FRAGMENTS.

THE grand jury were in session this morning.

ALL taxes become delinquent on October 1st.

THERE was no session of the probate court this morning.

COUNTY CLERK MEADY is daily expected back from his eastern trip.

SECRETARY CANNON and Bamberger have gone to Brigham today on county business.

THIS has been a busy morning, one way and another, in the Third district court.

HYRUM F. ROGERSON, of this city, was today commissioned a notary public for Salt Lake county, by Governor West.

IN the Third district court this morning, Mr. Wm. J. Herrick, a member of the bar of the Supreme court of Illinois, was admitted to practice.

A MARRIAGE license was issued by Deputy County Clerk Jack this morning to George H. Dassie, 22, of Harriman, and Sarah E. England, 20, of Logan, Cache county.

CONSTABLE TAYLOR held a "view" today of the remains of Harry Le Roy Collins, a nine months old infant who died suddenly at No. 251 east First South street this morning of spinal and heart trouble.

LARGE quantities of coal are now being hauled over the mountain by team from Coalville to this city and the farming districts in this county. Men who have the teams and but little money say it pays them to do so.

COUNSEL AND WITNESS.

Judge Powers and Mr. F. S. Gillespie Have a Dialogue in Court.

Judge Powers, in the capacity of defending counsel, often has a little passage of arms with witnesses for the prosecution should they unconsciously overstep the roles of evidence while giving testimony. There was another example of it in the Third district court today during the trial of a criminal case. Mr. F. S. Gillespie was the transgressor in this instance. Several times while that gentleman was testifying Judge Powers deemed it necessary to interpose objections to certain statements, causing the witness at length to get rather warm. But the climax came when Mr. Gillespie, as he was about to step down from the witness stand, remarked, "I want to correct an impression which Judge Powers has made in his opening." Up jumped Judge Powers.

"I object to this man talking in this way," said he. "He seems to want to act as counsel and witness as well."

"No, not at all, Judge," coolly replied Mr. Gillespie. "Well, don't take so much interest in the case, then," retorted Judge Powers; and the witness sat down looking daggers and bowie knives at "the other party."

The Work of Burglars.

SAINTS IN BAKER CITY, OR.

A Ward Established.—Utah Men Engaged in Lumbering.

Prosperity and Enterprise of the Company.—Its Mills and Finances, and the Sumpter Valley Railroad.

BAKER CITY, Sept. 12, 1893.

Editor Deseret News:

With the growth of the Oregon Lumber company's business in and around Baker City quite a number of Latter-day Saints have found employment here, until we now number about one hundred souls. For a long time it has been our desire to be organized into a branch that we might fittingly observe the Sabbath day. In the latter part of July we were favored with a visit from Apostle F. D. Richards accompanied by Sabbath school Superintendent Austin C. Brown. A meeting of the Saints was called at 10 a.m. at the residence of Brother John Hoddard and after the usual opening exercises Elder Richards explained the object of their visit, namely, the organization of a branch and a Sunday school. He spoke lengthily upon the condition of the Saints and the great necessity of constant vigilance that they be not overcomed evil. He also dwelt upon the peculiar condition of the country at the present time—how, in the midst of abundant harvests, financial ruin and widespread destitution threatened the people. He explained the responsibility of our position with reference to the world and earnestly desired that the blessings of the Gospel might not only be enjoyed by the Saints here but that we might be the means of gathering out the honest from the region round about.

Brothers Hoddard, C. W. Sibley, Joseph A. West, David Eccles, A. C. Brown and others spoke briefly, expressing great pleasure at the progress of our organization here when young and old could have the opportunity of studying the principles of the Gospel and of receiving that spiritual food that they all so much needed.

At 3 p. m. another meeting was held, at which the sacrament was administered. While the bread was being broken Elder Richards explained the nature of the ordinance, and showed why it was consistent and proper to use water instead of wine. As there were quite a number more present, the object of the meeting was again explained, and a vote taken upon the question of organizing a branch. The advisability of such a move was affirmed by a unanimous vote.

The name of Brother John Hoddard was presented to the congregation for their consideration as branch president and he was unanimously sustained. Being given the privilege of selecting his counselors he chose Brothers Grant Geddes and James H. Smallwaite. These brethren were also accepted by a unanimous vote. Brother James Sibley was chosen clerk of the branch. Brother C. W. Sibley moved that the president of the branch be also sustained as the superintendent of the Sunday school. Carried.

The brethren thus selected briefly expressed their willingness to serve the ward in the position to which each had been called, after which the meeting adjourned.

The day was truly one of joy to the Saints of this place and the precious counsels of Elder Richards will long be cherished. We have since built us a nice little meeting house capable of seating about 200, and are holding Sabbath schools regularly. Already inquiries are being made relative to our faith and the prospects seem favorable for a good work to be accomplished in this region.

As but little is generally known in Utah of the operations of the Oregon Lumber company in this state, it might be interesting to your readers for me to add something upon this subject.

As you are well aware, the demand for lumber in Utah long since exhausted our native forests and compelled our lumber men to look elsewhere for other sources of supply. With this object in view David Eccles, of Ogden, visited Oregon immediately after the completion of the Oregon Short Line railway, and made a careful inspection of its timber resources. He was not long in concluding that the fir and tamarac forests of the Cascades and the pineries of the Blue mountains would meet Utah's requirements for these classes of timber for years to come.

With his characteristic energy he immediately began the establishment of lumbering industries at various points. These grew so rapidly as to call for the organization of a joint stock company and the enlargement of his various plants. In this way the Oregon Lumber company came into existence, a company organized under the laws of Utah and composed entirely of Utah men and Utah capital—Mr. Eccles being still the principal stockholder and the head and front of the organization. The company now own and operate two large lumbering plants on the Cascade mountains, where the justly celebrated Oregon fir and tamarac grow to such profusion. One of these is at the foot of Mount Hood, from whence the lumber is floated a distance of about ten miles to the planing mills and yard on the Columbia river. The other is across the river in the state of Washington at a place called Cheeweeth. Here also the lumber is floated from the mills in the mountains directly on to the company's barges that carry it across the river to the railway for storage and shipment.

The capacity of their two mills is about eighty thousand feet of lumber per day. In eastern Oregon they have several small mills at Pleasant Valley, one in Sumpter valley and one at Baker city. Their mill at the latter point has a capacity of one hundred thousand feet per day and is the most modern and perfectly equipped mill in the West. It was built three years ago by Brother John Hoddard and is a model of perfection. It is supplied with logs by the Sumpter Valley railway, a narrow gauge road twenty miles long that penetrates one of the largest and finest bodies of timber in the eastern part of Oregon. In fact, its line is the key to the only valuable tracts of timber that remain in Oregon possessions. This road was also built by Utah capital and everything of its stock is owned by Utah men.

The capital stock of the two companies aggregates half a million dollars. David Eccles is the president of the Sumpter Valley railway, C. W. Sibley vice president, and Jos. A. West superintendent and secretary. The road was built under Mr. West's direction as chief engineer and superintendent of construction. Since its completion Mr. F. S. Gillespie has been assistant superintendent, in which capacity he has immediate charge of the operating department, while Mr. West's duties appertain to the business department of the railway and the Oregon Lumber company combined. In addition to being the key to a large interior tract of timber, the Sumpter Valley railway possesses a very rich mineral section that with the advent of silver will afford the road considerable business.

The Spry Failure.

The failure of the Philip Spry & Sons's tailoring establishment yesterday, as chronicled in last evening's NEWS, was the culmination of a series of unavoidable misfortunes and not the result of mismanagement in business affairs.

During the last two years the Spry tailor shop was burglarized three times and more than $1000 worth of goods stolen. During the same period Mr. Spry Sr. has been the victim of two serious and protracted spells of sickness, and three weeks ago he was stricken down with paralysis and has, therefore, been unable to attend to his affairs a considerable portion of the time. While he deplores his retirement from business, he expects to be able to realize enough from his stock to pay every dollar that he owes.

CAN DO BUT ONE THING.

The Chairman of the Special "Ways and Means" Committee Talks of the Prospective Report.

Councilman Wantland was asked by a NEWS reporter today, as chairman of the special committee appointed to inquire into the demands of Councilman Moran for the removal of the city officials who form part and parcel of the Ananias, as to what he intended to do with the matter. He laughed and said: "We can do but one thing. That will be to report adversely on Moran's proposition. We can't think of making a man or set of men on such a pretense. We notified Mr. Moran to be present at the investigation, the same as did also the men sought to be removed, but he failed to do so. Therefore I say we can do but one thing."

It is hinted, however, that a minority report will recommend that the officials "of Moran's choice be relieved from office."

AUGUST EDLER HELD.

His Case Will Go Before the Grand Jury in a Few Days.

The preliminary examination of August Edler on a charge of burglarizing the room of the society of the Western star on the night of August 5th was concluded before Commissioner Norrell late yesterday afternoon. When the case for the prosecution had closed the defendant went upon the witness stand. He is 17 years of age. Edler admitted having told a newspaper reporter that he broke open the box in the hope of finding a list of the names of the members of the Western star, but said "it was all a joke." Had he been guilty he would not have admitted it. The commissioner said it seemed to him the evidence showed sufficient ground to hold the defendant to the grand jury. He was therefore committed and held in the original bond of $500.

While giving his testimony, George M. Spoor, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, resented an interrupting witness—Deputy Sheriff O'Brien—and indulging in the unenlightenment language. Eventually Commissioner Norrell imposed a fine of $5 on Spoor and ordered Deputy Sheriff O'Brien to keep him in custody until the fine was paid. At the end of the examination Mr. Spoor apologized, and his honor remitted the fine.

An Open Letter.

To the Mayor and City Council, Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 18th, 1893.

Gentlemen—I see in a recent report of your health officer a recommendation for the Salt Lake & Jordan Canal to be dispensed with, as he states the said canal is a nuisance to public health. Inquiry of settlers along its banks and a list of the most infected districts of the city fail to confirm the doctor's statement. I understand that enough money has been appropriated by your honorable body to keep that very useful waterway in a cleanly and healthful condition. May be the doctor does not know how fatbaily (?) the watermaster and his assistants have tried to earn their salaries and how well (?) they have succeeded in keeping this canal in a healthy state. The fact is, that canal is kept well filled with water and that water is a great necessity to the citizens of the southern, western and central portions of the city to keep alive the trees and shrubs with which their lots and sidewalks are adorned.

If Dr. Beatie wishes a change in, say, to the cleanliness condition of the canal, let him recommend that the water be piped from the southern limits of the city, as that none of the water takers from this source of supply may be deprived of this very necessary water supply to keep their trees and shrubbery from perishing—a thing many of them would do immediately after the cutting off their water supply from this source.

Furthermore, the city of Salt Lake has vested rights for that much water from the Jordan river and Utah lake, which it has acquired by labor and the expenditure of much money, and the residents of this city cannot, I submit, afford to lose any vested or established water rights, but should seek to add to those already obtained.

Very respectfully yours in defense of the People's rights,

SAMUEL S. YOUNG, M. D.

Inferior Goods.

The only safe way for purchasers is to insist on having the genuine article, and not allow themselves to be swindled by having plasters sold to be "just as good," or "containing superior ingredients," imposed upon them. These are only tricks to sell inferior goods that no more compare with Allcock's Porous Plasters than copper does with gold. One trial of Allcock's Porous Plasters will convince the most sceptical of their merits.

The eminent Henry A. Mott, Jr., Ph. D., F.C.S., late Government Chemist, certifies:

My investigation of Allcock's Porous Plaster shows it to contain valuable and essential ingredients not found in any other plaster, and I find it superior to and more efficient than any other plaster."

Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation of salesmen induce you to accept a substitute.
