HORRORS OF WAR

Scenes on the Chen Yuen While the Battle Raged.

WHAT AN OFFICER SAW,

The Decks Strewn with Fragments of Human Bodies.

SAILORS DRENCHED IN BLOOD.

The Sights Seen Enough to Make Strings Forever Such Cruel Sundials Forever.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A British naval officer attached to the Chinese naval squadron engaged in the fight off the mouth of the Yalu river, has written a letter to the Graphic, in which he says: "On board the warship Chen Yuen the fighting was awful. The decks and the space around the guns were strewn with human fragments. Three of five men working on a Hotchkiss gun were blown up by a shell from the Japanese warship Naniwa. The fourth gunner was shot while trying to escape from the turret, and the fifth stuck to his post. The man fired three rounds at the Naniwa, one shell entering the engine room of the Japanese ship and another crashing her fore bridge. The Naniwa then landed off. The Chinese central rewarded the surviving gunner with a present of 1,000 taels.

A shot glanced from the steel deck of the Chen Yuen and went through her lower, shattering everything therein. A lieutenant in the act of speaking through a tube leading to the engine room was blown into atoms and his head was left hanging to the speaking piece.

High pieces of armor was carried on board by the shot, crushing a large number of sailors to a shapeless mass. A European engineer giving orders in the endeavor to repair the steam pipe was crushed from head to foot with the blood of an assistant who was disembowered by a shot from the enemy's ship.

The writer expresses the opinion that if the European rulers could have seen the decks of the Chen Yuen they would have thrown up war forever.

ANTI-SEMITISM STEADILY INCREASING.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 2.—The anti-Jewish feeling at Paris is increasing daily and the authorities find it difficult to repress outbreaks of the Chinese population. The leading Chinese representatives at Paris fear that if the Japanese march upon Pekin the capital will be captured, as the Chinese soldiers gathered to defend it are dissatisfied and unreliable. It is reported that Li Hung Chang has received orders not to proceed to Corea.

MOVEMENTS OF THE JAPANESE.

TIEN TSIN, Oct. 2.—It is officially announced that 3,000 Japanese troops have arrived at Corea by Fusan and the Russian frontier. Previous to this announcement it was reported here that a Japanese fleet had been sighted September 20th, ten miles from Shan Hai Kwan, 200 miles from Pekin. Large bodies of Chinese troops have been ordered to that district the last few days, to prevent the Japanese from landing.

CORBETT STILL REFUSES.

O'Donnell, He Says, Is Good Enough For Him.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 2.—James J. Corbett cannot be induced to waive his position regarding the pugilistic championship. He said today: "I am disgusted with this whole business, but I propose to hold to my contention and to meet Fitzsimmons until after he has beaten O'Donnell and demonstrated his ability to meet me in my class." When asked what he thought of the ultimatum issued by the Olympic club he said: "That concern is trying to work me, but cannot do it. I will not be satisfied, O'Donnell is good enough for Fitzsimmons."

Painfully Injured.

A MARION, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Two passenger trains on the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling road collided at St. Paul's station today. Several passengers were painfully but not seriously injured. Among the injured are Mrs. Kate McKelvey, of Uniontown (Ohio) Miss Mahan, sister of Rev. Father Mahan, the only William Fife, A. E. Hade, Rev. J. D. Lewis, of Canton, Ohio; J. A. Adams, Mrs. J. D. Miller.

A Famous Striker in Prison.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 2.—In the county jail, Merlin Irons, whose name was made famous by the conspicuous part he took in the great railroad strike in 1886, is a prisoner, charged with hard attempted to assault the 7-year-old Boshko Schroder. The child's mother is complainant.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Howling Party Comes to Grief through an Explosion.

PERRY, O. T., Oct. 2.—An accident occurred last night in the Osage Nation north of here by which one man will lose his life and probably several others will die. Mr. and Mrs. Lee, Drake and their daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stewart and their four children started on a hunt for plover and as they were crossing a fork of Black Bear creek a large package of powder ignited and the clothing of every person in the wagon was on fire.

Mr. Stewart, who was driving, was blown out of the wagon, as were also Mrs. Drake and her daughter. Stewart's clothing was burning and he had to unhitch the horses and they ran away. Stewart was horribly mangled and burned. The other persons in the wagon ran and jumped into the creek and succeeded in putting the fire out, but not until several of the party were seriously burned. The entire party had nearly all their clothing burned from them. All were carried to a small country store near by and physicians summoned, but it is believed that the wife, two of the children and Miss Drake cannot live.

Made Five Members Sentenced.

BOISE, Oct. 2.—The trials of the members of the Mala Vita society at Lucette, near Pocatello, was finished today. Fourteen of the accused were acquitted and sixty-eight sentenced to terms almost varying from five to ten years.

Republicans in Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2.—Returns from the twenty towns in Connecticut shows unprecedented gains for the Republicans in the town elections yesterday. The legislature has not elected Republican officers in years with Hopkins (now by a thousand majority. In Waterbury (in A. P. A. movement) showed the Catholics who carried the entire school board, Cathcart, in New Haven, the notorious Yale saw fight was in progress. The Democratic speeches have been under constant discussion during the year. In almost all of the towns the A. P. A. met with defeat. Meriden, Norwich, Stonington and New Milford, Democratic for years, were captured by the Republicans. New London elected a Democratic mayor, disposing the Republicans. The Republicans, however captured all the other offices.

Laborers Not Sound the Loss.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—A reduction of wages in the rolling department of the Granite plate works of the St. Louis stamping company is announced. Tomorrow Needham's saw mills will close for three months at the Nashua, one shell entering the engine room of the Japanese ship and another crashing her fore bridge. The Nashua then landed off. The Chinese central rewarded the surviving gunner with a present of 1,000 taels.

HIS CAREER ENDED.

A Once Noted Politician Dies in Abject Poverty.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 2.—Col. J. David McClure, once a wealthy and influential politician and a prominent member of state affairs, was found dead last night on a dirty cot in the basement of a 25-cent lodging house in Custom House Place.

Col. McClure, as he was known, was born at Madison, Ind., fifty years ago. His father, Dr. McClure, was one of the most respected citizens of the place and gave to his son an excellent education. When he arrived at manhood he went to Louisville, Ky., where he married, his wife's family being of the blue bloods of Kentucky. On the breaking out of the war he returned to Madison and enlisted for the Union in a regiment from that place as a private, served all through the war and returned home with the rank of captain. He again went to Louisville and shortly after inherited an estate worth $100,000. His career in Chicago, Ill., is a matter of recent history. The fortune soon became more. He soon squandered his wife parted from him, and by the time his fortune had been squandered his wife parted from him, and by the time his fortune had been squandered he was ready to give up his old habits. When Grover Cleveland was inaugurated President the first time Col. McClure was given a position under the internal revenue collector at Louisville, Ky., the position he lost with the change of administration in 1888 and then came to Chicago and for a time prospered. But disengagement attending loss of income and employment led him to resort to the former habits, and step by step he went downward until the end came in a miserable hovel.

Disappearance of a Deacon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—F. E. Yates, a steamer for the coast mines of Oregon, left the Kent street, New York, disappeared from the Baldwin hotel in this city two months ago and nothing has since been heard from him. A month later a woman called at the hotel inquiring for the man who was Yale's wife and intimating that he had been a long absent from her so to accuse her alone. She repeated her inquiries on successive days and the hotel manager, becoming suspicious, wrote to Mrs. Yates Hyde Park in New York. The reply was a guarantee of the hotel bill and a request that the trunks be returned to New York. When his baggage was at the hotel, Yates had no money. His name at the police is unknown. His nearest relative is a brother, the name of the firm and friends is considered singular, inasmuch as he was seen on the streets after the telegraphic communication with his employers.

JUMPED OVERBOARD.

Attempt to Commit Suicide by a Steamboat Passenger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—H. Tattola, a passenger on the steamer Arapahoe, which left for southern ports a few days ago, attempted suicide at sea by jumping overboard with his wife in his arms. Tattola was coaching for General Harrill when the latter was president of Guatemala, and when Harrillas was deposed Tattola lost his reason. He was sent home for treatment and was returning to Guatemala with his wife, apparently normal. Now, however, he again became insane and on the seventh day out grasped his wife in his arms and jumped overboard. A boat was promptly lowered and the sailors at sea saw the couple were on board again not much the worse for their plunge.

Robert Yulee Tumble Dead.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Robert Yulee Tumble died at the emigrant hospital last night. He was associate editor of the Chicago World. The deceased was a nephew of Robert Tumble, the famous senator from Georgia. Although possessed of large means, he preferred an active life to that of idle landowner. He was the friend of Mr. Dinsey's millions and was a frequent contributor to the Eastern magazines.

The Train Robbers Overtaken.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 2.—The train robbers were overtaken about sixteen miles east of Phoenix by sheriffs. A fight ensued in which one robber was killed, wounded and another was captured. The third escaped.

STABBED TO DEATH.

Silvero Lewis, a Prominent Historian, Cruelly Killed.

CENSORSHIP IN SAN SALVADOR.

The Author Had Written a History of the Country not Satisfactory to Leita's Friends.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The steamer Costa brings news of murder and assassination in San Salvador. Silvero A. Lewis, a prominent literary man, had written a history of the country and was about to take passage on the Costa for San Francisco to have his history published. Some parts of the history did not speak favorably of the Leita government and on the day the steamer was to sail the historian was found with a dagger in his heart. Several of the manuscripts could be found and it is thought Lewis had been murdered to prevent the publication of the full of the Costaran Peripatetic Figaro, a weekly journal, was considerable in his comedy resistance. The house had been searched as though the murder was been the work of somebody there was a motive that his death was for political reasons.

A FIRE SHIP.

Activity on the Maine to Fit Her for Relief.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The battleship Maine continues to be the scene of much activity. All possible speed is being made to fit her for the coming official trial, and though the alterations and adjustments have necessarily since the initial appearance of the Maine in water were it finished, some days at least must elapse before she will again go to sea.

"The vessel," said Commander Bauer, "is still in the hands of the contractors. There is really very little to be done. We know absolutely nothing about the details and the whole matter rests with the contractors. On the trip of a few days ago nothing is account was received regarding her speed. It was purely what might be termed an engine exercise and the newspaper reports must be regarded for what they are worth."

Continuing, Commander Bauer said, with evident pleasure, "our American official trials are much more severe than those resulted to in England. There the test ground is a measured mile. Now with us we go for a four hours' spin to show a horse power of speed, and I remember when I was on the Alabama we had six different trials before she passed into the hands of the American government."

Referring to the steering capabilities of the Maine, Captain Bauer said: "It is as the Maine, now would think she was a big lubberly, unwieldy thing. She is nothing of the sort. She answered the slightest motion of her helm and comes to hand quicker than any ship I have ever been on."

CONDUCTORS ARRESTED.

They are Charged with Dishonesty Toward their Employers.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 2.—High Constable Bloomsett, of Montreal, has arrived in the city with a warrant for the arrest of three passenger conductors on the Grand Trunk railway. Twain now in custody, Fred Tamlin and C. A. De Foe. The charge is that they allowed passengers to ride without paying their fare or having paid their fare, appropriated it to their own use. The Grand Trunk Railway appears to have undertaken a plot to detect it. A few days ago two young men—Harry Wilkinson and Edgar Tillotson—were arrested in Montreal on a charge of lodging railway passes. This led to the arrest in that city Friday of Conductors John Mulligan and John Shore. The charge was altered to that of defrauding the company out of the price of tickets. The arrests made in Toronto were a sequel to those made in Montreal.

Extensive Grading.

ERIE, Ind., Oct. 2.—Wesley Anderson, a wealthy farmer residing two miles west of here, is strictly opposed to depositing money in the banks. Some time since he placed a roll of greenbacks, aggregating nearly $300 in the stove. His wife, unaware of the whereabouts of the money, built a fire in the stove last night and the greenbacks served as kindling.

A Corporation May Die, but the Franchise Remains.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—The U. S. court of appeals today reversed the decision of the circuit court in the case of the City of Detroit against the Citizens' Street railway, holding that the street railway franchise for thirty years was irrevocable, notwithstanding the expiration of the corporate life of the company at the end of fourteen years.

WICHITA, KAS., Oct. 2.—In the tornado which played leap frog through the northern part of the city last night building after all kinds were demolished, twisted out of shape and removed from the foundations, yet the occupants were not harmed except bruised and scratched, and not a single fatality happened. From note the twister blew and the apparent northwest. From what can be learned from surrounding towns the storm seems to have swept clean to Winfield.

THE TOWER OF THE WEST.

To the reporters Hill said: "I must decline to say anything at a political nature." It is rumored, however, that the "Senator Hill has not yet accepted the nomination."

UNDER THE COVER OF LAW.

New York Policemen Charged with Brutality.

They Commit Felonies that Would Land Citizens in Jail, but Go Unpunished.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The stabbing of the police was the subject of today's inquiry by the Lexow committee. About fifty policemen were present. They were, said Lawyer Frank Moss, officers convicted by the board of police for clubbing citizens.

"Our object," the attorney continued, "is to show that while there had been a hundred convictions the past three years for clubbing, only one criminals were secured. We allege that the board encourages clubbing by the police department in parade." Duff noted that the one case made only he was for clubbing a citizen, the other three being for clubbing brother officers.

Then Goff made the astounding statement:

"Policemen commit felonies which women can a civilian is jailed and are only punished by a fine. A citizen may be arrested and a brutal officer will only have to tear a probable fine of 10 to 20 days. We call upon the committee to the perjury of the committee when these witnesses are brought to trial. To quote the language of the union commissioner, the air of a pickpocket witness and oath is full of perjury."

Lawyer Moss was sworn. He testified that he was counsel to the Parkhurst society and a member of the executive committee. He then told of the efforts of the West Twenty-fifth Street Property owners' association to purify the block. Captain Alexander S. Williams and a small men attended to the Lexington Meeting association to tell them to stop work, or he would shut them out of the precinct. Moss said he replied: "Go and tell your captain that he will explode a can of dynamite if he tackles us." Then witness told Williams and been brought in jail in July, 1891, and all through the evidence was complete, as was supplied on a vile vile.

The E. P. and S. F. Arrangement.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 2.—It is understood that the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific are about to enter into a close traffic arrangement either at Butte or Helena. This will give the Northern Pacific another route and will give the Union Pacific another line to the Northern Pacific coast and will be a strong competitor with the Burlington, which recently opened a line to Billings and signed into close traffic arrangement with the Northern Pacific.

THE GRAND OPENING.

First Day of the Utah Exposition for 1894.

IMPOSING MILITARY PAGEANT.

On the Ground—Great Crowds in Attendance—The Fair a Huge Success.

Appearances in and about the Exposition building and grounds yesterday afternoon plainly indicated that the Fair would be in fine shape for the grand opening this morning, and so it was. On Saturday it looked like exhibits would be late with the arrangement of their exhibits, but they made up time rapidly, and wrought wonderful transformations between Saturday evening and this morning.

The gates were open at an early hour, and exhibits dressed in more or less sheeting, but not in very large numbers until the grand military pageant arrived at the Exposition grounds. A few minutes of people accompanied and followed it, so that the main building was thronged by the time the multitude was called to order to listen to the opening exercises.

GRAND MILITARY PAGEANT.

Considerable promptness was shown by the militia in and near this city, in appearing on the spot designated for the formation of the grand military pageant, which was to signal in the opening of the Utah Exposition for 1894. Infantry companies A, B C, of Ogden city, and C of Tooele, cavalry troop C of this city, and batteries A, of the city, and B, of Ogden, were all punctuality on the ground.

But the Union Pacific train from the north was late, and so it was five companies of infantry, five troops of cavalry and two from Richmond, Brigham city and Farmington. Here after to Ogden it was given out that the train would arrive at 11:00, and it was determined to wait the parade until the troops from the north should get in. Orders were issued for the other to march direct to government building as soon as the train should reach the depot. In the meantime a hollow square, facing south, was formed of militia above named and waiting in the street, ready to wheel into line as soon as the necessary order should be given. On arrival of the delayed companies in the government building on Fifth East street, the commanding officers were called together by Col. Lewis, and instructed as to the details of the parade.

The military column consisted of the following: Hoyt's band; carriage containing the governor and secretary of the Territory; the staff of the commander-in-chief; the infantry comprising two companies, Battery A, with four mountain howitzers, two Gatling guns; battery B, with two cannon; cavalry troop C. While marching the column presented a splendidly fine and martial appearance, characterized by precision of movement and a creditable bearing.

At 1:00 p.m. the line was formed, Governor West and Secretary Roberts having a carriage in the front. Next came the Governor's staff, Adjutant General Ottinger and others. These were followed by the uniformed infantry, military and cavalry, in the order of rank.

The "boys in blue" of the National Guard made an excellent showing as they moved steadily along in military order, and were admired everywhere. The route lay from the government building on the Exposition, to Second South, then west to State street, north to South Temple, west to East Temple, south to Fourth South, and then to the Exposition building, on the square between Fifth and Sixth East streets. In each of the columns were the columns received the Fair grounds, where a large crowd of people had assembled to be present at the opening exercises.

OPENING EXERCISES.

The militia detached immediately on reaching the Fair grounds, and after Col. John R. Winder called to order the assemblage in the main building, and introduced Elder John Henry Smith, who offered the opening prayer.

Col. Winder then introduced Governor West, who made an eloquent address. The great Governor said in his introduction in giving to the people of Utah were a country so favorably situated. When the Pioneers arrived in the valley, it was a wilderness of weeds, including sagebrush. But they brought tools, seeds, plants, and a community and build a great state. Forty-seven years ago they numbered only 143 souls; now we have a population of nearly 250,000. Greater than all this was the people have accomplished, are the people themselves, strong, sturdy, honest men, and noble, intelligent women, make up their numbers. (Applause.)

It is but than six months since the sturdy young men of this Territory were permitted to lawfully exercise themselves into a militia, yet where will you find a finer looking lot of men wearing the uniform of our country. Look we have seen here today? (Applause.) If called upon to defend their country, they would go forth to do so as cheerfully as a strongroom would go to meet his bride.

The achievements of the organizations giving this Exposition are of a most remarkable and combination character, in aiding to develop the resources of Utah. But much yet remains to be done in the way of bringing forth the natural wealth of our fair Territory, and establishing home industries.

A round of applause followed the close of the Governor's speech.

After bowing to the throng, Colonel Winder formally declared the twenty-third exposition of the U. A. & M. society open. He added that the earnest fair that would be held under the same auspices would be called the State Fair of Utah (Applause.)

Amid music by the band, the prominent gentlemen who occupied the balcony departed. Among them were Hon. George Q. Cannon, Hon. F. D. Richards, Rev. Abram Hatch, and others.

NOTES.

Exhibitors and their employes were early on midnight last night getting in finishing touches.

General Ottinger has been the recipient of numerous congratulations today, on the fine appearance of the militia.

The weather was inclined to be showery this morning, but scarcely before noon the sky cleared and the rest of the day was pleasant.

Some time after the militia dispersed on the Fair grounds, and after the opening exercises, Battery B, of Ogden, formed, marched to the U. P. depot and took the afternoon train home.

Visitors to the Fair can obtain refreshments on the grounds. S. F. Hall, the caterer, has erected a kitchen and dining hall, in connection with which he has built stand, on the north side of the main building. Meals and refreshments can be obtained here at any time.

The Salt Lake City Railroad Co. is furnishing a harmonious service between East Temple street and the Fair grounds. To accommodate visitors who have cars on the system, which feeds passengers at the north and east sides of the Fair grounds, a street relief will stand at the east entrance to the building.

Another exceedingly gratifying thing is the fact that the results of home manufactures are almost uniformly of a high order of merit. They prove that enterprise, capital, intense ability and a high order of mechanical skill, are all combined, in great strength, in the cause of home industry, and that all are backed by a resolute determination to permanently succeed.

R. F. Grant, of the Grant Soap Co., said yesterday that it had been his intention to place a glass hive containing working bees, as an exhibit in the soap manufactory. "But gracious," he exclaimed, "what if a swarm of soap bees fell on the glass hive and smashed it, and let the bees loose among the crowd! They'd be likely to remember the hive soap in a way we wouldn't like. It made me shudder to think of the consequences, and I decided to leave out the glass hive of bees."

The unpleasantness in regard to the exhibit of the Agricultural College has been adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned. The display occupies one half of the space over the entrance leading to the gallery in the west side of the building, and the flower of the College is the conspicuous thing in the display. The latter occupies the other half of the space below the Agricultural College announced its purpose to take away, and the Fair management had to alternative but to carry out its decision. The college exhibit is an interesting and instructive one, and illustrates the reach of scientific training. It also shows the mechanical work done by pupils.

A striking and highly gratifying feature was noticed—that upon all who saw the magnificence of the general character of the exhibits. Nearly all of them worthy of notice are composed of articles and commodities manufactured in Utah and adjacent Territories. Goods, wares and products imported into this Territory, what few there are, look homeless and out of place. While it is true that the Fair is designed primarily to stimulate home industry by exhibiting, in a most effective manner, its results and achievements, it was scarcely to be expected that the absence of imported products would be so conspicuous, and so nearly complete. This is more especially true when the temptation to advertise commodities of all kinds, home or abroad as home made, in such an effective way as can be done at the Fair, is considered.

The embossed art of wood carving is illustrated by some samples of the work of Earl Cummings, a youth of eighteen years, who exhibits an aptitude for it which amounts to genius. The specimen is a cabinet, of beautiful design and proportions, mainly of pine, but having a frame of oak. The wood work is covered with arabesque arrangements of vines, which are exquisitely executed. The upper front of the cabinet is ornamented with a lion's head, which, though not a large, is a fine piece of work. Another sample of the work of this talented youth is a carving of grapes on the front of a cupboard, and still another is a bath. Without a doubt, the work, in fine design is being worked out. The boy is entirely self-taught, and his artistic taste and skill with tools are remarkable.

Republicans Will Ratify.

The Republicans of the Fourth precinct will hold a ratification meeting at the Burlington schoolhouse on Eighth street on Wednesday evening, September 5th. Such speakers as Judge Dunbar, Hoyt M. West and James Sharp will address those present, and the Republican Glee club will be in attendance.

Nineteenth Ward Y. M. M. I. A.

The Nineteenth ward Mutual Improvement Association made to begin its winter's work last (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. J. M. Tanner will give a lecture, and the musical numbers include solos by Lizzie Thomas Edwards and Ethel Pike, and a duet by Master Charlie Pike and Fanny Pike.

OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, Oct. 2, 1894.

Want the Home Club.

Manager Clark, of the Grand, is negotiating with the Home Dramatic club, of Salt Lake City, for the production of the drama Saints and Sinners.

Notes.

—Ogden in a few days will have another evening newspaper. It will be Democratic and under the management of D. Phillips.

F. M. Wheeling, a detective employed by the Union Pacific, was robbed last night of the return of the grand jury in a sum of $300 by Commissioner Brown. The charge is assault with a deadly weapon.

A license to marry has been issued to Michael C. Smith, 37, and Miss Harriet Graves, 35, both of Salt Lake City. Bishop Stevens performed the marriage ceremony.

O'MALLEY ON TOP.

Judge Merritt Decides the Injunction Suit in His Favor.

THERE'S NO SATISFACTORY PROOF

That Charley's Aunt and College Chums Copy From the Same Stock.

The legal arguments in the injunction suit brought by Chas. Frohman against Manager T. F. O'Malley of the Lyceum theater in this city, and the hearing of which formed the gage of resistance in the Third district court last Saturday, were concluded this morning, having been continued from the day named.

As readers of the News will remember, these proceedings were instituted by Mr. Frohman's attorneys to restrain the defendant from further producing a play which Mr. O'Malley named College Chums, of which the plaintiff claimed was, in fact, a mere other than Charley's Aunt, one of the most successful of modern comedies, and the right to produce which in the United States and Canada is vested in Mr. Frohman.

When the case came up today the attorneys for the plaintiff (Harvey Ferguson and E. R. Christian) desired to introduce in evidence the manuscript of Charley's Aunt, the same not having been received from New York until yesterday, but to this Mr. O'Malley's counsel (Judge Day and Fred E. McGrath) objected, on the ground that the testimony closed on Saturday. This objection the court sustained.

Judge Merritt, in giving his decision, said he was not satisfied as to the identity of the two plays which formed the subject of this litigation. Twenty people testified variously between them was the testimony of two or three young men who stated that they had seen Charley's Aunt played in New York by one of Frohman's companies and College Chums done by the university company at Ogden. To this mind there was not sufficient proof that the two plays were identical and he therefore denied the injunction and ordered that the temporary restraining order be dissolved.

There is some little quiet talk of the possibility of another move in the matter on the part of the plaintiff's counsel, but whether anything more will be done remains to be seen.

ARTILERYMAN'S LEG BROKEN

Private David McDonald, of Battery A, Badly Hurt.

About 10 o'clock this morning, Battery A, of the Utah National Guards, was ordered to move out of the yard in the rear of the government building in on Fifth East street, and take its position in the grand parade, in front of the building. Private David McDonald was ordered to ride the high horse of a team which was drawing one of the cannon. In front of the team, and also behind it, were other cannon being drawn by horses.

While in the act of moving out of the yard and into the street the mule to the horse McDonald was riding became restive, began to plunge, and soon fell down. In his fall he brought down the steed horse, almost on top of him, and Private McDonald found himself pinned down, his right leg being wedged tightly between the two horses. The animals struggled and in doing so released McDonald, who scrambled and rolled away from them as best he could.

There was a number of the company in a sentence and it was soon ascertained that he was badly hurt. He was carried into the government building, and Dr. Widner, who resides nearby, was called up to attend him. A brief examination disclosed the fact that there was a compound comminuted fracture of the right leg, about half way between the knee and ankle joints. The bones were smashed in a dreadful manner and one of them seemed to have cut an opening through the flesh to the surface and then sunk back, leaving the appearance of a gun shot wound.

After making the examination, Dr. Widner telephoned for Doctors Fowler and Pickering. The former recommended that the patient be taken to the Holy Cross hospital, which was done a short hour. Up to the time of the removal, it was thought by some that an amputation would be necessary.

Soon after the accident, McDonald talked with a News reporter. He exhibited remarkable coolness and nerve, and gave the particulars of the accident as above stated. His age is 45 years, and his home is in Big Cottonwood.
