"A BIG BLOW-OUT."

Treatment of the Philippine Expedition at Honolulu.

OUR SOLDIERS WERE FEASTED

And Given the Entire Freedom of the City While They Were There.

WHAT THE BOYS MUST HAVE EATEN.

And the Sights They Enjoyed—Interesting Account from the Hawaiian Gazette—New Flag for the Charleston.

If the enthusiasm with which Uncle Sam's troops were received at Honolulu counts for anything, the friends of annexation of the Hawaiian islands were to have entirely the best of the argument. The account of the arrival and reception of the first Philippine expedition at Honolulu, as published in the Hawaiian Gazette of June 3, is enthusiastic almost to the extreme, and judging from all appearances that paper only reflects the sentiment of the people with respect to the nation of whose government and free institutions Old Glory is the emblem. For the copy of the paper the "News" is indebted to Hon. Jerrold R. Lindsey, and a few extracts from the account of the reception of the transpacific troops occupy altogether two pages of the Gazette, will be sufficient to give the reader an idea of the kind of gala days the people of Hawaii had while the boys in blue were their guests. The paper tells of the raising of the transport ports as follows:

"The town was set in a fever of excitement when, at a little after 8 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the word at Central office conveyed the message to thousands of anxious people in the city that there, outside Diamond Head, steamers off Waikiki. The message had come from the other side of the island and it was impossible to tell at the time what the vessels were. Just three columns of smoke floating away on the southeast could be distinguished. It was not many minutes after this, the message came that the steamers could be seen, by Diamond Head Charley and that they were the City of Peking, the Australia and another steamer that could not be seen very distinctly.

"The fire whistle sounded immediately the signal for the welcome news. Instantly flags all over the city went up and carriages and crowds of pedestrians went surrounding along to the different wharves. They had a long wait, but they were not in the least fatigued, for they were in the best of good humor and talked guilty. There has not been in many years such a composition in this city of the news contained.

"The Gazette then goes on to describe the meeting of the transports by the reception committee of 100, accompanied by all the native vessels anywhere in sight, and every one was filled with enthusiasm. Every mess of the troopships is faithfully followed until they are safely in at the wharves which, as will be the street, are literally jammed with people eager to welcome the soldiers.

"Neither of the men were allowed to leave the boats last evening," continues the Gazette. "They passed the early hours of the evening in the morning on the grand reception accorded them by Honolulu's citizens and arranging the subject when they were to be given shore leave on the morrow. Occasionally the strains of 'America' or 'The Star Spangled Banner' would come from the corps of the Peking and would be taken up by the boys on board. Marty Allen, of Sydney, which was anchored in the stream only a few yards away."

Then comes a recital of the doings on the next day, when the soldiers were allowed to land and were given the freedom of the city.

The first day of the occupation of this place by American troops was one of the greatest minor solid periods the town has ever known. The investment was thorough, the occupation complete, the conquest entire, and the surrender whole and graceful. The positive and negative poles of enthusiasm flashed and flowed the sentiment of cordiality. Hospitality was heartily extended and was accepted in the spirit in that was offered.

"As to numbers Honolulu has not seen such crowds in what may be called the modern times. There is nothing on record to which the invasion may be compared. It is without precedent in every way. About 11 o'clock the first officers of the transports from 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. and the same number from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m. Then all this crowd of thousands enjoyed liberty during the day. The men fairly revelled in the results from duty. They forgot all the trials of sea traveling and detail on ship. They were given total reception everywhere. They realized that Honolulu was keeping open house. And they appreciated it.

"After reviewing the workings of the committee in charge of the reception, the paper says: 'Each member of the committee was literally a committee of the one on making it comfortable and pleasant for the boys in blue.

"It is not good for the poor to tell of the hospitality of the town in language too ardent. Let it be modestly said that Honolulu did what sort of thing in this sort of way from force of habit. It is good to say there is honest, deep-seated, and well certain abiding sympathy here for the sailors and the flag brought to this port by the steamships.

An idea of the sights "taken in" and enjoyed by the American soldiers may be gained from a perusal of the list of courtesies at their disposal during their stay:

"Courtesies of the bathing facilities of the Myrtle and Healani beat club houses.

"Courtesies of the bathing facilities of the Waikiki beach resorts.

"Concerts.

"Courtesies of Kamehameha school grounds and Bishop museum.

"Courtesies of Oahu college grounds.

"Courtesies of executive building grounds.

"Courtesies of Arlington hotel grounds.

"Courtesies of Alexahan grounds, owned by Princess Kaiulani.

"Courtesies of N. G. H. officers' and Pacific clubs.

"Courtesies of special baseball game.

"Free transportation on the tram and bus lines.

"Smokers gratis.

"Courtesies of native fruits.

"Lunches and refreshments gratis.

"Free correspondence facilities."

Then there was a grand banquet given the boys on the Executive grounds of which the paper says: "This will be the greatest event of the day. Most boys will rise from 10 to 12 p. m. * * * While this is to be an opulent feast, it will be a quiet affair. Every man is to be given what they call in 'United States language' a 'square meal.' The 1,200 men, 'excepting the guards of each ship will come ashore in two parties. This is for the transports. The Australia and Peking men are included in the invitation. Food will be taken to the men in duty.

"The dinner will be a good one, with 'The list will include' partly what our soldiers get away with at the banquet:

"Potato salad—no ice.
"Roast beef—2,500 pounds.
"Roast pork—500.
"Milk—500 gallons.
"Turkeys.
"Ice—500 pounds.
"Pineapples—10,000.
"Watermelons—400.
"Mangoes—9,000.
"Oranges—4,000.
"Various meats.
"Bread and butter.
"Cheese and crackers.
"Soda water and ginger ale—12,500 bottles.
"Pies—2,000.
"Cake—20 barrels.

Food will be taken to the men on duty. Fate of H. Tabler will be opened, but there will be no seats. The troops will come to the grounds in column of fours, and if necessary will be carried away in stretchers."

COLORS FOR THE CHARLESTON.

On June 7 the dowager queen, Kapiolani, presented to the officers of the cruiser Charleston a beautiful silk flag, the presentation being made by Prince David, who read the following address:

"To the Captain and officers of the U. S. S. Charleston:

"The members of the family of the late King Kalakaua feel a grateful recognition of the kindness shown to him and his memory by the people and government of the United States of America in the present acknowledge the birth of the king on American soil, January 28, 1836.

"They particularly cherish the high honor and consideration shown in the setting apart of a national war vessel, commanded by officers of high rank, to convey his mortal remains back to his native land.

"Now that the Charleston is again in Hawaiian waters I avail myself of this opportunity to present to you and the Charleston the accompanying flag of your own country, in token of my gratitude for the past, and best wishes for the future.

"I have the honor to be,
"Faithfully yours,
"KAPIOLANI."

"By her nephews,
"D. KAWANANAKOA,
"J. KALANIANAOLE.
"Honolulu, June 6, 1898."

The "Hero in Blue Edition" of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu reached the "News" office this morning. The issue of June 3 is printed in our national colors—red, white and blue—and the paper contains a similar 8-page gala edition to the one as was published by the Gazette. Both are well-printed, eight-page sheets, and the special reports of the articles, including photographs, is good.

In the European Mission.

[Millennial Star, June 11, 1898.]

Releases and Appointments.—Elder William T. Nicol has been honorably released from presiding over the Cheltenham conference to return home July 2, 1898.

Elder Herbert L. James has been released from laboring as secretary of the European mission and appointed to preside over the Cheltenham conference. His duties in the former capacity have been discharged in an able manner, and his labors have been highly satisfactory. The change of position has been made to give him the privilege of performing outside missionary labors. Some years ago he filled a mission of over two years' duration in the office, and over one year of his present mission has been spent in a similar capacity.

Elder Edwin F. Parry, of the presidency of the European mission, has been honorably released to return home. He leaves Liverpool per S. S. Lucania, on Saturday, June 18, 1898, and he will arrive in Liverpool on April 17, 1896, and since then time has been engaged in the editorial department of the Millennial Star. The results of the Star have become well acquainted with him through his editorials and many of them have also found their way into the special acquaintance by meeting him during his travels throughout the British mission.

Elder Herbert L. James was suddenly away from his office last Thursday by telegraph, owing to the illness of his father, William Rhodes James, Esq., of Beacon Down, Pinhoe, near Exeter, Devonshire. Upon arriving at his home Brother James found his father in a hopeless condition from which he never rallied but passed away at the ripe age of 81, on Friday night, the last and five weeks previous, on June 10th.

The Anchor Line steamship City of Rome advertised to sail on Saturday, June 25, for Glasgow, but withdrawn and the Anchoria substituted in its stead, owing to the latter being somewhat crowded. President E. F. Parry, together with Elders T. H. Cartwright and C. E. Rose have decided to sail for New York in the Cunard line Lucania leaving on the same date.

Elder Ahlstrell Westlund has been appointed to succeed Elder Edwin F. Parry as assistant editor of the Star. He is expected to leave his home in Utah for Liverpool on July 4th next. Pending his arrival here Elder George E. Carpenter will assist in the editorial department of the Star.

It is said that important centers of trade like Hollos, Sonsbeck, Ohligs, Gorzuna, and Vigo, Spain, will prompt, if he but into a respectable state of submission and land defenses, which the American squadron sails.

A distinguished naval officer who examined Admiral Camara's ships recently, laughs at the idea of Admiral Camara attempting to reach Manila. The Spaniards, he says, are too to keep the first out of the Americans way.

BROKERS GETTING TIRED

Their Antics in the Pit Not What They Used To Be.

SUMMER ADJOURNMENT IN SIGHT.

Conditions at Austin and Rose—Tomorrow is Dividend Day—The Golden Gate Hill.

It seems quite evident that before many days if present hot weather continues, the Mining Stock and Mining Exchanges will have a prepolution before it for a summer adjournment. The brokers appear to be getting a little tired and it is not display that vim and energy when entered into their daily racket several weeks ago. In fact a good many of them are suffering from the spring fever and they not over it in many cases, will wake up some day in the pit, only to find themselves fast asleep with golden opportunities slipping through their fingers. The transition from Dressed a season of speculating wanes.

Today the attendance in the pit was light, and the interest manifest rather. Thus, the business done amounted to little, the principal feature being the trading centered in one particular stock and that Northern Light, which put up a sensational jump, from a little business in Mercur, at $1.60 a share, the deals from same were at that, reported for the highest-priced securities, of those that remained to good deal Balance-Rock may be mentioned, it fell off to $1.40 and Grand Central and Mammoth were also in little case, the former having a big fall of $1.40 and the latter being wanted at $1.45.

Mammoth was the first seller for the national stocks, but chalking hands at 10½ soon with 14 readily sold for more. Chloride Point was firm but offered at 14 cents, while Dexter had a bid of $1.20 and Wasatch was sought after at $2.37½. South Swansea, Little Pittsburg and Dalton made sales at home and Sequoia and Columbia stood bid for at 2 cents with no offerings under it.

SILVER'S MINING CAMPS.

Park and Austin Production of Good Quality.

Hon. F. T. Farnsworth, who stopped in from Nevada yesterday, reports a gratifying condition of affairs at the camps in which he is interested, the principal existing that Park City mine is running thirty stamps very successfully on a grade of gold ore that yields very satisfactory results. At Austin conditions are similar, says he, the mill being again in running order and the mine yielding ore of a superior quality of ore daily to keep the machinery in constant motion.

Mr. Farnsworth will leave tomorrow morning for the south visiting the mines in Pilot Peak and the Washington about a week and a half further distant. That the latter is exceeding all expectations in its showing of rich ore bodies, he the most of a convert, he evening, by Mr. Farnsworth now at the property. The Southerner writes that the mine retains its former good showing, each day's development only positive to make it more valuable as a producer of high-grade silver and lead ore. The Washington now carries some $50 to the ton and shows a fine percentage of copper as also does the Blue Blood.

Tomorrow, Friday, Prince Mr. Farnsworth will remain here to be in attendance on the Mining Congress, as a representative of the Silver Nevada despite the gratuitous long railroad and business connections in Utah. The Nevadans are alive with a hearty interest, one, and one probably, to great results in furthering the interests of the mining industry.

Tomorrow is Dividend Day.

Tomorrow, June 30th, will witness the payment of dividends by the Mammoth, Silver, South Swansea and Gen-

Capitals Do Go But's Prospective Travels

Although not as stated by the gentleman concerned, it is quite probable that Capitals Go But will put out the northwest before having done the purpose being to look into certain properties located some time ago by his representative, in the Kootenai, to the big Republic south. Which he forcibly said, "Mr. Capitals Go But" was the man worth of so. Judge Hunt will be remembered, recovered that well known gentleman, and obtained a number of claims for Go But and when, it is thought, will induce the captain to do business with the Kootenai, meeting will for Lovers parts. Meanwhile the captain and his company are busy with the Kootenai and Nevada properties for the enlargement of the Golden Gate mill.

THE GOLDEN GATE MILL.

Largest Cyanide Plant in the Word Now in Operation at Mercur.

Accompanying a few pictures of the Golden Gate mill at Mercur, the Deseret Evening News will publish a very detailed account of its mechanism and workings from which the "News" quote the following:

The largest cyanide mill in the world, the Golden Gate, at the Mercur mines in Utah, is now in full operation, which is transmitted from the plant, a distance of 6 miles, to Mercur, as a power, and to Salt Lake. The entire mill is of West, gleason manufacture, and embodies the high development of that firm as made in the construction of machinery for use in cyanide plants, expressing Thompson The Tintaller power Transmission company supplies the power, which is transmitted from the plant to the Golden Gate mill. The power used in the extracts in the mines, it takes months and cost $75,000 to build the plant, on the Salt Lake and Mercur railroad. The town of Mercur is the business center of the Tintic and mining district, and the Golden Gate mill represents the most extensive application of cyanide process in the state of that region. The capacity of the plant is now 50 tons of ore per day.

The mill is a steel structure, situated on the side of a steep hill, which was leveled so as to obtain level spaces of sufficient size to provide a foundation for the foundations. Previous has been made for accentuating the labor of excavating, by allowing the ore to start at the top of the hill and proceed by gravity from each level to the next below in the course of the different processes of treatment. The buildings covers 4 acres being 204 feet, in width along the side of the hill and 400 feet in length and down the side. The difference in vertical height between the upper and lower ends of the mill is over 200 feet. The buildings are shown in the illustration, Fig. 1, which gives a view of the entire mill, and the ore, as shown in this figure, are situated below the part of the mill that appears in the illustration. There are eight towers in the mill proper. The ten stamps produced in blasting 400 tons daily are used in the Golden Gate mill, crushing and reducing walls. These walls are 2 feet wide at the top and have a batter of 1 in 12. The mill proper covers 80 cubic yards of rubble masonry, laid in lime mortar. The structural steel work of the building contains over 2 tons of metal.

In the transmission of power to Mercur, the loss of electric energy is so trivial, being scarcely 1 per cent, that for practical purposes the power is not reduced to a minimum. Current is delivered to the mine at 60 per H. P. per year, or at the rate of 1 H. P. for 365 H. P. expended. The transformer house, which contains the apparatus for converting the current from 10,000 volts, transmission, to 220 volts, transformer is located between the shaft-house and the mill.

The cost of the mill and equipment was about $100,000. At the time the Golden Gate mill was erected, some doubt was felt as to whether electrical machinery would be found adequate for the heavy work of the mill, but it has turned out, however, that the electrical equipment is the most trustworthy and reliable part of the system. It is a crusher because charged, it is simply pulling the ore out of the mill in a way before the motor burned out.

Heber's Gallantry Illustrated.

The management of Lagoon, concerned to the success of the production "Showing up the Maine," is now arranging a more imposing and picturesque affair. One of the most heroic acts of the present war was Lieutenant Hobson's gallantry in ramming the Merrimac across the Santiago harbor and sinking it in the narrow channel at the entrance to the harbor to bottle up the fleet of Cervera. This act will be represented with a wealth of detail and dramatic spectacular effects. The Merrimac, with Hobson and his crew, will leave the navy yard, Brooklyn, and the owner of Lagoon, Hobson is a consul, sent to the harbor, and the Merrimac, the latter being sunk, the Spanish fleet will be represented by a number of small craft, which will attend a procession, in this kind, it being free to all, the Lagoon management have arranged to take their new lake, an unequaled and poetry of cars.
