

FOR PERMANENT TARIFF COMMISSION

Senator Beveridge Urges Senate
To Pass His Bill for the Creation of One.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Senator Beveridge of Indiana today addressed the senate in advocacy of his bill to create a permanent tariff commission. The senator was accorded a careful hearing by both the Republican and Democratic sides of the chamber and also by the crowded galleries.

In the galleries several sections had been reserved for members of commercial and manufacturing bodies now in the city for the purpose of promoting the interests of Mr. Beveridge's bill. He said in part:

FACTS FIX TARIFF.
"The tariff is fixed by facts; how to get at these facts is the first question in the whole tariff problem. Common sense and experience answer the questions; we should create a body of experts to find out these facts for us. The men should be the fittest men that can be found for this work; they should give their whole time to this work and lay before us the result of their work. This bill seeks to create such a commission of experts to find out the facts upon which Congress builds a tariff and to make a classification of articles to which Congress can plainly and accurately fix customs duties. By this bill the commission itself is not allowed to fix duties or even to suggest any rate. The fixing of duties is left to Congress. The commission is kept strictly to the task of gathering facts and making clear classifications; the first is expert investigating work,

MIX FOR COLDS.

The formula as printed below was given out by a prominent doctor who has made a national reputation for his wonderful skill in the cure of throat and lung diseases.

Half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine, two ounces of glycerine, half pint of good whiskey; mix these by shaking them thoroughly and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours, shake the bottle well each time.

The only cure necessary is to be sure to get the Concentrated oil of pine because recently there have been numerous patent medicine imitations put out. These, on account of not being soluble, are dangerous, besides producing nausea.

The real "Concentrated" oil of pine can be obtained of any good prescription druggist and comes put up for medical use only in half-ounce vials securely sealed in tin screw top cases, which protect it from light, and retain all the original ozone.

the second expert clerical work. Neither is legislative work.

"We must have more foreign trade. We must open foreign markets to our live cattle, which are now kept out of those markets. Our manufacturers ask the same advantage in foreign trade that the German government gets for German manufacturers. American producers demand that the doors of other nations which are open to their rivals shall no longer be closed to them.

TO MEET RIVALS.

"We must have a system that gives us the same weapons that our rivals have by which we can get for our products the same favors that our rivals get for their products. We must have a maximum and minimum tariff, the first to apply to all nations that will not give our producers special favors in their markets. By this plan, German producers are selling more German goods abroad than any other nation. If we consider area, wealth, history and all other elements of the problem, German producers are selling more German goods abroad than any other five nations of the world put together. Germany, Japan and the world followed our plan of a single protective tariff and then logically developed that plan into a double protective plan.

"We must be as wise now as they were then, and just as they took the single protective plan from us, so now must we take the double protective plan from them. Our manufacturers, our cattlemen, our agriculturists, our miners, our whole producing classes ask only the same advantages that their rivals have in the markets of the world. They demand no more than this, but they will accept no less than this. Tariff for trade; trade for prosperity; common sense methods for both—these must be our motto. The American watchwords in the world-wide contest for commerce."

CULBERSON REPLIES.

When Senator Beveridge concluded his remarks, Senator Culberson of Texas remarked that the senator from Indiana was to be congratulated because in some degree at least he had joined the army of tariff revisionists. He said it had been announced in the newspapers that a decree had been issued on the Republican side that the tariff could not even be inquired into at this time.

Mr. Culberson called attention to what he said was the fact that the average ad valorem tariff is now 45 per cent; that it is greater than the difference between the cost of labor here and abroad; that many articles manufactured in the United States are sold abroad cheaper than in this country, and that a protective tariff encourages trusts. He then asked to be inserted in the record an article from a book he exhibited.

Mr. Beveridge asked to be given the name of that book.

"I will give it," replied Mr. Culberson, "as I am sure it will appeal to the senator as an authority. It is the Democratic campaign book."

"I thought so," replied Mr. Beveridge, and he then proceeded to express his regret that partisanship should be injected into the debate.

"Tactics," said Mr. Beveridge, "may be worthy of the senator as a leader of his party, but it is not worthy of any man appearing in the capacity of a statesman in this country. That is precisely the difficulty we must get over. We must get away from injecting politics into every great question here." So far as he is concerned he had always been a tariff reformer, but he had never belonged to the class that would reduce such reform to a partisan basis. England, he said, was about to abandon her tariff for revenue policy for protection and all the great nations had first adopted a tariff system and then a double tariff system, involving a maximum and minimum tariff.

"The senator from Texas," he said, "will have to learn a new tariff speech for the next campaign."

Mr. Newlands then discussed the general subject of the tariff, declaring that the law should provide for a gradual reduction of the tariff, so that no duty should be over 45 per cent.

Senator Scott pronounced himself to be a "stand patter."

He believed the present Dingley tariff had done more for this country in the past 19 years than any law ever enacted.

"I don't believe in revising the tariff before an election or after an election," he said.

MANUFACTURERS SEE PRESIDENT.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Thirty representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers conferred with President Roosevelt today in pursuance of their desire to have him send to Congress a special message recommending legislation providing for a tariff commission. After the conference, J. W. Van Cleave, chairman of the organization, announced that a pledge of entire secrecy regarding the conference had been taken. It was stated at the White House that no special message on the subject of a tariff commission would be sent to Congress by the president. The delegates seemed satisfied with their interview, and some of them went so far as to say that it would be unsafe to predict that there would be no special message. The delegation had an appointment to meet the president at 11 o'clock, but they had to wait until noon before they saw him. Some of the members of the delegation complained that congressmen and others representing the "stand pat" interests had got into the cabinet office ahead of them, and were delaying their reception in an effort to convince the president of their point of view. These senators, however, disclaimed that they had been talking tariff with the president.

BRYAN SAYS FREE SILVER IS NOT AN ISSUE

New York, Feb. 5.—William B. Bryan was asked today whether his Carnegie hall speech of last night had been intended to include any intimation that free coinage of silver was still a public issue. Mr. Bryan replied:

"No, free silver is not an issue. What I said last night had no connection with the silver question. I simply referred to it to show the chance that had taken place in the arguments that are being made at the present time."

"The silver question was an issue in 1896 because prices were falling, and there was no other relief in sight. Since gold production has materially increased, prices are rising, or were until the recent panic—and will again as soon as normal conditions are restored. The silver question therefore will not be an issue."

Mr. Bryan was rendered a reception in the office of Horace President Bush, Cozier in Brooklyn today and addressed a gathering of Brooklyn men in the corridors of the city building.

He said, in part:

"I am glad to find that we have a united Democratic party. I have suffered as much as any one from the results of a divided party, and I am gratified that we are now presenting a united front. I hope for a Democratic victory this fall. The Democratic party has taken an advanced ground and has vindicated our position. I emphasize the word some. In some things the president is right. Nevertheless, I do not intend to let him push me off the Democratic platform."

"We are now in a position to fight the divided enemy, for the Republican party is divided, and it will take that party some time to settle the questions which have divided it. While they are doing so we can carry on the government in their stead. I have no doubt of the ultimate triumph of Democratic ideas. The time is coming when the cup of the Democratic party will be overflowing with joy."

Six hundred auditors gave Mr. Bryan an enthusiastic welcome at the meeting of the Young Men's Hebrew association, where he lauded the racial achievements of the Hebrews. Speaking of the Hebrews, Mr. Bryan said:

"I am not complimenting you when I say that history affords us no higher type of men than the Hebrews, both for their influence upon human destiny and upon the thought of the world. Go where you will, you will find that the Hebrew has won the highest distinction in all that concerns business in every great enterprise. In the business of banking he is prominent above every other race. I think there is less of pauperism, less of crime among Hebrews. I think it can be said deservedly of that race you represent that in the highest walks, intellectual and political, your people have proven their capacity."

BABOON ATTACKS BOY.

Ocean Park, Cal., Feb. 5.—Mark Howell, 13 years old, and a pupil in the Ocean Park school, was badly bitten in the face, the back of the neck and legs, at noon today, by a large African baboon, which had escaped from its cage at the home of George B. Metcalf, land, and broke into the luncheon room of the school, causing panic and confusion before it.

Another baboon, which escaped at the same time, raced around the school yards and chased the frightened children, who took refuge in the school-house and other buildings.

Young Howell's wounds are regarded as serious. He was removed to his home and given medical attention. The animals were attracted to the building by the lunches of the children, upon which they feasted before being recaptured by McClelland and others who came to assist him.

CUT IN TWO BY TRAIN.

San Jose, Cal., Feb. 5.—The body of Dr. E. H. Moss of Palo Alto was found on the railroad track near the station at Morgan hill this morning, completely cut in two. Dr. Moss recently had been residing on a farm at Madrone. It is presumed that he was killed by the early northbound coast train. He leaves a widow and son.

IT SAVED MY LIFE— WRITES ECZEMA PATIENT.

Bed-Ridden Sufferer Completely Cured
By Use of D. D. D. External Wash.

One of the most remarkable eczema cures recently credited to the well known D. D. D. Prescription has just been recorded in Chicago.

Mrs. E. Hogg, 1350 West Madison street, under date of Dec. 9, 1907, writes as follows:

"I suffered three years with Weeping Eczema. It started with a little spot on my knee and spread fast over my whole body. I spent hundreds of dollars and went to every good doctor I heard of, but kept getting worse. Nothing would stop the awful itch and burning."

"I had to stay in bed from the middle of May to the middle of July. Then I tried D. D. D. Prescription. This is the 9th of December and I am entirely free from the terrible disease. D. D. D. saved my life."

"When I began this treatment, people were afraid of me I looked so terrible. My husband was the only one who would take care of me. D. D. D. stopped the itch at once so I could sleep, which I had not done before. Then I began to get better fast and now my skin is clear and white, not a spot anywhere."

Just a few drops of D. D. D. Prescription applied to the skin brings relief—nothing to swallow or drink. We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription, also the cleansing D. D. D. Soap at Druehl & Frank's, 271 So. Main. Get a bottle today if you have any skin disease. Begin your cure at once.
