One hundred thousand dollars in labor wanted.

Fifty miles of the Alberta company's canal to be built, for which half will be paid in cash and balance in acreage of best prairie land, at $5 an acre, with free water for two years to first settlers on those lands.

Lands are to be settled in homes or settlement form, in order to afford settlers the benefit of ward organizations, including car and Sabbath schools.

All labor will be contract work, at ten cents a cubic yard for earth work. Gravel, stone and solid rock to be paid for in proportion.

An industrious, able-bodied man, with team can earn a good farm, team left and outfit on one year.

Lands to be settled are adjacent to a railway. Plenty of coal for free near at hand.

President C. O. Card, writing to the First Presidency under date of September 23rd, says that work has commenced on the canal; that parties in Utah desiring to do work this fall would do well to bring their teams and wagons by railroad. By doing this they could be at work on the canal in less than a week after starting. Speaking about wintering teams, he says that they, if needed, will not march in a lot, and besides, it can be cut down to late at a month from the date of his letter; that he has will be wood on the canal on his office in its immediate vicinity great in lieu up to twelve inches high. When work cannot be done on the canal, men can be building houses for themselves. He advises men to come with their teams, leaving their families until the setting by which time houses may be provided for them. Parties desiring to join the new settlers in making homes, who may not care to do work on the canal, can obtain land through President Card.

TO MUSTER OUT ROUGH RIDERS

War Department to Discharge the Torrey Lads from Service.

Lieutenant Colonel Carson Officially Notified Governor Wells of Such Intention—Welcome News to Utah People.

The Second United States volunteer cavalry is to be mustered out of service without delay. Such is the information that came to Governor Wells late evening in the following dispatch from Colonel Carson:

"Panama Park, Fla.,
Oct. 11, 1898, 4:32 p. m.

"Governor Heber M. Wells, Salt Lake City, Utah:

"Colonel Torrey just telegraphed me from Washington that our regiment will be mustered out here, the men receiving march pay.

"JOHN Q. CANNON,
"Lieutenant Colonel."

ORDERED BY SECRETARY OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Secretary Alger today decided to muster out the Second United States cavalry, commonly known as Torrey's rough riders. The order for the mustering out will be issued by Colonel Carson, who is now at Jacksonville, Fla., for duty in connection with the work of the military camps in the South and Southwestern states.

A Tribune special says that Col. J. L. Torrey, commanding the regiment, had been in Washington for several days past endeavoring to secure the discharge of the men ever in the regiment, and it was in response to his request that the order was issued. Colonel Torrey proposed to the war department that in all instances that men, recently enlisted, be brought up from the states from which the regiment was originally recruited, as the department during this undesirable the regiment was ready to obey orders of the war department, whatever they might be, and to remain in the service as long as was deemed advisable.

The secretary of war, after consulting the matter for twenty-four hours, is said to have decided that the terms of the service would be now considered by the mustering out of the entire regiment.

His reason are that it has been decided to muster out all the volunteer cavalry, but on the ground of the expense of transporting troops back from far earlier purposes that the First and Third had already been mustered out, and that the Second had been stationed so long at Tampa that it would be wrong to keep it longer from present a possibility that their services might be needed.

Colonel Torrey has so far conducted the rough rider regiment, which for a large number of the regiment, whose exploits have been well known, at the war department, are either family or personal friends of the colonel, from which they are now ordered to be discharged that they should remain in the country in which they were engaged prior to their enlistment in response to the call from the government.

Colonel Torrey has so far conducted from the railroad accident, which for so long a time kept him out of his fort, that he is able to walk without crutches or a cane, and while unable to ride a horse, has been in condition to command the regiment in the saddle, and to the casual observer would not appear as having suffered any accident. He said last night:

"There is no better regiment in the service than mine and none in camp at Jacksonville which has a finer record for cleanness, discipline and soldierly qualities. On our trip to Jacksonville we guard was posted over any of the men, and a soldier disgraced himself or his command or deserted, and since our arrival in camp no regiment has been unknown in the police or guard duty. They are a peculiarly orderly, patriotic aggregation of Westerners manifesting only desiring to know what orders are and then obeying them implicitly.

"We were, naturally, greatly disappointed at not having an opportunity to engage in the Santiago campaign, as we had been ready at any time to go wherever we were ordered to be mustered out. We have only asked what the war department wanted us to do in the way of service. One Alger said to me when I saw him yesterday that he had heard nothing but words of praise from the officers of the army in regard to the regiment. That was a compliment which my officers and men will appreciate."

Colonel Torrey said that while Secretary Alger had decided to muster out the regiment, it was entirely due to the intention of tendering it from a Southern rigid inspection. He said the regiment had been carefully complied with every sanitary regulation, each troop having a commissioned officer to look after its interests, and the commanding officers having every day made personal inspection of the sanitary arrangements.

He spoke in the highest terms of Lieut.-Col. Carson, who commanded the regiment during his illness, and of Capt. Jack Hayes, who commanded the regiment during his absence, and of Capt. Jack Hayes, who commanded the regiment during his absence, and of Capt. Jack Hayes, who commanded the regiment during his absence
