ROUTE TO COLENSO, CAPTAIN LAMBTON AND ONE OF HIS LYDDITE GUNS.

The lyddite shells to which General Buller owes so much from several of H. M. S. Powerful's 12-pr guns which were taken to Ladysmith by Captain Lambton, the warship's commander. The lyddite shell is the latest explosive brought into use by the British artillery. Its function is not to shell the shell to its destination, but to bend it when it arrives there.
