SECOND EDITION.

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Monday, August 1, 1892.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

THE Lombard Investment Co., of Boston, has appointed Mr. Lewis, its manager for Utah and Southern Idaho, vice W. H. Dale, resigned.

THE fire department was called out shortly after 7 o'clock this afternoon to extinguish a small blaze in a pile of rubbish back of the Herald building. No loss.

WE received, this morning, a notice for publication of a meeting of the Salt Lake Christian Endeavor Societies, to be held last evening. In arrival too late to be of use.

SECRETARY BLACK of the Chamber of Commerce has received notice that the case of the U. P. railroad et al. vs. the members of the Land Board has been set for hearing September 5, 1892.

MARRIAGE licenses were granted today to Alfred J. Carlson, aged 21, and Selma A. Wahlquist, aged 19, both of Salt Lake; to Chris Christensen, aged 21, and Maria E. Dayton, aged 18, both of Salt Lake.

THE Utah Fuel and Mining Company has received the Bureau of Ethnology report of Utah. It is up to the usual mark and of excellence of this high class magazine, and nothing more that need be said.

THE Tribune this morning admitted that so far as known there were no violations of the Sunday liquor law yesterday. This is incorrect as the fact was reported to almost as openly as before. Drinkshops were open in all parts of the city and drunkenness was the quantity seen on the streets. Of this there is abundance of proof.

THOSE who suppose that the police muscle is nearly sealed are somewhat mistaken. Steps are now being taken looking toward the removal of Chief of Police Paul for his action in endeavoring to suppress the Sunday liquor traffic, while charges of a serious character are being quietly circulated against Captain Dominick. It is expected that the matter will be investigated by the police commission. A "Liberal" gentleman who appeared to give evidence in the charges is authority for the statement: "If ever the matter comes to a vote in the City Council—as I believe it will—the chief of police will be removed and Dominick, by having been implicated in the Farmers & Mechanics bank swindle.

KILLED AT IDAHO.

Sad and Untimely Ending of Young Royal Read, of Ogden.

Word reached Ogden Saturday that Royal Read, a 12-year-old son of William S. Read, member of the firm of J. G. Read & Brother of Ogden, had been killed at Bloomington, Idaho, by a horse.

Mr. Read and his family left Ogden about three weeks ago on a pleasure tour and visited many of the well known resorts of Northern Utah and Southern Idaho. They have several relatives and friends in Bloomington near Montpelier and several days ago arrived in that place. Thursday morning Royal, while building a hose, which was grazing near the home of Mr. Allen, tied the halter to his leg and stretched himself out at full length upon the grass. The horse suddenly became frightened and started to run at full speed across the country, dragging the lad over a picket fence and many other obstructions. The animal ran several blocks before being captured.

When the boy was picked up it was found that he had received fatal injuries, among them being a broken arm and leg and a fractured skull. After living about twelve hours Royal died yesterday morning at two o'clock.

The sorrow-stricken family left by rail at midnight, while the letter started for home yesterday, bringing the sad news with him.

WHO'LL HAVE IT?

Norvell and Kreeger Play a Game of Shuttlecock and Batledore.

When the criminal docket was called by Marshal Parsons against C. C. Goodwin and William Nelson, editors of the Salt Lake Tribune, was again called up before Justice Kreeger at 2:15 this afternoon, all the parties were present. Attorney Abner Brown was in the front on this occasion, as the side of the prosecution, to assist Mr. Critchlow; Judge Powers appeared for the defendants.

Justice Kreeger, on taking his seat, said that this case came to him on a change of venue from United States Commissioner Norvell's court. The defendants objected to his (Kreeger's) jurisdiction on two grounds, first, that an action could not be transferred from a United States commissioner to a justice of the peace, and, second, that Commissioner Norvell had no right to transfer the case upon his own motion over the objection of the defendants and without an affidavit filed. In his opinion there was no real force to the first objection. The Edmunds-Tucker act provided that the Commissioner appointed by the Supreme Court should possess and might exercise all the powers of a justice of the peace, by day or night, by possession or exercised by justices of the peace in this Territory. In territorial cases this put the commissioner on a par with justices, and he thought whenever the words "justice of the peace" were used it includes also and referred equally to U. S. Commissioners. Next it was contended that the court had no jurisdiction for the reason that the order changing the venue was improperly made. The statute specifically provided under what circumstances a change of place of trial in a criminal case might be granted by a justice of the peace. There were, where it appeared from the affidavit of the defendant that the justice was prejudiced, or that the defendant could not have a fair and impartial trial by reason of the prejudice of the citizens of the precinct. If had been repeatedly held that justices' courts, being limited in their jurisdiction, had only such powers as were specifically granted them. There was a general law in the civil code which allowed changes of venue by the court on its own motion, under certain circumstances. This, however, in his opinion, was not applicable to criminal prosecutions. After quoting authorities Justice Kreeger wound up by saying he was of the opinion that the record of the case transferred to him, on its face, showed that there was no authority for the change, and he therefore certified the case back to Judge Norvell.

It was then arranged that the parties in the suit should attend in Commissioner Norvell's court at three o'clock, but the commissioner has declared that he will have nothing whatever to do with it. The matter was about to come up before his Honor as the News went to press.

Obsequies of Sister Sheets.

The funeral services over the remains of Sister Elizabeth Lenver Sheets, wife of Bishop E. F. Sheets, was held in the Eighth ward assembly hall yesterday, beginning at noon. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends of the deceased, the building affording scarcely space enough to accommodate them. The casket and bier were profusely covered with beautiful floral tributes.

The opening prayer was offered by Bishop Samuel W. Woolley. The speakers were Counselor John D. Macallister, Elder John Nicholson, Bishop William B. Preston and President Joseph E. Taylor. Counselor Joseph McMurrin also made a few concluding remarks and offered the closing prayer. Appropriate musical exercises were rendered by the ward choir, under the leadership of Brother Chandlerlin.

The deceased possessed many estimable qualities, and was highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of being acquainted with her.

Not a "Liberal."

Editor Deseret News:

In your semi-weekly issue of July 29th my name appears as deputy registrar for the West Mountain precinct of Davis county, with an L attached. Never having joined the "Liberal" ranks, I object to being classed with them. In politics I am a Republican. If you will kindly make the correction, you will oblige,

ASHURE GRANT.

WOODS CROSS, Utah, July 31, 1892.

Two saloon men are now agitating the question of holding what they term an "anti-prohibition" meeting, some time this week, in opposition to the so-called citizens' gathering announced for tonight. One of the promoters of the meeting expressed to the Salt Lake News representative today: "This is a western town and will see that it's run in western style."

HOW TO KEEP COOL.

It Is Merely a Matter of Dress, Disposition and Diet.

Cultivate placidity of mind and manner. This having been attained you have something more valuable than loose and light clothing. Fussy people are not safe always for themselves, but make others hot. Don't drink too much cold water, and drink not of liquor at all. Eat sparingly and only such food as can be digested without labor. Keep the sun out of your rooms during the day and throw them as wide open as possible at night. Don't work harder than necessary, and if possible begin work very early in the day, so as to take a rest after the sun has got high in the heavens. It is to be taken for granted that every one will wear the least amount of clothing compatible with decency and conventional form. But beyond everything be sure of good temper of cheerful mind and quiet deportment.

Strikers to Be Prosecuted.—Other News.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 1.—It is stated that a warrant will be issued shortly in the trial attack on the Pinkertons after the surrender July 6th, will be prosecuted for aggravated assault and battery, unlawful secret, riotous, boisterous and other crimes and misdemeanors. It is stated that several women were parties only active during the time the men were on the fort, and after it, were taking their property and hiding it. They also are to be prosecuted.

The Amalgamated association condemned this occurrence and is said to be aiding in gathering evidence against the offenders. The Pinkerton agency will take part in the prosecution by furnishing evidence of the men who were wounded and robbed.

Ten hundred deputies on guard at the mills now will be increased to 500 shortly. Superintendent Potter says there are enough men in the mill to man all their workmen if necessary. The super. Union mills started up with non-union men this morning. No trouble occurred.

A BREAK IN THE RANKS OF THE STRIKERS.

General Superintendent Potter claims there was a break in the ranks of the strikers in the mechanical department last night, and that twenty-five or the best skilled workmen returned to work this morning. The committee of strikers of the gas works have been in so secret that but eight of 1,000 men in the mechanical department have broken away. It is said that there are now several strikers in the mill, influencing the non-unionists to quit. This plan was adopted with great success in 1882, when the whole force of strikers went back to work and soon organized all non-unionists, taking them out in another fight.

It is said that the Pinkertons will also prefer charges against the men engaged in the riot on July 6th. It is claimed that they have the names of three hundred participants and will charge them with aggravated

They Beat the Record.

The Rio Grande Western train, which left Salt Lake Sunday morning at 9:00 a.m. arrived at Denver at 7:35 m. Monday morning, thus making the run between Salt Lake and Denver in 22 hours and 30 minutes, surpassing all previous records of any regular train between these cities.

The Rio Grande Western people claim they can make this time with ease, comfort and safety, and were it any advantage to put passengers into Denver at an earlier hour, they could arrange their schedule to do so. Their efforts for improving the service between Utah and the Colorado metropolis should be encouraged by all classes of travelers.
