THE ALASKA FEVER.

New Yorkers Off for the Klondyke Gold Fields.

CALIFORNIA FORTUNE SEEKERS.

Prospects of a Boundary Dispute—Alaska Likely to Get Legislation Now.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Press says: New York has seen some twenty-four hours have seen come to the front at least 2,000 argonauts who will be on the way to the Klondyke region just as soon as arrangements can be made for transportation. This city furnishes more "forty-niners" than any state in the Union. It would not be strange at all if this city should, within the next six months, exercise a stimulation of the present increasingly favorable reports, more definitely represented in the news slowly filtering through the currents of the Yukon and all the Pacific coast.

Some indication of how the craze is spreading may be had from the fact that within forty-eight hours no advertisement calling for those who desired to join an expedition to Alaska elicited by one newspaper in Brooklyn and who had from $500 to $1,000 to invest was answered by more than 1,000 applicants. In this particular case the man who was interviewing, instead of being a mere advertising agent, was the company promoting the outfit in the mines in question. Very eager, while the applicants were eager to give prospectors or to sell themselves with "grubstake" concerns. However, there also might be a chance for a newspaper and will start for the mine in advance within three weeks. They will go as employes of the company nominally, but in the end of their stinking a lapping claim or holding interests in one, the company will aid them by advancing money sufficient to develop promising strikes.

The interest displayed in evidence that the fever has reached the town and an indication that one of the largest schemes which will winter about the gold-bearing region will be organized of New Yorkers.

GOING TO SEEK A FORTUNE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—The cars in the office of the Alaska Commercial company were kept busy answering questions and giving out copies of circulars descriptive of the Klondyke mining region. While a great majority of the men who made inquiries were laborers, not a few came who evidently intended to join the rush to Alaska. It was the general opinion that the gold-bearing region will be swamped of New Yorkers.

WENT TO ALASKA.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 18.—Russell Montgomery, a United States naval cadet who disappeared from Annapolis over a year ago, has been heard from in Alaska. He writes to his father, J. B. Montgomery, a well known capitalist of this city, that he has taken a claim in the famous Klondyke district and is now working it successfully. Young Montgomery tells in his letter that he ran away from home, which has so troubled him that he left Annapolis without leaving any word behind him, and although his father has had every effort to find the boy, nothing has been heard of him until the letter from Alaska was received.

THE STRAKED CROWDED.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 18. — One hundred and ten passengers on the steamer Al Ki today, most of them either on their way to or from the Klondyke. From Juneau they will go some further by water to Dyea, the Chilkoot pass, thence down Lake Lindeman and Bennett to the Yukon river and down that river to the new diggings. Among the passengers may be well known men. The Al Ki was filled to sail at 9 o'clock this morning. At 6 o'clock men began to gather on the dock. At 7 o'clock it was announced that she would not sail till 11 o'clock. The dock kept growing larger. At 11 o'clock it was said she would not get away until 4, and at that hour one row of tier lines and piled into the bay, thousands of people that filled the water front sending her off with cheers and shouts of joy. Much of her passenger and cargo space was taken.

A BOUNDARY DISPUTE IN VIEW.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A special to the World from Washington says:

The possibility of serious international complications between the United States and great Britain as the result of the recent gold discoveries in Alaska has become apparent to the state department. Senator Davis of the Senate foreign affairs committee has been requested to secure the immediate ratification of a treaty for determining the boundary line between Canada and Alaska, in order to lessen the probable difficulty. Chairman Davis has announced his intention of calling this treaty up for action at the next executive session of the senate. There is said to be no objection, and prompt ratification is expected.

LEGISLATORS THINK OF ALASKA.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says:

The increased number of gold seekers in the Yukon basin, or only in the Klondyke region in British Columbia but in Alaska, has impressed the government in Washington with the necessity of extending the protection of government from the latter. From Dawson City in the Yukon during the last few months have come to the seat of government appeals and demands for more the mineral land laws of the United States extended over the surrounding region, and it is probable that in the first session of the Fifty-fifth congress Members of the interior department will approve the recommendation of Commissioner Herbrand of the general land office that this be done, and also that a fully equipped local land office be established at Circle City. Of course neither of the things can be done until authority is given by Congress. Among members of that body a strong indisposition has been manifest toward the extension of the power and agencies of civil government over Alaska ever since the acquisition of the Territory fifty years ago, because of the meager population and the apparent lack of necessity for such legislation.

In the course of a recent conversation with a correspondent on this subject, Representative Lacey of Iowa, who was chairman of the committee on public lands in the last Congress, said: "I suppose that one reason no legislation has been had for the extension of the economic conditions which exist in Alaska was because the committee on territories had its time fully occupied with other matters and the committee on public lands has not thought it expedient to take action in regard to land legislation there until after some further general legislation respecting the government of the territory has been enacted. Our committee, however, did recommend the passing of a bill for the extension of a land office at Juneau, and the House passed it, but the Senate did not act on it. Juneau is a town of several thousand inhabitants, some 3,000 I believe, and I am informed that it is a thriving place containing a number of substantial brick buildings for business purposes and, I am sure, that all the improvements stand on the public lands of the United States, the owners being simply squatters. I am also informed that there is no legal authority to levy and collect taxes, or for officials to receive and disburse such taxes if collected. Whenever money is needed for any public purpose the law is prompt. I have always been averse to legislation providing half-fledged territorial government for Alaska, with a delegate to Congress and so on, but conditions there appear to have been changing rapidly during the last three or four years, and it is possible that the time has come when the subject ought to be dealt with by Congress."

It is not improbable that Major Lacey will visit Alaska after the adjournment of Congress and ascertain by personal investigation and observation what legislation in regard to the public lands in that territory would be expedient and wise in order to meet existing conditions.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

Belmont Believes that Everything Depends on England.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Perry Belmont, who returned from Europe on Saturday, in a carefully prepared interview which he gave out for publication today, had this to say on the money question:

"In regard to the present attitude of Europe toward international bimetallism, there are advocates of it in France, Belgium, Italy and Germany, as there were a year ago, but the advocacy has not increased in volume or intensity. Neither France nor Germany will unite with us in placing gold and silver on a parity unless England leads the way. The continued increase in gold production, the surplus last year and the year of British business over expenditures, the continued supremacy of England in commerce and of London as an international money market, have the effect of persuading Parliament that the present coinage, currency and financial system is good, even though there is distress in India. Reduction of taxes with an enlargement of its basis there may come, if peace continues, but probably not a modification of coinage or currency laws, as long as existing Britain industrial prosperity endures.

"The McKinley administration is actively endeavoring, at the Republican platform of 1896 requires, to promote the free coinage of silver by international agreement. Its efforts and special commissioners are working in concert under the law enacted by the last Congress, which Cleveland approved.

"The question of details is occupied to keep in abeyance. There is every prospect of an international conference to be held within a short time, and possibly to assemble in Paris. Europeans generally believe that in the event of the failure of international agreement we should coin our mines silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and subsequently Europe opens mexico the ratio of 15½, then all our gold will leave us, as it did after 1873, and only token silver coins would remain."

Cure for the New Crop.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 18.—Long trains of empty freight cars have rolled out of Kansas City for two weeks and dropped off in twos, threes, fives, or ten-fifteen along the line, as the railroad in Missouri, Kansas and Iowa. These empty freight cars, of which there were thousands, will be filled with 36 wheat inside four or five weeks. A tremendous grain rush is expected and the best of management by railroad officials will be needed to prevent a huge blockade or a grain car famine. Conservative estimates of crop statisticians place the yield of wheat for this year in Kansas alone at 60,000,000 bushels.

Register of Copyrights.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—Mr. Thorvald Solberg of Iowa has been appointed register of copyrights and will take charge of the department on Tuesday. Mr. Solberg was born in Wisconsin in 1852, and for thirteen years was employed in the Congressional library.

BOTH WANT SHIPS.

The United States and Japan Negotiating With Brazil.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Herald's correspondent in Rio de Janeiro telegraphs that the United States and Japan have communicated with the government of Brazil with the idea of the possible purchase of warships now building for Brazil in England and Germany. Owing to Brazil's financial plight at the time it was recently decided to sell before completion, if possible, all the war vessels being built for Brazil in the two countries named. These are principally small boats.

Dinner for Minister Woodford.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Senor Dupuy de Lome, the Spanish minister, and Senora de Lome, entertained at dinner tonight Hon. Stewart L. Woodford, the newly-appointed minister to Spain, and Mrs. Woodford. Among the guests invited to meet them were Assistant Secretaries Day and Adee of the state department and the Portuguese minister.

PIONEERS FROM CALIFORNIA.

Six of them Coming to Attend Utah's Jubilee.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—A special from San Bernardino says:

The arrival of the semi-centennial of the date when the first Mormon train entered the Valley of Salt Lake is an event that interests many of the pioneers of San Bernardino. For many years prior to that party a little later came to the valley and founded what was intended to be a second Salt Lake City.

There are six of the original number still living at San Bernardino, and they have been notified that free transportation awaits them from the Southern Pacific railroad to Salt Lake and return. Their names are Mary E. Dailey, Harley Smithson, Harriet Mayfield, George Mosier, Lucius H. Aglard and Abner Blackburn. They will start Sunday, and with them W. H. Moe, Mrs. George Yager, Mrs. Nuberson and others, many of whom have never visited Salt Lake since they came away, nearly half a century ago.

Discussing Bimetallism.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19. — The commercial representatives of Mexico, Central and South America, who met last night, discussed from their forty days' tour of the industrial centers of the country, assembled at the Philadelphia Commercial museum and held a symposium on the subject of reciprocity. The meeting was of a parliamentary nature, and a number of speeches were made, several of the members expressing decided views on the tariff question. A general discussion of the subject followed.

Will be Asked to Pay for Rocks.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The government has directed United States Minister Woodford to formally present to the Spanish government and pre the claim of the family of the late D. Ro a for $70,000, on account of his death in jail in Cuba. Mr. Woodford's instructions, just received, set out the reasons for the presentation of the claim in detail.

All Want to Hear Debs.

CINCINNATI, July 18.—The Commercial Tribune's special from Wheeling, W. Va., says:

Just why it is so may be a mystery to some, but it is fact, nevertheless, that Eugene V. Debs will be able to do more just now towards bringing out the miners in the Fairmont region than any other man. A big meeting at Monongah today demonstrated that when a local miner got up and declared that as soon as Debs came into the region the men would be ready to strike his influence would be greater than all the offers of the operators to pay bonuses on coal mined. This sentiment was fairly cheered. The organizers at work there admit that it must be brought into the field, and it was announced that he will be at Fairmont on Sunday. Everybody wants to hear Debs.

Making Gold Coin Valuable.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Russia has experienced some difficulty in reverting her standard of value by simple decree, as shown in a report to the state department by United States Consul Herman at Odessa. He says: "The change inaugurated about twenty ago in the currency of Russia, from a silver to what is supposed to be a gold basis, has had a somewhat depressing effect upon the minds of the present farmers. By imperial edict it was made known that a five-rouble gold piece would until further notice be equal to seven roubles and five copeks paper currency, and a check drawn on any Russian bank for seventy-five roubles must be considered paid should the holder receive that amount in gold. Nevertheless, when they were offered a five-rouble gold piece in payment on a debt due them for seventy-five roubles in silver, they refused to accept it, and pointed out that stamped on the gold piece in plain Russian characters were the words "Seven roubles," and they therefore demanded to know why it was that they were expected to believe that twice two and a half made seven roubles and five copeks in money or anything else. The government officers were equal to the emergency, and received the same five roubles gold piece and stamped on it were, "Seven roubles five copeks."
