AN AUSPICIOUS EVENT.

Commencement Exercises of the University of Utah.

Thirty Graduates—Essay and Orations—Addresses and Music—Grads and Intelligence.

Today marks the twenty-fifth year in the history of Utah's cherished institution, her University. Its friends felt honored when at the hour named for the rendition of the program the Theater was filled with Territorial and city officials, professional men, Alumni and other residents of the city and Territory. At 10:30 o'clock the graduates, thirty in number, appeared and were given prominent places on the platform. On the right were Governor West, Rev. C. T. Brown, Acting President Kingsbury, Judge Harkness, A. H. Cannon and the orator of the day, Hon. W. H. King, ex-President J. R. Park and the present faculty of the University. Upon the left were members of the class of '91.

The program was opened with music by the orchestra, this being followed with prayer by Rev. Clarence T. Brown.

Miss Dorothy Bowman then advanced and read, in a full clear tone, an admirable essay upon the subject "Lowell." No synopsis that can be here given would do the effort justice.

D. W. Moffat followed with an oration upon the subject, "An Ideal in Modern Education," which was a most excellent production.

At the close of Mr. Moffat's oration, the audience was favored with music by the orchestra.

Hon. W. H. King of Provo, then delivered an eloquent oration, of which the following is a synopsis:

"Illusory hopes are too often planted in the human breast. Fame, worldly love, are thought to be the aim of human endeavor. It is not my purpose to present a scholastic address. I speak to you as a friend—I speak to you on the activities of life, its duties and responsibilities. Much of the instruction of the past has not been correct. Compensation is God's law; you, my friends, are its recipients. If you fail and the jagged cliffs encompass you, it will be because the law has been broken. It has been said that your work when you leave the school room is complete. This is only the beginning—the portal. I would not discriminate between the teaching the classics and that which is utilitarian. Empiricism has existed in the past. The scientific must supplant it. Mammonism sitting on her golden hill has much to do with the modern curriculum. Talleyrand says 'Language is made to conceal thought.' Many so-called philosophers have been content when the founts of wisdom have not been seen.

"We are told that we must gauge the past with monuments. I preach down the doctrine that is satisfied with contentment. You remember the mountain stream. It is far more interesting than the quiet stream. When Napoleon shall have been exercised; when Cæsar shall have gone into oblivion, the poor monk shall still survive. I would rather be Adam Bede than Cæsar crowned. The test of true greatness is what the heart is. This is your personality. 'As a man thinketh, so he is.' Often the standard given by the world is an untrue one. Emerson forgets his transcendentalism and deals with realities. The education of the future must place us in harmony. When we have true education we shall have no asceticism, no agnosticism to sap the foundations of society. Work is not demeaning. There is something preeminently noble in work. There is hope for him who is industrious. We must 'work while the day lasts; the night cometh when no man can work.' We want to erect on every mountain peak and in every vale our goddess—Work. Work is a virtue of the heart. Intellectuality means broad, progressive thinking. It is fashionable in some places to decry this work. It is wrong for parents, for teachers, to inculcate such an idea. True greatness underlies the foundation of good government. Some day in the future we shall stand upon the highest summit of harmonious development.

"The education of the future will be more homogeneous. We have been carried away with the sophistry of Spencer. The realities of life call for great men. You will go forth to carry into the world the principles you have learned. Success, honor is yours if your motives are good. Utah is proud of the University, proud of the young men and women she has sent forth. Her mission is a noble one; she is grandly fulfilling it."

At the close of Mr. King's oration, the diplomas and certificates were conferred by Professor Kingsbury in a brief, well chosen address. The degree of Master of Science was conferred upon Mr. W. D. Neal, and that of Bachelor of Science upon Mr. George Q. Coray.

Judge Harkness then arose and stated that on account of the long and eminent services of Prof. J. T. Kingsbury, his devotion to the cause of education, his refusal of personal advancement, giving the preference to another—the new president of the University—the regents had decided to confer the degree of LL. D. upon him, the second in the history of the institution, the first being conferred upon Dr. J. R. Park.

The audience were then again entertained with music, during the rendition of which, the graduates were made the recipients of a profusion of nature's choicest floral products.

Gov. West delivered a brief address, in which he stated that he was present in common with other citizens to witness the triumphs of the University. "While in this country there are no titles of distinction, each one has been given a patent of nobility. Give to your alma mater your earnest support. We are proud of this institution. It yet needs your support—the support of every citizen—to the end that its usefulness may be strengthened and increased."

Following the excellent address of Governor West, only a very brief address of which is here given, came the benediction by Elder A. H. Cannon, and with that the commencement exercises of 1894 passed into history.

Following is a list of post graduates and of other graduates for the year 1894:

EIGHTH GRADE GRADUATES.

They Were Given a Reception at the High School This Afternoon.

A reception to the graduates of the eighth grades of the city schools was given by the pupils of the High school at the High school assembly room at 1:30 this afternoon, and proved to be a most interesting occasion.

The exercises consisted of addresses of welcome by representatives of the first, second, third and fourth year classes of the high school and responses by pupils from the Hamilton, Webster, Lincoln, Bryant, Fourteenth, Jackson, Lowell and Washington schools and from the supplementary grammar grade. Following came an exercise in physical culture, which was witnessed by a large and attentive audience.

An address was given by Superintendent Millspaugh welcoming the pupils to the high school. Pupils should, he said, pursue their studies with the same vigor that has characterized their former efforts. It was a lamentable fact that many turn aside from an educational course before the work of the same was fairly commenced. Every pupil should follow some pursuit during vacation. Find something to do—something that will develop muscle. The girls should be introduced to the kitchen and learn the domestic arts. Come to your new sphere invigorated and prepared for a career of earnest work in the High school.

The pupils were then presented to the president of the board of education, Colonel Wm. Nelson, who welcomed the young people most heartily. He stated that the new additions each year came to the High school with increased power and preparation. He endorsed heartily Dr. Millspaugh's sentiments concerning students' preparation for the active duties of life. He counseled them to hold their ideal high, and not be content with achievements not won by persevering industry.

This new addition to the High School may well feel proud of the cordial reception given today. A large number of visitors were present, including the following members of the board of education: Messrs. Alff, Hansen, Nelson, Young, Bowie, Westergard and Baldwin.

OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, - JUNE 12, 1894.

FOR ADULTERY.

Several Arrests Have Been Made by the U. S. Deputy Marshals.

A. Cook and Jane Doe Cook were arrested in Rich county recently charged with adultery. On giving bonds to the amount of $500 and $300 respectively they were allowed their liberty.

C. C. Anderson was arrested in Logan Sunday last charged with adultery. He gave the necessary bond and was released.

The deputies next called at Portage, where they arrested Thomas Dixon on a similar charge. The offense was alleged to have been committed with Rose Ann Howell. He was released on a $200 bond.

County Court.

Yesterday the regular meeting of the county court took place. Considerable business was gone through.

The Wangsgaard investigation was taken up and occupied the entire afternoon until 9 o'clock in the evening. Some time since allegations were made in public against Selectman Wangsgaard, of Huntsville, in which, among other things, it was charged that in letting contracts and employing men to the county work he discriminated in favor of those who do their trading at his store, and otherwise used his office for the benefit of his personal interests. The court, in justice to all parties concerned, decided to investigate the allegations, and yesterday a number of witnesses were examined. Judge Rhodes was attorney for the petitioners. The entire case, at the conclusion of the hearing, was referred to the county attorney, in order to ascertain the jurisdiction the court had therein. He is to report at the session of the court on Monday next, instead of Tuesday.

In The Probate Court.

In the matter of the estate of W. McFarland, the Court made an order for hearing the petition of Wm. McFarland and Robert McFarland, praying for letters of administration on Saturday, June 23rd.

A Good Work Completed.

A statement of the number of, and also the description of the buildings in Ogden has just been completed by Fire Department Chief Holmes. It shows there are 1,761 frame structures, 1,110 brick, 155 adobe, 11 stone and 14 iron, making a total of 3,051 buildings in the city.

Commencement Exercises.

The Grand was filled to its utmost capacity last evening by people interested in the welfare of the schools of Ogden city. The stage was decorated with national colors, and flowers in abundance. The members of the board of education were seated on the right, the graduates to the left, and in the rear were a group of ladies entwined in wreaths of flowers. At 8 o'clock the assemblage was called to order by Professor Page, and an excellent program was rendered in a most satisfactory manner.

Sylvester, Alias Short.

Yesterday morning a hearing was had before Judge Bigley on the application of a writ of habeas corpus in the case of C. D. Sylvester, alias C. Short, the man arrested recently on suspicion of being wanted in California. An officer from the West arrived in Ogden last night and applied for extradition papers to Governor West, but as Short's attorney was granted a hearing before the governor before the needed papers were issued, the inquiry in the justice's court was postponed until Saturday next, pending the Governor's decision.
