MONEY AND TARIFF.

Declarations by the Massachusetts Republicans

IN CONVENTION ASSEMBLED,

A Good Money System and Revenue With Which to Pay Up now and Into Demand.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—The Massachusetts Republican state convention met today and accomplished its object with celerity. Ex-Governor Brackett and W. E. Hale of Springfield were chosen as chairman. Roger Wolcott, who ran Elliot the executive office against the men of Governor Greenhalge, was unanimously nominated governor.

The remainder of the ticket is as follows: Lieutenant governor, W. Murray Crane; secretary of state, Wm. L. Jerry; treasurer and receiver-general, E. H. Haar; auditor, John W. Kimball; attorney general, Hosea M. Knowlton.

The declaration of the platform on the currency and kindred questions are as follows:

"We reaffirm the Republican doctrine that a good money system and revenue with which to pay up now and into demand.

"The maintenance of tariff laws which will provide revenue adequate for the payment of the national expenditures and the gradual reduction of the national debt, promote a policy of reciprocity, protect American industries and American workmen, and preserve our laws inviolate to our own people."

The platform advocates in the state and national conventions the method of system with preference to the veterans of the Civil war; protection to voters from intimidation by reform of the laws of the exercise of the elective franchise; the extension of the registrar law in counties such as are unable to run and with the rules set in the English language. It expresses the disapproval of all appropriations from public money for sectarian institutions; it also expresses the belief that "all organizations enjoying public franchises and exercising public employment under conditions which necessarily confer upon them a virtual monopoly, should be compelled to conduct their business in a reasonable return upon actual investment and not upon a fictitious capitalization."

After endorsing the national convention platform it continues: "But loyalty of this state cannot consistently stop at the national convention, nor action of our party rated. Mindful of the importance of those organized at Chicago under the auspices of Democracy, we are convinced that the interest of our state demands more than a determination of party convention; that we have right to appeal to timider and wavering elements of the membership of the Republican party."

The Democratic plank of the Chicago platform is condemned as unconstitutional, and the question of currency is further discussed as some length, after which the attitude of the Democracy toward the Supreme Court, as set forth in the decision by which it was declared as a "threat to the independent tribunal established by the fathers. Loose it also takes with the Chicago platform on the subject of the right of the national government to enforce its laws in case of riots.

The platform concludes with the declaration of these principles we commend to Republicans and invite all others who believe them to be essential to the prosperity and the honor of our state, to a continuance of the general welfare, integrity, our Constitution and the sovereignty of the nation, whereby right is supreme."

Ex-Secretary Bates Dead with Fever.

St. Louis, Oct. 1.—Word has been received by Assistant Secretary W. H. M. Kenn of the national association of Democratic clubs to the effect that ex-secretary Hoke Smith is dangerous and not be able to attend the convention here next week. The ex-secretary caught cold on the train on Monday, owing to his campaign engagements at Boise.

PLOT TO KILL ZELAYA.

The Conspiracy Discovered and the Leaders Apprehended.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Herald's correspondent in Managua, Nicaragua, telegraphs that a plot was formed in Managua to overthrow the government of Nicaragua and kill President Zelaya. Some of the most prominent people are implicated in the plot which was nipped in the bud.

Some time ago the last rebellion in which Zelaya was victorious, his enemies made a majority of his former allies, namely the conservatives, have been plotting to upset the government by force of arms. The barracks and fortress were to be seized and President Zelaya was to be assassinated. The barracks were to be blown up by dynamite in the manner that had failed. The conspirators, however, was discovered at the very eve of its execution and some of the leaders were captured. Others escaped and are now in hiding. The principal leaders are former President Carolina, Generals Dono and Fonseca and Chamorro. The latter has one wealthy and prominent members of the conservative party. The conservatives who aided Zelaya to overthrow the last election on condition that they would receive part in the government, finding themselves deceived, have formed against the government and life early threatened to produce.

IOWA'S CELEBRATION

In Honor of Her Admittance to Statehood Fifty Years Ago.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS PRESENT.

The Reviving Hand of Legislation—The President Receives Ex-Gov. Jerry Rusk.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Oct. 1.—Fifty years ago Iowa became a state. In honor of the semi-centennial anniversary 20,000 people gathered in this city today to commemorate a celebration. Burlington was selected as the place of holding the celebration, on account of its prominence in territorial affairs, it being of a number of years the seat of government. This is the governor's day and it is honored by the presence of Governor Drake and staff, several ex-governors, Vice President Stevenson and many prominent citizens of the state and nation.

A salute was fired at sunrise. At 8 a.m. a reception was tendered the governor and the President and other distinguished guests. A great parade, consisting of the governor and staff and grand marshal, the governor's guard, companies of the state militia, citizens in carriages and numerous handsome floats, illustrating the "march of progress," passed through the principal streets, crowded with masses of people and profusely decorated. At noon all business ceased and window sashes took on a welcome to the visitors.

The afternoon exercises in the large auditorium were opened by Philip M. Crapp, president of the Iowa state centennial commission. Governor Drake, president of the day, delivered the address of welcome and other addresses, Lafayette Young, of Des Moines, delivered the address of the day. The exercises closed with a drill parade.

THE REVIVING HAND OF LEGISLATURE.

During the parade at noon today at the Iowa semi-centennial celebration, the reviving hand of legislation Vice President Stevenson, the governor of Iowa and staff and many other prominent people collapsed, surveying all the buildings were injured by falling poles. Vice President Stevenson and Governor Drake escaped with slight bruises.

To be seriously injured are: Major Wyman, Ottumwa, ex-state legislator; County Treasurer E. C. Smith, Burlington; Mrs. Hedges, Fort Madison; Mrs. Hattington; Jos. D. Rowan of the governor's staff; ex-Governor Sherrill, Clinton, Iowa; B. F. Dunlap, Burlington.

Many others received cuts and bruises, but none were fatally injured. Congressman Hepburn and Governor Drake and staff had just left the parade and gone to the stand. There were at least fifty people in it, when, without warning, it crashed to the ground. Intense excitement prevailed, but cool heads, by prompt action, managed to prevent a stampede.

Vice President Stevenson and Governor Drake were down clasped in each other's arms. Several minutes elapsed before they could be extricated from the struggling mass. The greatest excitement prevailed, and it was a wonder that no one was killed outright. Ex-Governor Sherman was found lying under the debris with a broken leg across his thigh, but was removed without serious injury. Miss Drake, the governor's daughter, was not injured so the reporter of a number of items were slightly injured.

Others injures are: Rev. Dr. S. M. Pelouze, of Fayette; Lafayette Young, Des Moines, the orator of the day, was slightly injured; Another of State, W. C. G. McCartney of Des Moines, head of the Knights of Pythias, was thrown out on account of its great weight and dark color.

A quantity of the three grains were separated from the sand by a magnet and sent to an assayer. He reported total loss of the ore, the sand pure and was of first class quality.

LOOKING FOR A CRANK.

He Has an Idea that Mrs. Cleveland Will Receive Him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The police of this city and received a communication from Philadelphia asking them to keep a sharp look out for a crank who is said to be on his way to the governor of Nicaragua and his President Zelaya. Some of the most prominent people are implicated in the plot which was nipped in the bud.

GEN. MILES'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Saved From Certain Death by the Coincidence of Cut. Blackwell.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—General Nelson A. Miles, the commander of the army of the United States, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon while driving on the bluff leading from the Cliff house in the ocean beach. He owes his life to the coolness and skill displayed by Lieutenant Colonel Frank Baldwin, quartermaster of the department of California, and Mr. W. H. McKittrick, of the Bibbings-McKittrick Co. Williams Monitor. After inspecting the waterworks plant at the Presidio Gen. Miles and a party of friends started for home in order to catch the train for the south. While going down a steep grade the pole of the carriage to which the runaway horses were hitched broke and frightened the team. The vehicle was carried against the bluff and the driver thrown from his seat, between the plunging and kicking animals, but Col. Kimball and Mr. McKittrick jumped out and clubbed to the horses' heads just in time to prevent their holding down the hill to certain destruction.

CAN PAY NO INTEREST

Law Does Not Specifically Provide Interest on County Warrants

DRAWN PRIOR TO JUNE 5, 1895

Except When in Payment of Work Done in Roads in the County Issuing the Warrants.

Attorney General A. C. Bishop today promulgated an opinion which will be read with great personal interest by parties who have in their possession county warrants which were issued by other purposes than county road work, prior to June 5, 1895. The opinion is that interest is not legally chargeable against the counties for those outstanding warrants except when drawn to pay for work done on county roads. The opinion is full as follows:

J. E. Ross Esq., County Attorney of Emery County, Orangeville, Utah.

Dear Sir—I have taken the year laws of some days ago which has come quarterly delayed on account of the delay in receiving the laws.

You ask to be advised upon the following: "Controversies have arisen in this county between the board of county commissioners and parties holding county warrants issued before January 4th, 1895, on account of the fact that they should draw 8 per cent interest as provided therein, the former calling that the 8 per cent interest provided for in the 3 per cent interest law of the County Government Bill. My opinion has been asked and I have no doubt the county officers of the county may legally pay 8 per cent or 3 per cent, except in cases of certain warrants which, by order of the court, show on their face that they were issued for the first time in 1895. These bonds could be seen more going at full speed on the 5th, instead of the usual (repair) of which there is a large amount to use both for hauling and. They soon returned and by the promotion of the people who had gathered to see the sights they said and enough time remained to drive over the bank to the river that was running away the time.

The Grand river raised eleven feet and receded as fast. A man by the name of Brandon had to leave his house on a raft, through our fast of water, and now are losing, which consisted of wife and daughter of Indian, to higher ground.

The track from here to Thompson Springs is washed out and they are almost impassable. The road superintendent will see parties each way to repair the road as soon as it can.

We never have had such floods since we have been settled.

The district court opened here Tuesday afternoon, Judge Hilton presiding. Tuesday was O. W. Warner, for taking water. The case was continued by the State, for disturbing the peace, Tuesday was O. W. Warner, for taking water, the verdict was not guilty. In the state vs. Chaney, for disturbing the peace, verdict of not guilty. In the case of John Tuttey, for selling a pistol, not guilty. That ends the criminal docket. On the civil docket the case of Vance vs. Vance, and O. W. Warner vs. Mesa irrigating company.

RANDOLPH, Utah, Sept. 29, 1896.—The Democratic county convention convened at Laketown, Monday, Sept. 28, 1896, and the following nominated county officers as follows:

For county clerk—William Rich, Randolph.

For county assessor—Mary Shelley, Laketown.

For sheriff—C. Kent, Laketown.

For treasurer—A. McKinnon, Randolph.

For county attorney—E. Lee, Woodruff.

For surveyor—J. H. Neville, Woodruff.

For commissioner—Jno. Kennedy, Randolph, Jos. Weston, Laketown, William Lee, Woodruff.

The county central committee was authorized to nominate the county assessor. It is expected the Silver Republicans will endorse the ticket, as they have asked to be thus acknowledge, and if the party named is acceptable, a full Democratic ticket will be placed on the Democratic ticket.

The proceedings were harmonious throughout. JOS. R. WALKER.

He Got the Quarter.

He had deposited his ticket in the box on the down town station of the ninth avenue "L" road at Fifteenth street and was counting his change in a search for plugged dimes and nickels.

A quarter lay in his hands and rolled along the platform until it passed under the ticket office which form the south side of the station. It lay in plain view, as accessible as the golden apples of Hesperides. The beer was the picture of ease.

"I don't care about the dime coin," he waited. "I've got one to pass, but it just makes me sick to see that quarter there, and I can't get it."

"Gimme a dime, mister," said a newsboy by my side. "I want to get home and I've got no nickel."

The newsboy was waiting for a moment and said, "Gee whiz."

He returned in a few minutes with his face worked up quarrelously. In his hand he had a piece of sassafras. The crowd watched him for a few minutes. Finally he took the top off a well. Inside rested was of shaving gum. He stuck this on the end of the sassafras, and, inserting the stick through the narrow opening, pressed the gum and slowly gum firmly on the last coin. Then he slowly drew it out and presented the money to its owner.

"Keep the white stuff," said the man. "Why, I've got plenty. My wife and boys are coming to town, and I'm now waiting for them to get home. I'm the boy was slightly deceived.—New York Mail and Express.

warrants issued by the board of county commissioners prior to June 5, 1895, if not paid when presented, will bear interest from date of presentation and should be so indorsed by the county treasurer, and this by section of law.

I have the honor to be,
Very respectfully yours,
A. C. BISHOP,
Attorney General.

GREAT FLOOD IN GRAND.

[Special to the Deseret News.]

MOAB, Grand County, Utah, Sept. 28, 1896.

To the Editor:

The Biblical rule of strange things to come to pass in the last days, for we are forced to believe these times in the same spirit as we have been each other's times taking place here for the last few days. It commenced to pour on Monday and continued to pour on Tuesday (the time with) Wednesday evening, and rain a third time at a sight! The storm which came through our valley became terrific. Mid creek, which runs through town, did a great deal of damage. At Dorrett's the bridge was taken away. The stream started to cut to towards Dorrett's house, and the tanks being nearly gone was a large number of people there watching the sight. There were twenty cows, a calf and a hog went by, and pumpkins and squashes, showing that some one was being produce.

Dorrett now became alarmed for the safety of his house, so he commenced to cut poplar trees and the tops to throw out into the current on the bank to break the force of the water, but the first let broken. Two trees would be seen here going at full speed to Moab, in the direction of the current (repair) of which there is a large amount to use both for hauling and. They soon returned and by the promotion of the people who had gathered to see the sights they said and enough time remained to drive over the bank to the river that was running away the time.

The Grand river raised eleven feet and receded as fast. A man by the name of Brandon had to leave his house on a raft, through our fast of water, and now are losing, which consisted of wife and daughter of Indian, to higher ground.
