TURKISH PROBLEM.

The European Powers to Hold a Conference on the Subject.

TERROR AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

The Sheik-ul-Islam a Prisoner—The Deposition of the Sultan Discussed.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Rome correspondent of the Chronicle is assured that on his return to St. Petersburg the czar will propose a conference of the powers to discuss the Turkish problem.

A Constantinople dispatch to the same paper says that Nazim Pasha, minister of police, is conspiring with Rothschildism, the Armenian patriarch's Jesuit tenets, and the palace gang to provoke fresh outbreaks as an excuse for a general massacre of Armenians, whose terror is patent to see.

The morning Post's Constantinople dispatch says it is reported that the police have discovered a large store of explosives in the Tatkir quarter, including twenty-five kilograms of dynamite, a quantity of other explosives and dynamite bombs. There have been forty attacks in connection with the chemistry, including the chief of an important revolutionary committee.

The Daily News states that it hears that the gravest anxiety exists at Constantinople, and that the deposition of the sultan is seriously discussed.

The morning telegram says the Daily News, remains at the Yildiz palace, nominally as the sultan's guest, but really as a prisoner. The ambassadors have telegraphed for instruction in view of the events, which are regarded as imminent.

Honor for Li Hung Chang.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A Standard dispatch from Berlin says: The emperor of China ordered Li Hung Chang to court permanently at Peking, as his presence and advice are indispensable to the government. His appointment as minister of foreign affairs indicates that Tsung Li Yamen will be completely reorganized on the European model. Prince Ching, the conservative who opposed this reform and the extension of the Siberian railroad, has resigned.

TWO SPEECHES.

McKinley and Bryan Both Argue for Sound Money.

CANTON, O., Oct. 29.—Historians of the campaign of 1896 will record Thursday, October 29th, as one of the redletter days. Major McKinley has been kept busy since early morning, and various causes so fast around the middle of the day that he could not find time to lunch until after 3 o'clock. One party alone, which was to have 7 minutes, but overslept, nearly decayed to call the major but finished his breakfast. There came a short interval during the day, and the crowd became so large that the speaking had to be transferred from the porch of the reviewing stand.

Major McKinley's response to J. R. Templeton of Owosso, O., and J. C. Venie of Butler, Ind., who spoke on behalf of Fulton and Williams counties, Ohio, and northeastern Indiana:

"I believe there has been no time in our history since the war that the people were so anxious and impatient to vote and so devoted in their convictions as to the character of their votes as they are this year. I believe that on the third day of November the verdict of the American people will be for good, sound money and protection.

"It seems almost incomprehensible that the opposition to the tariff from a certain quarter to debase the standard of value in this country and degrade the currency with which we are doing business, I say, it seems almost incomprehensible, I say, that it should have any judgment in the heart of any American. If there is any one thing in government that should be fixed, stable and unvarying as the will of man can make it—it is the currency that measures the exchanges for their citizens and labor. We do not say that any good money in the United States. The expedition to unshod his less that whenever poor money has been used the poor has fallen on the great people of the country. If the wise statesmen of this audience will show their memories they will see that, as we call that to the days before the war, when we had a state bank currency, whenever the farmer sold his wheat at the market town and took the bank notes that were good at that hour, the next day he often discovered the bank was broken and the value of his wheat, therefore, taken from him. We don't want any such money as that, or anything approaching it. We want what we have now, the best money in the world, every dollar as good as the best money in the civilized nations. There is nothing that would injure, the farmer, the laborer or laboring man like an unsafe and fluctuating money. We want our money to be as good as our government, and there is no government in the world any sooner than ours. Then we want a return to that American policy inaugurated at the very beginning of the government by the first President of the United States and the first Congress that assembled under the Constitution; the American policy that will raise enough money to run the government by posing tariff upon imports and then which we are levying tariff; we will adjust them so as to protect the American workmen, the American market and the American people."

BRYAN'S AUDIENCE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—After a hard day's campaigning, William J. Bryan returned to Chicago tonight, arriving at the Northwestern railway station at 7:15 p. m. A crowd of several hundred people met him at the depot and received him as he left his car. The nominee made eight speeches on the north and northwest sides tonight. At each meeting he was enthusiastically greeted by large crowds.

The first of a series of nine speeches was delivered by Mr. Bryan at Stanislaus hall, Bradley and Noble streets. After thanking the people for their cordial welcome, he spoke in part as follows:

"The telegraph brings us news from New York that money there is so scarce that they are charging all the way from 50 to 100 per cent for it, and yet, in spite of this scarcity, in spite of the embarrassment which this scarcity presents to the business man of New York and the country, the money-lenders who can profit by their high rates of interest will make affidavits that this is the best system of finance that was ever conceived. You need not be surprised if the holders of great hoards of money are willing to loan the gold standard, for when the gold standard makes more frequent these extreme cases, these panics, these embarrassments, which are the opportunity for the man who has the ready money and the willingness to take advantage of the necessities of his neighbor.

"If you ask these gold standard Republicans what are the chances of election, they will tell you that the Republican candidate is absolutely certain to win. You ask them why, and the reason for the panic in Wall street, and they will tell you it is the agitation of the silver question and the fear that that will triumph. Now, when they want to cause a panic they always excuse it on the ground that it is too much of silver, and whenever they go to talking to you about the prospects of the future, they always tell you there is no danger of silver triumphing, that gold is absolutely sure. Now, my friends, why can't these people come to New York, instead of getting excited, why did they not go to Republican headquarters and find out that it was absolutely certain McKinley would be elected and the gold standard would be preserved? But in spite of all that, there is a panic—there is a scarcity, and the only explanation they give the country is that it is silver agitation in this country. According to our Republican friends we have a surplus of standard money so small that a new man can enter it, and if any of it goes into holding it we have a immediate panic. I was the business man of Chicago and of Illinois and of the United States to know that those men who stand behind the gold standard are the very men who, of the extremities of the nation, profit by the distress which their financial policy brings to the great mass of the people, and I want those business men to decide for themselves whether they want to present themselves at the mercy of those men who profit by the entertainment which their policy brings to the masses upon the ground of some one else that the standard is the money market—that the in the rise of interest, are only benefited in London, Germany and to the Rothschilds. I believe that the success we enjoyed yesterday, the enthusiasm, the confidence in our cause, the confidence in our ability to force of the gold standard will soon make money cheaper and those honest and prices lower."

THE FLAG NOT INSULTED.

Half a Lot of Rubbish Removed from the Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—A cablegram received in this city late this afternoon to the effect that American flags had been torn down and trampled on and otherwise mistreated at the meeting of the American Bimetallic Union directors today. In view of the intense feeling over the political situation prevailing here, the report created considerable excitement. Inquiry in railway headquarters, however, failed to verify the report. "The facts are," said Director H. Dwight, "the gentlemen of the various campaign delegates of all states have been thrown in the floor. They usually by weeks they are strewn, and this was the case today when about fifteen or twenty papers with McKinley and Hobart's pictures printed on them were thrown on the floor. No attempt was made to them. We had no intention insulting the flag. Does that look as if we had gone it away?" Dwiggins pointed to a flag hanging in the corner of the room within hung a picture of Bryan. "The report that Mr. Dole and Mr. Burns were present is about nonsense. Neither gentleman was present. Neither was no meeting of directors, neither was the American flag insulted in any way."

R. W. Williams, manager of the Temple Court building, in which are located the offices of the A. B. U., said the affair had been greatly exaggerated.

"There were some papers on the floor," said Williams, "and the janitor of the building made complaint. At my request they were removed from the floor. If it is a question whether they could be considered American flags under the circumstances."

Winter in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Oct. 29.—Western Nebraska is covered with two inches of snow tonight. In some sections of the state a high wind accompanies the snow, assuming the proportions of a blizzard. The horses are in poor condition, and numerous have been stuck in snow drifts.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 29.—A special to the News from Cheyenne, Wyo., says: The overland fires on the Union Pacific, westbound, due here at 9:45 a. m., is reported stuck in the snow between Oglalla and Big Springs, Neb. She is now five hours late. A violent snowstorm is raging in Nebraska, and it is impossible to tell when trains will resume.

DANGEROUS HERESY.

Ex-President Harrison Says It Must Be Killed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana was the main attraction tonight under the auspices of the Marquette Republican club. The hall was filled and all of the speakers were greeted with enthusiasm. Beside Mr. Beveridge, there were addresses from Chairman Dewitt and Jesse Spalding of Chicago. Ex-President Harrison sent the following telegram:

"I am very sorry that I cannot speak to Chicago. It was in your city and by your governor that the issue was newly raised that the enforcement of the national laws by the President and the United States courts was an invasion of the rights of the states. We must kill this dangerous heresy in the present its birth. Law-abiding, peaceful communities, sound good will, and a generous and home work for home folks will bring back the prosperity we have lost.

WHOLESALE BRIBERY.

Mark Hanna's Methods as Seen by a Populist.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Edgerton of the Populist national committee today issued the following statement:

"The preposterous claims made by the Republican committee in regard to the section of McKinley are made with the idea of fraud in all the doubtful states. McKinley, as a fair win, is beaten now by an overwhelming majority. The Republicans realize this. Yet in the face of this they make claims of an enormous majority for McKinley, but give no figures to back up their claims. They depend upon outright purchase of voters and election boards to remain the majorities they predict."

A number of states claimed by the Republicans are cited and counter claims and figures are presented that they will be carried by Bryan, and he continues:

"Why do they make these claims? Simply because they are expending not an overwhelmed sum with the idea of victory for McKinley, but on what they think Hanna's immense campaign fund may do.

"We have evidence that in the election next Tuesday fraud will be attempted on the most stupendous scale ever known in American politics. Our plan is to be fully prepared, and wherever possible to actually letting the returns. But the plan on which they expect most is as follows: In each precinct of each of the doubtful states they will buy up purchasable men in this way—they will give a man $10 or $15 and pledge him that after election they will give him so much more if he holds the vote of that precinct to a certain figure. They will buy as many men in each precinct as they can find for sale. Already, in each of the doubtful states, they have engaged honest up by the hundred to assume Republican tickets, to let live days before election and at election day, and the plan will be not to buy man entirely but to give them so much money with a pledge to double the amount if they hold the vote of that precinct to a certain figure.

"We have indisputable evidence that this is the plan on which Mark Hanna and his underlings place their final dependence. It is one of the most contemptible schemes ever hatched by the Bushels of 32 lb. Mels street while alone, and on seven hours his body served as food for rats. While loading the elevator it gave way beneath him and he fell with it a distance of forty feet. He must have been instantly killed.

The remains were found about 5 o'clock Tuesday night, when Rabbery was alone in the building. A swarm of rats took no time in attacking the body. They gnawed Ridgway's ears, noses and hands, tearing out large pieces of flesh and mutilating the body in a horrible manner. The rats did not leave the body until the employes of the factory appeared on the scene.

Mr. J. K. Fowler, secretary and treasurer of the Cortland Mill Canal and Stock Co., of Cortland, Utah, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy says: "I consider it the best in the market. I have used many kinds but find Chamberlain's the most prompt and reliable in giving relief, and now keep no other in my home." When troubled with a cough or cold give this remedy a trial and we assure you that you will be satisfied with the result. For sale by druggists.

There is one medicine which every family should be provided with. We refer to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. When it is kept at hand the severe pain or a burn or scald may be promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated twice in succession sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third the time usually required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate attention, before the parts become swollen, and when Chamberlain's Pain Balm is applied it will heal them without matter being formed, and without leaving a scar. A sore throat may be cured in one night. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment and laid on over the seat of pain, will cure lame back or pain in the side or chest in twenty-four hours. It is the most valuable, however, for rheumatism. Persons afflicted with this disease will be delighted with the prompt relief from pain which it affords, and it can be depended upon to effect a complete cure. For sale by all druggists.

"While down in the southwestern part of the state some time ago," says Mr. W. Chenoweth, editor of the Chico (Cal.) Enterprise, "I had an attack of dysentery. Having heard of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I bought a bottle. A couple of doses of it completely cured me. Now I am a champion of that remedy for all stomach and bowel complaints." For sale by druggists.
