THIRD DISTRICT COURT.

Another Batch of Prisoners Arraigned This Morning.

$1000 FOR PERSONAL INJURIES.

The Case of McCornick vs. Sadler.—Miscellaneous Matters.

The Bond boom in the Third District court room had been "opentally reserved" this morning for the accommodation of nine among the lower type of characters that have recently found shelter within the walls of the penitentiary while awaiting trial. They had been brought down to plead to indictments preferred against them by the grand jury for various offenses, and their respective cases are outlined below:

HORSE AND HARNESS THIEVES.

John Stringham, a lump-backed young man about 24, pleaded not guilty to a charge of grand larceny. The articles alleged to have been stolen were a set of double harness and other stable belongings. Mr. Riley was appointed by the court to defend the prisoner, who was then arraigned on another indictment—for stealing a horse, valued at $100, the property of Mr. H. S. Clawson. To this he also entered a plea of not guilty, and the same attorney will appear for the defense. The trial was set for October 10th. Mr. Riley applied that the bond of the prisoner be fixed at $500, his friends resided in the Territory and he would surrender at the proper time. Counsel assured the court that he would be prepared to offer a successful defense. The court granted the request as to bail.

A COMPANY OF HOUSEBREAKERS.

Thomas Ward pleaded guilty to a charge of housebreaking on September 24th, and stealing the sum of $425, a watch and other articles. The prisoner stated to Mr. Sadler and Mr. Riley he was a mere tool.

John McGivney and Thos. Sullivan pleaded not guilty to burglarizing the store of Messrs. Lippman and Wallace, on Sept. 12th, and stealing various articles of wearing apparel. In reply to the court the prisoners said they wanted an attorney to defend them, but had not the means to employ one. He hence appointed Mr. Zollkowitz to watch their case.

Frank St. Clair and John Smith were arraigned on a charge of committing a burglary at the dwelling house of Mary Hall, on August 29th, and stealing money and wearing apparel. They pleaded not guilty. Mr. Anderson was appointed by the court to defend the prisoners, whose trial was set for the 14th inst.

John Crawford and James McCarthy, two more burglars, who broke and entered the dwelling house of one Hans Jensen and stole food and clothing, pleaded not guilty to the indictment against them. The court appointed Mr. Riley to defend. The trial was set for October 19th.

In his answer the defendant admits that Taft & Pendgrass performed labor and furnished material for the erection of the house, but denies that he became indebted to them in the sum claimed. Defendant further answers that he has both the first mortgage and a first release and discharge, which was made prior to the commencement of this action. This was pleased to hand of the process said.

DEATH OF HON. W. S. COLLETT.

He Passes Away at His Residence Near Forest Dale, of Typhoid and Brain Fever.

The many friends of Hon. William G. Collett will be pained to learn of his demise, he having died at an early hour yesterday morning from typhoid and brain fever, after confinement to his room for 11 days.

He had been ailing for several weeks, but being an energetic man, with an unusually active mind and strong physical constitution, he endeavored to throw off the languid feeling that had taken possession of him, but was finally compelled to take to his bed. During the sickness he improved the time, when not under attention, but grew gradually worse until his decease.

Deceased, who was born at Smithfield, Cache County, Utah, November 11th, 1850, and was consequently in his thirty-first year. As a young man he labored under considerable difficulties in overcoming formidable obstacles in obtaining an education. He was a graduate of the Brigham Young Academy, of Provo, and subsequently he taught in Davis County. For four years he was the principal of the Bingham Academy, at Grantsville, and did much to promote the cause of education in that place. About four years ago he was chosen Bishop of Grantsville, and served in that capacity for nearly two years, when he was honorably relieved from the duties of that office on account of his removal from the county. While acting as Bishop he endeared himself to the people of the ward over which he presided by his progressive and philanthropic nature.

In 1887 he was elected as counselor from Tooele county to the twenty-ninth session of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory, and his services in the Legislature early in the following year so earnest advocate of the free school law contained at that session are well remembered.

He leaves a wife and one child to mourn his sad and early death. The funeral services will be held at the family residence at 11 a.m. tomorrow, after which the remains will be interred in the city cemetery.

Amusements.

"The Merchant of Venice" was given last evening at the Salt Lake Theatre by the Keene company to a fair house. Mr. Keene as Shylock was almost as effective as in "Louis XI." His rendition of the old Hebrew money lender was received with enthusiasm by the audience. The court room scene was magnificent, and fairly completed the house. The various emotions and passions which enter into the Shylock character, such as revenge, avarice, despondency, grief and rage, were vividly portrayed in Mr. Keene's characteristic manner. The support was on the whole acceptable. Tonight "Richard III" will close the engagement. Whoever would see Keene in his most sublime conception of dramatic art should see him in this play.

For the week commencing October 1st, "Wonderland" has a new programme. Charles Fitzalls presents his "Mysterious Mr. Mesmerpotter," in which a marble image becomes a living, breathing woman. Another wonderfully illusory is "La Mystique," or the Transformation Prof. Marley's "Fata Morgana," a series of dramatic views, is being given. Professor Hardy, Gertie Thornton and Ollie Hare are among the many features of this week's programme.

The box office opens tomorrow morning for the sale of seats for the Home Dramatic Club's Fair and Concerning concert. Tickets will be given at the close of "The Wives of Han," which opens the engagement Saturday afternoon.

"Cleopatra" will be seen at the Salt Lake Theatre Wednesday night, with Fanny Davenport as the Egyptian Queen. Mr. Gillette is the author of "Cleopatra," as played by Miss Bernhardt in French and Miss Davenport in English. The drama will be elaborately dressed and will exhibit an extensive corps of supernumeraries. It is generally unfounded that Cleopatra not her death by taking an asp to her bosom. Miss Davenport evidently improves on history, for it is stated in a paragraph from a managerial source that "she uses two young South American monkeys in the death scene, which she has so tamed that they will eat from her hands." "Cleopatra" is in six acts, the scenes being laid in the tarque of Cleopatra, the palace of the Princess, the terrace at Memphis, the palace at Actium and the temple of Isis.

John Coly, of Eden, Weber county, writes to the DESERET NEWS, under date of September 29th, as follows: "La Plata City knocked out, even the great Cumstock lode of Virginia City knocked out, by the discovery of a wonderful lode of gold, silver and copper, yearing quartz.

"It is one hundred feet in width, jutting from the ground seven feet, and ran be traced for a considerable distance. The contact is granite and slate, which seldom decorate. The rock is of the most brilliant character and is a veritable bonanza."

This valuable find is located about twelve miles north of Ogden, and nine miles north of Eden, and two miles west of the north fork of the Ogden river, in Weber county. The discovery was made by John Coly, a veteran California prospector, and is owned by himself and J. B. Jenkins. Returned from Abroad.

This afternoon we had the pleasure of greeting Elder John E. Holub, of Payson, who returned this morning from a mission to Great Britain. He left home for the field of his ministry on the 19th of August, 1888. While in England he labored first in the Birmingham Conference, and the balance of the time in the Leeds Conference, principally in and around Hull. Some sickness during the year he spent in the Conference of Elder Holub. He states, however, that it in general kept pace in health with the people under the ministrations of Elder Holub. He states, however, that it in general kept pace in health with the people under the ministrations of Elder Holub. Gone to the Grand Jury.

Commissioner Greenman had before him this morning two laboring men named George Allwood and Ben Preston, who were charged on a warrant with stealing the sum of $15 from one Frank Bridges, on the 26th ult. The evidence showed that the parties were drinking together in a saloon at Murray, and that during this time the complainant was robbed of the amount named. Although the accused were not actually seen to take the money from Bridges's pocket, yet suspicion fell upon them for the reason that not very long after the theft occurred they were spending money freely in the saloon. It was also shown that the defendants—a witness described them—were "footing round" the complainant while the drinking was going on.

Commissioner Greenman decided to send the case to the grand jury, and it was expected to go before that same body this afternoon. Failing to reach the grand jury's action, however, he consented to accept bail in the sum of $500 each.

A Barber Shop Fight.

The Tribune this morning gives the following report of a scrape that occurred last night in the Templeton barber shop:

"One of the barbers edged a watch from his vest, and around a table he ran, on the theft. Dodel lost to a rough and tumble fight, which resulted in bounds being sent. Then the lower of the dodged time, unless he was recovered by him by 12 m. today an arrest was made. This morning the boys of third and mining a race be made a wicked scene at the other's workplace and before much inflicted damage it was interposed and the weapon taken from him.

This undoubtedly refers to a fight which occurred at that place last night between a Knutsford Hotel runner by the name of Butler and F. C. Sansom, of the Templeton barber shop. "Butler was in the shop about half-past 8 o'clock taking of an offer he said had been made him by the Knutsford barber at $25.00 per week. The statement being doubted, a wager of $10 was made, to determine of which Butler turned over his overcoat and watch to Sansom as a forfeit. But when the latter started for stake for a check to match the wager, Butler demanded his goods. Sansom refusing, Butler struck him in the face. A general adjourned fight ensued, which was ended by the arrival of officers. Razors not in sight in the fight. This is the statement of Mr. Sansom and is probably about correct.

The Weber Schools.

We have received from Joseph E. Peery, superintendent of schools of Weber county, his annual circular for 1891-2. The report shows that while nothing greatness in other directions, the people of Weber have not forgotten their duty to the rising generation. The attention which they have been devoting to education is all of its modern features as exhibited in the school buildings and furniture, they have more modern to be proud of than all of their other progressive achievements considered, however, the Territory at large is almost as proud of their labors in this direction as they could be themselves.

He said the legation has not received any notice of the statement. If Vice-Consul Foo of San Francisco has received the statement as reported, he would make a thorough investigation of the matter and report to court of the delegation at Washington. He knows any light on the tragedy the minister will bring it to the attention of the state department and will ask for the punishment of the perpetrators of the outrage and compensation for the losses suffered. There is considerable excitement in San Salvador regarding the revolt in Guatemala. A ray of light has just been thrown on the present revolution in Guatemala by a retired American officer now residing in this city who for various reasons does not want his name to appear in connection with the story. According to the story he tells, three Americans supplied with plenty of money visited Quezaltenango two months ago. In this city he learned the fact that they represented a revolutionary party in New York that had for its object the downfall of Barrillas' government in Guatemala. They were backed with funds to carry the movement to a successful issue. Their plan of action was to send experienced military officers into Guatemala, to be distributed through the republic, and when time was ripe, to take command of the revolutionary troops. He believes the present revolution is due to New York parties who furnished funds and ammunition to the insurgents.
