A PRACTICAL idea set the morning police department going at a lively rate one night by starting a report to the effect that a road man and team found in a down town saloon. After a lengthy search the officers found they had been misinformed.

THE case of The Wasatch vs the U. P. railroad resulted one jury in Judge Zane's court late yesterday afternoon. The amount claimed was $6.22 and interest and by direction of the court the jurors found in favor of the plaintiff for $6.22. The facts were reported in yesterday's News.

THE Salt Lake Dental Society held a regular monthly meeting in the City Council chamber last night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Dr. A. S. Bowers, president; Dr. E. F. Ries, vice-president; Dr. J. S. Richards, secretary; Dr. Uriah Worthington, treasurer and librarian.

A Deficit on the Roll.

EX-GOVERNOR Thomas yesterday afternoon received a telegram from New York, counted in the following terms: "The Columbian Liberty Bell is still $200 in debt, far from each state and territory. Will you secure this from your alliance, so that the bell may commemorate Christian day free of cost. Western Union company moves answer free.

"WM. O. MCDOWELL, Chairman."

The telegram was handed over to Governor West who replies that he had laid the matter before the people and would forward any contributions that might be received. The Governor will accordingly accept any sums that may be intrusted to him for that end.

Development of the Work in That Land.

MISSIONARY LABORS IN OKLAHOMA

Condition of the Country.—Prospects of the Moors.—Crops, Conferences and Meetings.

Special Correspondence of the News.

CHANDLER, Oklahoma, Dec. 7, 1893.—It is now a little over two weeks since I left my mountain home. A pleasant ride of forty-eight hours over the Rio Grande Western, Midland and Santa Fe railroads landed me on Saturday night, in the small R. R. town of Orlando, Oklahoma. The following day, Sunday, I was met by Elders Lowe and Stephens and Brother McMillin and received in the house of the latter. Since that time we have visited the other Elders and families of saints and held a great many meetings, have carefully inquired into the country and investigated the missionary prospects.

A great change has come over the Indian Territory since my first mission, 1884-87. At that time the country now inhabited by white people, the prospective state of Oklahoma, was the Indian Territory, owned and occupied principally by the civilized tribes (Cherokees, Choctaws, Chickasaws, Creeks and Seminoles) and about fifteen remnants of blanket Indian tribes, about as follows: Iowa, Sac and Fox, Pottawattomie, Shawnee, Cheyenne and Arapaho, and including the cattle, belonging to the Seminoles and Creeks, and the Cherokee strip, just opened this fall, not including the civilized tribes, making a large area of land settled by the white people now Oklahoma. The civilized tribes, the Osage nation, semi-civilized, and other blanket Indians, the Kansas, Poncas, Otoes and Missourias, Kickapoos, Kiowas, Comanches and Apaches, still occupy their reserves, but in all probability these will be allotted and soon opened for settlement and added to Oklahoma. At the same time a move has been and is on foot to admit the civilized tribes, making the whole one great state.

From the moment the responsibility of their mission was realized, the management has looked forward to the day when all the various tribes and peoples of this land might have the fullest liberty. With this point in view, all the Elders who have labored here under very trying circumstances indeed, have pushed out into new country as the frontier, little by little making new fields and raising places, until now the greater part of the country has been covered. From our experience among the various tribes, where this mission commenced, we found a low class of white people generally, who we believe were degrading the Indians. The white we found in almost every instance inferior to their darkened brethren. We were afraid that the opening of the Indian country in the west would have similar results on the former inhabitants, and so lately our brethren that our prospects of converting the Indians and raising them in better way would be hopelessly lost. Realizing as we did that the opening of Oklahoma was a rough affair, we set the western country severely alone and devoted our attention to the development of the country occupied by the civilized tribes.

Since visiting the mission in 1887, a plan had been settled upon, a round trip missionary expedition was to be made, in which we hoped to determine the future prospects of the mission. Accordingly, in the winter following Elders Hawkins and Lewis started west, traveling through western Cherokee. They visited the Osage agency and the small tribes intervening between there and Oklahoma. They found many good cities and towns in Oklahoma and a country on about every quarter section. By this time the grass usually of spring had come. It being a new thing to hear Mormonism, the Elders were successful in holding a great many meetings. Considerable interest was manifest, some were ready and waiting for the Gospel, and several were baptized. The people of this country are far above for class that have located among the various Indian tribes, as may be determined by the progress made in building up and developing the resources of the country.

The Elders subsequently passed through the "Pan" country and the Seminole nation, joining the other Elders then laboring in the Cherokee nation. Elder Hawkins, as president Elder, returned to Mohard, our headquarters. His companion and Elder John A. Lowe he appointed to the field, have been pleasantly established here. Elder Lowe was released in the fall, leaving Brother Lowe in charge. Three new Elders joined him in October, and others will be added increasing the force.

It is now ten months since the first Gospel sermon was preached in Oklahoma. We have fifteen Saints and two children blessed, a great many friends and a constantly increasing field of labor. The scattered remnants of the small remnants of tribes, speaking each in their own tongue, and covering such a vast area of country, rendered it almost impossible for our Elders to have accomplished anything among them. Now, their country being inhabited by white people, situated as they are as close together as their claims will allow, with towns and cities. Determined, it will be but a matter of a short time when the Indians will commence to become civilized and be obliged to conform to the laws of their white brethren. While in some instances it will not be as well for the Indians, for as they become civilized they partake of the vices rather than the virtues of their predecessors and while there will be increased gentile opposition we are to meet, their condition is no worse than we expected to the one which confronted us some years ago—a cause of imagination is made and being increased, as our Elders would constantly try, to a great many exposures and dangers, for these Indian tribes have not been dealt with quite so tenderly as those who have been associated with the friends of the Lamanites; on the contrary every one passing through their country is credited with something and has probably in a measure been so treated.

ANDREW KENDALL.

OKLAHOMA CONFERENCE OF THE INDIAN TERRITORY MISSION.

CHANDLER, Oklahoma, Dec. 5, 1893.—At the conclusion of the journey which we have had with our president, Andrew Kendall, I take the opportunity of sending a few lines and address with the wind to the old earth, as it goes. During the last five weeks we have had a chain of appointments holding the Kickapoo, Sac and Fox, Shawnee and Pottawatomie nations.

Our first meeting was held at Bradford McMillin's, five miles west of Orlando. At eleven o'clock, on Saturday, we held our conference, but owing to the inclemency of the weather, there were not many in attendance. The Elders and Saints, however, very appropriately the instructions received. Several testimonies and notes of meetings were held, which were listened to with great pleasure by the Saints.

Thirty-five miles north of Shawnee we took other meetings and welcomed us to their humble but hospitable home.

After two days spent in consulting and public meetings, we journeyed on one hundred miles, arriving in Chandler, where we have a good home with Brother and Sister Gosling, who joined the Church in the Cherokee nation in the spring of 1892. At their hospitable home and the neighboring residences we held a series of meetings. The Saints and Elders here strong testimonies to the truth of the work in which we are engaged. Brother Kendall's visit will no doubt result in much good.

I can say that the branch of the mission is in a very prosperous condition. There are four Elders in the field, Elders Ashton and Walker, from Salt Lake City, who are boarding in the vicinity of Marshall, that being their headquarter, and Elder John A. Stephens and myself from Idaho, we are laboring in the southeastern part, Chandler being our headquarter. The health of the Elders here is good. The weather is dry and windy and very cold.

Elder Kendall took his departure from here this morning, taking train at Oklahoma City for his Kickapoo station, where he will meet other Elders and Saints.

JOHN A. LOWE.

A HAND-CART VETERAN GONE.

John P. Dorsey, Plain City, April 6th, Goes to His Long Sleep.

PLAIN CITY, Dec. 8, 1893.—Death has again entered this settlement and laid low our much esteemed citizen and father, John P. Dorsey, who departed this life, after a brief illness, on the 6th instant.

Deceased was born at Gulford, county Down, Ireland, on the 17th of March, 1828, where he lived till the year 1849, when he removed to the vicinity of Glasgow, Scotland, where for many years he labored as an industrious miner. There he became a member of the masonic fraternity. In December, 1855, he married Mary Jane Park, sister of Hamilton and Samuel Park, who bore him eight children, four of whom died in childhood. Three sons, the eldest of whom is now an honorable preaching the Gospel in Scotland, and one daughter, who is now the estimable wife of Bishop G. W. Brownell, remain to mourn his demise.

On the 16th of January, 1862 he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. In 1866 he emigrated to Utah, crossing the plains in the first hand-cart company, and lived in Salt Lake City till the moved south in 1868, when he removed to Lehi and remained there till the spring of 1869. Thence he with others moved into Weber county, and formed the settlement now known as Plain City, where he resided till the time of his death.

He had at different times been ordained to and held the offices of Deacon, Elder, Seventy and High Priest and latterly filled offices of trust in the community; was a kind husband, an intelligent father, a good citizen, a good neighbor and a good friend. True to his religion and his God, he has passed to receive the reward of the just.

The funeral was very largely attended, the audience being addressed by L. W. Shurtliff, C. Westerveldt, A. Knight, J. Dawson, J. Spence, H. Park and J. Moulton. All spoke of the excellent character of the deceased, and offered words of comfort and consolation to the bereaved.

Against the Pullman.

IN Judge Zane's court this morning was resumed the hearing of the damages suit of Henry L. Henderson vs the Pullman Palace Car company.

The plaintiff here is a brother of Judge Henderson; he alleges that on April 28, 1891, he started to board one of defendant's cars in this city, and before being permitted to enter was compelled by a porter to exhibit his ticket and passbook in the presence of a large number of people. Other persons were allowed to enter the car before and after him. The result was that Henderson lost his position and missed taking 200 in money, together with his railroad tickets, sleeping car tickets and other articles of value, and had to lay over in Salt Lake four days, when the pocketbook was returned to him minus the $60. He sues for judgment against the company in the sum of $2,000.

Brown and Henderson appear for the plaintiff and Judge Lindquist for the defendants.

The trial will occupy all day.

A Letter to the Ladies.

FOR three years I have suffered pain and misery with stinging needles in my sex. I have been treated by some of the best physicians of the city without material results. I took our treatment of Dr. Ben Jack's prescription, and to my surprise and pleasure was able to be up working and have been free from pain and other inconveniences. Being so pleased with the results I have consented to give this testimonial, and also recommend it to my lady friends and all others who so much need it.

Very truly yours,

FRANK L. ALLRED.
