OGDEN.

A Young Bridegroom Steals Two Horses.—$2,000 Fire.—Issues for a Day.—Trans-Mississippi Congress.

About two weeks or such a matter ago a youth named Bateman—Frank E. Bateman—a son of the county sole of California, wooed and married a young lady by the name of Ada Lentz. Right at the start there were shadows flitting across the glorious sunshine of their love and the patter of the raindrops seemed to echo like the tears of disappointment. Frank E. unfortunately used a gun, or is said to have so done, the object of his wrath being the young lady's adopted brother. He was found over to the grand jury in $500 bonds, but was allowed to go on his own recognizance. The court failed to specify how far he was allowed to go, and Frank concluded to arrange the distance to suit his own extended fancy. By some means or other Bateman and his wife had possession of two horses. On Friday the young California genius went to Carey's livery stable and borrowed a lady's side saddle, promising to return it a week day. The next day came and he seemed like the man who goes on ice hill, to have long two his promise. The saddle did not show up Tuesday, and yesterday telegraphic inquiry revealed the fact that Bateman and his bride were riding cross country toward the setting sun, evidently bent for California "on his own recognizance." They had only reached Terrace when a court telegram stopped them and they were taken under the aforesaid protecting wing of a constable. They will be straight back to their anxious and inquiring friends by Deputy Gill. Carey Bros. have recovered their saddle, while Bateman early thinks of the words of the poetic sage and sadly realizes that his path of love is decidedly rocky.

The Lewis estate case was up for hearing before Judge Bishop yesterday on the contest as to which of the two petitioners should have been the letters of administration. Prof. Lewis was, as before, represented by Evans & Rogers, while M. N. Gilbert represented the deceased's sons as Mr. "George" Lewis, the contestant, Evans & Rogers introduced a marriage certificate from Central City, Colorado, showing that in 1879 Miss Mary Nelson was married to Peter Lager, and two witnesses alleged that this Mary Nelson is the lady who now claims to be the wife of the deceased. Mr. Gilbert introduced in evidence a package of letters from "George" Lewis to the contestant, addressed to Mrs. Lewis and alleged to be his wife, the letters being crammed in extremely affectionate language. The introduction of the testimony and evidence took only a little while, but the entire day was occupied by the attorneys in arguing a question of law on getting proof, Messrs. Evans & Rogers claiming that they had proved a marriage of the contestant in 1879, and the marriage of Lewis being proved as having taken place in 1887, that it devolved upon contestant to prove a divorce from Lager, or his death, or in the event of neither being proved the marriage to Lewis (if there were such a marriage) would be void as contrary to law. Mr. Gilbert argued that the burden of proof lay with the original petitioner to prove no divorce at the time of the alleged marriage to Lewis, as the fact of the subsequent marriage would be taken as proof that there had been a divorce granted. Many authorities were cited by each side, and the judge finally took the point under advisement, adjourning the case without date. Mrs. Lewis was again absent from the court room on account of illness.

About 2 o'clock this morning a dense column of smoke shot up through the dust tented the bar at the attar saloon. Two members of the fire department were in the saloon at the time and one of them ran to the hose cart box and turned in an alarm. The department responded promptly and two lines of hose were laid, one from a Washington avenue hydrant and the other from a stand pipe on Twenty-fourth street. The fire was confined to the center of the basement but it had evidently gained great headway. Such great volumes of choking smoke were issuing from all openings that the firemen were unable to remain at the scene for any length of time. Several of the boys were overcome with the smoke and forced to lay off at times. After fighting the fire from the underground windows with more or less success for about an hour the chief ordered holes cut in the floor and two streams were soon playing directly on the flames, which burst forth into the saloon when the openings were made. Within half an hour the fire was practically extinguished. Mr. McManus' loss will be in the neighborhood of $2000, as he had some of the choicest goods in the estate. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Taken all in all the firemen did good work. When ordered by the chief to aid in pulling up the hose it is said that two of the firemen, Brennan and Fitzgerald, refused to comply until they had taken a drink of whisky, and upon being ordered to their posts struck and left the department.

The Ogden delegates to the Trans-mississippi congress held a meeting last evening to arrange for the congress. The following committees were appointed: Finance and general arrangements—Judge A. B. Patton, Mayor H. C. Lund and E. H. Ridgley. To meet California and Nevada delegations—C. H. Leonard, William Harcombe, J. H. Macmillan, S. W. Knapp and H. C. Gibson. To meet delegations from the north—A. C. Bishop, Frank J. Cannon, J. H. Hill, J. M. Longsdorf and D. H. Peery, Jr. To meet delegates from east on Union Pacific trains—C. H. King, W. L. Payton, B. C. Mosby, L. R. Rhodes, E. M. Allison, Jr. To meet southern delegations and eastern coming over Rio Grande Western—Thomas Fitzgerald, Ben E. Rich, L. R. Adams, H. B. Weaver and Thomas R. Wride. On music—Ben E. Rich, Frank J. Cannon and D. H. Peery, Jr. All committees will act in connection with the general executive committee of the congress in making the necessary arrangements for the meeting. A committee of three—Messrs. Ridgley, McMillan and Patton—was appointed to call a mass meeting of citizens to talk over the situation. The following was adopted: "Resolved by this meeting that we request all business firms and citizens of Ogden to put their houses in order for the Trans-mississippi congress and tender all the aid in their power to make of the congress the magnificent success which its aims afford."

Monday's Rio Grande Western train brought into Ogden a man named Charles Winterscom of Newcastle, Colorado, bound for Portland, Oregon. While waiting at the depot for his train it was noticed that he was acting queerly. He seemed great worry and it was evident that he was crazy. Sergeant Sheeth arrested him and took him to the county jail where he raved and tore around like a genuine maniac. He attempted suicide by cutting his neck and wrists with a piece of broken glass, but was prevented from carrying his designs into execution. Dr. Carey was called and succeeded in giving him a quieting dose and now the man is so much improved that he will be able to continue his journey late after noon. The man up to the last few weeks was a saloon keeper in Newcastle. Some time ago he accidentally shot a woman in the thigh while quarreling with another man. Some time before his wife had died and these occurrences operated so strongly on his mind as to unseat his reason at times. He sold his saloon and it is supposed in a spirit of desperadoism purchased a ticket for Portland to get as far away from his troubles as possible. He will probably leave for Portland this morning. He is an intelligent looking man and last night conversed calmly and sensibly regarding his condition, which he says is the result of hard drinking.

Sheriff Henderson of Elko county, Nevada, left yesterday for home, taking with him the three men who were captured here Monday and held on suspicion. Sheriff Henderson came to Ogden Tuesday morning on a telegram from Marshal Metcalf and identified the men as the ones he wanted. The fellows at first refused to go back to Elko without a requisition, but later they changed their minds. Last Saturday night the residence of the Episcopal minister at Elko was burglarized and a bedroom, a quantity of clothing, jewelry, etc., taken, the thieves got away with a silver communion set. The robbers headed this way and arrived in Ogden some time on Monday morning. They had city been in town a few hours when they were arrested on suspicion and on being taken to the police station and searched it became evident to the officers that the men were in possession of stolen property, as they were being searched Marshal Metcalf came into the desk sergeant's office with a description of the men as being wanted at Elko for the robbery. Sheriff Henderson was immediately notified and came on and took the trio back to Elko, where they will stand trial on the charge of burglary. The stolen articles were mostly recovered.

Sergeant Sheeth last night arrested Frank Myers at the Beardsley house on the charge of passing counterfeit coin. The preliminary hearing will probably take place this afternoon. For some time past the merchants of Ogden have been having trouble with counterfeit coins and the police have worked hard at the case but without any success until last night when Sheeth received a straight tip and landed his man. It is the opinion of officers that Myers is not one of a large gang which has been making the West its headquarters for some time past. More arrests may follow very shortly. The coins picked up by the officers are of the denomination of one dollar and are good counterfeits in everything but weight which is off considerably. When lightly clinked together the coins have a sound not unlike the clink of glass. Myers has been in Ogden for several months and is very familiar to the police. He is a middle aged man and has occupied quarters at the Beardsley during his residence here.

Clarence J. Wetmore, chief viticultural officer of the California viticultural commission, passed through Ogden yesterday on his way east to Chicago to lose after the viticultural exhibit of his state in the main horticultural building of the World's Fair. The exhibit is expected to give to all visitors to the department an idea of the viticultural resources of the state, and to more thoroughly bring about that result about one hundred photographs of vineyards in the various viticultural sections of the state, together with photographs of the leading varieties of grapes grown in California, will be included in the exhibit. The exhibit will also include a number of vines, by which it is intended to show the methods of pruning and training the vine in vogue in California. To this will be added a collection of viticultural literature and other matters of interest to viticulturists. Mr. Wetmore will return in a month.

The time when the Chinaga people were to have commenced active operations on the proposed smelters and reduction works in order to claim the $10,000 bonus offered by the city has passed and still nothing has been heard of the projectors of the enterprise since the dispatch and letter received by Judge Patton, which contained the assurance that work would be commenced this week. It is very possible that should the gentlemen get here this week the council will extend the time, on an account of the state of the weather it would have been impossible to commence operations before the present time, at the very earliest.

The Grand opera house presented a busy scene yesterday, a large number of workmen being engaged in decorating and otherwise preparing the house for the grand reception and ball which the Forty Thieves will give to their friends tonight. The dancing floor will be lighted by three colored arc and a thousand incandescent lights and the scene which will greet the guests as they enter the portals of the Grand will appear to a section of fairy land. A number of Salt Lake people will be in attendance.

All the necessary papers to prove the legality of the recent issue of general improvement bonds were prepared and sent east yesterday to Mrs. W. J. Hayes & Sons of Cleveland, Ohio, the successful bidders. The attorneys of the house will have fifteen days to look over the papers and then the city will get the first half of the issue, provided the bonds are found to have been properly issued.

County Clerk Ledwidge yesterday granted permission to wed to Charles W. Thomas, aged 25, and Miss Louella Terry, aged 17, both of Salt Lake City. As the applicants were both minors, it was necessary to obtain the consent of the parents of each.

Tomorrow night the city council will meet in special session for the purpose of considering the sidewalk question. Yesterday afternoon the street committee held a meeting and devoted the time to a discussion and investigation of the same subject.

Henry Fuller of Lincoln, Nebraska, died Tuesday evening on the westbound Union Pacific train at Hot Springs and will be buried here this afternoon at 2 o'clock, from his father's residence, 2257 Harrison avenue. Mr. Fuller, Sr., is an old O. A. R. man.

Street Superintendent Bowman and his men yesterday completed the embankments necessary to prevent the high waters of the Weber from washing around the Thirteenth street bridge, and no danger to the structure is now threatened.
