MINES AND MINING.

The Meeting of Mine Owners and Operators Postponed till Tuesday.

THE STAR COMES TO THE FRONT.

Million-Dollar Bonanza Closed.—Hanauer Mill Running.—Sioux Group Shut Down.—Other Matters.

Those engaged in the mining industry who assembled at the Chamber of Commerce building last evening, in response to a call for a meeting, were somewhat disappointed at finding the hall closed against them. The reason for this was said to be that no arrangements had been made to have it otherwise. The mining men however decided to meet at the court house, and wended their way thither. Mr. A. Hanauer called the assemblage to order, and A. F. Holden was chosen secretary. Some discussion was held as to the order of proceedings, and it was decided to adjourn the meeting until Tuesday evening next, so that a larger attendance could be secured. A committee, consisting of Thomas J. Alley, J. B. Rawlings and A. T. Hyde, was appointed to prepare a call for a mass meeting of Utah miners and all interested in the mining industry.

The committee secured the Theatre for Wednesday evening, and the meeting will be held on that date instead of Tuesday. Everybody is invited.

THE STAR GOING AHEAD.

The directors of the Star Mining company have got affairs into good shape again. The recent losses the company has had to sustain, by the caving in of the winding works in the mine and the unusual quantity of water which interfered with the workings, made it necessary to their success that an extension of time should be secured from the former owners of the Star claim. Negotiations to effect this purpose were entered into, and frequent meetings on the subject were held by the directors. Yesterday afternoon it was announced that these negotiations had been brought to a satisfactory conclusion, and the board at once decided on the plans for the future.

The hoisting works will be rebuilt, and put at present, as the mine can be worked to a considerable extent under present of them. Operations will be carried on in the tunnel and stope out, with a good force of men to keep everything. Now that matters have been arranged the outlook for the company is very encouraging.

FROM THE MORNING.

Isaac Jennings, president of the Grizzly Mining company, has returned from the company's properties in Rainy Hill, Nevada. He feels well over the outlook at the mines, and says he found everything in only as good condition as the superintendent reported. The work of development will be continued on the claims, but there will be very little shipment of ore in the present unsettled condition of the silver market.

A carload of ore is now en route from Rainy Hill to Ogden, and will be here sometime next week. It is said to carry from 500 to 1000 ounces of silver to the ton.

THE SIOUX.

The Sioux group of mines at Tintic, which has been a regular paying ore producer for a long time, is a back number because of the low price of silver. The mines have been closed down, and will remain in that condition until there is a considerable raise in the price of the white metal.

MAY NOT RESUME.

The Halifax-Beck mine will not resume operations on Monday next, as the superintendent expected would be the case when the men were laid off a week ago. The employes have been informed that they will be given another week's holiday, so far as work in the mine is concerned, that it is uncertain whether at that time work will be resumed. The mine is in no danger from water, as there is no great expense incurred while it is idle. Said an officer of the company today, "I really do not see how we can afford to start till silver gets above 80 cents, and the immediate prospect for that event is not very good."

THE BANNOCK MILL.

Advices from David James of this city, who is now at Eva, Idaho, state that the Bannock mill is now in full operation there, and has a good supply of ore to work on. It was expected that the first bar of silver would be turned out yesterday (Friday). Further news is expected from Mr. James on Monday or Tuesday.

DIXIE SMELTER.

The Dixie copper smelter near St. George has been closed down after a short run. The cause is an accident to the machinery, which will be repaired in a short time, when the works will be started again.

NOTES.

Sales are now being made in the metal market, the usual buyers not taking any ore except on contracts.

News comes from Fulsom, Colorado, that a vein of quartz has been found averaging for 3000 feet, which gives 57, 59, 130 and 150 ounces in gold per ton. Hundreds of tons were made. Twelve assays average $900 per ton. The people wild and mining men are coming from all parts of the country. It is considered by old mining men the richest strike known in the state. The find is now a subject of much lodge, from one to ten feet wide.

A CORRECTION.

Mr. Henry Fahrney's Property and Its Agent's Prevaricator.

The News has received from an esteemed friend and correspondent a vigorous criticism and denial of a paragraph in the article of another esteemed friend and correspondent which appeared in last Saturday's issue of this paper. There seems to be no end of injecting a personal element into the controversy, so the News takes this method of setting the whole matter right and, while maintaining its stand, correcting what appears to be an injustice growing out of a mistake. The passage to which exception is taken is as follows:

Years ago it was demonstrated to a leading banker here that from twenty-five to one hundred thousand dollars' worth of a certain factory's production could be sold annually by it, but the mining agent interfered on his agreed percentage, which would have lost a profit to the house allied to and the goods but their prominence there, as a matter of course. Now, if home-made goods of any kind are to be thus handicapped, need we wonder that they are not kept where facilities for distribution are inferior to most? And if they are to be had in all the principal stores, need it be a matter of surprise that production has to be limited, and that thousands of our citizens who use woolens know not that Utah produces any at all?

The writer of the foregoing admits, as the writer of the later letter says, that by "factory agent" he meant the latter writer and had almost in his business, but that he derived his information from another party. Wherefore the writer of the letter now at hand characterizes the statement as incorrect, and rejoinds: "I was not the question of percentage was never mentioned on the occasion referred to. Furthermore, to show that the statement, to the effect that a leading house was able to sell annually from $25,000 to $100,000 worth of the factory's production, will not apply in the present time, if the house in question will this year buy one-half the amount named, or product of the factory's goods, the agent will forego every cent of the commission he gets on the sale of that amount."

The News cannot believe its first correspondent intended any injury to the second one, and is very sure that on its own part it has no such intention. Nevertheless the denial of the accuracy of the main statement is cheerfully published. Finally, the friends of home manufacture, among whom are the above named writers and the News itself, will be difficult to see anything but benefit in trying to pull apart instead of pulling together in all of the good cause.

DIED IN THE MOUNTAINS.

John R. Weaver, a Young Salt Laker, Passes Away Suddenly in Big Cottonwood Canyon.

About ten days ago a young Salt Laker named John R. Weaver left the city and went to the head of Big Cottonwood canyon, with the intention of opening up a small store to be run during the summer months, he intending to sell goods to persons spending their vacation in the mountains during the heated term. He had a cabin built at Midlers, about six miles above the Brighton, for the purpose and had part of his stock in by yesterday. Shortly before noon he was sitting outside of the building when he was suddenly seized with a "spell of giddiness." He arose and staggered towards the door and was seized little where he fell down on a cot, closed his eyes, became unconscious, breathed heavily for a couple of minutes and expired without a struggle.

Weaver was a married man and his wife was with him at the time of his death.

He formerly lived at No. 55 Center street and, according to the directory, was employed at the Colorado saloon. Just what he was an employee of the insurance and the company refused to write the policy on the ground that he was supposed to be engaged in the liquor business. Subsequent to this the company was aware that he had not been in the liquor business and the policy was issued. Later developments indicate that the writers of the letter were deceived. As a result the question of death will undoubtedly be carefully inquired into. According to the evidence adduced the deceased had never been ill a moment.

The body was carefully packed in straw, placed in a wagon and brought to this city, where it arrived at 3 o'clock this morning. An inquest was held by Coroner Jay at his undertaking parlors. Dr. Wilcox was called and a post mortem examination was taken.

THE OLD FOLKS.

The Union Pacific Will Take Them to Ogden.

It looked for a time today as if the Old Folks would have to forego the pleasure of visiting Ogden this year, and that Weber county would be deprived of the honor of entertaining the vet race. J. H. Bennett, of the Rio Grande Western, had prepared a train, and after consultation with Superintendent Welsh the offer was withdrawn, and the contract was tendered to the D. & R. G. W. could not carry the Old Folks without interfering with regular traffic, as the road had gone into winter quarters by the reduction of its force of employes.

Manager Clayton, of the Salt Lake & Los Angeles, offered a train to haul, and the committee were thankful for the courtesy. They felt, however, that they would be disappointed at a change from Ogden, as the Union Pacific is a neighbor, Mr. Dorley and Mr. Bennett said they must apply to headquarters, but for themselves they would gladly furnish the coaled transportation. Manager Dickinson writes from Omaha that he will be there on the 19th instant. The Union Pacific then stepped into the breach, and the Old Folks will enjoy an Ogden.

Who is She?

In reference to a paragraph which appears on page eight of this issue, as to the finding of a deserted winter dress, a city detective has taken the matter in hand and believes he has a clue to the possessor. A case for $50, dated Davenport, Ia., in favor of Thomas Sowden, leather interest, 61 Lincoln, and sister Mary Thomas, in the same locality, there was also a trunk with the same initials on it, and a ticket from Davenport to Salt Lake last year. The woman is about 35 years of age and of German descent, but she would not give her name.

Appeal to the People.

At the meeting of the Real Estate Exchange, which went into session at four o'clock this afternoon, a stirring appeal to the people of Salt Lake City was to be promulgated. The officers set forth in the call are the necessity of advertising our resources and induced our exercise to bring Utah to the attention of the eastern cities. A copy of the call was furnished the News too late for publication today.

It concludes with a statement that there are in this city over 30,000 people who can each contribute at least $1 to a general fund, half of which shall be used to advertise the assets of Utah and the other half for the general good of the city, as indicated above.
