AFFAIRS OF THE CITY.

Mayor Baskin Disapproves the Street Lighting Contract.

A New Ordinance Creating a Larger "Lamp District No. 1"—Deputy Meat Inspector and Other Matters.

The City Council met in regular session last night and transacted business as follows:

Petition of Martin Lannan, W. R. Preston, et al, asking that H. J. Faust be appointed deputy meat inspector was referred to the committee on sanitary rules and quarantine.

The Mayor returned, vetoed, the resolution of the city entering into a contract with the Electric Light company to furnish arc lamps of a candle power and specified for $10 per month, which he deemed excessive. Council Bluffs, he said, had recently contracted for 2000 candle power lights, all night service for $84 per annum while Chicago had been offered similar service for $65. Should any contract at all be entered into the terms should be specific and satisfactory to the taxpayers. The veto was sustained on a vote of 9 to 5.

John Scobie, Warren Foster et al, presenting the resolutions adopted at the workingmen's meeting in the Temple a few days ago, protesting against additional time being granted in the gravity sewer contractors in which to finish their work and asking that the contract be completed by day labor and that the Council unite with the citizens in providing employment for those who has nothing to do. Committee on sewerage and board of public works.

The board of public works reported that Hobson & Wilkstrom should be paid out of the general fund for sidewalk construction on Second South between Sixth West street and the Jordan river. Adopted.

As to the question of the length of poles which are likely to be set up by the Citizens' Electric Light company, the committee on municipal laws submitted an ordinance amending the ordinance fixing the limit of feet, by striking out the words "25 feet" and inserting the words "35 feet." It was stated that the new company wanted to set poles and was obliged by law to go above wires already strung, hence the new corporation wanted definite authority by ordinance. The question went over for one week, being referred back to the committee with the city engineer and chairman of the board of public works associated.

George M. Scott & Co. was given the contract for repairs on the Eagle Gate amounting to $10.

A bill for hospital services was placed on the appropriation list.

A new ordinance creating Lamp District No. 1, which covers nearly the whole of the city, was introduced by Cohn. It provides for 350 lights and provoked lengthy discussion, after which the ordinance finally passed.

Cohn then offered a resolution that the board of public works be authorized to advertise for bids for the lighting of the district, the term for lighting to be one year, beginning with March 1, 1895, the lighting to be done by means of 300 arc lamps, each of said lights to be of 2,000 candle power, to be determined according to the formula adopted by the World's Columbian Exposition Electrical Congress.

This resolution was also the subject of considerable debate and was laid on the table for one week.

O'Meara presented a resolution that the report of the committee on finance, recently adopted by the Council, fixing the salary of the Police and Fire Commissioners, be reconsidered, and the members of that body be requested to meet with the committee of the whole on Thursday evening. Laid on the table for one week.

Clawson offered a resolution to the effect that the unpaved portion of Richards street be paved, and that the city engineer be ordered to make an estimate of the cost of such work. Adopted.

O'Meara offered a resolution instructing the committee on improvements to ascertain and report upon the cost of lighting the residence portion of the city with 32 candle power incandescent lamps. Adopted.

Appropriations were made amounting to $4,172.81, after which the Council adjourned.

SALT LAKE COLLEGE.

Interesting Lecture Course to be Commenced By That Institution.

Attention is called to the opening of the Salt Lake college lecture course, by the management of that institution, on Friday evening of this week at the First Congregational church. Prof. Kenaston, who delivers the first two lectures, is one of the discoverers of the Great Falls of Labrador, and it is said that only seven other white men have ever seen them. The lectures on Labrador will be beautifully illustrated by a powerful stereopticon, the views being the only photographs ever taken of the interior of Labrador. These lectures will be both interesting and instructive, especially to all teachers and students of geography.

The topics of the first lecture, Friday evening, 7:30, are as follows: The North Atlantic, Nova Scotia, Cape Race, Newfoundland, the fogs, the ice, the fisheries, St. Johns, first view of coast of Labrador, navigation of the coast, the icebergs, fishing stations, settlements, Indians, Hudson Bay Co., the Moravians, Hamilton inlet, the dogs.

The topics of the second lecture, Friday, February 1st, at 7:30 p.m., are as follows: Rumors of a grand waterfall, McLean's account, expedition planned to explore the grand river and falls, "The Portia," Rigolette, voyaging up Hamilton inlet, Northwest river, the party, the outfit, "Our boats over the fire," the final start, the river, last sign of human life, Portage at Muskrat Falls, means of progress, encounter with the first rapids, Lake Waunakapau, the Palisades, Minipi Rapids, "The Bog Heel," permanent camp, a rough country, arrival at the Falls, measurement of the Falls, a lonely camp, the return, the flag the Bagley, the map, "The Harvingen," at St. Johns.

Two Fires at the City Jail.

There were two different fires at the city jail last night and both of them caused intense excitement among the prisoners. The first burst forth near the stove pipe hole between the first and second stories. While it caused a good deal of smoke it was not difficult to extinguish. The second was slowly eating its way through the floor and filled the old bastile with clouds of smoke so dense as to almost suffocate the frightened inmates. Joseph May, a drunken Seventh warder, the prisoner, fired the place just "for fun." Any way he enjoyed the antics of his fellow prisoners very much.

The Latter-day Saints College.

The second semester of this institution will open on Monday, Jan. 28th, at 9 a. m.

In addition to courses now in progress new classes will be organized in New Testament, theology, botany, history of education, geology, penmanship, geometry, bookkeeping and physiology.

MISSIONARY EXPERIENCE.

Timely Advice to the Young Men of Israel.

Elder Daniel H. Livingston Writes of His Successful Labors in South Brisbane, Australia.

Through the courtesy of Brother Joseph H. Felt we are permitted to publish the following from a letter received by him from Elder Daniel H. Livingston, who is laboring as a missionary in Australia, with his postoffice address at Gordon street, Coorparoo, South Brisbane, Queensland, Australia.

I am laboring in the northern part of far away sunny Australia, where I arrived some six months ago, after a pleasant voyage of twenty-seven days, and have been very busy since my arrival. Every moment of my time that hasn't been spent in traveling, tracting, or preaching has been devoted to the study of the Gospel, and fitting and preparing myself to face the world and preach and defend the truth. When I arrived in this country which is noted for its wickedness, and by our people for its hatred toward us, I was put right into the harness, and sent out on my own hook to battle with the world and teach them the true plan of salvation. Even the first Sunday after my arrival I was called upon to address a large congregation of unbelievers who were full of prejudice and hatred toward us.

It was then I remembered the sayings of Brother Felt and others when they would be pointing out the grand opportunities they had in Priesthood meetings and in other organizations to obtain knowledge and qualify themselves for the time when they would be called upon to bear the glad tidings of life and salvation to a benighted world. It was then I realized how ignorant I was and what I might have been if I had only taken advantage of the opportunities that were afforded me, instead of standing around on the corners and in other foolish ways. It was then I looked back on the last few years of my life with a sigh and longed to recall those hours which I have wasted in idleness instead of preparing myself for such a labor as that in which I have been called.

I used to think (as many more young men do) that there was nothing to live for except worldly pleasure and worldly gain, and that religion was all right in its place, but its place was with the old folks, who had had their days of pleasure. But my mind has changed considerably since then. I have come to the conclusion that I did not know what real pleasure was until I came out here and began to labor in the glorious cause in which I am now engaged. I find more real solid comfort in reading and preaching the word of God than I could possibly have in any other way, and I have had a good opportunity of comparing the two, for I know a little about the so-called worldly pleasure myself. How I would like to be back on the the corner among the boys, if it was only for one night, just to give them a good talking to and tell them some of my experience. But I dare say it would do them no good, or at least that would have been the case with me. It seems that one cannot profit by another's experience; they must go through the mill themselves. The saying that "Experience makes fools wise" is only too true.

I am pleased to state that my health is good and I am enjoying my missionary labors immensely, for which I feel thankful to my heavenly Father. We have a very indifferent class of people to labor among, most of them having heard the Gospel in the old country. The majority of them are very prejudiced and persecute us all they can, and sometimes make it very unpleasant for us. But we are getting along excellent with our work. The more they persecute us the better it makes us feel, and the harder we work. I have a good traveling companion though he is nearly as young as myself, and some term us the boy preachers. In the district where we are laboring we have baptized fifteen good, honest-hearted souls, and blessed about the same number of children, and I think before the sun goes down many more those quite a number more will be numbered among the Saints of the Most High. So you see the Lord is opening the way for us and blessing our labors.

Missionary life isn't so bad as some imagine, though a fellow gets used pretty rough once in a while, especially in Australia. I thought it pretty hard to have to leave home and friends, in fact everything that was near and dear to me, and come out among strangers. But I believe it would make me feel worse if I was compelled to cease my labors in the missionary field and return home before accomplishing the work for which I have been sent here.

I want to say to the young men if any of them should be lucky enough to receive a call for a mission, not to think that all their pleasure is at an end, for three years, but they are now going to find out what real pleasure is. I feel that I cannot be too thankful for the mercies of my heavenly Father to me, that I have been deemed worthy to be an ambassador of His Son, and my desire is to perform my labors energetically and faithfully in His sight. Although I have been laboring in the cause of truth but a short time, I can testify of innumerable instances wherein I have been the recipient of manifold blessings from the Throne of Grace while discharging my duties in the missionary field, and have thus obtained a stronger testimony of the glorious Gospel.

Of this I feel sure, that inasmuch as an Elder will meditate upon the principles of the Gospel, he will find joy and rejoicing in his labors, will increase in wisdom, knowledge and understanding, and in the grace of our heavenly Father.

Gold Excitement Unabated.

The excursion to the Cottonwood gold fields will surely go tomorrow at 8:05 a. m. via the Rio Grande Western. New strikes are being made daily. It will prove interesting to examine the valuable veins opened up in the claims of Westenholme, Morris & Co. The snowfall of today will in no way interfere with the examination or with prospecting. The excursion may afford your only chance for an interest in what seems to be the greatest strike of the age. A number of experts will accompany the excursion and any information concerning the formation, etc., can be obtained from them both en route and on the field. Train returns at 1:25 p. m. and 5:40 p. m. Fare only $1, round trip.
