SURVEYING PARTY

To Determine the Boundary Between Canada and Alaska.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 5.—Professor King, chief astronomer of the interior department, who has been chosen British commissioner to determine the boundary line between the Dominion and Alaska, left yesterday for Victoria, B. C. The party numbers about 100 including representatives of the Canadian geological survey. He was joined at Victoria by Professor Mendenhall, the United States chief astronomer, accompanied by a large staff. Two steamers will be placed at the disposal of the survey party by the Dominion government.

The Senate Extra Session.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Senate resumed consideration of the report of the committee on privileges and elections in favor of seating the senators appointed by the governor of Montana, Wyoming and Washington. Chandler argued the Senate in support of the report.

A Premature Report.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 5.—The report of the failure of Crocker-Wheeler & Co. is premature. The manager of the company says today they will resume business on Monday. The liabilities are half a million with ample property to cover them.

Martial Law in Chile.

LONDON, April 5.—It is intated on the alleged authority of a wire from Chile that martial law has been declared in that republic.

THE BERING SEA CASE.

Arguments Heard in the Session Today.

PARIS, April 5.—The court of arbitration regarding the Bering sea resumed session.

Hon. E. J. Phelps, counsel in behalf of the United States, continued his argument. He contended that the British supplementary report was inadmissable. The admission of new evidence at this stage appears to be a gross injustice to the United States, because it deprived the United States of any chance to adduce rebutting testimony. Phelps discussed at some length on the technical meaning of the treaty of arbitration and the condition and methods of procedure to be followed under the treaty.

Sir Charles Russell, replied in behalf of Great Britain, paying his tribute to the late James G. Blaine whose ability he said was recognized in both hemispheres. The court adjourned for luncheon.

Deadlock Unbroken.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 5.—The deadlock over the minimum freight rate bill was still unbroken at noon. Nothing of note transpired during the night or this morning, as the members were too weary from two nights' vigil to do anything but sleep.

For Pension Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Senator Palmer, Illinois is authority for the statement that President Cleveland has decided on a man for pension commissioner and that his name will be sent to the Senate within 48 hours. He decided to give the same, but only a civil list appointment. It is believed the man is Judge William Lochren of Minnesota.

Great Forest Fires.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 5.—The greatest forest fires ever known are raging in the heart of the pine district. The woods or trees just begin to be tempted. Many people are said turpentine orchards are injured. One was for two thousand acres of trees. The town of Wes. Enoll is nearly wiped out. Three large stores, with contents, the postoffice, and several dwellings are burned. At least twelve turpentine distilleries and scores of dwellings scattered in the woods have been burned with great quantities of rosin.

My most sanguine expectations have been more than realized with the 25 sets, and I have never handled anything that has given me so much satisfaction or that has sold for as big and quick a return as Deseret Soap. Last Christmas I had over 100 boxes that were pleasant and right to sell. The Deseret product advantage over all other brands is that they need cutting a year, and can have kindle for market at any time of the year, and other brands do not. For sale at Cannon's store for two of 25 cake sgo and one in April. I can honestly recommend them as to their handsome, lasting and general utility. My entire stock clipped an average of a lb. the over eight pounds of wool, which sold in the Philadelphia market at 40 cents per pound.—T. S. Cooper in Rural New Yorker.

For the next two years certainly there will be good prices for pork, so that there will be no risk in breeding hogs extensively. After that, however, if every farmer enters into the business, like one sheep follows the leather over a gate, then there will be a big drop.

If the United States does annex Hawaii, it will come to us exactly as so many of Great Britain's colonies have come to her. First the missionaries went out with Bibles to convert the heathen. Then followed the opening of the country to the white man's trade. Then it became necessary to protect the trade interests. Then followed soldiers, missionaries and possession. The man foremost in the revolution and annexation movement at Hawaii are the descendants of missionaries who went from the United States to the Sandwich Islands years ago. Judge Sanford B. Dole, president of the provisional government, is the son of missionary parents who went from Massachusetts to the islands in 1840. Hon. Lorin A. Thurston, president of the annexation commission, is the grandson of missionary parents who went from Massachusetts in 1819. It seems to be the old pilgrim father blood that is stirring up this rumpus again.

It is editorialize we want, not mere learning out of books.

More than half of the street railways of the United States are now operated by electricity.

COOPS FOR CHICKENS.

Inventors Which Attract Protection from Storms, Rats, Cats and Other Enemies.

Success depends very largely on the management of the little chicks. An infant from a to the time of coop need care, and will do, such as one will not assume either for extremes of heat or cold, dirty or damp weather. The first season is a trying one to a young chick, and it is to be attended to as much as great care is necessary.

It is generally admitted that both best and cheapest coop is constructed with the work, but if a convenient coop is placed upon the ground sets secure it only gets in the way, and will scratch holes, which let your chicks with more or less of rain. A plan followed for many is having a floor made with cracks here or so deep, so that it can be taken out and cleaned, and if it comes, soon dries and is ready for a fresh deal coop. Frequently it happens that a coop is placed in a place, a good floor for the fowl and hood and available adjunct to the use of coops, as it is convenient and the droppings will be cleaned.

The sides and ends of the coop need no less care than the floor, but therefore, so as to be able to remove during storms all the sun dampness from the roof and sides of the coop will be cleaned and at night you have to close the sides while treating for chicken. In the next cut is represented a picture of a coop with a movable floor, arrangements it should be, in such a way that hundreds of rats may be poured upon the roof and not a drop will leak the floor.

In the second cut is shown a turpentine chicken coop recommended by resident in the Dooley, Architecture, from which the Examiner is reproduced. Plenty of fresh air and sunshine, should be the universal guard, in what chickens should always be cleaned if possible. But circumstances alter cases, and when does rats and rats in cities, and hen hawks or the more troublesome pigeon hawk. In the country, under trouble it is sometimes necessary to deprive chickens of range, temporarily at least. For this purpose such wire cloth, coarse mesh, as is used for coal screens, makes a good durable pen on the ground, to which the hen may have access or not, as desired.

Parentage Of Hens.

Breeding school for chickens being crop when there is a tendency to the luxurious growth which usually goes with such stock. In such case should hens will be benefited rather than otherwise. The pampering, however, should be done only when the soil is in a poor condition, to admit of the growth of an extra efficient crossing the roots down into the mellow earth. In the fall when the wheat is growing green and rich, a considerable amount of nutrition may be realized from it at a time when the ones are on short rations, or plants had absorbed. Occasionally through the winter stock may run on the wheatfield while the ground is frozen, and when warmer days succeed cool weather they should be kept off. By the time of spring wheat is ready for the harvest, it is expected to be in condition to be turned in, so where the growth will not, and the pastoring is not too abundant, it may be too late. In this, as in all other things pertaining to farm management, over the agricultural editor of the New York World, we set rules, and the best thing that will be applicable in one case and for farmer's own circumstances, and experience, according to time and the season may favor the success of the plans, or the contrary, will be the best guide in the matter.

Treatment of Fallow Timber.

In an agricultural sense, fallow timber is one that either Alone remove the bark from felled timber, or girdle, or, not from the standing tree. Never allow the bark to be left on the ground soil. If winter fellow, may be that timber is sun within two weeks after felling and been in placed on the ground, not upon the forest. Or if spring or summer, placed in a dry, airy, and sunny position, away from rain and rots. It dries the rapidly, and warping of the stacks colored water, and the timber is then easily attached and converted to use. With large logs the bark can be removed by soaking the timber with some fatty or oily substance, mixed with brick dust.

Hay and Thus.

The Western Agriculturist says: "Oats is the standard feed for horses for work and muscle-power, while for cattle is more and hay, corn, silage and a variety of feed allow the farmer to adapt to feeding the growth of feed to their digestion, and to realize the most results from the feed value and economy, the health and size of the animal. The great horse for early maturity or feed work is the mare."

From California come reports of an extensive pest in the shape of ants—the Hollenvesian floor ants.

At a state convention in Colorado E. C. Allen said that "more has the report against will make heavy out of work."
