TODAY'S WEATHER REPORT.

Salt Lake—Barometer, 30.45; temperature, 32; minimum, 31; wind, calm; cloudy.

General and local forecasts for 36 hours end on p. m. Saturday:

Partly cloudy to night and Saturday; stationary temperature.

J. H. SMITH,
Observer Weather Bureau.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

The funeral of Charles E. Hutchinson, who died at Murray, Salt Lake county, yesterday will be held at 1 p. m. Sunday, at the Murray opera house.

At the commencement of this year there were over one thousand seven hundred Lutheran ministers in the entire world over the face of the globe preaching the Gospel.

A transfer deed conveying the property of Anna Bloor, situated on the corner of West Temple and First North streets, to Mathias F. Cowley, has been filed with the county recorder, the consideration being $2,000.

Pearl Thornton, the colored girl who shot and killed Sergeant Willie Pearson, at Cheyenne, Wyoming, has been released at Cheyenne, Wyoming, the killing being shown to be accidental.

Little Anna Betty Lewis, who was the victim of a reciting accident, entertained in the police court a few days ago, was taken to the academy indirectly on State street this afternoon, where she will receive kind attention and be in good hands.

The annual meetings of the National Association of Merchants and Travelers will be held at Chicago in February and March, two in each month. The railways have made a rate of one and one-fifth fare for the round trip. As at present scheduled, Utah is eliminated from the arrangements.

Word was received this morning from David S. Emery, of the Seventeenth ward, who is now in California for his health. The message conveyed the news that Mr. Emery's health had not improved, neither was it any worse. His host of friends still earnestly hope that the desired improvement will come soon.

J. Woodland, of the firm of Hancock & Woodland, commission merchants, 18 Richards, lost his team with a rainfall accident yesterday. When driving along on Second South street the shaft of his spring wagon came down, frightening the horse, which ran away, throwing him to the ground and cutting a gash in his head. Mr. Woodland, though feeling sore and bruised, is very much better today.

Miss Rose Daly, a well known young woman of Salt Lake, passed away yesterday afternoon, the sad event taking place at the family residence No. 25 East Fifth South street. Miss Daly was 25 years of age. Nearly all her life had been spent in Salt Lake City. She was deeply loved by a large circle of friends, who deeply deplore her loss. The deceased was the sister of Mrs. Harry T. Duns and Mrs. Baldwin Alt. Funeral services will take place at the family residence at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

The meeting of the Retail Druggists of the Kenyon hotel last night was largely attended. The time was taken up in discussing the action of the National Retail Druggists' association meeting, recently held in St. Louis. The National association is an outgrowth of the war tax. On account of the change that must be placed upon various drugs under the law, the large manufacturers have raised prices, in many instances to double the amount of the tax. The 10,000 retail druggists throughout the United States were asked to protest against this injustice. A fund will be raised in this city and forwarded to the National association.

PROSPERITY OF CACHE VALLEY.

Sen. Howell Gives an Interesting Account of the Northern County.

ITS BEAUTY AND WEALTH.

Homes, Farms, Products, Climate, People, School and Other Matters.

Senator Howells was interviewed yesterday concerning Cache county. It is to turn a valley about thirty miles long and twelve miles wide, and warmed in all the low-lying parts and on the high lands adapted to the highest degree to dry farming.

GRAIN AND FRUIT.

The yield of wheat in Cache valley makes it the largest wheat producer in the State from one and one half to two millions of bushels being the annual yield. Oats and barley and some Indian corn are cultivated. It is a little too cool for the successful raising of peaches in quantity, but Cache valley is the natural home of the apple, pear, plum, currant, strawberry and raspberry, which thrive to great abundance.

HAY AND LUCERN SEED.

A large amount of alfalfa, or lucern, seed is produced in Cache valley, and is now one of the most profitable crops, while lucern, their which is a species of clover, has great value as a fertilizer of exhausted or dear land. On the dry or stony ground, lucern yields two crops annually, and the value of the seed, and can be planted where other crops will not thrive. The great quantity of hay produced is either used in feeding cattle for the beef market or it is fed to sheep during the winter.

CATTLE, SHEEP AND HOGS.

The farmers are starting to take to much better to feed the hay upon their own farms than it is to sell it off to other cattlers. The sheep are fed to winter, the alfalfa being a most valuable forage not only for sheep, but for beef cattle and milch cows. The sheep industry has of late years become very important in this valley. Herders are shipped in each spring, sheep in droves and Salt Lake buys the transits of our valley do not have as many cattle as they ought to keep on their farms. This is fast being remedied, and the farmers are now making efforts to increase their herds, or at least to keep the number up to the present standard. There are many sheep in the valley of late years, by careful breeding.

DAIRYING.

The dairy interests are extensive. A number of the best modern creameries are in successful operation, two in Wellsville; one at Mendon; one at Logan; one at Smithfield; two at Hyde Park; one at Hyde Park, and one at Franklin, besides skimming stations at various other points, to which the farmers bring their milk and have it separated, so as to ship only the cream. Butter and cheese manufacture is our greatest industry, the output being equal in value to, if not greater than even the grain industry.

Poultry are of course a source of considerable income. Every farm has its poultry yard, and the eggs and chickens and geese make up a large item of our business.

FLOUR MILLS.

Cache valley has a number of the finest roller mills—both custom and merchant mills. These have the latest modern improvements and turn out the highest grades of flour in the world. There is one at Hillville, three at Logan, one at Smithfield, one at Mendon, one at Franklin. There is a move on foot to establish mills at Hyrum to be run by electricity, and the power may be used by the motive power of the swift-footed river. The Blacksmith Fork and the Big Bear rivers have still be extended to other purposes.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

The towns of Logan and Hyrum are lighted by electric lights, generated with electric power. Hyrum expects to be heating the power plant on the Blacksmith Fork to furnish the neighboring towns of Wellsville, Mendon and Paradise with both light and motive power, and Logan is now supplied with electric lights and electric power, two companies furnishing the city with electricity from the magnificent water power of the Logan river.

THE TOWNS.

The valley contains the towns of Logan, with 4,000 inhabitants, Hyrum, Lewiston, Richmond and Smithfield each with about 1,500; Mendon, Paradise, Wellsville, Hillville, Hyde Park, Benson, Clarkston and Newton, each with from 200 to 1,000 people, besides other small villages or settlements. The population of the county is about 20,000.

PLACE FOR HOMES.

There is room for many more people, and the building of homes goes on constantly. The climate is cooler than that of Salt Lake, and the valley does not make of outgoing to the winter, and with cool nights in summer. The situation is very pleasant, and the general aspect of the valley is beautiful. The health of the people is generally good, there is plenty and abundant

THE PEOPLE.

The only town that has the distinction of having any resident physicians and lawyers is Wellsville, which is due to that town there are only two citizens in the county. Cache valley people are very law-abiding and orderly, the great majority of them are members of the Mormon church. Various other churches are represented in most of the towns.

Considerable money abound, and for the farms and farm products of this natural beauty, the valley is a delightful place in which to live. The dry farmers are really the best farmers in Utah, but for home water is necessary.

CANALS ARE BUILDING.

Canals have been made in different parts and several large ones which will enclose extended areas of the dry lands are now in the hands of contractors. The largest is one to the north, supplies the little Bear near Paradise and overlaps the north end of the valley. It will be completed next spring, and will have cost $1,000 by that time. It will water some of the best lands in the valley. At present need for dry farming these lands will soon abound with settlers. For the farmers it is believed that it is most profitable to live on their farms, at least during the present.

THE SUGAR BEET.

Beet culture is receiving much attention of late; beets raised in Cache show a high percentage of saccharine matter—17 per cent; and it is only a question of time when the sugar manufactures will be established in the valley.

MINING PROSPECTS.

Mining prospects are numerous and promising, but are held by men of limited capital and are not worked much as yet. Several of the claims have been bonded to men of large capital, experienced in mining operations, and the next spring may witness great activity in the industry. When one mining claim has been developed, it will be a boom to the mining district. The claims contain gold, silver, copper, lead and iron ores, and granite and sandstone.

EDUCATION.

In education we take the front rank. Our common schools are good, the two colleges at Logan are among the best in the Rocky mountain region, and our children are not taken care of.

Here, in brief, is a general, and a fair, all sub-same into the crop. What was be thinking of? Without doubt, we this work with old overthrows of his and with his children there with her in a happy home in the little town of Hyrum, nestling in Cache valley—a place, where the beautiful mountain air seems to from the silent hills, where the great stream of clear ice or dash down the mountain gorges, where the valley itself is a natural system of great wealth, and the field of white, the beautiful as a painter's gossamer picture with a frame of mountains, and the valley, where through the transparent elegance of the dry atmosphere and beneath the azure blue of the Utah sky, and with this town is like a piece of mosaic work, to the eye of the observer who understands it—and who, if he was a scientist, he would be, if he was a reporter, he would be—the contemplation of the exact science of Euclid.
