CHINA'S WAR EDICT.

The Emperor Enumerates His Grievances Against the Japs.

THE PLAN IS TO SAVE COREA.

Generals, Viceroys and Governors Commanded to Prepare for War with Haste and Diligence.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 5.—The steamship Belgic arrived from Hong Kong and Yokohama via Honolulu, bringing Yokohama advices to August 13, and Hong Kong to August 11.

At Pekin on August 1, the following edict was issued by the emperor.

China has been our tributary for the past two hundred odd years. She has given us tribute all this time, which is a matter known to the world. For the past dozen years or so Corea has been troubled by repeated insurrections, and we, in sympathy with our vassal tributary, have as repeatedly sent troops to her aid, eventually placing a resident minister in her capital to protect Chinese interests. In May of this year another rebellious wave arose in Corea and the king repeatedly called for aid from us to put down the rebellion. We then ordered Li Hung Chang to send troops to Corea, and they having easily pacified Yeh-shan the rebels scattered. But the Wo Jen (an ancient name for the Japanese, expressive of the best contempt), without any cause whatever, suddenly sent their troops to Corea and entered Seoul, the capital of Corea, relentlessly them constantly, until they have exceeded ten thousand in no. In the meantime the Japanese joined the Corean king to change his form of government, showing a disposition every way of bullying the Corean. It was found a difficult matter to reason with the Wo Jen. Although we have been in the habit of assisting our tributaries, we have never interfered with their international government. The Japanese army with Corea was that of one country with another. There is no law for sending large armies to a country and bullying it this way and compel it to change its system of government. The various powers are united in condemning the conduct of the Japanese who can give no reasonable explanation of the presence of the army which she now has in Corea. Nor has Japan been amenable to reason, for would she listen to the admonition to withdraw her troops and confer amicably upon what should be done in Corea. On the contrary Japan has showed perfidious intent without regard to appearances and has been increasing her forces there. Her conduct alarmed the people of Corea as well as our merchants there, and we have sent more troops over to protect them. Judge of our surprise, then, when half way to Corea, a number of Wo Jen ships suddenly appeared, and taking advantage of our unpreparedness opened fire on our transports at sea off on the sea coast near Ya Hsian and damaged them, thus causing us to suffer from their treacherous conduct which could not be foreseen by us.

As Japan has violated the treaties and not observed international law, and is now running rampant with her false and treacherous action, commencing hostilities herself and laying herself open to condemnation by the various powers at large, we therefore desire to make it known to the world that we have always followed the paths of righteously and perfect justice throughout the whole complication, while the Wo Jen on the other hand have broken all the laws of nations and treaties, which it pains our patience to bear with. Here we commend Li Hung Chang to give strict orders to our various armies to march with all haste to oust the Wo Jen out of their lairs. He is to send successive armies of valiant men in Corea in order to save the Coreans from bondage. We also commend the Manchu generals, viceroys and governors of the maritime provinces, as well as the commanders-in-chief of the various armies to prepare for war and to make every effort to fire on the Wo Jen ships if they come into our ports and to utterly destroy them. We also hurt our generals to return from the least delay in obeying our commands in order to avoid severe punishment at our hands. Let all know this edict or if addressed to themselves individually. Respect this.

Re-Nominated for Congress.

BRENHAM, Texas, Sept. 4.—Hon. J. W. Berman, Democrat, was this city nominated here without party opposition.

The Democrats in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., 4.—Returns from the election yesterday are coming in slowly, but sufficient information is at hand to show that the Democrats have made a clean sweep. Several counties heretofore Populist or Republican went democratic by small majorities. The Populist vote was much larger than two years ago. In White county, the Democratic majority was cut down 1,000 votes. In Jefferson county, a heavy vote was cast, the Democrats cutting 200 majority. Jefferson county, which has heretofore been controlled by the Republicans, owing to a split in the Democratic party in that county, gives about 700 Democratic majority. Garland county gives a small Democratic majority.

CARRIE'S STATEMENT.

Her Alleged Relations with Senator Stewart of Nevada.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Mrs. Carrie Bixby Hazeurig, the defendant in the divorce suit in which Senator Stewart, of Nevada, is co-respondent, has written a statement of her case for the Raleigh, North Carolina, News and Observer.

She gives in detail the story of her alleged relations with the Nevada senator, beginning with his office-seeking struggle in Washington, and of the senator promising her a place and loaning her money. Her statement then goes on:

"Mr. Senator Stewart was very cordial and friendly—even utterly so—ward me. His venerable face turned his demonstrations of affection from being as adjunctive as they otherwise would have been. He seated me on his sofa and enquired after my health. As I was still afflicted with malaria he said he had a sure remedy which he took himself. He made up a dose in a glass and gave it to me to drink. It put me to sleep. When I came to myself I found he had taken advantage of me. I scared him off his prince and started to leave the room. He pleaded with me not to make a scene. He assured me on his sofa certain and immediate prospects of securing a permanent position for me for a large salary, which would place me and my children in comfort and secure us a home in the future. His promises and flattery finally overcome my indignation and I consented to accept the permanent position.

"When I called again to receive the appointment it was not ready, but his promises and flattery were. He had now acquired power over me. He persuaded me to submit to him. I was now at his mercy and he made occasion of it as he pleased."

Then follows details of money paid, promises to obtain the position and frequent calls at the senator's office.

"One of his bank checks," Mrs. Hazeurig says, "which was taken to my house by my husband, aroused his suspicion, and then he followed me when I went out and had others which me."

Mrs. Hazeurig then narrates the bringing of a suit for a divorce by her husband, and her fruitless appeal to Senator Stewart for relief for herself and family.

To a Reporter of the Washington Evening Star she today reiterated the statements made in the Raleigh paper, saying her husband had been going down hill through drink, and added:

"Because Stewart's secretary could verify what I have said if he would tell the truth. He entered the office one day and joined us in a compromising situation. Just of course his mouth is sealed. Stewart's money has bought everything tonight."

SENATOR JONES.

He Wilderness from the Republican Party.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Senator Jones arrived in this city late evening and when interviewed said he had not changed his politics. The views he advocated now are the same he had been upholding in Congress since he first entered that body.

Late tonight the senator authorized the publication of his letter of which the following is a synopsis:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29, 1894.

To Hon. Edwin Sinsbee, chairman state central committee of Nevada—Dear—Having been fully convinced that the Republican party organization is unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, or at all, except with the consent of foreign governments and at a ratio to be dictated by them, I have to announce that I can no longer act with that party.

He protests that he shall not one iota of his convictions with reference to the beneficent influence on American industries of the policy of protection, nor he thinks protection will do us no good unless the supply of money is made to keep pace with the demand, scarcity of money is accompanied by an artificial fall in the price of commodities.

He stuffs with bitterness at what he calls international immoralities. A remedy by international conference, he pronounces as impractible, and claims British testimony to uphold the claim. The money question, he protests, is one of those great issues justifying a new formation of parties. It all fine silver was coined together, he says, there is no doubt that a free silver President would be elected in 1896. It can be done through a new party.

The senator closes as follows:

In the intolerable conviction that the progress, the prosperity and happiness of not only the people of Nevada, but those of the whole country are more immediately dependent on monetary reform than upon any other issue that can be presented for political action, I stand honorably, with and with the party that brings this overmastering issue to the front.

Yours truly,

JOHN P. JONES.

A GENUINE SENSATION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Evening Star says: Today initiated a genuine sensation in political circles by the statement that Senator John P. Jones of Nevada, who has represented the silver interests in the Senate for over twenty-one years, has formally renounced his allegiance to the Republican party and cast his lot with the Populists. His intentions have been secret from all but his most intimate associates.

His bolt leaves the Nevada Congressional delegation, all Populists, Senator Stewart having left the Republican party some time ago, and Representative Newlands having been elected as a silverite.

Silver Party Convention.

CARSON, Nev., Sept. 4.—The state convention of the Silver party convened here today. After effecting a temporary organization and appointing committees, the convention adjourned until this evening.

At the night session, a platform was adopted which calls upon the authority of the government to restrain or arrange the free coinage of gold and silver into standard money at the ratio of 16 to 1. The attitude of both the Republican and Democratic parties toward silver is denounced and in the democratic ranks of silver are attributed the financial depression and the ruin of the farmers and wage-workers during the last few years. Abolition of national banks and the collection of the Pacific railroads debt are demanded, say the government ownership of telegraph lines and submitted railroads. The platform says:

We condemn the criminal suspension of the laws of Congress by the President, such as the interpleading clause of the Sherman act, the Geary Chinese registration act, and his neglect and refusal to enforce the anti-trust act and the interstate commerce act against wealthy offenders.

Burned to a Crisp.

POINT ARENA, Cal., Sept. 4.—A camping party from San Francisco, consisting of W. H. Higgins, second officer of the steamer Oakland, his wife and daughter; William Stone, his wife and two children; Ed Bear and F. Stone of Wm. Taylor & Co., and Jas. E. Wing, were camped on the south fork of the Garcia river, 8 miles from this place. This morning at 4 o'clock they were awakened by the dog barking, and heard a large red wood tree crashing. The tree fell, but the tree stopped in time. The tree fell over with terrible force, killing Mrs. Higgins and her daughter Stella and breaking the leg of Spaniel Bear.

THE HINCKLEY HORROR.

Two Hundred and Sixteen Bodies in the Cemeteries.

Other Victims Found in Various Places—An Unknown Number of Dead in the Mill Pond.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 4.—A Pioneer Press special from Pine City says: Buried at Hinckley and vicinity, 225; Sandstone, 87; Finlayson, 25; Miller, 12; estimate of dead not found, 65. Total, 414.

The Hinckley horror is dawning in its awful magnitude. There are now lying in the decided conclusion under a shallow covering of earth, or in the rude rough boxes which take the places of caskets, 216 bodies. F. J. Weber, of Pine City, who has had charge of the information, has had his work well in hand and has kept most accurate account of the sad loss. These figures are now and include those buried by their friends.

The foreman of the Duluth construction train reported to Colonel Cowan this afternoon that on the fill at the south end of the bridge across the Grindstone are seven nine bodies so completely incinerated that the sex could not be distinguished.

These were undoubtedly settlers and men in the lumber camps who have not yet been discovered. A search for them will be prosecuted with vigor and they will be buried where they fell. There is an unknown number of dead in the mill pond. It is as yet approximated. The bank was covered with an almost solid mass of logs and not far away was the Brennan mill and lumber yard. A number of persons were seen to go to the pond, but no one came out alive, and as his is the fire still burning there, it may be a day or two before this pool of death can be examined.

At Tokagama the dead have been nearly all accounted for and will not run over thirty-five. At Miller were buried twelve and at Sandstone sixty-seven. These figures, with estimate of those not yet found, bring the number up to 329. The latter estimate may be too low, but it is a matter of conjecture. Sandstone, and it is here the widest different reports are floating about, thinks that at least 250 settlers in camps are yet to be found.

STILL ACTIVE.

PINE CITY, Minn., Sept. 4.—The curious scarcity which marked almost every one of the Hinckley patients was way to nothing activity this morning. During the night a shack was put up for a cook house. In the early morning six cooks from Minneapolis arrived to relieve the stockings of the commissary supplies. The people who had remained over night were quartered in the table shanties. Early this afternoon the Fifth brigade of Minnesota National Guard, set pitched last evening. Volunteers were more numerous than yesterday and affairs assumed a more settled aspect. The early turn-in brought up men who came to work and who did not abandon themselves to the gratification of a morbid sense of curiosity, as did so many when brought up yesterday, which was perhaps not unnatural, but under circumstances entirely inexcusable. At an early hour a force of men was started out to the cemetery to complete the work of interment. There had been left above ground last night fifty-seven bodies in boxes, and daylight parties were detailed out after those that had been located. Yesterday earth was made last night along the Duluth right of way to the north. Yesterday parties located twenty bodies, but there is the strong probability of considerable distance from the tracks revealed several others, including the entire Green family, father, mother and four children. It was the body of the Rowley, general freight and passenger agent of the Duluth & Winnipeg road, taken to his home 14 night, nineteen others were picked up between Hinckley and Skunk Lake. Two or three were evidently passengers on Saturday's south-bound afternoon limited. Most of the others were settlers, and the remainder were refugees from Hinckley, who got further away from the doomed city. One in the body of Mrs. John McNamara, on whose person was found $3,000 in checks and $100 in currency, and near by was the body of a boy, partially identified as one of her sons. The Kiewenon family of five, bound yesterday, were now brought in. Israel Schlumpch, the young Chicago lawyer, who was reported as among the victims of Hinckley, is safe. He lost his valise but got out safely, and is now at Boston.

The about completes the number on the right of a way in a point six miles out, and footing up a total of between fifty and sixty. A contained few were found in the gravel pit across the Grindstone river. One man was found in the gravel pit across the river, and was identified as Jeder Crowell, aged 65.

Thomas Dunn and family of three were buried today. Dunn was the local telegraph operator who lost his nerve because he remained at his post until the station was on fire. He sent an order for the train to return and take those who wanted to escape. The train started away after the station was on fire. Dunn then jumped from the window and started for the gravel pit, where he and his employes had taken refuge. Dunn was within five feet of the pit when he fell, and was unable to get any farther.

Attempted to Hold Up a Street Car.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5.—Two highwaymen attempted to hold up a street car on the Cass avenue line last night. As a result Frank Van Arsdale, conductor, lies at his home suffering from injuries which may cause his death. When the attempt at robbery was made there were passengers in the car. The two men boarded the car several blocks east of the scene of the attempt. When Van Arsdale went to collect their fares they blocked him. He offered resistance and in the scuffle was knocked down and stabbed into an unconscious condition. Tom McGinnis, Charles Warren, stepped the car as quickly as possible, and came to the conductor's assistance. In the hands he carried an iron switch bar with which he attempted to beat the men off. As his approach both highwaymen drew revolvers and drove him back to the front platform under threats of instant death. In the confusion that followed the highwaymen fled without robbing Van Arsdale. Van Arsdale was removed to his home. One of his eyes had been slashed out of its socket and the other also badly injured.
