WORKMEN PROTEST.

Resolutions Adopted at a Meeting of Laborers.

SENATOR VOORHEES MISSING.

Confusion Shown in the Committee Presenting the Resolutions to the Senate Members.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The workingmen from Philadelphia and New Jersey marched to Mazzatti's hall. The committee delegated to wait upon the senators made its report. [illegible] reported that Senator Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, in charge of the bill, had been written to and had been called for at [illegible] and the Senate, but could not be found. Jeers greeted this announcement. The delegates who called upon Senators Brice, Smith and Murphy reported that those senators had not been found.

The resolutions adopted by the special committee were read by Secretary [illegible] J. Kelly, as follows:

[illegible]

"Whereas, For nearly ten months the business of this country has been paralyzed, and the promise of improvement [illegible] consequence of certain financial legislation has not been realized; and

"Whereas, We, ourselves and others are deprived of the means of livelihood by reason of threatened revisions of the tariff laws, under which we had been so prosperous, [illegible]
