SUNDAY SERVICES.

The Speakers Yesterday Were Elders James S. Abbott, F. A. Hammond and Theodore Curtis.

The regular religious services of the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by Elder Henry P. Richards.

Choir sang:

"Praise ye the Lord, my soul shall join
In work so pleasant, so divine."

Choir further sang:

"Hark! ye mortals, 'tis the call,
Voices from Deseret's hill."

Elder James S. Abbott, a missionary who recently returned from New Zealand was the first speaker. Upon arising, he was he said brought to a full realization of his weakness for he felt very keenly his inability to edify those who were assembled unless he was led and guided by the spirit of the Lord. The speaker first labored in the north and of New Zealand and afterwards was removed to the south and where he remained until his release. While laboring among the Maoris he had learned to love the natives, because he has been blessed with a knowledge of the fact that they were of the house of Israel. A great work has been and is being done in the Antipodean mission and that spirit of hatred, enmity and prejudice which formerly existed was fast being supplanted by the spirit of the Gospel. Elder Abbott had had much joy in his missionary labors and felt that the time spent in the field had been one of the happiest periods of his life. He felt pleased to think that he had been so greatly blessed as to be sent to the nations of the earth, and exhorted the young men to become familiar with Gospel principles in the end that they might be enabled to take up the places left vacant by their fellows and aged brethren, when they were called to leave this mortal sphere. In conclusion Elder Abbott by request made a few remarks in the Maori tongue.

Elder F. A. Hammond, president of the San Juan Stake next addressed the congregation. The remarks of the preceding speaker had brought to his mind the time when he had met a New Zealander on board a vessel upon which he was traveling. Little did he think at that time, that he would be privileged to sit and listen to the testimony of Elders who had returned home after having spent a few years promulgating the principles of life and salvation to the people of whom tribe that individual was a member. The Gospel, believed, had to be preached to all nations of the earth, Jew and Gentile, bond and free, and the speaker felt that God's purposes were quickly being established in the earth. Jesus had said unto Nicodemus that unless a man was born of water and of the spirit he could not enter into the Kingdom of God. This condition must be complied with by all those who desired to gain the blessings which God had promised unto His people, and for the consumption of those who had not been privileged to live in this dispensation, Temples had been created and opened that a vicarious work might there be performed for them.

The speaker's heart swelled with joy when he looked back upon and pondered over the condition of affairs in this part of the country when the Pioneers arrived here as compared with the condition now existing. The site upon which the city of Salt Lake is now located, was at that time nothing but a barren wilderness, covered with sagebrush, infested with grasshoppers, crickets and other destructive insects and inhabited by a band of wild Indians. It was anything but a promising valley to look upon. To a casual observer, it appeared as though it would never be fit for the habitation of man. Yet the Saints camped here; Brother Brigham arrived there to lift the ground, serve the Lord and look to Him for blessings. The Saints did as they were bid; they were loyal to the cause which they had espoused and fell that obedience to counsel would bring them safely through. True, they had many difficulties and privations to contend with, but the Lord watched over them and brought them out victorious, until today the State of Utah is looked upon by all who visit here as one of the most beautiful and promising sections of country in the American Union. When the speaker pondered over these things, he felt that of all people upon the face of the earth the Latter-day Saints should be the most thankful. They had everything to be thankful for; the Gospel was being preached in all parts of the earth and its principles were being embraced and the membership of the Church increased, and it would continue to increase until God's purposes were brought about on the earth.

Elder Theodore Curtis, in rising to speak, felt to endorse the remarks of the preceding brethren. He knew that they were true, because his experience in the Church had given him this knowledge. When the church was organized, certain prophecies were uttered regarding its future, most of which had been literally fulfilled. Since that time other predictions had been made concerning the work in which the Saints were engaged, and those which had not been fulfilled would be fulfilled in the Lord's own due time. The Saints should put their trust in the Lord and all would be well with them. They should obey counsel and thus remain in the path of safety. The Lord was at the helm of His Church and would steer the ship in a direction which would eventually land its passengers to a haven of true joy and happiness. The speaker related many incidents connected with his early acquaintance with the Church and closed by exhorting all to so conduct their lives as to merit the reward of an eternal salvation in God's celestial kingdom.

Choir sang the anthem:

"The nations bow to raise a throne."

Benedictions were pronounced by Elder Wm. B. Preston.

A Young Team on a Rampage.

A lively and for a time exciting runaway occurred on Second South street about 9:45 this morning, when a team of young bays attached to the Cudahy Packing company's delivery wagon which were hitched in front of a store on East Second South, longer for freedom and breaking the halter strap started westward at a terrific rate.

All went comparatively smooth on West Temple street was reached when their progress was retarded somewhat by being interrupted by a telegraph pole which fired the team from the unhitched vehicle and took a piece of the double-tree through the air with tremendous force, landing in a distance of about 200 yards. When the spirited equines had succeeded in ridding themselves of that to which they were attached, they continued their journey southward on West Temple overturning a buggy on the way and injuring pedestrians all along the line. Fortunately no one was injured, at least seriously.

An Experienced Miner Killed.

A peculiar accident caused the death of George Riley who was engaged in the Badlaid-Bonanza mine at Mercur, on Saturday last. It appears that Mr. Riley, who is an old and experienced miner, was at work blasting in the 300 foot tunnel and after putting in a shot and lighting the fuse, he walked out of the tunnel and stood on the dump until the discharge of the blast. The explosion sent a piece of rock straight out of the tunnel, a distance of 300 feet which struck Mr. Riley in the shoulder, and from the effects of which he shortly thereafter died, presumably from suffocation, caused by the rupture of his lungs. The deceased was widely known and was held in high estimation by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

MEETING OF CITIZENS.

Will Be Held at Calder's Hall This Evening to Consider the Midsummer Carnival.

A meeting of citizens will be held at Calder's hall this evening to consider the midsummer carnival movement. The meeting is in response to the following call issued on Saturday evening signed by Governor Wells, P. H. Lannan, Jos. Q. Cannon, F. H. Auerbach, George M. Scott, R. C. Chambers and John C. Cutler:

"We, the undersigned, urgently invite the progressive and public spirited business men and women of the city, and all who are desirous of making the first Fourth of July in the State of Utah memorable by reason of its celebration in a grand midsummer carnival, to meet at 8 o'clock next Monday evening in the hall at Calder's music palace. On that occasion it is proposed to discuss the matter thoroughly, get a general understanding of the project and organize committees for carrying it to success."

AMUSEMENTS.

The reputation of Eddie Foy and the favorable press notices given, The Strange adventures of Miss Brown served to attract a good house to the Theater Saturday evening, but the star as Miss Brown was entirely out of his line and a feeling of disappointment prevaded the audience. There were few redeeming features to the play and an apparent tendency towards the vulgar was displayed. If Foy could free the stage sufficiently he would avoid comedy in the future and stick extravagance or vaudeville acting. He gained his reputation in this line and any departure therefrom we suspect will be suicidal.

THE OTHER HOUSES.

The Grand and Lyceum closed the week's performances to full business only, the drop in attendance being accounted for by the large audiences at the Minstrels and Miss Brown. Tonight Moths will be given at the Grand, the cast for which was published in this paper on Saturday. The Lyceum will produce Beerbohm's The Cabman's Revenge, and under the management of Mr. Gleason a finished performance of this well known drama is promised.

Every one remembers A Trip to Chinatown, one of Mr. Hoyt's famous productions, and his houses are assured for the two nights engagement at the Theater, beginning next Thursday, May 7th. The box office opens tomorrow for sale of seats.

A Household Treasure.
