The Carnegie Orthography Can Pour Out Emotions Like a Sewer.

New York, Sept. 19.—The annual meeting of members of the Associated Press was held in this city today. Important matters in connection with the service were disposed of.

Thought the members, who included publishers, editors and other representatives of papers taking the Association of Presses, met with several guests.

At dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, presided, and with him at the guests' table were Samuel L. Clemens, who discussed "Roman Spelling," Gen. Horace Porter, term spelling, to France, who referred to the toast, "Our Guests," and J. A. Folger, who talked of "Spelling Reform."

On the subject of "Spelling Reform," Mr. Stone introduced a paper by Mr. J. A. Folger, who discussed "Spelling Reform."

"From that day to this I have been a devoted and hard-working member of the heaven-born institution, the International Association for the Preservation of the Spelling of Words, and now I am laboring with Carnegie's simplified committee, and with my heart in the work."

"Simplified spelling can convey any fact you need to convey, and it can pour out emotions like a sewer. I beg you, I beg you, to get along very well with these old-fashioned forms, and I don't suppose to make any trouble about it at all; I shall soon be where they won't care how I spell as long as I keep the Sabbath. There are $2,000,000 of people that use this orthography and it ought to be simplified in our behalf, but it is kept in its present condition to satisfy 1,000,000 of people who like to have their literature in the old form. That looks to me to be rather selfish, and we keep the forms as they are while we have got a million people coming in here from foreign countries every month and they have got to struggle with this orthography of ours, and it keeps them back and damages their citizenship for years until they learn to spell the language, if they ever do learn. This is merely sentimental argument."

In conclusion Mark Twain said:

"Now you see before you the wreck and ruin of what was once a young person like myself. I am exhausted by the heat of the day; I must take what is left of this wreck, run out of your presence and carry it away to my home and spread it out there and sleep the sleep of the righteous. There is nothing much left of me but my age and my rightness, but I leave with you my love and blessing, and may you always keep your youth." (Prolonged applause.)

TO AVOID DISHONESTY.

A New York Trust Company Will Make Spies of Its Employees.

New York, Sept. 19.—A local trust company has taken a unique step to avoid dishonesty in its affairs. A notice was posted yesterday notifying every employee that if, at any time, he or she has knowledge or suspicion of any irregularities on the part of any of the officers or clerks, it shall be the duty of such employee to notify the executive committee of the board of directors.

The notice also states that the company will not think employees' accomplices if they are dishonest and do not tell and that they will be dealt with accordingly.

The notice is the result of the feeling among bank and trust companies, following the disclosures of robbery in the Milwaukee Avenue bank in Chicago, and the Real Estate Trust company in Philadelphia.

It is understood that at the meeting of the American Bankers' association in St. Louis, next month, a measure of precaution similar to the above, will be urged, which will apply uniformly to all the institutions in the association throughout the country.

SAVED HIS MOTHER.

Henry Hertzfeld Arrives in New York Just in Time to Stop Her Deportation.

New York, Sept. 19.—Henry Hertzfeld, a farmer living near Tappan, N.J., reached New York yesterday in time to save his aged mother, whom he had not seen in 35 years, from deportation to Germany, from which country she arrived in the United States six days ago. Hertzfeld had started from Tappan before her arrival to meet her here, and consequently the telegram to immigration authorities sent Hertzfeld did not reach him. The immigration officials had decided to deport Mrs. H. on a steamer which sailed today.

EMPIRE STATE GOVERNORSHIP

Norman E. Mack Wants to Know If Mayor Adams of Buffalo Will Take Nomination.

MR. HEARST NOW IMPOSSIBLE.

New York Democracy Must Stay With the Democracy of the Nation.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Norman E. Mack of the national Democratic committee for the state of New York, addressed a letter to Mayor James Noble Adams today, requesting a frank answer as to whether he would accept the Democratic nomination for governor of the state if tendered him. In his letter Mr. Mack says:

"For some months, as you are aware, I have been favorable to the nomination for governor of Congressman W. R. Hearst, believing that he was the strongest and most available man for the party to nominate."

"On Wednesday night of last week I favored Mr. Hearst's nomination by the Democratic convention, but the Independence league nominated Mr. Hearst and a full state ticket and adopted a platform of principles."

"I am, therefore, now, and have been since the nomination, opposed to the nomination of Mr. Hearst by the Democratic convention, which is to meet here next Tuesday. No matter how much he or others might try to make it appear that this is not a legal nomination, it has been made to appear so, and it is my duty to oppose it."

"I have reached a time of life, 59 years and a half, where none of the concerns of this world have much interest for me personally, because, in the little while that I have got to remain here, I can get along very well with these old-fashioned forms, and I don't suppose to make any trouble about it at all; I shall soon be where they won't care how I spell as long as I keep the Sabbath. There are $2,000,000 of people that use this orthography and it ought to be simplified in our behalf, but it is kept in its present condition to satisfy 1,000,000 of people who like to have their literature in the old form. That looks to me to be rather selfish, and we keep the forms as they are while we have got a million people coming in here from foreign countries every month and they have got to struggle with this orthography of ours, and it keeps them back and damages their citizenship for years until they learn to spell the language, if they ever do learn. This is merely sentimental argument."

In conclusion Mark Twain said:

"Now you see before you the wreck and ruin of what was once a young person like myself. I am exhausted by the heat of the day; I must take what is left of this wreck, run out of your presence and carry it away to my home and spread it out there and sleep the sleep of the righteous. There is nothing much left of me but my age and my rightness, but I leave with you my love and blessing, and may you always keep your youth." (Prolonged applause.)

THE DEMOCRACY OF THE EMPIRE STATE must stay with the Democracy of the nation, and the Democratic party will never die or surrender.

"I would say that if the Democratic party in convention assembled demands of any true and loyal Democrat that he serve his party and the people, it is his duty to respond, even against his personal preference, and to stand or fall fighting in the good old-fashioned way for his party and principles. The Democratic party knows its own mind and will express its own choice, and if this is done freely and without dictation or compulsion, it is the duty of every Democrat to aid in the battle and assist in winning it. Whosoever the Democratic party, free from dictation, should select as its standard-bearer, that man should accept and fight to a finish for true Democracy."

JEROME'S VIEWS.

New York, Sept. 19.—In a long interview given out tonight, Dist. Atty. William Travers Jerome, a candidate for the governorship of New York, defines his attitude on various issues and gives views on political and matters in the present gubernatorial campaign.

"There are, in my judgment," says Mr. Jerome, "some very serious issues which seem not to have been touched upon at all in the present discussion of political questions. I have always contended that there was practically little political liberty for the people, that they were simply given a choice between candidates, none of whom was of their own selection."

"The first step of paramount necessity is for the people to gain control and fight to the last ditch for the ballot used in Massachusetts, namely, a ballot on which there is no party column."

"We had the Massachusetts ballot in this state, together with the privilege of nomination by petition, the decent people of the state always would have it in their power to correct the mistakes and wrong-doing of a political party."

"The starch must be put back into the civil service to the very limit. The decent people of this state, irrespective of party, do not desire that their appointive public offices should be used as briber to perpetuate political power. Second, there should be a great extension of the corrupt-practices act and a rigid enforcement of the principles."

"I believe thoroughly in home rule as a Democratic principle. I believe that every municipality should have the power to perform for itself all those services which involve the granting of public franchises, such services as are usually performed by what are called public service corporations. For instance, I believe that New York City should have the right to own and operate gas, electricity and all car lines."

Asked as to his opinion of the present strength of the state of Wm. R. Hearst, Mr. Jerome said:

"I think precisely what I have always thought about it—that the strength of Hearst rests entirely on the cowardice of the men who assume to the Democratic leaders but who do not and cannot lead the Democrats of the state. This state is as naturally and normally Democratic as Pennsylvania is Republican. But the Democrats up the state are men of probity and intelligence, and are moved by appeals to patriotic principle, and they would no more think of following off-off which leader set himself up as the Democratic organization than they would of following Pontius Pilate or Judas Iscariot."

"If at the Buffalo convention it should appear that Hearst had great strength, you would find the great majority of delegates would be falling over one another in their desire to be proclaimed as the original Hearst man. If, on the other hand, the preliminary conferences go to show that Hearst's strength is overestimated, the rats that would sell out the Democratic party for their own self-interest would find no more to do than to follow a Hearst man to discover a Hearst man in Buffalo."

Mr. Jerome bitterly assails Norman E. Mack and W. J. Conners of Buffalo, who, he said, would ruin the Democratic party purely out of self-interest, and pays his respects to C. F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. A very considerable part of the interview is devoted to an uncompromising review of W. R. Hearst's political career.

WANT ROOSEVELT FOR PRESIDENT

Washington State Republican Convention Demands His Renomination.

DECLARE IT IS NECESSARY.

Urgently Requested to Lay Aside Personal Wishes and Yield to Those of the People.

Seattle, Sept. 19.—In Republican state convention today, candidates were nominated for Congress and the supreme bench, all of the present incumbents being renominated as follows:

For Judge of the Supreme Court—Herman D. Crow and Wallace Mount, Spokane; Milo A. Root, Seattle; Ralph O. Dunbar, Goldendale.

A feature of the convention was the adoption by a rising vote of a resolution "demanding" the renomination of President Roosevelt in 1908, on the ground that "it is necessary to the good of the people, and the nomination of another man will seriously interfere with the consummation of those great economical ideas inaugurated by him during his present tenure of office."

It is not thought probable that another state convention will be held in Washington, for the reason that the platform of every Republican and Democratic county convention as well as the Republican state convention declared for the direct primary.

U. S. Senator S. P. Piles was temporary chairman, and Judge S. G. Conner, of Garfield, permanent chairman of the convention.

Jones has been nominated five times; Cushman four times, and Humphrey three times consecutively. Jones is one of the members of the Congress whom Samuel Gompers has called war on, in his speech to the convention. Mr. Jones replied to Mr. Gompers, declaring that he was opposed to American labor constructing the Panama canal, declaring that the isthmus was no place for American labor on account of its fevers and other diseases which none but the man used to tropical climates can withstand.

The following resolutions introduced in the state convention by T. D. Rockwell of Spokane, were adopted by a rising vote amid great enthusiasm:

"Whereas, By frequent expressions in the public press, President Roosevelt has said he does not desire a renomination for the office of president, and

"Whereas, Many great reforms as well as great national undertakings affecting the growth, welfare and prosperity of the country have been inaugurated and commenced through the personal efforts of President Roosevelt, and

"Whereas, The election of any other than Theodore Roosevelt to the office of president will surely interfere with the consummation of these great economical ideas, and

"Resolved, By the Republican party of the state of Washington in convention assembled,

"First, That it is necessary to the good of the people that Theodore Roosevelt be elected to succeed himself as president of the United States."

"Second, That we demand his renomination at the hands of the next Republican national convention."

"Third, That President Roosevelt be and he is hereby urgently requested to lay aside his personal wishes and act in accordance with a patriotic sense of duty to his country, yield to the demand of the people by accepting a renomination should it be tendered."

The number of cattle killed was 58,582. The other side of the account shows that 65,146 snakes and 18,121 wild animals were killed.
