MINING STOCK BUSINESS

Brokers Desert Politics Long Enough to Make a Few Sales.

DEYSER-MARION ACTIVE IN THE PIT.

Governing Board of the Stock Exchange Resigns—Rich La Sal Ore—Another Here from Denver.

Despite the fact that politics was uppermost in the minds and thoughts of the bulk of mining men today, the brokers relegated a good day to the pit and acted on a fair day's business, the shares sold aggregating 4,700, and the value thereof amounting to $1,671.

Deyser and Marion were the first to commence activity in the trading and handed out 1,000 shares, the stock selling at figures ranging from 5½ to 6¼ cents. Following these sales, some business in Deyser-Marion, which found itself fairly firm and made transfers at 6¼ and 6½ cents, the latter figure denoting the stock's ascendancy. Mammoth likewise shared in the trading and made sales at $1.60, while Mercur was dealt at $1.57, with the stock in good demand close to this figure. Grand Central had a bid of $6.62½ and Ontario was wanted at $1.55, while the bid for Silver King stood at $22.50.

Alliance was a stock utilized brought six sales of South Swansea at $1.20½ and $1.27, while the stock was eagerly sought after a few cents below. Chloride Point maintained a stationary position with a bid of a dollar, and Swansea improved from those bids, there being in the pit willing to give $2.30 for the stock. Miner sentiment had up in good shape, for none others than those mentioned subscribed to the day's business. The closing figures were as follows:

Governing Board Resigns.

As a sequel to the little unpleasantness that has blistered in the ranks of the brokers for some time past, the governing board of the exchange today handed in its resignation, the intention being to take up the work that was quickly followed by James A. Pollock, R. B. Berry, R. L. Calhoun and M. W. Taylor, all of whom expressed the calling as a thankless and onerous one. The resignations were promptly accepted by the exchange, and now there is an aching void in the trading floor, which will doubtless be remedied as soon as the members can agree on a more suitable body than that which has now stepped down and out.

Rich Strike On the La Sal.

The rumors of a rich strike having been made in the claims owned by L. C. Case and others at Gold Basin in the La Sals proves to be true. He has brought down returns of over $2,600 in gold per ton. An average of seven assays was over $1,200. More details of this strike when the La Sals are showing up will be given next week.

W. H. Kinnon of Grosby, Colo., who has been prospecting on the south end of the La Sals, brought in this week some fine copper ore from his claims. Boasting in large letters out large outcrops of copper. He has taken in Thomson for sentiment enough for a mill test. Mr. Kinnon is a local man of experience and knowledge about the section for a location.—Grand Valley Times.

To Look After Extraction.

George A. Anderson, manager of the Gold and Silver Extraction company, concerning the Mackinaw and Forest mines in this county, came in from Denver this morning, and was conferring with local mining men today. Mr. Anderson's company does a big business in this section of country, all of which is only known after and subjected to, by W. W. Orr, the company's local representative. Mr. Anderson will probably look into the camps before returning.

DIPS AND SPURS.

Silver, 69¼ bid, $1.00.

George Dorn will go to Mercur to-morrow to pay off at the Mercur and Geyser-Marion properties.

The Terry company has so amended its articles of incorporation as to make possible the levying of an assessment on its capital stock.

The General Crosser mine on Gold Mountain is now supplied with a stream of water from the Volpi springs at the head of Fish creek.

A block of 25,000 shares of stock in the Star Consolidated at Tintic was purchased yesterday by Messrs. Whisler, Hine and Cronin of the South Swansea. The consideration is not stated.

Wm. Bagley, a prominent mining man who resides at Los Angeles, Cal., but whose mining interests are chiefly in Colorado, came in from the coast this morning. Mr. Bagley is one of the chief owners of the Ten Day mine at Telluride, Colorado.

Tintic Journal: A new strike has lately been made on the Queen of the Hills mine, owned by Mr. John H. Richards of this city. The ore, which is principally copper, carries a good deal of gold and silver. Mr. Richards has 10 feet of tunneling has been done on the claim and it shows up better with every foot of work done.

TWENTY MORE DIVORCES

Marital Entanglements Still Occupy Judge Miles' Attention.

BARBER HEWLETT COMES OUT WINNER.

Wife of a Few Months Fails to Substantiate Charges—Humorous Scene in Court—Numerous Other Cases.

Judge Hiles this morning continued the call of the remaining number of divorce cases, commenced yesterday afternoon, and before the book recess a number of men were released from their matrimonial obligations through the efforts of their wives to quiet the bonds which were intended to have made them one.

After the "News" report closed yesterday the Sabbath case occupied the remaining portion of the time, and it was continued until today. This morning the case was presented in order that Emma Sabbell, the plaintiff, may answer her complaint. The testimony was very conflicting.

Considerable interest was centered in the case of Emma Hewlett vs. Joseph H. Hewlett, the trial of which took up the greater part of the court's time today. The defendant, a quiet, inoffensive appearing man, is a barber by trade and at one time kept a shop in Sandy, and later worked at the Tonnar barber shop, this city.

The plaintiff in the case is a delicate looking woman. Her testimony showed that she married defendant on the 5th of July, 1897. Shortly afterwards along with her two boys by a previous husband, she moved to Sandy, where her husband then kept a barber shop. It wasn't long before trouble broke out. "From the time I stepped into this man's house," said Mrs. Hewlett, "he didn't treat me as a female wife." Continuing, Mrs. Hewlett said the food was not of the kind and quality she had been accustomed to and feeling in a delicate state of health she could not stand it and so informed her husband.

BOUGHT HER BRASS BARRINGS.

"What kind of food did your husband provide for you, Mrs. Hewlett?" inquired Attorney W. H. Hall, plaintiff's attorney. "Potatoes, bacon and bread, and no butter," was the reply. "He never bought me any sweet chicken either, during the four months I lived with him," continued the wife. "And all he did buy me was a few waist belt and a pair of old brass earrings (laughter). Hewlett had told his ex-wife about my husband's cruelty and she would have to make the old ones do. The bacon he gave her to eat had fat in it so much that it made her sick at the stomach to look at it, let alone eat it. On the 25th of Nov., four months after the marriage, defendant refused to have a fire in the stove and the result was plaintiff caught a severe cold.

CURLED HIS MUSTACHE BEFORE BREAKFAST.

One morning, Mrs. Hewlett said, he kept breakfast waiting while he curled his mustache. On time he sulked for four days and, the old man Cundle, refused to talk with his wife or answer questions propounded to him. It was during a fit of sulkiness that plaintiff went into his shop and threw a basin of water over him. Then her husband struck her over the arm four times.

Mrs. Hewlett further testified that she been supporting herself since she left Hewlett last November, and was at present living with her mother. Later she was employed at the Troy Steam Laundry.

CROSS-EXAMINED.

Mrs. Hewlett was subjected to a severe cross-examination by Attorney J. M. Hamilton. In answer to the attorney's questions she admitted that Hewlett bought fresh meat for the house occasionally.

Why the examination was in progress the plaintiff's counsel, an elderly lady, sat beside the witness and occasionally would prompt her daughter on her answers. Mr. Hamilton objected to this, when the mother became nervously blurted out, "You allow Mr. Hewlett to talk to you, I don't see why I cannot talk to my daughter." Mrs. Hiles informed Mrs. Hewlett's mother that her daughter had an attorney who would look after her interests, and the old lady was moved back, much to her annoyance.

"Was the water hot or cold that you threw at your husband?" enquired Attorney Hamilton.

"I don't know nor don't care," was the reply.

"Do you consider it lady-like to go to a barber shop and thus treat your husband?"

"As much as it was gentlemanly of him not to answer me when I spoke to him."

Mr. Hamilton then enquired of the witness if she remembered placing an insulting card on her husband's shop door, and the answer was in the negative. Mrs. Hewlett explained that she was angry at her husband for being away from home so much.

"Wasn't he acting in the capacity of election judge for the Democrats?" asked Attorney Hamilton.

"No he wasn't. He was on both sides, was the witness's rejoinder.

Martha Cundle, mother of the plaintiff, testified to her daughter coming home last November, and complaining of Hewlett's cruel treatment.

Reuben Watson, one of the complaining witnesses, said he was twelve years old when he used to go to eat bacon all the time they lived at Sandy. The boy further testified he didn't get hot enough to eat and was always hungry.

George Watson testified that he was a brother of the last witness and was thirteen years old. He only remembered having fresh meat once or twice during his mother's brief wedded career. The plaintiff here rested.

DEFENDANT TESTIFIES.

The defendant Hewlett then took the stand and told a diametrically opposite story. He said he was essentially a man of peace, but his wife was possessed of an unpromptable temper. He had provided for his wife and family to the best of his ability, and by means at his command. He told of how his wife would come into his shop and abuse him before his customers, making use of his razors to hit him. At most every turn he was abused.

On the recommencement of court this afternoon Hewlett was further examined by H. B. Dougall, and said he had returned from Mexico to Sandy to his barber shop at Sandy. Admitted coming home to his wife drunk. The only additional information brought out under cross-examination was that his wife had accused him of a man's name around and once hit him with a broom.

Tom Lundgren a grocer at Sandy, testified that Hewlett bought his groceries from him and usually ordered sufficient goods for the support of a small family.

Edgar L. Davis and his wife, Mrs. Mary Davis, both testified that they had taken meals with Hewlett, and he was not a cruel husband.

David Bowman, son of the defendant, testified that he worked for his father in the barber shop and related the story over his father's life. His father didn't strike her, but walked away.

William Beasley, a butcher, said he had supplied Hewlett with fresh meats two and three times a week.

Wells Clark, mayor of Sandy, testified that Hewlett bought groceries and provisions of him, usually in small quantities, however.

Walter J. Hewlett, a brother of defendant's testified that he and his wife had taken meals at his brother's house and always found the food good.

This concluded the testimony and Judge Hiles held that plaintiff had not made out a case and hence dismissed the suit.

MARRIED A HAND MAN.

Other cases were disposed of today as follows: Pauline Larsen was granted a divorce from Nels F. Larsen on the ground of failure to provide. Plaintiff was married in Denver and lived happily and came of age. The defendant married her when she was a blind man who used to play on the streets of this city. It was stated that when grinding organs he used to send home $25 to $40 a month. Judge Hiles inquired if the defendant was blind when plaintiff married him and receiving an affirmative reply said he didn't think under the circumstances plaintiff was entitled to any alimony. It having been shown that defendant was possessed of a home in Manti as well as money in the bank, his honor made the order awarding Mrs. Larsen $60.

Kate E. Wilson was granted a decree of divorce from W. H. Wilson, on the ground of failure to support. The parties were married on the 23d of February, 1897. No alimony asked for.

Mary Ca-ssa Gine ago brought suit against Frank H. Gine for separate maintenance. The complaint in this was brought out that the parties were married at Rifle, Colo., August 15, 1897. Mrs. Gine was married at 20 and month permanent alimony and $75 attorney's fees.

Hattie M. Young next obtained a decree of divorce from James L. Young, as well as the custody of two minor children and costs of suit, on the grounds of desertion and failure to support. The testimony of the plaintiff was to the effect that defendant left Young at Missoula, Montana, February, 1893, and that a couple of years ago he went to Salmon City, Idaho, Mrs. Young followed and her husband's excuse for leaving her was because he didn't like children, having often so expressed himself to her.

Quite a young appearing woman named Rose White was divorced from William White, the failure to provide being the ground. The young wife testified that she married the defendant in Salt Lake on November, 1896, and shortly afterwards he told her to go and get her own living, as he was going to leave her. She now supported herself by sewing. The plaintiff further stated that since White abandoned her she had been carrying a child, which she supported by working out.

Lilla C. Stuart obtained an absolute decree of divorce from Charles A. Stuart. Plaintiff filed her suit last May, but since then moved to Louisville, Colorado, and the depositions were read in court today by Attorney George L. Nye. Her testimony went to show that she and her husband were married in Denver September 30, 1896, and that three years later defendant deserted her. Plaintiff now supported herself in Pueblo earning on the business of a milliner.

James Cherry, a barber employed at Fred Schmitt's, 16 west Third South street, was given a decree of divorce from Matilda Cherry, on the ground of desertion. According to Nellie's testimony he got married at Glenwood Springs in December, 1896, and in April, 1898, his wife deserted him at Denver. Judge Hiles asked the plaintiff if he was willing to take up the same of his wife deserting him. "Only she said she didn't like me," was Nellie's reply.

The case of Jessie M. Whiting vs. Charles F. Whiting was continued for the term.

Rosa H. Sneed vs. Jennet H. Newell; passed to list of calendar.

Emily Ford vs. George Ford; same order.

Cyrene Hansen vs. Stephen Hansen; same order.

Nellie Gilbert vs. Arnold M. Gilbert; same order.

There are four more cases on the regular call, among which is the divorce suit of Jennie Woodrow against Gil. Woodrow.

Tooele County Mining Case.

Judge Cherry is engaged today trying a mining case, the title of which is which is Harry Hayes vs. Duncan McVicke. Plaintiff brought action demanding judgment for the revocation in part of the Lee Mining claim in Tooele county and for $10,000 damages.

New Employments For Capital.

For the means of finding new productive employment for capital, therefore, it is apparent that the great industrial countries should turn to those who have not yet the value of modern appliances, skills and ideas have not to be equipped with the mechanism of production and of luxury, which have been created in the great active countries for the service of recent generations. They have not only to obtain buildings and machinery—but they have to build their roads, drain their marshes, dam their rivers, build aqueducts for the water supplies and sewers for their towns and cities. Asia and Africa are the most promising of these countries. Japan has made a beginning, and Europe, the Africa, that arrived from the heart of Zoak, like the modern industrial world. The increased power of her people for production, giving them increased command over the products of other people, is producing a similar effect in the rise of wages and increased expectations. China, Siberia and the islands which have languished so long under Spanish merits, are likely to follow, perhaps with more lasting steps, in the footsteps of Japan. The opening of railways and canals will afford employment for the means of capital piling up in Europe and the United States which will be profitable if the merchandise is found to feel the new means of transportation. Existing commodities are spread from the centers of these countries at great cost, will be swept on paths of steel to the seacoast, with the result that they will be made interesting here consumption, and benefiting at once both producer and purchaser.—From Bankers Banks of Imperial, in C. A. Conant, in North American Review for September.
