MUSIC IN SALOONS.

S. A. Miller Charged With Exhibiting a Deadly Weapon.—Petit Larceny and Other Cases.

William O'Neal, who is manager of the Denver Exchange saloon, opposite the post office, has been arrested on a charge of permitting music to be played where liquor is sold. The case was to be heard before Justice Gee, at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

O'Niel was convicted of a similar offense some time ago. A fine of $10 was imposed by the police justice, but afterwards remitted by Mayor Scott. Since that time, it is said that O'Niel has allowed music to be played in his saloon both day and night.

S. A. Miller, is under arrest on a charge of drawing and exhibiting a deadly weapon in a wild and threatening manner, and not in self-defense. The alleged offense was committed at the Tontin saloon on Commercial street last night.

Ed. Williams, arrested by H. G. Foulger of the People's Equitable Co-op., on a charge of assaulting a man named Hoskins, in the Twenty-first Ward meeting house, was on trial before Justice Gee this afternoon.

A DESERTER, AFTER ALL.

The Box Car Story Probed, and There Is Nothing In It.

In yesterday's NEWS, under the heading "Fell From a Box Car," there appeared an account of an accident to a young man, who gave the name of John Manning, on the Rio Grande Western Railroad, just north of the Hot Springs, early that morning. The only person who knew anything of the affair was the man himself, and his story was to the effect that while stealing a ride on the top of the car, making his way to Ogden, he fell to the ground, sustaining internal and other injuries. Constable Parkin, of South Bountiful, upon being called to the man, decided to take him to the Deseret Hospital. Manning was strongly opposed to this, saying he would be "all right by and bye." But to the Deseret Hospital the "patient" was brought, and he was there examined by a doctor. Very little was found to be the matter with him, but he was allowed to remain. After leaving his charge with the hospital authorities, Constable Parkin, who had more than a suspicion that the man was a deserter, and that his tale about the railroad mishap was all a sham, telephoned to the military authorities at Fort Douglas, giving a description of Manning, and inquiring whether they were in quest of a deserter. Back came a message that they were, and that the account furnished tallied with the object of their search. A guard was dispatched to the hospital last evening, with the result that the "sick man" was escorted up to Fort Douglas and put through his facings. He was immediately recognized as John Riley, who suddenly absented himself from the post of duty three or four days before and had not afterwards been heard of. He had about three months longer to serve to complete his time at the Fort.

It is believed that Riley (alias Manning) is a tough character, and it is suggested as being within the bounds of probability that he took an active part in a recent hold-up. The scratches on his face, and other injuries which he attributed to his alleged fall from the box-car, are the yet visible marks of what it is thought he received for his pains in that encounter with his victim.

THE SUPREME COURT.

An Important Point Concerning Traveling on Railroads.

A PASSENGER'S COMPLAINT.

Appeal By The R. G. W. Railroad.—Appointment of a Commissioner—Miscellaneous Matters.

The Judges of the Territorial Supreme Court sat at ten o'clock this morning, the principal feature being the hearing of a railroad appeal, reported below.

U. S. COMMISSIONER.

George E. Lee, of Bingham, was appointed a U. S. Commissioner.

DISMISSED.

In the case of Higley vs. Breeden, the Court allowed the motion to dismiss, and dismissed the appeal.

A MOTION SUBMITTED.

In the matter of Mary A. Lang vs. the Citizen's Bank, the motion to dismiss was filed and submitted.

ADMITTED TO THE BAR.

On the motion of Judge Sutherland, Mr. Howard, of Iowa, was admitted to the bar of this court.

The commission of local attorneys appointed to inquire as to the legal qualifications of Mr. William H. Smith, who had applied to be admitted to practice at the bar of the Territorial Supreme court, now recommended favorably, and the recommendation was approved.

CLERK RICHE SUBMITS AN ACCOUNT.

The United States account of Supreme Court Clerk Riche was presented and allowed. The amount was $55.25.

UNDER CONSIDERATION.

In the case of Slater vs. the Union Pacific Railroad company, which has come before the court upon several occasions on argument, the motion to amend abstract and reinstate the appeal was submitted for the judges' consideration. The same thing was done in the case of White vs. the Union Pacific railroad.

A RAILROAD COMPANY'S APPEAL.

The first case argued was that of Daniel B. Rudy vs. the Rio Grande Western Railway Company, Judge J. A. Marshall appearing for the appellant and Judge O. W. Powers for the respondent Rudy. This being an appeal from Judge Zane's court, his Honor retired from the bench during the progress of the arguments.

The point at issue was an interesting and important one. It transpired that passengers traveling west by the Denver & Rio Grande road travel also over the Rio Grande Western, which company runs its trains in connection with the D. & R. G. The latter road, it was shown, holds its trains a reasonable length of time when those on the former are late, and recognizes its tickets. The two companies operate jointly at Grand Junction, there employing an agent, who is paid jointly, and passengers are conducted from the trains of the one road to those of the other.

Plaintiff in this case reached Salt Lake City on Sunday, August 17th, 1890, having left Kansas City on the previous Monday, traveling to Denver over the Union Pacific. He purchased a through ticket at Kansas City, the same being via the Union Pacific to Denver, from the latter point to Grand Junction over the D. and R. G., and from Grand Junction to Salt Lake City over the R. G. W. When he purchased the ticket—which was limited—he informed the agent that he wished to take the route designated, but that he desired to travel by daylight in order to view the scenery. The agent told him that he would reach Denver the day after leaving Kansas City, from which he started at 9:20 p. m. August 11, and that he could remain in Denver one day if he chose to do so. Denver was reached at 8:30 p. m. on the Tuesday, and he remained in that city until 9 p. m. on the following day. He then took the Salt Lake train on the Denver and Rio Grande, traveling to a place called Palmer Lake (distant about fifty miles from Denver), where, however, the train was delayed until 3:30 p. m. on Thursday. He remained with the train the whole time. On Thursday, at 3:30, the train proceeded to Canon City, which was reached at 8:30 the same night. There he was again delayed, by the failure of the train to go on, until 3:30 on Friday. At that hour he took the train to Salida—a station on the D. & R. G. in Colorado—through which the train to Salt Lake passed. Salida was reached on Friday about 7 o'clock, and there he remained until 10 a. m. on the Saturday. Between those hours a Salt Lake train had not passed, the first going through Salida at 10:30 on Saturday. Plaintiff took that train and went on to Grand Junction, arriving there at 12 o'clock on Saturday night. There he changed cars to the R. G. W. road, and showed his ticket to a uniformed employe, who directed him to the car he was to take. The ticket expired on Friday, August 15th, at midnight. He experienced no difficulty with his ticket on the D. & R. G. R. R. during the Saturday, and was informed by the conductor on that line that he would have no trouble on the R. G. W., as he had been delayed by washouts. After, however, he had traveled ten or fifteen miles on the R. G. W. the conductor went through the train, looked at plaintiff's ticket, told him it had expired, and that he would not carry him on it. Plaintiff explained that he had been detained by washouts, but the conductor would not listen to this. Plaintiff told him he had made up his mind not to pay, and he was told that he must either do so or leave the train. The conductor further said that plaintiff had bought his ticket from a scalper and, as a tramp, was "trying to beat his way." He then stopped the car and ejected him at a point where there was neither depot, house, nor lights. It was very dark, about midnight, and he was left in a desolate country. He walked to Fruita and got there with difficulty about 3:30 in the morning, and spent the remainder of the time walking up on the platform, the depot being closed. On Sunday, at 10:30, having purchased a ticket for Salt Lake, which cost him $10.85, he arrived at his destination on Sunday evening. When he arrived he was suffering from nervous excitement, occasioned by what he had gone through, and had to seek medical aid. The ticket purchased by plaintiff at Kansas City cost him $30.00. The original action was tried in the Third District court, when the jury awarded plaintiff the sum of $1000 damages and $79.25 costs. Hence the appeal, the chief grounds of which were insufficiency of evidence to justify the verdict, and excessive damages.

The court took the argument under advisement.

The following cases came before the Court yesterday afternoon:

JUDGMENT IN EJECTMENT.

Joseph Warr vs. Julia Hemel. This is an action in ejectment, by the plaintiff, brought to recover the possession of the west half of the southwest quarter of section 21, township 2, south of range 1, east of the Salt Lake meridian, with damages in the sum of $312.50. The case comes up on appeal from a judgment, entered in November 1891, and from an order overruling a motion for a new trial, which was argued and submitted.

In the case of John White vs. the Union Pacific Railway Company, in which the plaintiff some time ago obtained a verdict for damages in the Third district court for injuries sustained by him through being maltreated by the defendant's employes at Salt Wells, Wyoming, the following order was made by the court: A motion to dismiss this case is made because the abstract does not contain a specification of the errors upon which a reversal is sought. The rule requiring this is easily complied with and is made to facilitate business and is efficient for the purpose. The appeal, therefore, is dismissed.

A similar order was made in the case of Joseph H. Slater vs. the Union Pacific Railway Company.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

George M. Cannon Succeeds T. G. Webber as Cashier of Zion's Savings Bank.

Several important changes have been made in the official directory of Zion's Savings Bank and Trust Company. Thomas G. Webber, who has so long been associated with that institution as cashier, has been succeeded by George M. Cannon. The latter will hereafter give his personal attention to the duties of this responsible office. Mr. Webber will, however, remain on the directory.

LeGrande Young, who has long been a director of the company, is succeeded by Heber J. Grant. B. H. Schettler, the assistant cashier, retires to go into a general loan and brokerage business for himself.

Zion's Saving Bank is one of the strongest financial concerns of its kind in the Territory. The following statement made at the close of the year 1891 is evidence of this:

A special meeting of the stockholders will be held in the near future for the purpose of increasing the number of directors from nine to thirteen. A preliminary meeting was held yesterday at which a majority of the stock was represented. Francis M. Lyman, John Henry Smith and Lorenzo Snow were named as three of the four directors. Their election is doubtlessly insured.

PROPOSED CHANGE OF LOCATION.

The State Bank of Utah will on or about the 25th inst. remove from its quarters in the Amussen block, on Main street, to Zion's Savings Bank building, at the corner of East and South Temple streets.

The removal is occasioned by the rapid growth of the company's business. It will take possession of the north half of the apartment occupied by the Saving's bank.

Two Barns Burned.

Last midnight the barn of P. W. Madsen, on First South, between Six and Seventh East, was discovered in flames. An alarm was sent in and the department responded promptly. However, before they reached the scene of the blaze a spark had been communicated to Simon Bamberger's barn, which stood near Mr. Madsen's.

The carriages and other conveyances and all the animals were rescued but the barns and hay were destroyed. The loss is about $1500. Neither of the buildings was insured.

SEIZURE OF OPIUM.

A Commercial Street Celestial Has an Unexpected Call.

A Chinese merchant in a small way named Jim Ling, carrying on business in Commercial street, went out for a short time yesterday afternoon, leaving his deputy in charge of the establishment. Not long after the proprietor's departure a well-dressed white man entered and asked for some opium. Several cans were brought down for his inspection. These the unknown customer took up, scrutinized the Chinese hieroglyphics, marks and brands, and then quietly remarked, "I'll just seize these!" at the same time showing a badge and informing the astonished Celestial that he was a custom-house officer. Then off he went, taking six cans of opium with him.

When Mr. Ling returned home and learned what had transpired, he immediately made for the office of the United States Marshal, taking his clerk with him. He stated the case to the marshal, but neither that functionary nor any of his deputies knew aught of the so-called custom house officer or of the opium seizure, and up to this afternoon nothing more had been heard of the matter. The impression at the Marshal's office seems to be that a practical joker has been getting in his work.

Another bill providing for the punishment of polygamy and other similar offenses, introduced in the House on Tuesday by Tuttle, was introduced in the Council by Peters and referred to the committee on Judiciary.

In the discussion on house joint memorial No. 2, relating to public buildings, and after Evans, of Ogden, had stated that the legal business of the north country demanded that the appropriation for federal buildings for Logan should be as great as that awarded to Provo, King took the floor and stated that the gentleman from Ogden was evidently misinformed. He had no desire to antagonize the amendment of Evans, but thought that Utah county did possess and always would possess advantages over Cache county in court matters.

Morrell couldn't see why Cache should come in first.

Mellville said he would not endorse the memorial unless it gave Provo $50,000 more than Logan.

Evans was satisfied with what the House had already done, and thought King was acting too much when the latter knew that the subject of removing the capital to Provo would in all probability come up for discussion in the near future.

On motion of Peters the memorial and amendments were referred to the committee on memorials, of which Evans is chairman.

A communication from the House stating that Mr. Cotton had introduced a resolution providing that members of committees should confer intelligently on the titles of all bills introduced, and that the same had passed the House, was read.

On motion of Baskin, who thought that the members possessed sense enough to name their own bills intelligently, the resolution was not concurred in.

Evans introduced a bill for the relief and maintenance of the Orphan's Home. Committee on appropriations.

A bill by Evans amending section 1, Chapter 17, session laws of Utah, approved March 1, 1890, was referred to the judiciary committee.

Haynes introduced a bill to provide for the organization and government control of building, loan and savings associations, both domestic and foreign, doing business in the Territory of Utah, and repealing Chapter XII of the laws of Utah. Private corporations.

Moran introduced a measure to secure liens to the workingmen and others, and repeal all other acts in relation thereto. Committee on judiciary.

A concurrent resolution to the effect that the committee on printing solicit bids for the public printing and to be prepared at an early date to make recommendations regarding a public printer, was carried.

After the communication from the House had been read stating that the Governor had approved H. J. R. No. 1, relative to minute clerks and messengers, R. G. Woolley Jr. was elected minute clerk on Councilor Lund's nomination.

Lund and Haynes were appointed as a committee to confer with a like House committee to agree upon some regular hour of meeting for each body.

One hundred copies of each bill were ordered printed.

Adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Council met pursuant to adjournment, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the President in the chair.

Roll called—Evans and Baskin absent.

Prayer by the chaplain.

Journal of the third day read and, after one slight correction, approved.

A communication from the House stating that H. J. R. No. 5, relating to public printing, and H. J. R. No. 6, referring to the printing of 200 copies of each bill introduced, were read and, on motion of Lund, Council concurred.

H. C. B. No. 6 by Kimball, providing that the committee on public printing be instructed to solicit bids and be prepared at an early date to make selection of a public printer, was read.

H. J. Memorial No. 7, relating to the appropriation of sufficient money to erect a government building at Provo, was read. Committee on memorials.

A communication was read from the Agricultural College. No action taken.

Evans introduced a communication from the Ogden Chamber of Commerce, referring to a resolution adopted by that body to the effect that the Legislature be petitioned to appropriate $100,000 for World's Fair purposes. Laid on the table.

By Evans—In regard to amending subdivisions 2 and 7, Compiled Laws of 1888, referring to the protection of laboring men.

Glendenning introduced a bill providing for the protection of the live stock and to repeal all laws relating thereto. Committee on agriculture.

Baskin introduced a bill entitled "An act to suppress the dissemination of contagious diseases among cattle." Committee on public health.

Resolution by Evans tendering the freedom of the Council to Hon. F. J. Kiesel of Ogden was adopted.

H. J. resolution authorizing the Governor of the Territory to employ a messenger for his use at an expense not exceeding $4 per day was read. Rules suspended and resolution passed unanimously.

Resolution of Peters of Brigham authorizing the judiciary committees of each house to employ a clerk at an amount not exceeding $5 per day.

Evans, of Ogden, offered an amendment making the amount $4 per day. Baskin thought that $5 per day would not be too much. He was of the opinion that the appointed clerk would be worth three dollars as stenographer, as far as work was concerned, and the amount named by him seemed reasonable.

Peters believed that plenty of good men could be obtained at $5 per day, and didn't believe in wasting cash.

Lund was in favor of a clerk at $5 per day and thought that the money should be used this way rather than in bestowing it upon exorbitant typewriters.

A resolution giving the clerks $5 per day was finally adopted.

A communication from the Agricultural College inviting the members of the Legislature to visit that institution and investigate the needs of the college was read and on motion the invitation was accepted with thanks.

Evans said that the act of acceptation did not refer to the time of going. It was almost absurd to think of visiting Logan before any work has been done, and thought members had no time under the present circumstances.

After prayer by the Chaplain session adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

HOUSE.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The House was called to order at 2 p. m. by the Speaker.

Roll called. All present but Olsen, Lawrence and Montgomery.

Adams, from the committee on rules, made a report amending the rules by adding a committee on World's Fair, consisting of five members, and that rule 55, substituting "Roberts Rules of Order" for "Jefferson's Manual," be so changed.

On motion of adopting the ayes and nays were called and the report was adopted unanimously.

A communication from the Council was received and read. It informed the House the Council refused to concur in H. J. R. 1.

Ferry moved that it be referred to the committee on rules. Carried.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

The Duke of Clarence and Avondale Bows all London in Mourning.

Henry Edward Manning and Simeoni Called to Another Sphere of Action.

By Telegraph to the NEWS.

Death of the Duke of Clarence.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Duke of Clarence is dead.

The Prince of Wales has sent the following telegram to the Lord Mayor of London: "Our beloved son passed away at 9 o'clock today."

The news of the death of the Duke has caused widespread grief, and there are already demonstrations of public mourning everywhere apparent.

On receipt of the news, the Lord Mayor at once gave orders to have the great bell in St. Paul's cathedral tolled and also sent the following message to the Prince of Wales: "We are profoundly moved by the sad news and have communicated it to our fellow citizens. We tender our deep and respectful sympathy with your royal highness in this great sorrow and national calamity."

At one o'clock this afternoon the following dispatch was received from the three attending physicians at Sandringham:

"After marked improvement during the early part of the night, the strength of the Duke suddenly failed. About 2 o'clock he began gradually to sink and the death occurred at 9:15 a. m."

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES.

Prince Albert Victor Christian Edward was born January 8th, 1864. He was the eldest son of the Prince of Wales, and consequently in direct line successor to the throne. He was educated at Trinity college, Cambridge, and the university of Heidelberg. On leaving the university, Prince Albert Victor proceeded to Aldershot to prepare for the army. In 1890 he took his seat in the House of Lords. His present military rank was that of major, and he was holding a commission in the Tenth hussars, of which regiment his father is colonel. The dead Prince was to have been married to Princess Victoria Mary of Teck, January 27th. By the death of the Duke of Clarence, the next person to the Prince of Wales in the line of direct succession is Prince George of Wales, the brother of the Duke, who is commander in the navy.

THE FUNERAL.

Her majesty announced that the funeral of the Duke would be a state function and that it would be held in St. George's chapel, Windsor Palace, where the marriage of the Duke to Princess Mary was to have taken place.

Up to this afternoon over seven hundred persons signed their names on the visitors' book at Marlborough House. The signatures are of persons in all conditions of life.

Cardinal Manning's Death.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Henry Edward Manning, Cardinal of the Roman Catholic church and archbishop of Westminster, died this morning, aged eighty-four. Last night the cardinal continued to grow weaker and weaker until, finally, his prostration became complete, and he died at 8:00 after being unconscious for about an hour. His death was calm, and he passed away, evidently without pain. Telegrams of regret from all parts of the world are being received. Cardinal Manning was well known, not only for his work as a Roman Catholic prelate and divine, but also for his efforts in the cause of temperance and social reform. He has taken a leading part in the settlement of the labor disorders with which London has been troubled for several years past.

Cardinal Simeoni Dead.

ROME, Jan. 14.—Cardinal Simeoni, formerly papal secretary of state and prefect of the general propaganda, died today. His death was due to an attack of influenza from which he has been suffering for several days.
