WEEK OF FLURRY IN MONEY MARKET

Bank of England Holds Financial Matters in a Firm Grasp.

LONDON CREDIT IN A PINCH

Observant Brokers are Cautious No Surprise is Evidenced—Gresham Bankers Uneasy.

New York, July 17.—The Times London financial correspondent cables:

This has been a week of flurry in the money market. All arrangements for the Egyptian loan have been hastily made, because of the market recent rise from the energy of the Bank of England in continuing to discourage that the week for the last few days has been nearly a week of financial anxiety, the money market notwithstanding being full provided, is bright. No appreciable opening effect has as yet been produced by the advance in the rate to 3½ per cent, for the Bank of England is not now discounting at the figure, but only using open market operations to keep up the rate.

A variety of causes have been at work. Political fears—exponented by the Transvaal dispute—tension, the Dual, the Dreyfus affair, the Russian loan, the late source of the existing pressure, for stock Exchange loans have grown more and more heavily, and instead of to see credit cannot become dearer unless brokers look it up, which they have not yet, hopefully, for credit is really more in demand and more applied than ever because internal trade is so active.

It is otherwise with domestic business, though in the meantime, notwithstanding the government's sacrifice prospects, especially iron trade. All the dark points are in the ascendant and the cheerful ones weaker. At least Turkey and all Balkan states are about to enter on a period of extreme stringency. The Russian loan is being negotiated for currency with which to pay wages and for banking credit in every network of railways. Nothing appears to be better than the fact that sovereigns are still being dispatched to Scotland and Ireland, and that, on the balance, the amount of the new gold bought by the Bank of England is greater than the amount of sovereigns sent in other directions. The consequence is that the London credit market is thoroughly prepared for bad news, and that, though the demand upon it is much in excess of previous experience.

The Bank of England is suffer from the effect of the reckless extravagance of the past few years and several mines and one important institution. Out which have been whispered against, for no discovered reason, the commissioners in support of the German bankers are still strong, and will Chicago cause note that Germany is to receive gold, since Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, Madrid and Lisbon are all in the exchange settlement, but other cause furthermore reveals greater depths of the Transvaal, and the Dual, and the company capital loans, and account financed and gold-hoarding countries. The right of this condition of affairs induces the most observant bankers to exercise caution and nicely measure the rate of discount, and, therefore, thereby increasing the strain on the Bank of England supply. As all points therefore, the market is being pulled upon and it would not be surprising to see the bank rate four per cent early next week. The discount houses are quoting 3½ to 3¾ per cent. There would not be nothing fatally in this step—only it would be a step—and, so, but it might be productive of considerable mischief from the fears that it would be taken as a sign of the bank's weakness. The right of this condition of affairs induces the most observant bankers to exercise caution and nicely measure the rate of discount, and, therefore, thereby increasing the strain on the Bank of England supply. There would not be nothing fatally in this step—only it would be a step—and, so, but it might be productive of considerable mischief from the fears that it would be taken as a sign of the bank's weakness. It is strange that in spite of the Government's sacrifice the Russian loan from the markets for it should Russia to borrow in London in the coming years, and, in the meantime, to some where.

No failures have been announced but there seems to be serious trouble some one. Several small firms have suspended and the Gresham Bank has closed its doors and the new house has not yet and the house is near completion. The Gresham Bank has been at its place, and they from the new house for a year
