The general appropriation bill, revised as our report of the House proceedings chest yesterday, was follows:

A number of messages were received from the Council and both, when such as needed action were disposed of as follows: C. F. 115, creating Fourth district, filed for third reading. H. F. 182, county line between Weber and Salt Lake Counties, with amendments, these were concurred in and the bill passed.

The Council also reported the Governor's veto of the home rule memorial, and Mr. Arnott wanted to send it back to the Council, but no one wanted to put himself on record by seconding to refuse to concur. None of the members, however, seemed to know or want to know what it meant, and why it was sent to the House.

MESA NOTES.

A Terrible Accident—Splendid Harvest Prospects.

F. C. J. writes from Mesa City, Maricopa County, Arizona:

A terrible accident occurred to Andrew Kimmerson, of the Alma Ward of this Stake. A few days ago, while walking beside his freight team, he became a little weary and endeavored to get on to his wagon by stepping on the end of his doubletree. One of his horses, being a little fractious, threw him between the eyes, smashing it down and putting both eyes out. One eye is completely gone, and there are hopes of saving the other.

Mr. Kimmerson is about 22 years old. He is receiving great attention and is getting along as well as could be expected.

The prospects for a good harvest are better this season than for some time past. We have had an abundance of rain in this region. At the same time we have had stored away a great deal of water, so that we can give them it to speak, the relief of the herds of fields, orchards and vineyards of Salt River Valley. We have at present Palo Verde in almost all stages from the spear to leaf which will hide the heads. Fruit trees are all in blossom in fact everything is rushing from the leaves. The country looks just beginning to bloom and the future is just as bright as the present crops.

The health of the people is generally good, and all are in a prosperous condition.
