Edward B. Hosmer's Will.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 1.—The will of Edward B. Hosmer has been admitted to probate and the widow, Mrs. Ella B. Hosmer, named in the instrument as executrix, was so appointed, she being required to give bonds in the sum of $20,000 without sureties. The estate is in excess of the value of the estate. Mr. Hosmer was a prominent business man of Boston, and the value of his business interests there are appraised at $70,000, to which is added a large amount of wealth in the form of real estate and stocks. The will makes bequests to a large number of relatives. One bequest is of $50,000 to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

NEW WITNESS IN THE FIELD

The Man Who Says He Saw the "Embalming" Process to be Called.

James Farman Will be the Last Man to Testify Before the War Investigation Commission.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The war investigating commission has sent out a summons for a fresh witness, who it is thought will be the last examined before the presentation of the commission's report to the President. The new witness is James Farman, who was quoted in yesterday's press dispatches as having sent a letter to Mr. Maxwell Chestine of Philadelphia, saying that he had been stationed in Omaha last summer and knew all about the chemical preserving methods used by the big packers in preparing government beef. It is not known whether or not Farman will respond to the summons of the commission.

Execution in Paris.

Paris, Feb. 1.—Albert Pongnez, a youth who murdered a woman and a boy, was guillotined here today. The fact is notable as being the last execution which is to take place on the Place de la Roquette, the famous execution place of Paris. An immense crowd of people witnessed the execution and her was no disorder, which was quite in the night.

An Poyner's head was being adjusted into the guillotine he shouted:

"I will never confess! I will never confess! Long live the Queen!" and the sentence was never completed.

A Tumor Formed

Finally It Broke Inwardly and Discharged

Trouble Began With Dyspepsia and Impure Blood

Thorough Course of Hood's Sarsaparilla Completely Cures.

There is danger in impure blood. Disease and suffering are surely coming to those who neglect this threatening symptom. Read this:

"Gilliam, Missouri.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—My troubles began with severe headaches, which would last me for two or three days. The doctors pronounced my trouble dyspepsia, but they could not do anything for me, and advised a change of location. At the age of 14 a tumor formed on my spine, which but did not rise or discharge. The doctor thought best to cut it out, but I objected. It finally broke and discharged a great deal. The doctors said they could do nothing for it. Then the tumor began to rise and discharge inwardly. I had made about some by Hood's Sarsaparilla and thought I would try it. Before I had finished taking one bottle I was most relieved. I continued the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking 12 bottles I was entirely cured. I am now well, have a good appetite and feel that I owe my life to Hood's Sarsaparilla." W. D. Ford.

CANCELLATION OF A MORTGAGE.

Case of Howells vs. Pacific Building Company in Court.

CONSTRUCTION OF CONTRACT

Is the Question Involved—Two Boys and a Girl Committed to State Industrial School.

The time of Judge Hiles has been occupied today in hearing the case of Thomas F. Howells vs the Pacific Savings, Loan and Building company. Frank Pierce and E. B. Critchlow appeared for plaintiff, and John Creyblad, Judge Hilton and H. E. Booth for the defendant company.

The question involved in the case is the construction of a contract which Howells signed to order to obtain a loan of $1,500 on his building. His contention is that he was not to pay more than 6 per cent interest and for this reason he sought a cancellation of the mortgage which the defendant company refused to do.

The defendant contends that under the contract Howells is required to pay the full amount, and in order to secure membership, also the full amount of the mortgage and that he is still owing the company. In his complaint plaintiff asks to have judgment for as well as a foreclosure of the mortgage.

There are about a half dozen similar cases and by consent they are all being tried together.

TO SOFTEL DEFENDANTS IN COURT.

Judge Cherry Orders Committal of Three to State Industrial School.

Judge Cherry sat in the criminal branch of the Third district court this morning and disposed of a number of matters that needed attention. Judge Norrell is still absent from the city.

Jesse Knight, who was called to talk of secretion, appeared before the court to show cause why he should not be sent to the state industrial school for reformation. The testimony of several witnesses went to show that the boy had been guilty of numerous acts of stealing. Only recently he pleaded guilty in the police court to the larceny of flag staves from the Latter-day Saints' College in the Tenoch building. It was also stated that he had been guilty of a disorderly conduct with a girl named Wolverston (also before the court). As made of the boy testified that if was the father's wish to have the defendant committed. Grant had nothing to say. The court, after expressing his sorrow for the youthful defendant and admonishing him to try to do better, ordered his committal.

A shocking case of moral depravity was developed in the trial of Nellie Whitcomb, a thirteen-year-old girl, charged with prostitution. The testimony of the police officers went to show that not only was the girl guilty of wrong doing but that her mother was guilty also. The father, it was stated, is a sailor on the Great Salt Lake and a hard working man. The mother of the girl admitted having taken her daughter to a house of ill-repute while she was at the city jail.

Judge Cherry committed the defendant to the industrial school, where she is to remain until she has attained the age of 21.

Tomo Hunting a 11-year-old boy, was shown to have been guilty of absenting himself from school of late and he too, was committed to the industrial school. This boy had previously been before the court and was given a suspension of sentence when re-arrested. The little fellow did not seem to fully realize his position, and the officers of the court had beckoned to him when he gave vent to his feelings in tears. The tribunal observed that the boy did not have a very good home.

MUCH TALK ON RESOLUTION.

and the president laid down by all the States, with possibly the exception of California, in which the joint assembly has adopted rules for the governing of that body. The Congress of the United States is always presided over, when the two houses meet in joint assembly, by the President of the Senate. Further, the president always laid down by this State and by this Territory, there has never been any occasion when the President of the Senate did not always preside at joint sessions of the Legislature. As to calmly entering the floor from Mr. Berlanse's hand and pushing him aside from the table, I think that the statement is false in Mr. Berlanse. Because it implies that he was presuming to preside over the joint assembly, and such a matter of fact such on the president never occurred. In regard to the member necessary to elect a United States Senator, I do not know of any doubt in the opinion that a simple majority of the quorum present and voting would be sufficient to elect. Some gentlemen have called my attention to an article published in the Salt Lake Herald of Jan. 25, 1899, in which it is stated that the Senate of Kentucky, when the election of Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, a Republican, and in which it is said the Senate of Kentucky, when the election of Scott's election, because it was not secured to a majority of all the votes of the assembly. Now, I have, as the president, they cite the Blackburn-Hunter case in Kentucky, in which the Senate Devils refused to elect, for the best reasons he had not received a majority of the legislature, though he received a majority of those present and voting.

I, for, as a presiding officer, that it was my duty to see that the title of whoever is elected Senator should go up to the United States Senate regularly and properly, and I felt obliged to admit that a bare majority of those present will legally elect. Meantime I am sent to Washington for complete information.

As a presiding over the joint assembly I have no desire to particular, I do so. My aim is to be absolutely fair, if I do preside. But every little action seems to be looked upon with suspicion.

SHORT LINE WILL BUILD IN IDAHO.

One Line to Go Via St. Anthony to Yellowstone National Park.

BUILDING TO BEGIN SOON

Other Branches Will be in Western Idaho—Considerable Development Promised.

The state of Idaho will have her share of the railroad building this year. A gentleman who stands close to the affairs of the Oregon Short Line said this morning that there would be at least three lines built through the southern portion of the State during the present year. The Short Line has been pulling for a line from Weiser up the east side of the Snake river, to the Seven Devils country. It was doubtful, however, as to the building of this line, as the ore from Huntington to the same country was well under way, and was sure to be pushed through.

"You can say with safety," the gentleman continued, "that a line will also be built up the Snake river from either Idaho Falls or Market Lake to St. Anthony, the county seat of Fremont county, and from there on to the Yellowstone National Park."

The line has not yet been surveyed, but a corps of engineers will be put on the work in the near future. Market Lake is the natural initial point for this line, but it has disadvantages in getting to the great bayou near there which Idaho Falls is not troubled with. Besides the new pleasure resort at the place is the finest on the Snake river. The country up the Snake river is filling up fast and the district bids fair to be one of the most important of the State of Idaho. The big irrigation companies have completed the ditches allowing their land to lay idle, and are reaping their gains. The consequence is that the country is now looking for a line distinct the other side of St. Anthony is being take up and made to produce enough to pay a mortgage.

It is hardly probable, says our informant, that the line will be built farther than St. Anthony during the season, but there is certainty that it will reach that point. The travel through the Park from the north and east mostly makes its way up this valley, and each year grows more considerable. There is no fore to doubt but the road will be pushed through to the Yellowstone very soon, after it reaches St. Anthony. This will be good news to the people of Newberg and vicinity, as the sage of years is about to be removed. It is strange that there is no fairer country under the sun than this valley of the Snake, with the wonderful Snake river in it.

The hills are full of mineral and only await the magic touch of the "denizens of the metropolis" to make this a country, as rich as any on the continent.

The proposed line will not strike the Teton Basin but will go directly from St. Anthony to the Park, but it is only a question of time when the great rich basin will have a line of its own.

This branch of the Short Line is not all that will be built, but the main line that is sure of construction during the year. This is a road to tap the great mines in the Wood River and Seven Devils, Idaho. The gentleman quoted could not say just where this line would begin or just where it would go. It will be either at Boise City or Payette, probably the latter station. For years the Boise basin of timber has been left in a state of nature, unknown to the lumbermen's ax, but they will now be heard from. The great supply of timber hundreds of miles nearer to this section of country, only continuous waiting for the road to come. It is the opinion of the officers of the road that the work of development of their mining properties along the route will be pushed with vigor, and that the showing these properties made depended the early building of the line. From what the gentleman said the Provo millionaire is taking a serious interest in this scheme and will doubtless push the line through in the near future.

Livestock Agent Tuttle of the Short Line reached the city this morning.

General Agent Miller of the Short Line at Butte, Montana, who has been in the city for several days, returned home this morning.

The officials of the Missouri Pacific have say they are sure that the gate control of the Chicago and Alton, the new acquisition will be under a different management.

The new machinery is being placed in the Rio Grande Western shops. New machinery is also arriving daily. When completed these shops will be among the best equipped in the west.

The trains on the Colorado Midland and the D. & R. G. are all running notwithstanding the great snow storm. No. 1 on the R. G. W. came in this morning only thirty-five minutes late.

A Los Angeles, Cal., dispatch says that W. H. Hoadley has purchased the line of the Salt Lake and Newport railway to J. Ross Clark, the vice president of the Los Angeles Railway company. The exact sum is not known, but it is about $50,000. The railway has three locomotives, Newport, Santa Ana and Westminster. Its total length is 22 miles.

The old story of the sale of the Chicago and Alton is up again. A dispatch from New York last night states that a Wall street news agency gives out the report that the road is being for the benefit of the Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Kansas and Texas. It is also stated that the Alton holders will receive 175 for the common stock and 200 for preferred.

It is reported from Santa Fe that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company will soon begin building a cut off between a point on the Pecos Valley railroad south of Roswell, twenty miles east of Fort Sumner, in Guadalupe county west of Tolera Junction, 20 miles, connecting with the line of the Pacific. This will send all of the transcontinental traffic over the line southwest from Dowlen, Mex., to Texas, and directly west over the new route to Toleta Junction. This saves 250 miles and the heavy Raton and Glorieta range climbs.

Col. Pat Donan is again raise the long-lost and with the effectiveness that he only is capable of. In an interview with a Portland, Oregon, newspaper he states that the Vanderbilts are controlling the Short Line and O. R. and N., which will form a part of one immense system reaching across the continent from New York to Portland. He declares that this will be the foremost transcontinental railroad system, and predicts that it will become second only to New York and Chicago.

QUICK TRIP TO BEAVER.

Made by Senator Tanner and Dr. Wilcox, who Return Today.

Senator Tanner and Dr. C. F. Wilcox arrived in this city this morning after a quick trip to Beaver and consequent loss of sleep. Mr. Tanner of the Legislature left the Oregon Short Line train at Milford last night and this afternoon at 2:20 for Milford, acting on a telegram from the senator's home to the effect that his child was seriously ill. Upon reaching the southern terminus they proceeded by team over the vigil. Dr. Wilcox pronounced the child so much better that they returned over the Milford, taking with them the special was awaiting them, and arrived in town this morning in time to snatch a little sleep before beginning the day's work.

HELLO! HELLO! HELLO!

This—? That's right, I want—.

I want a can of U. S. baking powder and want it big. Last time I bought the grocer made a mistake and gave me another brand. Wouldn't answer at all. Couldn't use it at all. Yes, I'll didn't like it because the food didn't taste right and they all became ill. Now I want U. S. for yes, I depend upon it's being right. We have better health from using it and greater satisfaction in our food.
