THREE BRIDGES ON THE GREEN RIVER

Senate Gets Busy With Southeastern Utah's Needs in This Direction.

PASS BULLEN BANK BILL.

Slander of Institutions is to be Punishable Offense if Passed By House.

Bridge building promises to be the leading industry of the Eighth legislature. It was quickly decided in the senate yesterday afternoon that Green river was entitled to bridges; and that if Brinkerhoff really wanted to show his constituents what he could do for them when fully aroused, he could also be accommodated with a bridge over the river in San Juan county, as well as two in Emery.

Just before the session started yesterday afternoon one of his fellow senators asked Brinkerhoff whether a bridge was really necessary in San Juan, and if he could show that any traffic other than a semi-annual crossing of a Jackrabbit family and occasional strolling party of sagehens would be likely to cross over the bridge. This stirred Brinkerhoff to the depths, and when it came to voting on the $45,000 asked for Green river bridges, he stood by his guns with tear-stained declarations that shifting bottom sands made crossing at the peril of lives, that said lives are worth more than $45,000 and that a growing and prosperous community absolutely demands of the state that this great river—the greatest river in the state—be thrice bridged, forthwith.

Senator Williams wanted the bill held to see if the budget could possibly take on such a large appropriation. Brinkerhoff objected, and Wilson called for the final vote, on the ground that he wanted the bill to be given a decent death, if it must be killed.

NO OPPOSITION SHOWN.

The roll call showed no opposition to the measure, and it will now go to the house for action. A strong Green river lobby and the fact that the bill has many defenders in the house, make it probable that it will pass this body. For a bridge at Green River city, $35,000 is provided; for a bridge at Jensen, $25,000, and for a bridge at San Juan narrows, $3,000.

Senate bill 87, which was passed without opposition, provides for the enrollment and organization of the state militia. It brings this organization into conformity with the practice of the regular army, so that in case of emergency, the national guard organizations could take the field without reorganization. County assessors, under the bill, must make a biennial list of all persons subject to military duty, and file it with the county clerk, sending a duplicate list to the adjutant general. This list will comprise the unorganized militia, as differentiated from the national guard.

SLANDER OF BANKS.

Senate bill 70, by Bullen, protecting banks from malicious slander by individuals, caused considerable discussion before it was passed. It was explained by Senator John Y. Smith that the bill sought to bring Utah's laws into harmony with the laws of many other states on this subject, and that the bill was recommended by the American Bankers' association. In the past stock gamblers have started "canards" about banks for the purpose of starting a panic or a run on the bank. After hearing this explanation the bill was passed with only two votes against it.

The final action before adjourning was to pass Baker's H. B. 2, giving smelters the right of eminent domain. Little discussion preceded the final passing of the bill, the vote being 13 ayes and 2 nays, with four absent and not voting.

CALENDAR WELL FILLED.

The calendar of the senate is now well filled with measures, while committee tables are clogged with them. The result is that a heavy grind is certain to be necessary to the end, with a long hang-over session on the final day. This hang-over session will be kept going by stopping the clock and forgetting to count the hours. Last session it lasted for eight days, and the final rush was much lighter than that certain for this session. The calendar now ahead of the senate is as follows:

Special Order—

March 1—Senate bill No. 135, by Williams, providing that all fish, poultry and game must be drawn and cleansed before marketing.

March 2—Senate bill No. 97, by Hulaniski, providing for the adoption of the Torrens system of land title registration.

March 4—Senate bill No. 36, by Wilson, providing safety appliances on hoists in mine shafts.

Unfinished Bills on Third Reading—

House bill No. 27, by Thompson, providing for an engineering experiment station in connection with the school of mines of the state university.

House bill No. 45, by Russell, prohibiting the carrying of dangerous and concealed weapons.

Senate bill No. 92, by Stookey, providing for archaeological and historical exploration and investigation under the auspices of the University of Utah.

Senate bill No. 109, by Hulaniski, providing penalties for the theft of brasses or journal bearings from locomotives.

Senate bill No. 115, by Miller, levying a state tax of one-half mill for high school purposes.

Senate bill No. 75, by B. X. Smith, providing for appeals from justice courts.

Senate bill No. 95, by Kuchler, providing for the payment of traveling expenses of district judges.

House bill No. 142, by Ashton, permitting cities and counties to contribute to the entertainment of the visitors to the G. A. R. encampment.

House bill No. 85, by committee on mining and smelting, providing eminent domain for smelters.

House bill No. 123, by Baker, increasing the salary of the reporter of decisions of the supreme court.

Third Reading—

Senate bill No. 66, by Badger, providing that all hearings in divorce cases shall be before a court, and not a master, and that the hearings shall be public.

Senate bill No. 15, by B. X. Smith, regulating assignment of unearned wages.

DISCUSSION IN HOUSE.

Barnette's Bill on Corporation Tax Arouses Opposition.

The chief piece de resistance in the line of discussion in the house yesterday was H. B. 101, by Barnette. The measure provides for the reduction of the amounts paid by certain corporations as license tax, and exempts mining companies which own prospects, not yet in the dividend paying stage, from the tax. According to the new bill, the taxes the companies shall pay are placed at $5 for those with a capital of less than $10,000 and run up to $40 for companies with a capital of over $150,000 and $50 for all over $300,000. This schedule does not include those mining companies which pay a tax on their net proceeds or output.

The stand taken by the opponents of the bill was that when the measure passed the legislature two years ago, the state "needed the money," and as practically the same condition of the treasury exists today, the bill should remain as it is now on the statutes.

HURTS LITTLE COMPANIES.

Those favoring the passage of the bill as amended contended that the present law imposes an injustice on small mining companies which have incorporated and are attempting to make mines out of prospects. The measure tended toward discouraging the opening of new prospects and would injure the mining industry to that extent.

The measure finally passed, but Rock M. Pope of Wasatch gave notice that he would move for reconsideration today.

House bill 176, by Hansen, prohibiting the unauthorized use of the name or picture of any public official or institution for advertising purposes, without the consent of the individual or institution, passed the house yesterday by a unanimous vote. Representative McCracken of Weber opposed the provision of the bill giving any official authority to permit his name to be used for advertising purposes, and offered an amendment taking the matter out of their hands altogether. The amendment failed.

Representative Cannon said he thought the matter would better be left with the man holding the office. He said as a citizen he had a right to photograph anything he liked and to use the picture for any purpose he pleased.

The railroads were given credit for advertising the cities of the state and the state itself by publishing pamphlets containing pictures of public buildings, and the right to do so ought not to be curtailed. The bill was passed without change.

Representative Archibald of Summit yesterday asked for permission to reinstate H. B. 141, for the further consideration of the house. The bill was originally introduced by the Summit member, but was withdrawn on Feb. 10 in favor of another measure. The author desired to have the house consider the bill and permission was given to reinstate the measure in its order. The bill provided for six working days a week for a number of occupations where under present conditions employes are in many cases expected to labor for seven days. The bill will be again introduced and referred to the committee on labor.

Only one bill was introduced yesterday. That was H. B. 218, by Murdock, in which the employment of minors in mines in connection with elevators or hoists is prohibited. Violations of the act are made a misdemeanor.

BILL FROM THIRD HOUSE.

Junket Without the "Hired Hands" is Subject of Reactionary Measure.

Wednesday next, in spite of the heavy legislative calendar still to be ground through, the assembly will go aboard a Western Pacific train to view the salt beds at Wendover. Senator Carl A. Badger declared yesterday afternoon that the trip was not necessary, that the time of the senate belonged to its bills, and that he opposed taking the trip. He had with him on a vote to reconsider Senators Burton, Horsley, Hyde, Miller and Benner X. Smith. Those who wanted the trip for the day were Senators Brinkerhoff, Bullen, Kuchler, Marks, Seely, Seyy, John Y. Smith, Stookey, Williams, Wilson and President Gardner.

The fact that the committee clerks of the senate were not invited brought forth a special red letter bill from the "third house." It is as follows:

"S. B. No. 01. By special request.

"An act prohibiting senators and their wives from taking any junketing trips, street car passes or theater tickets and prescribing penalties for the violations of this act.

"Be it enacted by the senators of the State of Utah, any member thereof concurring.

"Section 1. It shall be unlawful and ungentlemanly for any senator to go on any junketing trip, to any salt beds or up Salt creek, or to accept any street car passes or theater tickets without first having obtained the written consent of the employes of the senate.

"Section 2. Any senator convicted of being guilty of any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of misconduct and upon conviction thereof shall be punished in any manner that may be deemed proper by said employes.

"Section 3. This act shall take effect without approval."

The joke caused no small amount of amusement among the members during the afternoon.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHTS.

The newspaper men of the house were last evening the guests of Brigham Clegg, representative from Salt Lake county and chairman of the judiciary committee of the house. Mr. Clegg took "the bunch" over to the Colonial, where they witnessed the production of the "Gingerbread Man," after which he was host at dinner at the Louvre. The consensus of opinion was that "Brig" is fully as good, if not better host than he is orator, which is saying a great deal.

Commencing next Tuesday, morning sessions will be held by the house of representatives, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The afternoon sessions will be held at 2 o'clock as usual, but no session will be held at all next Wednesday, when the legislature will go to western Utah to inspect the salt beds as the guests of the Western Pacific.

An invitation was read in the house yesterday, inviting the members to attend a military ball to be given Monday night at Logan, under the auspices of the State Agricultural college. A similar invitation was read in the senate.

William B. Colburn of Goldfield, Nev., and Ethel Leona Beddington of Eureka.

Breath Odors Removed by Charcoal

Onions, Tobacco, Decaying Food, Alcohol, Stomach Gases and Impurities Foul the Breath, Charcoal Purifies It.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges Sent Free by Mail.

The stomach and digestive canal of man fills with gases from fermenting and decaying food. Such gases impregnate the breath, filter through the system, spread disease and, in large quantities extend the stomach so that it shuts off heart action and death sometimes results.

Pure, simple willow charcoal absorbs gas at once and stops impure food fermentation. It sweetens the stomach, kills the effect of all odors such as liquor, tobacco, onions, etc., or at least prevents them from causing impurities to arise.

The willow is renowned for its curative properties and ancient legendary lore is filled with its use, by barbarians and civilized men. As early as 300 B. C. the ancient Chaldeans were so curing disease by charcoal and every monastery of the old world healed the sick and cured the drunkard by using powdered willow charcoal.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are pure willow charcoal, compressed with honey into a delicious lozenge. They contain nothing but sweet willow charcoal and honey. One may eat a box of them and feel only benefit from so doing. Two or three after a meal will be a sufficient guard against bad breath and the same amount taken just before bed time will insure a pure breath upon arising the next morning.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges tone up the blood, the liver and the stomach. They are great laxatives also, but eating large numbers of them does not increase their effect in a painful manner upon the bowels.

They are gentle, powerful and pure and their popularity and tremendous sale give them the stamp of public approval. Go to your druggist today and buy a box, price 25 cents, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A.
