NEWS OF THE MINES.

Trading Here Active in the Pit of the Stock Exchange.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWING ITSELF.

[illegible]

Trading on Mining Exchange was more active than for some time past and the issue of the quotations was a very decided indication that an improvement was beginning to show itself, although the coming was decidedly slow. The local banks were given the "cold" in the matter of advances to remove the unlimited proportion to bring on all the transactions of the day.

The Salt Lake Stock Exchange was the first "position" to experience a sale, which it did in a transfer of 25 more Nonie and 500 of Mammoth were passed on the stock, but the purchasers failed to materialize. The Mammoth stock came to the surface in other ways by appearing for sale in lots of 5 shares ranging from $2.30 to $2.32½. Bookers found their way to the floor of the brokers to the extent of purchasing a transfer of 1,000 shares.

The closing figures were as follows:

Observer, Weather Bureau.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

Today's temperature is shown in the accompanying thermometer given below:

valued in the local mining stock market during the past week as, while the volume of business was not materially increased over the previous week, prices were at a lower ebb, the close was stronger than for a few weeks past. There is no doubt but that the period of depression is about over, and the outlook for good, steady, and the better grade of stocks to advance from the old, and to subsequently developments make that of a wave for the week will quickly materialize. The above cut of the market is one of pleasant interesting.

The annual meeting of the Ajax company on the 19th, if one changes for the better may be in its line during early. The prospects are making good records, but the stock cause a wide variety of opinions. Which way the wind may blow, I know expression good grade ore in workings reported and lots of it exposed to the improvement of prices. Bullion-Beck continues to be a likely factor in the quotations. Work was carried expeditiously at the Ontario. The completion expected to develop the Ontario division on Saturday or early next week. At the time the shooting continues gloomy in Eureka who without doubt. With Bertie we will stick on the market to make favorable quotations. Uncle Sam-Eureka continues strong, can be bought at quotations. The Ontario Consolidated of the estate per share has not been declared, but it is coming. There was quite a lot of enquiry about Dalton stock, although it is expected that nearly all will pay before the sale. Time is coming to be noticed. No news has been received from the mines, at least as good news. Dalton and Lark did nothing.

Daly West was in good demand, but buyers and sellers were some distance apart at the close. Additional improvements are being made at the properties, which are looking well. Work and getting out a great deal of good ore. Daly remained quiet. Eagle and East Bullion were in demand, but nothing. The latter was offered down, but buyers failed to come up. Four Aces did some business at about the previous week's figures.

Galena will pay its usual dividend of five cents per share on the 10th. The stock was only fairly active, but maintained its leading quotations. Some splendid enquiries are being made. Grant was reported to be looking very well, but paid little attention in the stock, proving the most exciting, in the other direction one just held its own to sell, fluctuating in the to-day's and old strength. Some new work in the west side of the properties gives agreeable promise. Shortage of water prevents the mill from running to full capacity. Lucky Hill was strong, and in the aggregate, on account of the improved showing at the mine.

Mercur will pay its regular dividend of 12½ cents per share on the 20th. A little more demand for the stock would cause prices somewhat and a combination of bullish events will account with still better results, as there is comparatively little stock on the market. The mill is treating about 250 tons of ore daily and the great development work. As the mines the showing is very was better, is good. In this article, is now necessary, as so much ore is coming in with the development. Fears for the Old Ironsides and named Samuels in Weber Canyon will be dissipated. Several nasty orders are reported to be set. As unfavorable the showing at the mines is reported and production is to be substantially increased. Ontario was quiet.

Silver King continued strong, with very light offerings. The company is expected to resume development work in earnings are nearly as usual, but better prices for the metals are available. Although there is doing good work and the mine is showing up well, Sunbeam continues low. There is not much more on the market, however. Reports are to be circulated on Saturday. The stock was moderately strong, or was also South Swansea, which is regarded marked a season, on the result of improved showings at the mines. Dish will pay its October dividend on the 10th and Gem Consolidated is expected to repeat September's performance this month.

SILVER CITY'S MINES.

A Letter Supporting the Work Being Done and Established Throughout.

Special Correspondence to the News.

SILVER CITY, OCT. 8, 1896.—The new stack in the North Star is now down twenty-five feet and the miners are just encountered a good large of ore. The mine is looking in fine shape and shipments will shortly be made to the Stock Consolidated while the Ajax is shipping. There are twenty men working in the North property.

There has been quite a large strike at the Homestake mine, over at Diamond and the company is very much pleased over the immense body of ore which was uncovered just a few days ago. Capt. Frank Harris of the mine intends to push the work ahead right away and make a shipment in a few days.

The Independent Treats mine made a shipment of one carload of ore this week. This is the first shipment that has been made for some time past.

The property looks very promising. The shaft is down 150 feet and the ledge of ore is now about four feet in thickness. Capt. Charles Ford has brought this property to the front and has made it a prominent factor during the last few months.

Mr. Kit Stewart of the Ajax informs that the mine is in good shape and will resume shipments of ore from the Ontario Consolidated dump right away. Shipments of ore have stopped from the dump this week and there are about two thousand tons of ore on the dump. It is reported that the company will get the Ajax company $10,000. The Ajax company will pay dividends at the mine tomorrow, Saturday.

The Lion Hill mine shipped three carloads of ore Wednesday last.

The Cleveland shaft is now down 150 feet, and is very rich in the bottom. The company intends to work the new vein which was cut in the shaft.

During the week the Bassett has shipped four carloads, the Four Aces one carload and the Bonner one carload. The Bonner is now in fine shipments and the Bonanza seat in one carload.

The Wilson Lode and Extension company will put in a staff of miners in a few days. There are some valuable outcroppings on the property. They have a shaft down 35 feet and it is looking exceedingly. Messrs. Richards and Wilson are the interested parties. The Wilson lode lies next to the well known Ajax and Bonner. Good news will shortly be heard from showings in the property.

The new patentee at Silver City has just been in the mines and will be ready for business in a few days.

The Mining Review will make some extensive improvements as they have already announced the heating arrangements.

STARK'S SURPRISE.

Good Ore Found in New Prospect in the Sunbeam Neighborhood.

Broker Felix J. Stark is interested in a mining property some here south of this city which brought him a pleasant surprise yesterday. The property in question has been undergoing development for some time past, and, as is the case with all other mining propositions, good returns were anticipated beyond the expenditure. Work was carried on with such confidence as that which came yesterday. A day or two ago Felix received a few samples of the ore from the bottom of a shallow hole, and he sent the assayer to see if the stuff was worth anything. The return he received, however, and as he informed them, his countenance assumed a delighted expression as he learned that the assay showed 110.83 ounces in silver and 83 ounces in gold, while the other showed 31.93 silver and 31 gold. Mr. Stark is not to divulge the exact location of this ground, but states that it will be time enough for that later on. He leaves on taking a trip out to the claim on Monday.

This same gentleman is interested in the Wasatch, a very promising property in Cottonwood canyon. Some rich bodies of ore have been uncovered lately, and he expects to be busy working. John Stark is also interested in several somewhere in the neighborhood of election day. In Bryan mine, Mr. Stark says that he and his associates are prepared to develop the Wasatch and continue the development of the property on a vigorous and systematic scale.

TOMORROW'S DIVIDEND.

Distributions of "Sixteen" by the Sunbeam, Utah and Galena Companies.

Holders of stock in the Sunbeam will receive a highly promising property located at Silver City—this receive that respective shares of the company's profits tomorrow, when $5,000 in "sixteen" will be distributed. The Sunbeam has grown phenomenally since its location and each day's work adds to its prospects. Holders of stock are not to receive disturbed. The recent strike in the mine has enhanced the value of the stock materially and it is now looked upon by mining men as one of the best paying propositions on the market.

Clark Davis Weber of the Utah and Galena Mining companies was engaged today in issuing checks for the payment of monthly dividends amounting to $7,000. The former distributes $5,000 while the latter gives to its stockholders the sum of $2,000. These properties are located in the Fish Springs district, and while the profits from their working are not extraordinary large, still they are steady and can be depended upon when the 10th of each month falls round.

Hips and Spurs.

Judge Sherman went out to the Sunshine mine this morning.

Mr. David Ross, the News mining correspondent at Mammoth, was in the city today on business.

Joseph Bennett of the city, owner of the New Guinea in the Shad Valley mine, is in the city today.

At the Utah and Galena mines in the Fish Springs district, about forty men are at present employed. Work is reported to be going on nicely in the properties, although the latter is the only shipper at present.

The assays of two lots of Galena ore recently shipped were received by the company today. One of 18 tons gave returns of 62.5 per cent lead and 116 ounces silver, while the other lot of 16 tons showed 55.95 per cent lead and 143.35 ounces silver.

It all reports to the Dipper property near the mouth of Little Cottonwood canyon is continued to be quite a wonderful mine. The Evans boys who own the property have been working it quite extensively in the past few months and at present have a stack in a depth of 30 feet with 21 feet of solidity. A lot of ore has been extracted and it is believed that it goes to the main body which will be struck out. The ore from this floats, one giving an assay value of $8.00, $10.80 and $18 to the ton respectively, the assays coming a slight material difference.

The locality active and productive ones, of Bingham, is now to be the scene of Bonneville district, is at present sufficiently comfortably from the vicinity of the ore or work. In the one hundred and fifty feet 100 to 200 men were formerly employed and which had to market every that number of tons of the ore of the mine, have now only fifty men at work which is here thinks moving. The Dollan and Lark's is a example. There are at present about 50 men employed there, where a few months ago there were only half that number. The ore from this floats, one giving an assay value of $8.00, $10.80 and $18 to the ton respectively, the assays coming a slight material difference.

Levi Nelson, a broken down Hurricanian, was found by the police officer last night for drunkenness. Nelson was arrested two days ago for the same. Some but the sympathy of the court went out to the boy and he was discharged. He sudden a repetition of it, however, was too much for authority, and today he was sent to jail.

ROCKWELL CASE ON.

Testimony Therein Being Taken in the Court at Provo.

THE DEFENSE RESTS A NON-SUIT

Closing Text the Evidence Offered Does Not Justify the Charge—The Jurors and Jurisdiction.

Special to the News.

PROVO, Utah, Oct. 9, 1896.—This morning the case of the State vs Joseph Rockwell, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, came on. Prosecuting Attorney Gish prosecuting and Attorney H. C. Edwards defended. Nothing regarding the shooting, different from the account published in the News at the time was testified.

Joseph A. Thomas of Lehi testified that Rockwell borrowed a pistol from him on the day of the shooting, which time he said he was going prospecting.

Mrs. Ida Rockwell of Lehi, a niece of Jacob Rockwell, testified that John and David Rockwell took dinner at her father's place on the day of the shooting. John stated to her that he was threatened to kill Rollins because he began sleeping with his wife.

Henry Anderson of American Fork testified that she was present in Provo on the day of the shooting. Jacob asked the witness if he had seen a man pass through American Fork. Witness said she had seen a man with a good looking wound and said that it was after such a time and which time.

The prosecution closed its case and the defense moved for a non-suit, on the ground that no evidence had been adduced to show an assault with intent to commit murder. Arguments on the motion were commenced at 2 o'clock.

Just sending the jury to Judge Zenoch and Parties to Hebron, Judge Sherman ordered a recess for ascertaining or the grounds that there was a case of action. The plaintiffs were given sixty days to which to prepare a statement of [illegible] time.

THE BARGAIN—AGAIN DANCE.

AN ANCIENT OFFICER RECENTLY CAMPING OUT ON SIOUX RESERVATION.

The Indians on the Rosebud reservation are now at their annual "Bargain" dance, which lasts for a week. The region is now dotting back to their lodges, but is still kept up with the same spirit and regularity. This is not they do it.

In the high rocky cliffs on the upper San Lois Hay eagles build their nests, and the growth of the young birds is usually noted. When the birds are nearly ready to fly, a man is let down by means of a rope supported from the top of the cliff to the place where the nest is and the young eagle is secured and carried up. Then the signal is given that an eagle has been caught and many Indians gather at one place and have a dance or rejoicing over its capture. A night is then so (generally three weeks from capture) for the eagle dance.

At the appointed time the Indians, young and old, from all over the reservation gather at the usual dancing place. Large bags filled with food have been piled up and campfires lighted. The eagle is tied and weighted down with a stone, and then the dance begins and it lasts for hours. It is intimated that the night, accompanied by the Indians' wild music, shrieks and yelps, and the light of the fires, performance each dancer stops to commemorate with the eagle, whose messages are sent to Sagaie Chief, and Indeed, the chief received by the eagle is the one he gives to the Indian bearer. The main, also, are sent to the chief of tomorrow's and good cheer. If bad, made nothing is sent, and it is intimated presumably the Indian takes the place of the chief. The chief "opinion" is sent of "big to date" to the land over there, so that the angry Indian has plenty of time to make his own estimate of what is good by waiting a little. Now under seems to be the waiting good to end.

At the break of day the brush pile is set on fire, and skins, robes and all are thrown into the flames, the performers leaving smoke, ashes and bones behind. The dance is ended, the gathering dispersed, and the Indians return to their home reflecting.—Rapid City Times.

COUNTIES MUST PAY

Fees and Mileage of Jurors for Services in Civil Cases.

CHIEF JUSTICE ZANE'S OPINION

In County Action by Associate Justice Barrick and Sharp—Two Suits on the Same Notes.

Today in the Supreme court Chief Justice Zane handed down an opinion, concurred in by Associate Justices Harris and Miner, which affirms the decision of the court below in the case of Salt Lake county against Morgan Richards, Jr., State auditor. The opinion holds that the county must pay all fees and mileage of jurors in civil cases and that the State is not liable therefor.

Suits on Promissory Notes

The Salt Lake Valley Loan & Trust company brought a second suit against Gertrude Rowe and E. E. Rowe to recover $437 and interest alleged to be due on a promissory note, with $50 attorney's fees.

The same company also commenced suit against Ole Sigurd for the collection of a note for $2,188, with interest and $150 attorney's fee.

SAND SUCKERS.

Old Hulks That Are Profitably Utilized in a New Industry.

As the steamers pass along St. Clair flats, between Lake Huron and Detroit river, the passengers see numbers of old hulks scattered off in shallow water and invariably ask the steward or one of the deck boys what they are there for. The answer always is given in a gruff and contemptuous tone, as if it were a fool's question:

"They're sand suckers."

"What's a sand sucker?"

"Old hulks that suck up sand."

"How do they suck up sand?"

Then the oracle looks at you and grins. He doesn't quite know whether you're a farmer yourself or are guying him, and it takes a great deal more questioning to find out the fact that a new industry has been found to utilize ancient and lonely hulks that are not fit to go to sea.

The bottom of Lake St. Clair and the flats that surround it are covered with beautiful white sand, and these boats go out every morning, anchor in a favorable place near the channel, and drop overboard large hose pipes of twenty or twenty-five inches in diameter, with iron tips, which sink of their own weight. Then they set the pumps going and suck up the sand, which brings a good deal of water with it, and is deposited in the bottom of the vessel. The sand sinks, and the water rises to the surface and returns to the river through holes pierced for its accommodation. Time, before sunset the barrens are filled with pure, clear sand at a nominal cost, which is estimated on the spot at 50 cents per ton and sold for building purposes.

In early days there was a community of Frenchmen who made a business of gathering this sand and loading it in the vessels, which, it is said, they were hard because of their ignorance of hydraulics and their lack of boats. They piled and rowed up flatboats, which they would fill by jumping overboard in small or water and shoveling in the sand. They would work a month with the water up to their waists and not get as large a cargo as a modern sand sucker, operated by two men, can pick up in a single day.—Chicago Record.

Charm of Cover Books.

It is clear, then, that these are but rude spirits who have no reverence for all that partakes of the book. Would be coarser and more barbarous than the demand that the quivering edges of a volume, "with all the struggling there that flutter on the verge of life," should be cut and trimmed, the uncleanness and stifled consciousness such trimmers would trim the oak leaf, torture the lily and press the luxuriance of the horse chestnut.

The plea of utility is the most barren of all. Is there any good thing in nature that does not demand labor in the search? Are we to grumble at the sting of the bee or blind ourselves to its glossy beauty in our haste to steal its honey? Is it a fault of reading to more by read. There is, so to speak, a courtship as well as a marriage with our author's text, a time for dalliance, for indulgence, for caution, for coy approach and wild pursuit. Is it fair to the true reader to more than all the tree commercial not in grasping its fruit and putting its soul to usury, as if author but worked for us as slaves in the mines for the company?

No records are so delicious as those in which the reader first approaches his author, when the volume lies but half revealed. The leaf is cut and many at a time, the printing boldly at us from the open leaf, now letting half conceal between the pages, now turned beyond our sight. There needs a swift permit. With knife in hand we gently cut for place of hitting hard, lest by its dusky grotto, follow the leaf, the minimal taves, and in the end she stands naught, revealed her sadness thus cut off, and we steal to her embrace unobserved. That, after all, is a very real pleasure. It is sweet to discover, moment by moment, the author's purpose, not hasty to seize it, but dipping here and there as one eats the page, lighting on a pioneer saying that whets our appetite, changing to a pretty stream or a noble sentiment.—London Star.

The Great Mountain Climber.

In a sketch of his William Martin Conway, the great mountain climber and explorer of the Himalayas, The English Illustrated Magazine says that he has the "climber's nerve"—that is, a gentle roll of the body, with no upward step, but swinging his legs with rhythmic precision. He is a slim man, but tough, full of energy, and with iron muscles. Climbing the Himalayas, he spent 15 days in snow and glacier. During that time he turned from and to cut the three longest known glaciers in the world outside the polar regions and lunched on the summit of Pioneer peak, 22,000 feet high, the greatest height yet reached by man. He has already made plans for another expedition when he gets back from Spitzbergen and hopes to get through two or even three more before contesting a seat in parliament, as he intends to do at the next general election.

Sweating Feed.

Raisers, dairymen and chocolate tablets are all good customers for today's tramp or a day's run on wheels. A country physician who finds himself obliged often to be abstinent to sometimes says that he finds the compressed chocolate value, easily carried and easily nibbled, his foot salvation over and over again in the course of the year.—New York Times.

Sweating Stubble.

American Cultivator contributes the following on the subject of burning stubble before plowing:

The long stubble which is usually turned under the furrow in plowing for winter wheat is only an injury to the crop. The stubble has always no material value, and the little it has is poisonous, which is spread by burning it on the ground. The ashes disposed of many of the small weeds, which are so cleared that their further growth is stopped. The effect of dry stubble plowed under after subsequent is to keep the soil too light all winter. Of course it fills with water, and the grain sown in the fall has a pretty good chance to be winter killed. Besides, such stubble plowed under makes the soil too loose all the fall for the grain to take root in the right kind of growth. The use of the stubble, on the contrary, attracts moisture, and if the land is plowed after burning stubble it will be moister than if there had been no stubble to burn. There is no advantage in burning straw on land that is not to be plowed. The straw helps to hold more comfy over the grass and clover seeding, and is to usually beaten down to the ground before spring, so that it rots and is out of the way before clover or grass cutting time.

THE STICK AND THE SANSARINO

Said a stick to a kangaroo:
"I must be related to you.
A sensational fact
Between you and me,
Your name is to them it really must be."
Said the stick to the kangaroo:
"Who are you anyhow, pray to know?
I've really no sense
That is startling news,
Some far away kinship we might never will;
Is the stick, said the kangaroo,
"I think it is fair, we are two:
To stones to the sky—
For you sometimes go by."
If we are related," said the stick, "we are sad I."
To the stick, said the kangaroo:
"Oh, sad I," said the kangaroo,
"I have often read this a tale;
But we parts I will shed
Over the sad tale
And when I come to it I feel sad."
To the stick, said the kangaroo.

STOCKS AND MARKETS.

New York Stock Market.

New York, Oct. 9.—Stock market opened quiet, but rose with values in leading shares, showing a considerable advance, which was met by a rumble of it. Subsequent market a quiet, moved in narrow limits, and closing fairly steady at a fraction of 1 Consolidated Gas gained 1 per cent.

The announcement of further large accumulations of gold for shipment to Europe, to be taken on Saturday, and increased the feeling of uneasiness and caused a general liquidation of stocks. Sugar fell 2 per cent on the rumors of the sale of the stock of the Havemeyer family, and Lead, Tobacco, Cotton Oil and Leather followed the decline with the exception of Leather, which rallied from the lowest point. The market was very active, the larger part of the transactions being in the Sugar, Lead, Tobacco, Cotton Oil and Leather stocks. The total sales were 1,000,000 shares.

Government bonds were unchanged.

Complete Recovery by the Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of long close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, and unable to look after my interests, and experienced all the symptoms of a nervous nature. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred pounds. Since then I never failed have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health. I ascribe our good health to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been delicate and sickly had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preservation I cannot say too much."—H. O. Hence, Pennsylvania Pioneer, Kissell's, Pa.

Why Is It.
If catarrh is a local disease, as we claim, that applications frequently give relief, why are not others to the same effect? Catarrh is a blood disease, but nothing but a local remedy or a change of climate will cure it. Ely's Cream Balm is so efficient as to convince us that a remedy of lasting home and thorough, economic medicine is the one we need most of catarrh.
