DEMOCRATS HAVE A CAUCUS.

Considerable Talk About Harmony and Other Things.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED.

Eleven Members of Caucus Withdraw—Discussing Hon. Geo. Q. Cannon—The Bribery Reports.

Democratic members of the Legislature attended a meeting last evening. In an effort to come to some understanding regarding the senatorial situation, but were unsuccessful. A motion that would bind the members to a party candidate was carried, but 11 of the 25 members present refused to be bound by it, and withdrew. A resolution pledging the members not to vote for Hon. Geo. Q. Cannon for Senator (though Mr. Cannon had not come before them as a candidate) precipitated a discussion in which some feeling was displayed, but it was finally tabled.

The caucus was called to order by Senator Nebeker, President of the Senate, who said that he and Speaker Rentzer had called the caucus at the request of the Democratic meeting on Friday last. There were present 13 Democrats, six being absent, namely, Senators Whitney and Cannon and Representatives Stewart, Cummings and H. Benson.

Senator Dilworth was called to the chair, and expressed a wish for harmony, for the good of the Democratic party. Representative Rywater was made secretary.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE REPORTS.

W. G. Nebeker moved that it be the sense of the caucus that the majority and minority reports of the bribery investigation committee be not incorporated in the minutes of the joint assembly, but be filed for reference.

Senator Smoot and Representative Cook opposed this, and wanted the matter made as public as possible.

Senator W. G. Nebeker said he made the motion to bring the question up. He was willing to put the reports in the record if the members wished them there.

Senators Evans said the reports were incendiary, and one of them should be voted down.

Representative Jackson was opposed to adopting either report, and criticized the committee for having gone, as he claimed, beyond its jurisdiction.

Representatives Lloyd and Lapish opposed the motion, and wanted the whole number of reports made.

Representative Horne introduced a resolution providing that both reports be placed on the record.

Senator A. Nebeker said he would not vote for either report, since the committee had exceeded its authority in submitting findings.

Senator Chambers wanted the full reports spread on the minutes, for a gross injustice had been done to him. His contract with Mr. McCune had had no influence on his vote.

The resolution by Representative Horne was adopted.

TO BIND THE CAUCUS.

Representative Roylance introduced a resolution providing that a majority rule in all questions in the caucus, and that the majority vote as a unit in the joint assembly on all questions decided in the caucus.

Representatives Jackson and Fisher said that if that applied to the election of U. S. Senator they would withdraw.

Representative Farr also objected to the resolution as too far-reaching.

Representative O'Neil said the Democratic party was being unhanged by the present fight, and wanted the early members to yield a little and to come to an agreement.

Representative Roylance then withdrew his resolution.

ABOUT HON. G. Q. CANNON.

Senator Perry presented a resolution that the caucus members pledge themselves not to vote for George Q. Cannon for U. S. Senator.

Senator Thomas objected to the discussion of Geo. Q. Cannon in the caucus.

Senator A. Nebeker moved to strike out Mr. Cannon's name, and insert the words "any other than a Mormon."

Senator Thomas objected to this, and said it was an insult to suggest such a thing in a Democratic caucus.

Senator Evans was opposed to any propositions as to the man until a rule was adopted to govern the caucus action.

Representative Hansen said that two or three days ago he would have voted for the Perry resolution, but now he could not, as he thought it was out of place.

A motion to adjourn, by Senator Bunch, was voted down.

Senator Perry said the greatest danger on the political horizon was the candidacy of George Q. Cannon. It had been told him that in the Republican caucus all members except Representatives C. E. Harris and Sorenson had pledged to vote for him.

Senator Thomas said that Mr. Cannon was an honored citizen, and he objected to his name being handled about as was being done.

The chairman rapped for order, and Representative Mansfield stated that only two hours were left for the Democratic party of the present time, or they could not elect a Democratic Senator.

Representative Lapish thought it all right to discuss Geo. Q. Cannon, since the Democratic organ had mentioned him as a candidate.

On motion of Representative Horne, the matter was laid on the table.

AGAIN THE INVESTIGATION REPORTS.

Representative Shepard offered a resolution that the discussion of the investigation committee's reports be not in the minutes, but that the reports be filed in the minute records on each side. Representative McQuarrie wanted the whole thing settled in one motion.

Representative Horne said if something was not done, George Q. Cannon would be elected.

Representative Lapish opposed the motion, which was so amended that members might speak five minutes, but one could not speak another's time.

A motion by Representative Horne, for a committee to suggest a line of procedure was adopted, and Senators W. G. Nebeker, Evans and Bunch and Representatives Roylance and Lloyd were named.

FOR A CAUCUS.

The committee on procedure made two reports, but Nebeker lodge in favor of a caucus, Mr. Senator W. G. Nebeker being opposed. Both reports provided for a secret ballot, the majority recommending that the local candidate each ballot be dropped, while the minority recommendation was that G. W. Brown, W. H. King, A. W. McCune and F. J. Cannon be not voted for.

Representatives Cook, Betts, Jackson, Wheeler and Fisher said that if the majority report was adopted they would not vote for A. W. McCune.

There was considerable discussion, but the majority report was finally adopted, and Senators A. Nebeker, W. G. Nebeker, Perry and Bidwell and Representatives Betts, Cook, Fisher, Jackson, Wheeler, Lapish and Greenwood withdrew.

The meeting then adjourned.

CONDITIONS IN PORTO RICO.

The people would welcome collisions marching as they certainly do for an effective American school system. The warm welcome given to Gen. John Eaton, who represents our bureau of education, is proof of this, and their eagerness to welcome every proposition for the establishment of schools. But the municipalities have very little money to expend just now, when so much must be spent on schools, waterworks, and other objects of physical necessity, and for roads on which all commerce depends.

I have hardly spoken of the squalor, the poverty of the poorer people, crowded, as I have seen them elsewhere, in miserable quarters in the cities, and of their great need of physical industrial, and moral regeneration. A people of whom three-quarters cannot read, where there are thousands of the families who are legally married, where few can get any meat or fish, where the blood poisons are rampant, and where the main products, sugar and coffee, are exported for the benefit of the insatiable maw of Spain, can by no possibility be expected to be loyal, but they should never all the advantages which good government, intelligent and strong, can give them, and they will repay the expenditure of money and labor.—From "The Condition of Porto Rico," by William Hayes Ward, in the Century for March.
