A CAGED MONSTER.

Prendergast Assails His Death Watch With a Broomstick.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

The Assassin Says He Knows His Constitutional Rights and Demands Them.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Prendergast attempted to punch the eyes out of Charles Johnson, his "death watch," late this evening. He used a broomstick and struck Johnson in the forehead as the latter sat in front of the cell, nearly missing Johnson's left eye. Jailer Moore removed Prendergast to a dungeon as soon as the affair was reported to him. Prendergast refused to leave the cell for a couple of hours. The trouble which caused the prisoner was caused by Johnson compelling the prisoner to sit down when he was attempting to make a speech in court. Prendergast was wrathful, and broke loose when Johnson had left the courtroom.

"It's a good thing for you that we were in the courtroom that day when you took hold of me," he cried.

"Yes, I expect so," replied Johnson, good naturedly.

"I know my constitutional rights," frowned the assassin, growing excited, and I demand them."

"Well, you're getting them, are you not?" queried the guard.

"There's a lot of you follows around this a-the world. It's hard to see the end of it. You're one of them, too," and it was at this point that Prendergast seized a broom in his cell and, pushing the handle through the bars, jabbed Johnson twice in the face with the handle with all the strength of his commanding. The guard was taken slightly by surprise. Four hours in the dungeon quieted the assassin, but he was very sullen when he reasserted to his cell.

THAT LETTER.

The Injured Machinist Says She Did Not Write.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The defense in the Pollard-Breckinridge trial took a new lease today and it revolved upon the troubled sea of expert testimony. Two witnesses well known in Washington, Dr. E. M. Stouffer, the family owner of the Dublin of Columbia, and Mr. Edwin S. Hay, an attorney who is something of a local Chauncey Depew, appeared for the Kentucky congressman and their testimonies were directed to the support of the contention that the hand of Madeline Pollard penned the black-bordered letter written in 1893, which the last most emphatically owned twice on the witness stand.

Great stress is laid by the defense upon the authenticity of this letter, because they think if she can be proven false on one important detail, but will be strengthened and be impeached. This letter is as follows:

WESLEYAN COLLEGE, July 28, 1894.

"To Dear Colonel Breckinridge:—Your letter came to me Saturday. I am glad you laid me in mind to be convenient to come out here to the college, for if you had gone to ever such a little trouble to listen to what sometimes overburdened a school-girl's mind, you might be inclined to be provoked with yourself. A preacher's opinion of any little affair of mine would cause prominence great indeed, where your opinion would clear away all doubts and fears and let me to quite rest hearted again. I have prepared you for a divorce case, but listen, it is worse than that.

"If a certain person should advance funds for my tuition here at school for the next year, do you think I could marry him at the expiration of that time, could he do anything it I would not marry him, and refused all he advances? I know you think, why this deceptions? But on no other terms will I agree. When a girl wants nothing but a good education and means to obtain such are denied her, what is she to do but to take the only chance she is ever likely to have. I feel your face and I can sure I would like you, and if at any minute time you are in the city and would care to come around, remember that home fares are always welcome. I am very respectfully yours, MADELINE R. POLLARD."

ON TO WASHINGTON.

People Sympathizing with the Unfortunate Army Tramps.

ALLIANCE, O., March 27.—Twenty miles of the longest free lunch route on record was spread today for Coxey's Canton army. January weather was also on the program, and the sympathy of the people along the line of march is making it possible for the men to progress without any particular hardships. They were dressed on an average, blue, brown and black suits, long in solid among the individuals and there is no danger that anybody is going to mistake him for a thirsty of rhinoceros. Only the hobo tramp seems to provide with wool, and they are not particular about using it.

The health of the marchers has been decidedly good considering hard conditions. Mean that was irregular, when they are provided at all, and sleeping on fresh ground with a scant covering of straw, and sufficiently uncomfortable conducive to a man's physical well-being. Twice to be pitiable in the camp, notes in Kirtland, the men from Pittsburg arrived with a bit overcoat, to an N.D.

Louis Smith, the mysterious individual who is in the military uniform of the company, has a wife, dressed with a fancy vest. His cut-an eye are too penetrating than they have been heretofore. He has the erect and decided bearing of a man accustomed to command, but his system reflects little from Upton's tactics. He can wan and call the column, direct them to right, left and wheeling and he which covers the exception of some intricate movements. He only is he unknown, tal, the big sloppy long that accompanies him is without name. He is anxious to demonstration of the patronage and exhibited press, and reveals they will all be away, away. Smith is a man of very positive temperament and is inclined to be hated by those who have money.

The army arrived in Alliance tonight, footsore and weary, and at once set out on a begging expedition. Men have begun to pop from stores that have yielded to the kind service of the army, and the lack of clothes is not severely felt.

Coxey went to Chicago tonight, but he will be back tomorrow. He and Brown addressed a crowd in the opera house this evening. Brown's patriotic defense of the crusade brought applause and SOAT.

About forty men were mustered in this evening. Coxey's departure has caused rumors that the movement is about to disband. Unless he is basically raised some sort of a procession will certainly reach Washington.

The office of historian has created today, and it was filled by Henry Vincent, the Chicago reporter.

FALSE RUMORS.

MARSHALL, O., March 27.—The reports out out from here about J. S. Coxey's being in financial difficulties are not true. Mr. Coxey's attorney says the claim made that the foreclosure of a mortgage for $71,000, held by Col. J. R. Pepper on his stone Acolyte is suppressed and is as injustice to him. No report has been made within the time entered at Canton, and Mr. Coxey will not have to return to the city, as was reported.

FOR BONDS.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., March 27.—General Fry's industrial army is still at Pleasley. Captain Hughes, and his company of rangers were withdrawn today by a telegraph order from Governor Hogg, which instructed the captain not to interfere unless either was resorted to arms. General Fry is seen interesting speeches. All freight trains are carefully inspected to see that no is not stowed.

IT WAS HEARTLESS.

DALLAS, TEX., March 27.—Governor Hogg's course of the Southern Pacific officials for bringing Fry's 500 paroxisms here from Cadillaqua, known as Fry's army, and detaining them on a side prairie in Texas is greatly applauded by everybody. It is spoken of as a heartless proceeding and the threat of the governor to make it hot for the experimenters and other officials of the Southern Pacific in the event the invaders reach the years of the state is strongly backed by the people.

HAMILTON IS A FRIEND.

DENVER, March 27.—General Hamilton, the Denver movement of Coxey's army, gathered fifty men in the court house square today and endeavored to get some U. A. B. men to act as his bodyguards. Failing in this, he asked "Will my men serve?"

Receiving no response, he started to walk off in disgust.

"Have you got any men?" inquired a ragged follower, shaking his fist in Hamilton's face.

"I have."

"Then why don't you call in arms?"

"Because I have not notified that if I get my men out of jail the city limits it will be arrested."

The deputy general tripped away amid the jeers and mock of the crowd. The prospects of getting the "army" to molten are not very bright.

ANOTHER CONTINGENT.

BLACK FALLS, S. D., March 27.—"Cloud" Wetzer, an unemployed printer of this city, is organizing a company to join J. S. Coxey's army at Washington. He has enlisted fifteen men so far.

THE ARKANSAS WRECK.

Two Charges Preferred Against Engineer Hogan.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The order of court martial in the case of Lieutenant Charles D. Lyman, of the Kearsarge is based upon two charges. The first is neglect of duty, and the specifications are that the lieutenant failed to take an observation for longitude on the day of the wreck, and that he neglected to obtain the local deviation of the compass of the vessel on the first and second days of February last.

The second charge is cognable inefficiency in the performance of duty and the specification is that Lyman, as navigator, knowing that at sunset the vessel had nearly run her estimated distance from 4 o'clock p.m. meridian position placed by him to the position of Rockaway rock, and knowing the difficulty of sighting the rock from a sole distance, failed to inform the officers of Rockaway rock, and knowing the difficulty of sighting the rock from a sole distance, failed to inform the existing authorities, failed to advise his commanding officer, as it was clearly his duty to do, in lay a safe course to avoid the rock, before continuing on a westerly course, in consequence of which the Kearsarge was run aground.

Terry Not Afraid.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—Reed B. Terry, who was yesterday indicted in the matter of Louis R. Shaw-Worster by Mrs. Palmer, a witness in the Health trial, which is proceeding at Fresno, left tonight for Fresno to take the accusation.

The Bering Sea Question.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—A leading member of the Senate committee on foreign relations, who is also a personal friend of Rear Admiral Walker, discussing the mission of the admiral to the Pacific coast said today he believed his mission had far more to do with the Bering sea question than with Hawaii.

"Affairs at Honolulu," said he, "are quiet at present, and I do not think there is any prospect of disturbance. The Bering question is by no means a satisfactory condition. England is apparently not willing to join our arbitration the regulations for the protection of the sea fisheries and it begins to look as if that country was pressing a claim of the international agreement also it would not Canada for this purpose.

No Quorum in the House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 27.—There was another day without quorum for over the O'Neill-Gardner contested election case in the House, owing to the lack of a quorum of Democratic members, and as the close of the proceedings it was so far from a quorum as which H. Hill rose in his seat and followed each other in rapid succession, but when roll was known to be 200 members in the Hall, the motion to adjourn was carried, the majority was 154, seven less than a quorum.

Youthful Murderer.

ST. PAUL, O.T., March 27.—A jealousy motive has been assigned in Cheyenne county, Kansas, for the murder of Mrs. Wellhiller, it appears, is not but only in the case of the two months Gloom, aged 8, and another 10 and younger. During the mother's absence children dropped up to the bed upon which the child lay dead, but it is said with a rock.

After having killed the baby, the two boys crossed the body to the rest of the house and were peaceful to only a when discovered. Gloom, though seemingly aware of the enormity of the deed, refuses to give his reason for committing it.

A WORTHY EXAMPLE

Set by the Good People of the Second Ward, Pleasant Grove.

PLEASANT GROVE, March 26, 1894.—On the 16th day of April, 1893, the presidency of the Utah Stake, in company with some of the Twelve Apostles, held a meeting at Pleasant Grove, and as the word had extended on every side it was considered advisable to divide it into three wards. The Bird ward, being the most central, retained the meeting house (which had just been altered up and repaired) for the mutual effects of the Whole ward. It was necessary for the two new wards to make a starter. A meeting, held on May 1st, 1893, the Bishop and counselors and the other members of the Bishop ward held a meeting and appointed a committee of five to select a page and hold a meeting house. The committee has actually labored to the end and in fact seem to have taken ownership of the meeting house, which was built about March 24, 1892, when they were able to report the house finished and properly furnished with everything necessary for comfort and convenience of worship—a good glass glazing, the grounds properly graded and neatly and everything necessary with the lot and house and its furniture and fixtures the total cost of it all being three thousand two hundred and fifty dollars.

On Sunday, March 25, 1894, Elders Heber J. Grant and Abraham H. Cannon of the Council of the Apostles, with members of the Utah stake presidency and High Council and other friends from the adjoining wards, met with us and dedicated the building to the Lord. The Saints were met at the entrance to the grounds by about two hundred Sunday School children who greeted them with a song of welcome under the direction of our choir leader, A. W. Harper. The ministers were called to order at 10 a.m. and 2 p. m. by Bishop James Cutler. Elder Heber J. Grant offered the dedicatory prayer, and who and lively counsel and words of comfort and encouragement were given by the Bishop and others who addressed the meetings. The choir sang some appropriate pieces and a good spirit prevailed. The Saints feel humble and thankful to their Heavenly Father for their place of worship.

JOSEPH W. ADAMS, Clerk.

P. S.—I may add, in order that Saints in other wards in similar circumstances may be encouraged to try to make their humble efforts and have a creditable place of worship, that we are all poor people and our prospects when we started to build were very discouraging, for we had number of about eighty families, ten of them being widows with families and others very poor, but with one grand united effort we started and God has blessed our labors.
