MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Professor Evan Stephens' Grand Concert.

"THE ENSIGN," A FINE NAVAL DRAMA.

Wonderland's Excellent Programme.—The National Pageant.—Miss Collins.

will be given in the Tabernacle on Saturday, October 8th, by Professor Evan Stephens, assisted by fifteen hundred voices, including one thousand children. This will be another enjoyable feast of music, such as Professor Stephens is in the habit of offering to the public.

The adult choir (nearly 500 voices) will give a programme of favorite pieces from the operas, "The Bohemian Girl" and the "Daughter of the Regiment," with solos by members of the original cast of Stephens's Opera company: Lizzie Thomas Edwards (Arline), Annie Chew Thomas (Marie), S. C. Easton (Thaddeus), J. D. Spencer (the Gipsy Chief). The Salt Lake Mandolin and Guitar Club and the Juvenile Choir Band (20 little boys in uniform) will aid in making up a programme more grand and popular than any of Stephen's former concerts.

"THE ENSIGN."

As repeatedly announced, William Haworth's new naval play, "The Ensign," will be seen at the theatre for the first time on Monday, October 3rd. The play has a story of absorbing interest, and, if what is said about it is true, is splendidly put on the stage.

The hero is a young ensign attached to the "San Jacinto." It will be remembered that the capture of the Confederate Commissioners by Captain Wilkes, of the United States frigate "San Jacinto," on the high seas almost involved this country in a war with Great Britain. In the plot of "The Ensign," Lieutenants Allen and Blythe, of H. M. S. Warrior, stationed at Havana, were confidentially instructed by their superior officers to prevent Captain Wilkes from accomplishing his purpose. To effect this end a plan must be devised to detain the United States man-o'-war. Lieutenant Blythe took the nearest method and attacked the reputation of an American officer's sweetheart under the impression that the American would assault him and that the resultant quarrel would cause the detention of Captain Wilkes and his ship by the Cuban authorities long enough for the escape of the confederate commissioners. The young officer selected for the purpose is an ensign of the United States man-of-war, but through the calm courage of the young sailor the scheme failed. Driven to more desperate straits the British officer tears down our flag at the American consulate, and, avenging an insult to his country he would not tolerate for himself, the ensign kills the traitor on the spot. For this rash act he here is tried by court-martial and is sentenced to death. He is to be hanged at the yard-arm of his ship, but at the last moment he is pardoned by the President of the United States, through the intercession of a little child.

"SECRET OF DUELLS."

John T. Kelly and his company of comedians will commence a three nights' engagement at the Theatre on Thursday, October 6th, in the new comedy "Secret of Duells." It is claimed for the piece that it has an interesting and well held story interwoven with funny and original complications and situations. In Mr. Kelly's supporting company are the following: Florie West, an English soubrette, who will sing a number of the latest London songs; Adelaide Randall, Flora Vekiana, Nelly Page, Josephine Dill, Marcery Mortimere, Mildred Mossey, Harry Kelly, O. Jay Williams, Frank Holland, James Quinn, Wright Lenn and Maurice Levi. The scenery and costumes are new and elaborate, some showing the palisades on the Hudson river, being particularly effective.

WONDERLAND.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather last night, large crowds visited Wonderland, enjoying the performances in the various departments. In the Curio Hall, Walter Stuart, the simplest and legless phenomenon, is the greatest point of attraction. Mr. Moyer, the gold watch worker, has a fine display of pretty things, such as the ladies like to see. In the Bijou Theatre, "The Merry Musical Monarchs" combine harmony and humor, playing on all sorts of instruments. But the most attractive part is the Theatorium. Signor Rizal, a one-legged acrobat, performs on the horizontal bar. Al. Newton gives wonderful exhibitions as the "King of Clubs." The Ferguson sisters whose fine singing has made them favorites with the public are still there and last, but not least, comes Geo. Catlin, who makes the audience roar with laughter at the way in which he impersonates a Chinaman. There is a strong programme at Wonderland this week.

THE NATIONAL PAGEANT.

Rehearsals of the Pageant take place daily at Calder's theatre, round Mr. Sirk's school. The reception of Washington, La Fayette, Mr. and Mrs. John Adams and the dancing of the minuet before them will be particularly good. The old Revolutionary costumes, the gentlemen in their gorgeous coats, silk stockings, low shoes with monumental silver buckles. The ladies in quaint gowns are always attractive to the American people of today. There will be eight couples and the dancing and curtsying will be graceful and dignified.

The cast of characters is as follows: A reception to Washington and Lafayette—George Washington, Mr. Chas. Peel; Martha Washington, Miss Marion Stockings; John Adams, Mr. Van Vechten; Abagail Adams, Miss Maggie Ezzel; Marquis de La Fayette, Mr. O. B. Bradley.

Dancers of the Minuet—Misses Rosie Spears, Ora Hickman, Martie Ard, Alice Hooper, Mary Jane Woodward, Alice Young, Emily Kirk, Green Walker; Messrs. M. Bidwell, Grant Hampton, E. J. Stary, Will. Lawrence, Albert Taylor, Max Smith, Kenneth Kerr, E. J. Greenhalgh. Patrol, Mrs. Woodard.

A TREASURE EVENT.

Mr. John Drew has set August Daly and has launched forth on the ship on theatrical sea. He commenced his career in Milwaukee in a comedy called "The Masked Ball," a French piece adapted to the American stage by Mr. Clyde Fitch. Mr. Drew made his first appearance on the stage in 1873 in a play entitled "Cool as a Cucumber." His debut in New York was made in 1875 in "The Big Bonanza," and his first Shakespeare experience was with Booth in 1876, when he played Rosencrantz in "Hamlet." Mr. Drew has already won a name for himself as an actor, and his future career will be watched with much interest.

SARAH'S BENEFIT.

The New York public filled the Standard Theatre to the roof last Monday night, and subsequent evenings, to see the renowned Lotta Crabtree dance and hear her sensational singing. The gifted little woman, who has set the English people aglow with her performances, is identified so intimately with an extremely pleasant face and fine intelligent eye. She has rather broad shoulders and exceedingly narrow waist, and her hair, mass which floats an abundance of golden hair, is always diffused with color. Much of the effect, which she makes," says the World critic, "is brought about by her extraordinary gestures. Her arms would shame the most vocacious fencing manipulators, and they add a little to the sun effect of her dances. It is not a career, by the way, to a person of strings, contortions, jigs, whirls and wriggles. There are a great many thousand concert hall singers in the world and one is very much like the other. They vary only in degree of exceedness. Miss Collins is yet to be classed with them. She is unique. Her manner of indicating the values of her song and her entire thirty-five dances are altogether extraordinary and inestimable to those of any other person who has ever appeared in New York."

"The large city," says another critic, "is satisfied by human beings of common sense and intelligence. Let them be thrown into paroxysms of enthusiasm over this person and there is one one of the greatest sensations."

Another has the following, presumably just paragraph:

"Religiously to the belief that only one woman in earth could lend the proper spirit to 'Tatters bound-to-say,' we waited for the great Lotta. She came, and, after a longer time at Quarantine, she saw. But, alas, she did not conquer."

"Certainly, New Yorkers need apprehend no danger of a conflagration on either the East or Hudson rivers, from anything that Miss Collins is doing at present. Her audiences have been numerous, for curiosity to witness the much-heralded young woman has been at fever height. It would have been a good thing for Lottie had Dr. Jenkins returned her to dear old London. Then we might never have known how very ordinary she really is."

HERRMANN'S JOKE.

The great magician Herrmann conceived the idea of putting into his advertisement the other day a greeting to the Jews who were celebrating their new year's day, printed in Hebrew characters. These, to many, strange looking signs, gave some people an impression that the magician advertised a new mysterious trick, a circumstance which caused no small annoyance at the box office that night.

During the evening a number of individuals came down from the performance wasabout half over to enquire if Herrmann was going to do that new trick tonight, as they did not see it on the programme. To Manager Hoom's inquiry as to what trick they meant, the reply was, "Oh, that Chinese trick he advertised in the morning's papers." When told that it was not an advertisement of a new feat in magic, several of the ... demanded the return of their money, claiming they had been induced to come to the theatre with the idea of seeing the great Chinese trick which Herrmann is said to have had in preparation for some time.

Trouble in Milan.

The Rev. M. R. Keep, who is one of the best informed geologists in Maine, says that a very rare fossil is found in the limestone of Androscoggin county. The most wonderful deposit of fossils in the world, says Mr. Keep, is at Square Lake, near Fort Kent. Here geologists of various countries have found between forty and fifty different species of trilobites. The records of water lily of the Silurian age is frequently found at Square Lake, large masses of rock being composed of the stems of these lilies. The blooms and buds are seldom found, although a full blown bloom of the encrinite has been discovered at the lake. The fossil resembles a common sunflower.—New York Sun.

The Dog and the Milk Pitcher.

A few days since a well known lady of Hopkins Springs missed from her pantry a pitcher of milk under circumstances most perplexing to account for. The empty pitcher being found near the house, suspicion of course began to fasten itself on some two legged subject of animal history.

The solution of the mystery was disclosed when the owner met her 8-months old setter puppy carrying carefully by the handle into her back yard a pitcher of milk, which he was seen to tilt at the proper angle and drink. This statement, corroborated by the lady herself, presents an illustration of canine sagacity which "takes the cake."—Richmond Dispatch.

An Ancient Town in Kansas.

The remains of an ancient town can be seen on the Colonel Bunce place, a mile west of Atchison. The city was inhabited by a race much more intelligent than the Indian of the present time, as pieces of broken pottery containing figures can be picked up in many places on the old site. The pottery resembles that which was made by the Maya race of New Mexico. The site of the ancient city is on a level tract of land which is considerably higher than the other ground in the vicinity. Atchison may be on the site of the oldest city in the United States.—Atchison Globe.
