DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Monday, October 2, 1893.

FRAGMENTS.

In the case of J. J. Montague vs Geo. McCardell, the statement on appeal has been settled by consent in the Third district court.

The City Council will meet in regular session tomorrow night. It is expected that considerable important business will come before the solons for their consideration.

When the trial of Charles Arnup, indicted for killing a Chinaman, commenced in the Third district court this morning all the waiting jurors were excused until tomorrow, at 10 a. m.

The replication in case of John Dyke Lilly vs J. R. Walker et al, was argued before Judge Bond since the time the News went to press on Saturday afternoon. The House ruled that while a court equitable power on another hand he is entitled to replication; so Lilly gained his point.

Thieves broke into Henderson's grocery store on East Temple near Third South street at an early hour yesterday morning. Entry dollars was stolen from the cash register and a considerable amount of groceries and cigars carried away. Late evening the police arrested a gang of seven hard characters in the northwestern part of the city. They had sought and quartered among themselves and were taken to the police station and locked up for the night.

Sunday School Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of the superintendents, officers, teachers and workers of the Sunday schools of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will be held in the Tabernacle Salt Lake City, at 7 p. m., Sunday evening, October 8th, 1893.

A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in this important work.

GEORGE Q. CANNON,
GEORGE GODBARD,
JOHN MORGAN,
General Superintendency of Sunday Schools.

Y. L. M. I. A. Conference.

A general conference of the Y. L. M. I. A. will be held Friday, October 6th, at 7:30 p.m. in the Assembly Hall. The regular semi-annual meeting of all Stake officers and delegates will be held Saturday, October 7th, at 4 p.m. at the residence of Counsel Maria Y. Dougall, opposite west gate of Tabernacle block. All are invited.

ELMIRA S. TAYLOR, Pres.
ANE M. CANNON, Sec'y.

Arrived in England.

(Millennial Star.)

Elder James A. Hansen, of Newton, Cache County, arrived on the Oceanic steamship Alaska, September 19, 1893, and was appointed to labor in the Scandinavian mission.

Detachments of troops are invading California from the north. A dispatch has been received at Fourth and Town sent streets, San Francisco, stating that 100 had arrived at Red Bluff on a freight train. Shortly after their arrival a number of chicken houses were raided. On the Oregon express on Saturday morning there were forty-five more tramps, mostly riding on the tops of the cars.

POLITICAL PIE.

That threat of startling disturbances and disgraceful scenes, the Third precinct, has become a regular terror to the pot house politicians and calamity howlers of all parts of the city. The simple announcement that a meeting is to be held is sufficient to attract them there in droves. On Saturday night could be seen such men as Bill McDowell, John Greenwald, Joe Lippman, Billy Ryan, Stan Powers, J. L. Hicks, Ex-Dog Catcher Gallbreath, and nearly if not quite one hundred kindred characters. They appeared to be in the top-day of delight and were loth to take their departure when the curtain fell.

There is said to be considerable rivalry between Old Woman Powers and Lilliputian Frank, the diminutive Liberal tenor beaver who aspires to the position of High Magul now held by the ex-Michigander. Mr. Franks bears a strong resemblance to the "judge," and is just his often been taken for the "other fellow," much to the amusement and chagrin. He now threatens to shave off his whiskers.

The tangled political threads from which it is hoped by the Liberals will be able to weave a covering for their miseeds for two years more, are becoming so badly snarled, mixed and twisted that even the defied expert that the party of extravagance, corruption and broken pledges can call to their aid must give up in despair.

For reasons best known to themselves and friends, John Greenwald, whom the writer has known for twenty years and who has made himself unpopular if not imperfect about the registration office for a week past, and C. M. Jackson, of sixteen to one and other fames, love not each other as they were wont to do. Where once was an adjunct and supplicant fellow feeling and admiration exists a frigidity now greater than that ever encomed by any bold explorer of the polar regions. The party of the second part is an Amorite, while he of the first is not.

It now transpires that a couple of worldly politicians have been writing letters pledging themselves "right and left" to support certain of their friends for designated offices. Of course these communications were considered confidential, but they, unfortunately for the writers, did not bear that most important and essential P. S., "burn this." As a result of one of these cases it is not unlikely that the community might have been treated to a Herodian but sensational duel of the French order did not the news speedily prohibit the adjustment of such difficulties on the "field of honor."

Comparatively little has been seen or heard of Fred Lennard, the "smooth solomon," so he is best known among the place-hunters, and Joe Lippman, the constant occupier of soft public berths, of late. The former may appear, however, that they have "got their heads together" and will be heard from in due time.

The meeting in Sandberg's Hall in the Third municipal ward on Saturday night was a pitiable portrayal of what men will do to secure nomination to office. Every move and action of the leading agitators troubled with the worst

"one plan and scene, if possible, still green
It sat in my season pen and pace."

And in this connection now appropriate are these words from Cowper:

"Ye the counsel, see,
The souls of office glean in the over
Its charms, he point, its glaze look. At its knees,
Close at its back a demurrer sounds,
And with a sarcasm jeer spins round its ears;
And you then will to him have to do so."

I confess that it is beyond my range of comprehension that Democrat Rich, the silence addit shatterer and destroyer of Liberal ideas, allowed himself to be so easily deceived by men who pose as his friends in working up the political agitation in the Third precinct. Subsequent developments plainly indicate that they wanted his assistance to further their own ends. They deserted him when he needed their services most. Had they stood by him as he was led to expect he would certainly have been elevated. Mean—Don't place too much confidence in political associates.

Powers and his self-styled patriots are still sitting up late of nights sparring with disaffected Democrats with the hope of effecting an alliance that will give temporary strength at least to his own cause. As a lawyer he must know if his cases do not that reverse proceedings would soon follow.

That was rather a startling statement made by Judge Dickson in the Walker House the other day at the meeting of the committee of Fifty, when Charlie Stanton was mentioned as a candidate for the city recordership. He said "I understand Mr. Stanton is an Amorite. That alone would make him an unfit person for such an office." Every Gentile in Salt Lake would vote for his defeat and vile against him and that would mean his defeat without question. We cannot afford to nominate an Amorite." Is it possible that the organization formulated for the political advancement of its leaders is going to have the exact opposite effect? It certainly seems so. Indeed, it appears to be a boomerang of wonderful and almost fatal rebounding strength.

Oh for the sublime gall and boundless cheek of the honorable Samuel Gallant! Not many men of his stripe, out and out would dare to enter a Democratic meeting and endeavor to divert it from the specific purpose for which it was called and attempt to secure his own nomination. But the ex-Liberal trapper of vagrant cats is a creature of wonderful nerve and energy. When asked as to what business he had at the political gathering in question he said he came to have an opinion! "Were you not a man disgraced as I am, you would stand boldly up and the high now or low earth and help to make your name." That his effrontery took with it affected by the fact that he secured six votes on a nomination which he abandoned. No many it is true, but a number very surprising when it is remembered that the meeting was a Democratic one. Whitney is the party of Jeff Davis, John Sevier and Clement Vallandigham.

The East Tennessee Conference.

The East Tennessee conference was held yesterday and Sunday, September 30th and 17th, at Sweetwater, seven miles east of Newport. Good weather. There were present, Elder J. Golden Kimball, mission president, with men, George A. Smith from the office of Chattanooga, Andrew Thomas W. Jones (conference president), Andrew D. Mills, Jos. G. Sharpley, Robert C. Young, L. W. Roundy, Leo Dilworth, Joseph C. Orme, Thomas Hickens, J. H. Hubbard and William L. Hayes. The weather was extremely pleasant, and nature did all within her power to make the affair successful. The autumn sun wore a benign smile, and the mountains were decked in their finest this—all nature smiled. A numerous host of friends spread up spontaneously and offered to entertain either Elders or visiting friends, so all were amply provided for. This was one of those pleasant and soothing occasions so necessary for those who can only be appreciated by those who have participated in the reunion.

Many were the expressions of joy and hearty the hand-clasping that greeted as each pair of Elders reached their destination and joined the cheerful little band of converts, who anxiously awaited to see the red sixty landed at their journey's end. The being a Administering district the people generally speaking, were busily engaged harvesting and curing their product, for which reason Saturday's meetings were sparsely attended. On Sunday, however, the house was packed full of anxious listeners. Four public meetings in all were held, in which each Elder had the opportunity of speaking, testifying, as they did, chiefly upon those topics most commonly referred to in our discourses. The efforts were marked, everyone being impressed with the new beauties contained in the Gospel plan, which were brought more vividly into one's mind by hearing them presented by various speakers. Nor must we neglect to mention the impressive sermons delivered by the worthy brethren, Elders Kimball and Smith. Their remarks all being impressive on all who were intimate enough to be within the sound of their warning voices, much popular being accepted by their able arguments.

From the reports given in, we can say, the conference is in a healthful and flourishing condition, thirteen baptisms having been performed during the past six months, making a total of 101 Saints in the conference, which, by the way, embraces eastern Tennessee, overlapping into the western counties of North Carolina. There is also one flourishing branch organized in which Sunday schools and meetings are held weekly. The conference has ten Elders constantly laboring, presenting the Gospel where an opportunity is afforded and distributing tracts by the thousands, thereby warning the inhabitants of the earth of the judgments that God is about to pour forth upon the earth. Satan, of course, is not asleep, but is employing every means imaginable to thwart the glorious work which we are so eager to carry to the ears of the honest in heart. Prejudice, thoroughly grounded in the minds of the masses, is not to be moved in a day, but gradually it must yield to the onward advance of truth and reason. We are in no wise discouraged, for while our friends at home are toiling and worrying over the financial stringency we are striving to quell the surging billows of a sin-cursed world, depending entirely upon the Lord to provide us with food and shelter.

Of all people on earth, surely those of the Gospel's Dispensation are the most open-hearted and hospitable. Get their confidence and you get a friend who will lay his life down for your protection.

Having received our various assignments, as effectionate have was taken of our co-laborers, each pair leaving for their respective districts, except Elder Andrew D. Mills of Mill Creek, who, having completed an honorable mission, was released to return home. With renewed vim and energy, each sprang on his grip, and with Bible in hand wended his way, remembering only the joys tasted at our former which seems to have been a peaceful benediction from heaven to brighten our hitherto so pleasant travels.

FLASHES OF LEGAL SARCASM.

Judge Howat Rounce Impatient with a Couple of Defending Attorneys.

The occasional interruptions of Judge Powers and Attorney Riley at the outset of the trial of the Arnup case in the Third District Court this morning at length proved more than Prosecuting Attorney Howat could stand, and rising with all the dignity at his command, he mildly suggested, "If you gentlemen were to run the court you had better assume a position on the bench!" But both legal lights referred to entirely disclaimed any such intention and begged to assure the sorbonal district attorney that no harm had been meant. They thought, however, he would not expect to have it all his own way.
