. The ceremony being performed by President Lorenzo Snow, the father of the groom. The room was exquisitely decorated, the reception and artistic arrangement creating a scene of exceptional beauty. In the parlor white and green were the predominant colors, and the scheme was carried out in calla lilies, palms, ferns and trailing vines. The house was decorated with beautiful effect. In the library vases of roses were used, and in the room upstairs where dainty refreshments were served, pink roses, ribbons and candles created an exceedingly pretty scene. The bride wore a handsome gown of pearl grey crepe de chine over grey tulle trimmed with applique lace. The maid of honor, Miss Stella Deane, was dressed in pink silk, and the bridesmaids, Miss Lulu Snow and Miss Ora Dunford in dainty white. The bride's best man, Mr. Royal W. Payne, acted as best man. The affair was a most elaborate one in all respects. Dr. and Mrs. Snow will be at home after June 26th, at 41 Canyon Road.

One of the prettiest receptions of the season was that given by Mrs. W. H. King and Mrs. W. H. Dale on Tuesday afternoon. The affair took place at the residence of Mrs. King on Second street, and about 150 guests were present during the afternoon. The decorations were among the most artistic of the season. The parlor was literally smothered in flowers, the mantel looking like a superb mass of red and pink roses, and bouquets and clusters of the rich hued flowers being placed everywhere. Palms in jardiniere stood about, and a notable and most artistic feature of the decorations was the hanging fish-baskets in each of the large windows throughout the house, filled with flowers that hung out in dainty bunches with charming effect. In the parlor the baskets were swung on pink satin streamers, and pink shaded candelabra stood on stands and piano. The library pink peonies and pink roses were used, the three book-cases being covered with scarves of roses, and the windows having a fish-basket of pink peonies pendant with broad pink satin ribbon. The table upon which stood the punch bowl, carried a vase of pink roses and pink calla lilies. The dining room was exquisitely done in pink and pale green. In the center of the table stood a tall vase of pink roses tied with a bow of pale green satin ribbon, and pale green ribbons were used on the sideboard, and on the hanging basket of pink peonies swung in the window. The blinds were drawn and the candelabra and electric globes were shaded with pale green, the effect being exceptionally cool and dainty. Another special feature was the staircase whose decoration was designed by Mrs. H. P. Henderson. At the top of the stairway across the curve was a beautiful silk flag in the national colors, and the handrails were of honeysuckle. The pedestals lining the outside of the staircase and the balustrade being twined with honeysuckle with a pretty drapery of the fragrant vine covering the needed post. The decorations as well as all those throughout the house elicited many complimentary expressions.

The hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mesdames R. Lyman, P. S. Richards, H. P. Henderson and J. D. Spencer. In the dining room where delicious refreshments were served were Mrs. Hyde Dale, Mrs. Melvin Sowles and Mrs. William Mack, presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Dinny, assisted by Mrs. D. C. Roberts and Mrs. Russell Tracy. The reception lasted from 2 till 5.

Mrs. Dale and Mrs. King entertained at a second delightful function on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. King. The event was a eucharistic party and about sixty guests enjoyed the afternoon. The scores and tallies were in pink and green and were decorated with floral decorations. The first prize was taken by Mrs. Don Carlos Roberts and the lone hand prize by Mrs. Ferdinand Dickert. Mrs. M. L. B. Whitney won the general prize. The guests were: Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Mrs. D. S. Spencer, Mrs. H. H. Spencer, of Ogden; Mrs. L. M. Bailey, Mrs. G. P. Holman, Mrs. David Keith, Mrs. Thomas Kearns, Mrs. Sam King, of Provo; Mrs. R. I. Lyman, Mrs. E. S. Holmes, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. W. W. Ritter, Mrs. J. M. Bowman, Mrs. George Putnam, Mrs. Hyde Dale, Mrs. Melvin Sowles, Mrs. William Mack, Mrs. Wolgewood, Mrs. N. W. Clayton, Mrs. H. P. Henderson, Mrs. Glen Miller, Mrs. F. S. Richards, Mrs. Dewey P. Richards, Mrs. J. S. Richards, Mrs. George Sutherland, Mrs. George Wood, Mrs. M. D. Whitney, Mrs. J. S. Bransford, Mrs. Lewis A. Evans, Mrs. Dinny, Mrs. J. C. E. King, Mrs. J.
