The official souvenir of the fortythird encampment of the G. A. R., published by Thomas & Lynch, is now off the press and is a publication of great merit, literary and mechanical. The book consists of 50 pages, 9x12 inches in size and printed on fine heavy paper. On the front page of the book is a handsome reproduction of the official badge of the delegates. Following this, is a view of the Wasatch mountains, be at least 30,000 persons in the mon-ster parade on Aug. 11. Besides the veterans, there will be the Utah Na-tional Guard, Spanish War veterans, Sons of Veterans, Fifteenth Infantry, and other organizations. Different divisions of the parade will assemble on west South Temple street and the line of march starts from South Temtaken from Liberty park and next are excellent half-tones of Presidents, Washington, Lincoln and Taft. With the illustrations there is well written and interesting descriptive matter and greetings from the city and state to the honored visitors.

Four pages are devoted to pictures of the 38 members of the executive committee as follows: Commander-inaccompanied by his staff, followed by carriages carrying past commanders-in-chief and guests of honor. The vet-erans of the different departments will Chief Nevius of the G. A. day by Horace S. Ensign, the genial secretary of the State Fair association. All day long he sat at his dosk with his head bandaged and to all the looks and vords of interrogation he merely says he was "thrown down." It happened just as the base of En-sign Peak was reached, and the horse on which he was riding had started the steep ascent. By his side was Col. Sterrett, of the G. A. R. office, and K. L. Barnado, representing Paine's fireworks. The party was going to select a site on Ensign Peak for the display which is to be given every night during G. A. R. encampment week. Just how the accident happened is hard to say.

The saddle probably turned, and be-fore the rider knew what had hap-pened he was on the ground and had received a kick in the forehead from his "Rosinante," who immediately started for town. The horse was afterwards found on Capitol hill by Mount-ed Patrolman J. A. Conyers, who took him back to the owner. IN POLICE COURT. Young Wanless Again Pleads Guilty-Theft of Electricity.

With the same free confession of yes terday, Alex Wanless, Jr., today pleaded guilty to three additional charges of forgery, making a total of four on which he will go to the district court for sentence. So far, the youth, barely 19 years of age, has offered no excuse for his crime to which he has readily confessed, and his court room demeanor fails to show little fear of the con sequences for the acts for which to ob-tain a little jewelry and a few dollars he will have to spend several years in the state's prison.
