CALL TO UTAH STOCKMEN.

Meeting of Stock Growers to be Held in This City on Thursday Next.

To All Utah Stockmen—The recently formed call for a convention of Live Stock growers to meet in Denver on the 25th of this month, emphasizes the fact that Utah is behind all the other western states in the matter of organizations representative of one of its leading industries. It is believed that the Utah Sheep and Wool Growers' association is the sole body of the kind now active within the State.

If only be true, under the call referred to, but few delegates can be reasonably expected from this commonwealth. It is a fact, however, that Denver promises important developments to the cattle, sheep, horse and swine interests of the United States, and especially those of the Transmississippi country.

It is desirable that the State be well represented, and that no two people directly interested in the problems of this feature of the wealth; and it is believed from the expressions received from cowmen and sheepmen from each end of the State that a liberal attendance may be insured if measures are taken to provide all such people with attend with such credentials as will entitle them to the privileges of the convention when properly notified.

To this end first, and with the hope that the movement may ultimately result in the formation of a vigorous and effective State association, the undersigned live stock men of Utah, invite all live stock owners and dealers in the city and state, to attend a meeting of stock growers which will be held at No. 206 Dooly block, office of the Colorado Midland railway, 2 p. m., Thursday, January 6th, for the purpose of perfecting a State live stock association with its discussed.

SUGAR FACTORY AT OGDEN.

Announcement that the Contract for Its Construction Has Been Closed.

An Associated Press dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., last evening (Jan. 3), says:

E. H. Dyer & Co. of Cleveland today closed a contract with David Eccles and Joseph Clark of Ogden, Utah, for the construction of a beet-sugar factory at Ogden.

The terms of the contract provide that the factory, which will have a daily capacity of 500 tons, shall be completed in time to handle the beet crop of 1898. When completed the plant will represent an expenditure of $200,000.

Messrs. Eccles and Clark have carefully inspected the sugar factory at Los Alamos and left for Ogden tonight.

Opening of the Webster School.

The formal opening of the Webster school building occurred with appropriate exercises yesterday afternoon. During the day about seven hundred pupils were enrolled and patrons of the school from all parts of the district visited and inspected the new institution of learning.

President Doxey presided at the ceremonies and briefly welcomed the guests of the occasion and explained the great necessity that had existed in the Tenth ward for such a building in the past, while Dr. Millspaugh explained in detail the methods of heating and ventilating and the various other appointments of the structure.

Remarks were also made by William Nelson, a former president of the board, Geo. A. Smith and J. J. Thomas, the latter a member of the outgoing board.

Abstracts of title furnished by the Utah Title Insurance and Trust company, are absolutely correct.

A REVIVAL REHEARSAL.

Professor Stephens Sends New Year's Greeting to the Tabernacle Choir Members.

SPECIAL MEETING CALLED FOR THURSDAY

When Work on the Great Masters Will be Taken Up—Absentees to be Expelled—First Presidency's Wishes.

Conductor Stephens has handed in the following self explanatory communication for publication:

"Tabernacle Choir Members, New Year's Greeting.

"Fellow workers in the Divine Art—The new year is here to extend an offer of the renewal of all things. Many of you thought the prize of office bearer and conductor should have been given to some in charge, to lend you greeting. The time has come when you must take up and carry on what we have left in the care of attendants break forth to show that there is still life within, and the promise of better things. Let us endeavor to cause the trimming knife to pass by us. The garden need not be cut down, but pruned. Let us, if it be Sunday, Jan. 30th, be signs of life appear in us, though there may have been in the past. It will be the performer's duty to treat you as their benefactor, rendering your mutual aid among the lying members, and leave them among the "bare mouth."

Your presence with the choir at rehearsals and meetings during the next two weeks will be the best signs of renewed life. This being impossible, a statement with reasons, will suffice, conductor or secretary, and next either duty or monitors will be accepted until you can show better promise of fruiting. Failure of either will be taken as an expression of your having no desire to continue as an active member, though common courtesy to the choir would call for your resignation or discontinuance, to be given by letter, or note.

"Fellow workers, while you have voluntarily taken upon yourselves this (I trust) pleasant task, you have now the few times called to it, and the Presidency of the Church has solemnly declared this to be your first duty, unless specially called to fill another and a higher calling, such as a mission. Hence do not let trifles stand in the way of your faithful continuance in the choir. If you have been negligent in the late past, try to do better. There is no impossible prospect of an excursion to California, New York or Paris. Now is your opportunity to cause diligence without cessation to have inertia motives. We call to you the leader that we are not in and the leader, so far as more have go, but that we need the united training of the "whole six hundred" the entire membership to do work worthy of the "whole six hundred." Otherwise it would be better for to reduce the army even to one half if need be, it would then be the largest church choir in the world. With a united effort we might even at that number, assist in quality what it is in quantity. There will be a Special Rehearsal in the Tabernacle at 7:30 Thursday night, Jan. 6th. Bring copies of "The Messiah." Copies of Choruses from the first century written on the Book of Mormon subject will be in readiness and the issue of mastering them will be taken up. For the benefit of all who do not fully understand the requirement of the Deseret choir nomenclature the following from the First Presidency is appended.

"Wishing you and the choir a Happy New Year, I am,

E. STEPHENS, Conductor."

FROM THE FIRST PRESIDENCY.

"Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 14, 1895.

"To Conductor Evan Stephens, and the Members of the Tabernacle Choir:

"Dear Brethren and Sisters—The following memoranda express, in part, our wishes and feelings with regard to yourselves and the important work placed in your hands:

"First—Members of the Tabernacle choir are really acting as missionaries, called for their special work in the duties belong to give the necessary time for practice and rehearsals, and to be ready on the Sabbath, and on other occasions as required by their conductor.

"Second—being called especially to this work, all other duties of a public nature should be subordinate to performing the public duty which would conflict with their duties in this choir, unless first released from the choir.

"Third—All those called to this work should be faithful in their attendance and should give hearty and cheerful aid to their conductor and employer, so far as possible with the plans and movements deemed necessary to the choir's work in the Divine Art, which cannot proper advancement towards perfection attained without united effort and perfect discipline.

"Fourth—The members may feel assured that any and all movements of the choir under the direction of the choir, the board, examined officers of all other bodies and auxiliary bodies in the Church, holding musicians and singers with proper authority and being in harmony with the spirit and mission of the Tabernacle choir, are called to this labor.

"We desire to see this choir not only maintain the high reputation it has earned at home and abroad, but become the highest standard of the Divine Art in all the land, and we look to the full support of the choir of all officers and authorities
