Notes.

A pleasant surprise party was given at the residence of Elder Alexander Wilkins in the Second ward, Monday evening, in honor of Sister Lillie Barney, the mother of Sister Wilkins. Sister Barney was 81 years of age, and about forty of her descendants enjoyed the birthday celebration with her. She is enjoying good health and her mental faculties are bright, and she bore a strong testimony to the truth of the Gospel to the assembled relatives. Sister Barney was baptized in May, 1841, and has been a faithful member of the Church since that time, arriving in Utah in 1851. Her husband, Elder Elisha Harvey, is 90 years of age, and is now on a visit to relatives in Bevier county.

Mrs. Rachel Ann Gatherum died Monday evening from neuralgia of the heart; she leaves a husband five children, the youngest three weeks old, to mourn her departure. The funeral took place this afternoon in the Fourth ward meeting house.

Judge W. S. Arnold of Dwight, Illinois, the legal representative of the Keeley Institute, and David G. Union of Salt Lake were Provo visitors yesterday. Judge Arnold will lecture on the Keeley treatment in the court house next Saturday evening.

Tom. N. Taylor is constructing a bicycle track on two city lots, leased from the Brigham Young Academy, on the corner of Eighth and G streets.

Mrs. Sarah Brewerton of Payson died suddenly last Sunday from heart failure. She was born in Salt Lake City in 1853.

A new wool washer, capable of washing 4,000 pounds daily, was received by the Woolen mills yesterday.

Hon. David Evans of Ogden was in Provo yesterday on legal business.

A CONJURER'S TALE OF WOE.

Confederate Produced a Handful of Change Instead of a Marked Dollar.

Carl Retz, the Illusionist, was talking of some of the accidents that sometimes spoil the art of the conjurer.

"It was in Nashville," he said, "that I experienced a real lemon down there. I was performing the well known trick of passing a marked coin into the center of an sealed orange, at least that's what a good many people thought I was doing. I used a silver dollar, and substituted the trick by passing the coin into the pocket of some boy whom I had stationed on to the stage.

"I will openly confess that the boy had to be a confederate, and that the marked dollar had to follow in one previously prepared by me. One night, as I was executing the trick, I had stationed for a lively youth to aid me in my double dealing. I packed a boy and promised to pay him six if he would follow my instructions.

"'I am a conjurer,' I said. 'I want you to put this dollar in your right hand trousers pocket. I'll get you a seat in the front row. When I ask for some boy to come up the stage, you must come. Then I will ask you to produce the dollar.'

"The boy promised everything, and, after making strange faces for him at the door, I left him. When I was ready for the dollar trick, I saw my young confederate sitting upon a bench in the front row. I had prevailed upon another member of the audience to lend me a dollar marked exactly as was that I had given to the boy.

"I passed that borrowed dollar into the orange, cut the fruit open, and out dropped the coin. 'Take it and see,' I said to the boy.

"'And now, ladies and gentlemen, I will perform a trick more difficult first. I have passed that dollar into an orange. Now I will ask some member of the audience to step on the stage, and, without going anywhere near him, I will pass the same dollar, marked, as you have seen, into his right hand trousers pocket.'

"True to his bargain, the boy stepped to the stage. I stepped to some him and asked:

"'Now, sir, have you ever seen me before?'

"'No, sir,' was the answer.

"'I have been a dollar,' I continued. 'I am going to pass it into your right hand trousers pocket. One—two—three—go!'

"I made the proper magician's pass and smiled confidently upon my audience.

"'Now,' I said to my assistant, 'put your hand into your right hand trousers pocket and give me the dollar.'

"The boy looked a bit downcast, but he dived his fist down. Then, to my unutterable horror, he produced a handful of silver and said:

"'I've only got 90 cents of it left, sir.'

"I went out in a hurry and took a drink."—New York Times.
