FRAGMENTS.

In the Third District Court today, before Judge Anderson, H. J. Dinning was admitted to practice at the bar.

"WONDERLAND" has a wonderful programme this week. There is the giant, the one-armed and the armless boy.

THERE are undelivered messages at the Western Union Telegraph Office for Ann Russell, Carl Kaunitz Greene and Hackett.

The grand jury of the Third District Court, assembled, this afternoon, that they had adjourned until Monday, April 6th, at 10 a.m.

The light fingered gentry are at work again. Today an umbrella and a pair of overshoes were stolen from the store adjoining the Wasatch Building, where they had been temporarily deposited.

A LARGE and stalwart man whose appearance indicates an air of prosperity was making himself obnoxious on the streets today by cursing pedestrians and asking for money. When refused he became indignant and abusive.

The interior of the Wasatch Building is undergoing extensive repairs. It is believed that the structure will be used for hotel purposes just as soon as suitable parties can be obtained for the leading points.

THE case of W. L. Pickard vs. Salt Lake City on a bonding to show cause why defendant should not be enjoined from selling Pioneer Square, has been postponed until Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, owing to the illness of Mr. Hoffman, associate counsel for plaintiff.

JOHN FERRY, the jail-bird, who has escaped from the custody of the city police, on two different occasions was captured again last night. He was arraigned before Justice Lane today, and sentenced to one hundred days imprisonment.

Nellie Edwards, a disbelieving witness in a grand larceny case now pending in the Third District Court, was arrested today and taken before Judge Zane, she stated that sickness was the cause of her absence. The statement was corroborated by others and she was discharged.

An accordeoning house witnessed the first exercises of the Eleventh and Twenty-fourth W. C. T. U. last evening in the Eleventh Ward meeting house. The members of both associations rendered their parts in a satisfactory manner. The programme consisted mainly of a short lecture, "Julia the Baptist Envoy, or Christians, Kings, Home, etc."

Sad Death.

Mrs. Fred Taylor, formerly Miss Mary Bailey, eldest daughter of the late John Bailey, a well known and estimable young woman of the Fourth Ward of this city, died this morning after a brief illness caused principally by anxiety and grief over the sickness and death of her infant child, who died a week since. Her mother, Mrs. Bailey, who is well advanced in years, and has been ill for some time, is said to be in a precarious condition.

Obsequies.

The funeral service over the remains of the late Matthew Mansfield was held in the Mill Creek Ward House today, the speakers being John Morgan, Thos. W. Rossell, George R. Bailey, Edward Morgan, Jens Hansen and Bishop J. C. Hamilton. They dwell upon the integrity and faithfulness of the deceased, who had been gathered in by the reaper like a sheaf of wheat fully ripe, his work being done. He was born at Bromley, Surrey, England, October 25, 1810, and died March 5, 1891.

A BURGLAR

Who Was After Coins But Concluded to Take Boat Duck.

At an early hour this morning the Elevator restaurant in the rear of Schade saloon was broken into by one William Smith, a recent arrival in this city. Entrance was effected through an open window. A show case containing a collection of ancient coins first attracted the burglar's attention. He proceeded to open it, when he accidentally broke the glass covering. The crash aroused the bar tender, who was sleeping in the next apartment. The intruder seized a couple of roasted ducks from the sideboard and hastily retreated. Policemen Paul and Barker were in the vicinity and by them the thief was promptly arrested. He was taken to police headquarters and searched. The ducks were found in his overcoat pockets. He was arraigned before Justice Lange today and adjudged guilty. In default of $1000 bonds, he was sent to the County Jail to await the action of the grand jury.

FROM THE CITY ATTORNEY.

The following report was read from the city attorney:

I herewith report as follows: By direction of the committee on municipal laws, I have drafted an ordinance repealing the licensing of liquor licenses within Salt Lake City. The ordinance provides the license of any liquor license to be issued only by the board of equalization. From recent fast views and we would recommend the repeal of all the east sidewalk and balance of the distance covered by this report, to lay an approved walk. The road as estimated will be for the six-foot walk, 90 cents per lineal foot or 11 cents per square foot; and for the eight-foot walk, 95 cents per front foot or 10 cents per square foot. The three-foot walk below the contour of the street grades is nearly as practicable. This plank, if carried out, will give a good sidewalk and crosswalks to the railroad station on two of the main streets leading out from East Temple Street."

At the conclusion of the reading of the report Councilman Spafford sprang suddenly to his feet and with great earnestness said: Gentlemen, more than twelve months have passed since we became members of this council and yet we have done nothing, and I am getting tired of such trifling. I move that this council meet from night to night until the paving and joint building questions have been disposed of.

A hearty round of applause was given Mr. Spafford by the good taxpayers spectators in the auditorium of the council chamber.

On motion of Mr. Pendreke the report was made the order for a special meeting to be held on Friday evening next.

Snowflake Stake Conference.

The regular quarterly conference of the Snowflake Stake of Zion was held at Snowflake, March 1st and 2nd, 1891.

We were not favored with the presence of any of the general authorities, or visiting brethren, but on the stand were the presidency of the Stake, most of the High Council, Bishops and others.

The meetings were well attended.

The Bishops' reports showed the Saints in most of the wards to be in good condition both spiritually and temporally, and the prospects for the future honestly favorable, but much less had been obtained in many places by the recent high water.

The general and local authorities were present and sustained by vote of the conference.

The speakers were President Jesse N. Smith, Lorenzo H. Hales, Joseph H. Richards, Willard Hatch, M. R. Willis, John Hunt, Hans Hansen, L. M. Savage, Niels Peterson and J. H. Smallhill. The subject of forgiveness was ably handled and the Church schools were not forgotten. Many other subjects of interest to the Saints were also spoken upon and many points brought out which were of benefit to all. A good spirit prevailed and all felt that they had been instructed and their spiritual strength renewed.

Conference was adjourned to meet the last day of May and first of June next.

JESSE N. SMITH,
State Clerk.

SNOWFLAKE, March 4, 1891.

Mr. Ellis' Lecture.

A large and highly pleased audience listened to a lecture by Charles Ellis in the Twenty-second Ward meeting-house, last night. It was a matter of wonder among the old people how that gentleman could have become so familiar with early Utah History, both old and young were deeply interested—the old, in hearing of events in which they had been actors long ago and the young, in hearing about the stirring times through which their parents and grandparents had passed. The lecture was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause.

Tomorrow, Thursday evening, Mr. Ellis lectures in the Seventh Ward meeting-house. Doors open at 7, lecture at 7½. Go early.

T. W. I. and R. A.

The stockholders of the Tenth Ward Lumber and Building Association held their annual meeting last night when the old officers and directors were re-elected for another term. Following are their names: President, William Fuller; vice-president, John Stallcupp; secretary and treasurer, Geo. Brickin; directors, F. R. Coil, James M. Stalker, H. A. Reeve, A. M. Musser and Edward Healy.

THE SIXTH WARD SPEAKS.

Indignant Citizens Adopt Resolutions Against Selling Pioneer Square.

There was a large meeting of citizens held in the Sixth Ward meeting-house last night. The object was to enter a pronounced protest against the sale of Pioneer Square to Mr. Rasmussen.

Thomas Green was elected chairman of the meeting and A. G. Glasgow secretary. A committee on resolutions consisting of A. G. Glasgow, James Pedlon and Hugh Watson were appointed by the chair. The members were instructed to proceed at once and get out a set of resolutions. They retired, and while at their work, Don Fullmer asked the chairman whether the City Council had power to give a deed of the Fort Square. The chairman in reply said the general opinion as well as that of the city attorney was that the Fort Square could not be sold, either in the past or in the present.

"By public consent," said he, "the Old Fort had been recognized as a park. Mr. Lessing had had a contract for selling out a number of trees, and that is pretty good evidence that it was considered a public square. The late city council of Ogden wanted to sell a portion of the square there and an injunction was secured. The question of what the city council can or is held to define, as the city council can do pretty much as they like. They are taking us to death and now they want to take away the public property. The only reason they need the money. When the city begin go begging it is pretty clear that they do need the money. Councilman Hall stated that Mr. Bacon wanted to get the square for $100,000 and that he had to return explicitly that he had a property worth $600,000, and that insufficient capital to come here. If the Deer Creek road will pay, capital will come along to build it. If they need land, there is plenty of it suitable for railroad purposes that can be had much cheaper. When the Denver & Rio Grande Western came here they did not ask for any public squares. I think all citizens with any patriotism would be in favor of preserving the Pioneer Square. Because the first citizens have happened to be Mormons, why should the Liberal Council insist on giving away their historical square, so dear to them? There should be no class distinction here.

James Anderson was next called for, and said: "I am interested in this matter, and want to throw my weight and influence against the sale of this property to any private citizen or corporation. We look upon the Old Fort as the place where the pioneers first set their feet on this spot. It was the only green spot of ground to be seen in this part of the valley, caused by a spring in the northeast part of the square. Here they set their shoulders against the Lodoun. Here they rested their weary limbs, and as a memorial of their early struggles, to establish this city, now so prosperous and grand, I would like to see it preserved as a public park. True, they had not the money to improve it but they wanted to keep it until they had. The population of this city will warrant railways to come here without any gifts. This reminds me of the decision of the Union Pacific which wanted so much land and so much money. Brigham Young, who was a good financier, said that if Salt Lake was not big enough for them to come here they need not come. I am anxious to making any sale of public grounds for private purposes, and especially Pioneer Square. I would rather they would build upon it public city buildings. Part of the City Council are there by fraud, as from three of the wards the members were not elected. It should be held as a park. I am hand-in-hand with you. I would like to see it confirmed to the end. I hope we will be able to preserve it and beautify it and improve it."

Newell Clayton said that the sale of the Fort Square would be contested in the courts, and that before Mr. Rasmussen could get it, the Supreme Court would have to decide.

James Watson said—I came here when but six years old. The first place I slept in was an old room that was occupied by horses and cattle in the Old Fort. My father gave a yoke of oxen for one room in that Old Fort and about all it had was some rough boards laid on the floor. I played there when a boy and walked through snow knee deep without boots or shoes. Every drop of blood in my veins goes out for that block. I haven't as much money as some, but I have $100 that will go out to 'Hold the Fort.' I do not want to see this city give a bagger $250,000 for two years to speculate on. I have pledged to Mr. Pickard that we will stand together. I am in favor of every man having his rights here. I want Mr. Bacon to have his own, but no more. I am tired and sick of railroads. They want us to move; let them move."

Mr. Fullmer said that Fort Square could be used as a pleasant garden or public park, but he was opposed to putting a depot on it.

Henry Haller said—"I am surprised that the council had not taken steps to improve it years ago. It is a nuisance. Years ago plans were gotten out to improve it. There was a contract to plant trees and care for them, but this was not faithfully carried out. Every time a train passes by the house shakes the building; shakes it pretty good. I do not think they will get it. If we do not live to see it a park, I hope our children will."

Miss Louie Pedlon contributed a solo, which she sang beautifully.

The committee on resolutions reported the following, which were adopted without a dissenting vote:

Whereas, the action of the City Council, in passing a resolution agreeing to sell the Old Fort, or Pioneer Square, upon the ground that it is a nuisance, has caused the citizens of the Sixth Ward, and of the City of Salt Lake, to express their sentiments in regard to the resolution, pertaining to the disposition of the public property, and the sentiments of the citizens of said ward have been unanimously expressed, and

Whereas, It is an undeniable fact that the City Council is merely the custodian of the property of the corporation, and has no right to dispose of it contrary to the wishes of the people therein by law;

Resolved, 1—That we, citizens of the Sixth Ward, and residents of the northwestern portion of the city, in mass meeting assembled, hereby express our most emphatic disapproval of the action of the council in agreeing to sell the Old Fort block.

2—That we honestly endorse the action of the four members of the council who headed our petition to prevent the illegal disposition of the property.

3—That we will in every legal way use our best efforts in preventing the sale from being confirmed by appealing to the courts to prevent, if we can, the sale.

4—That we will, by our influence and by our purses, remunerate the action taken by Mr. Pickard in applying to the courts for our redress.

Mr. Glasgow moved that a committee be named to solicit subscriptions to secure funds for employing able counsel to fight the matter in the courts, thus assisting Mr. Pickard in his action. Messrs. Green, Glasgow and Anderson were named.

Amusements.

The scenes in "Secret of Money," which comes to the Theatre next Friday and Saturday are laid in Vermont. They include the interior of a country tavern kept by a typical dowager, whose homespun logic and vernacular are as refreshing as the odor of new mown hay. Then there is the interior of an inn, with bar, stoves, and the exterior and outlying grounds of a residence of the modern and the rich parlors of a prosperous manufacturer.

First District Court.

The following business was transacted in the First District Court at Ogden before Judge Minor yesterday:

H. M. O'Haver vs. Charles Dudleman; trial jury impanelled and witnesses examined. Verdict $124 for plaintiff.

Louis Gradd vs. Peter Henderson; on motion of H. H. Jones, order entered dismissing case at plaintiff's cost. Without argument.
