

JACK WREN, THE BUCKER OF SQUIRES

In Early Days He Began as a Hair Dresser and Tobaccoist.

HOW HE FOOLED THE POLICE.

Run a Gambling Joint in Connection With Horse Racing for a Number of Years.

Jack Wren, whose Australian champion Bill Squires, is on his way to the coast in quest of the pugilistic championship of the world, began life on Johnson street, Collingwood, as a hair dresser and tobaccoist. Collingwood is a suburb of Melbourne, a few minutes' journey from the city by cable car. At that time, perhaps 15 years ago, the totalizer system of book-making was rampant, and a by word among good sports, who were more or less beaten out by the horse then by the tote proprietor.

Wren commenced in a small way, second and third among his friends, and then word began to go round that an "honest totie" was running out at Collingwood. His business grew apace. His gain was always 10 per cent of the gross receipts. The police, of taking his receipts, between first, second and third horses in ratio proportions.

When rose above his competitors in that when holding his clients' money the temptation to get away with the whole amount (sometimes $5,000) instead of taking his 10 per cent never assailed him. It was a matter of very few months when the "tobaccoist and hair dresser" business was in same only and later it ended its feathery existence entirely for its purpose from the legitimate totie business, to the police and plain-clothes detectives.

PURCHASES LARGE PROPERTIES.

Wren's next move toward the permanent organization of the illegal totalizer was one which attracted notice. He first bought the shop and the premises located and then set agents afoot to purchase the whole of those properties surrounding it. The deal was eventually successful and Jack Wren became the owner of an entire block of stores and tobacco houses.

Preparations were then forwarded toward the construction of a police-proof building, and through the police, who were out quietly and without display. The main entrance was on Johnson street, and through the premises, which were out of sight of this one-way street, which never carried so much of stock, was a side entrance, which was used by the "tote" men to pass their money before access could be gained.

The plans, when completed, provided a large, cap-like structure in the center of the block. The yards of the tenement houses and the stores had been dismantled and the fences removed, thus giving a large open space in the center, in which the cage was erected. This cage was 30 feet in length and built of iron bars, with passageways connecting with the four streets. Men robed in black from head to foot and wearing masks and gloves were stationed within the cage to receive the bets made.

When money was handed in the amount was entered against the horse on which the bet was made upon a large blackboard inside the cage and visible to all. No word was ever spoken by the assistants, silence reigned for the better reason that demands placed upon them are losing orders. Others being more fortunate are declared the winner and the horse and the winnings were immediately paid out.

The person desiring to enter, having satisfied the scrutiny of Adams, the woodman and sentinels, entered the wood-yard. A bell was rung and a large blackboard of 6-inch lumber opened and the entrant was admitted one step further. Here he had to undergo a second scrutiny, and was then passed on through a similar gate into the scene of operations, where he could now let his money be made.

Immediately an alarm was given, bells connecting with the cage and yard were rung, the gates securely fastened and the premises left in charge of a bulldog. If the alarm came from the south, exit was obtained by the proprietors on the north, east and west, and vice versa, so that when the police arrived the place was empty and all evidence of unlawful operations obliterated.

RAIDED BY POLICE.

It was not until after several years that any decisive step was made by the authorities to clean the place out. Just prior to Melbourne a large force of police, eight platoons of police made a determined effort to defeat the game. They suddenly landed at the entrance and entrance gained the only entrance on hand was an empty yard, and the building was empty. The police, who were on hand, were on hand, and the building was empty. The police, who were on hand, were on hand, and the building was empty.

Since then Wren has remained in possession and continued operations in the same old way. That is the story of Jack Wren bookmaker who owns a string of race tracks and a mansion at Studley Park, Kent. He is not a romantic. He is cool, clear-headed, slightly built, small in stature. He is interested in some of the largest industries in Victoria and is the associate of financial leaders.

Before You Go

When about to travel, if subject to headache, nervousness, dizziness, or car-sickness, take one or two doses of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills before starting. They will insure you against an attack.

There are a great many who are sure to have headache, whenever they go to church or places of amusement, or where there is any excitement or oppression. Take them with you, and on the first indication, take a tablet and see how quickly it will disappear. To such persons Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a great blessing. They soothe the nerves and allay irritation and excitement.

"We always keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills in our home, and find them a remarkable remedy for the relief of headache, nervousness, etc. Two tablets never fail to stop the most severe headache. But they are usually sufficient. By taking a Pain Pill before starting on a journey of amusement, we find we do not have those distressing headaches that formerly came with every little excitement."

WILKINSON THE WINNER.

Defeats Bicycleist on Roller Skates and Travels a Fast Mile. A most novel race was that which took place at the Auditorium rink last evening when Charles Wilkinson, champion roller skater of the state, raced on a bicycle. The event was witnessed by a large crowd which became greatly excited as the race proceeded. The event has the first in the series of three and the riders averaged a mile in three minutes and the fastest on record here, the distance being covered in 1:55. Wilkinson took the lead on the start and maintained it until the end of the race. Diefenbacher was at a disadvantage in making the start but over in the straightaway the little champion held his own. The next two races will be a five-mile race against time for the world's record. Those who will try for the record are Earl LaMont and Fred Hamer.

APOLLOS GET EVEN.

AUTOMOBILE RUSH.

Factories Working Day and Night to Meet Demands.

The rush of the shipping season in automobile factories is on in full force. Thousands of men are working day and night making a superhuman effort to get the great motor cars ready for shipment. Many of the factories find themselves overrun with orders for immediate shipment. Silence reigned for the better reason that demands placed upon them are losing orders. Others being more fortunate are declared the winner and the horse and the winnings were immediately paid out.

CROSSES AMERICA TO BUY AN AUTO.

Here is an interesting story of how Jack Flood, a California millionaire, traveled to New York expressly to buy a car for his road. He then returned westward within a few hours after his arrival.

On Thursday, March 7, says the New York Herald, the Hot-Tan company received a telegram from Flood asking when it could make delivery of a 20-horsepower, six-cylinder, Fiat automobile, completely equipped, in Paris, and stating that if the date were not later than June next he would come at once to New York and place his order. A reply was telegraphed that such a delivery could be made in Paris on June 15, and Flood wired back that he would be at the Hot-Tan office March 12.

He immediately started for New York, accompanied by a friend, the president of a bank in San Francisco. The pair reached the city Monday night, March 12. On the following morning at 11 o'clock Flood called at the office of the Hot-Tan company, and within half an hour had booked his order, having carefully detailed all the specifications he desired to have embodied in the car, and that he had had paid his check as a deposit upon the contract. The price of the car ordered was $12,000.

Flood's astonishment Flood informed him that with his friend, he had come from California for the express purpose of booking this order, and that he had no other business to transact in the east he was leaving the same day, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon for California. This he did, having made the journey from San Francisco to New York and returned a distance of about 3,000 miles, for the single purpose of placing his order. Flood had previously had an experience of two years as an owner of Fiat cars.

BLOOD POISON CURE YOURSELF AT HOME

"Most persons who are afflicted with Contagious Blood Poison hesitate to go to a physician for several reasons. In the first place the expense is heavy, and they know that the inevitable treatment will be mercury and potash, strong minerals that act with disastrous effects on the delicate parts of the system, and which do not, after all, really cure the disease. What they want is a safe, reliable treatment that can be taken at home and a perfect cure made of this loathsome disorder without unnecessary exposure or expense. Such a remedy is S. S. S.—it is the only medicine that goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and drives out the last trace of the poison so that there are never any signs of its return. It does not contain a particle of mineral in any form, and after removing the disease from the circulation builds up every part of the system by its fine vegetable tonic properties. S. S. S. attacks the trouble at its head and not only permanently cures the disease for the one afflicted, but so purifies the blood that future offspring is insured against infection. S. S. S. may be taken in the privacy of your home and a perfect cure made of this hateful and loathsome trouble. For the assistance of those who are curing themselves with S. S. S. we have prepared a special book on Contagious Blood Poison which contains instructions of great value to all blood poison sufferers. We will be glad to send a copy of this book free, and if additional instructions or advice is wanted, our physicians will furnish it without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

STAMMERING CURED OR NO PAY! YOUR RAILROAD FARE AND BOARDING EXPENSE RETURNED IF WE FAIL TO CURE. ONE OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS RECEIVED.

MR. W.M. E. BASSITT, Pleasant Grove, Utah.
My Beloved Friend,
It is a pleasure for me to congratulate you on the great success attending your school. I have not the words to fully express the great joy and happiness I received from the cure of my defective speech. I stammered from the age of four years to nearly twenty-seven years, and I always stammered very badly and could not speak with great effort and at times it was impossible for me to utter a single word. I was one of the worst stammerers you ever saw. I was under your treatment four weeks and I never stammered on one word after my first lesson. Your treatment will gladly answer any stammerer who may write to me concerning your school and your success. For I am indeed an affectionate friend to the stammerer. I am yours very respectfully, OSCAR PETERSON.
