

POWER VESTED IN SPEAKER OF HOUSE

Has Absolute Control of Legislation in Lower Branch of National Congress.

OPPOSES TARIFF LEGISLATION

Railroad Interests of the Country Will Prevent Legislation Affecting Them.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—The coming session of Congress will produce many lively colloquies, numerous rasping, angry debates, and interludes of various kinds which will make interesting reading for the general observer. But, as a matter of fact, the Congress will accomplish practically nothing of national importance, excepting the passage of the regular annual appropriation bill for the expenditures of the government.

It will be news to a large majority of readers, and the greater number of them will be loathe to believe it, that the house of representatives, elected by the people, and intended by the Constitution to be the direct mouthpiece of the people in their government, is no longer constitutionally in existence. On the first Monday of December, 1890, intelligent American citizens will assemble at noon in the hall of the house of representatives, elect a speaker, adopt a set of rules prepared by that speaker, and then resign all of their rights into the hands of the speaker, whom they have created, and they will do absolutely nothing as independent individuals for the people, whom they were elected to represent.

NO TARIFF LEGISLATION.

The statement was bluntly made above that there will be no national legislation during the session of the congress. Speaker Cannon has consulted with President Roosevelt and has given an interview, stating that he, individually, is opposed to any tariff legislation. That settles it. The house of representatives cannot adopt any legislation, cannot even take up for consideration any legislation, without the consent of the speaker. Speaker Cannon having declared himself opposed to tariff legislation, the people of the country may as well understand that he speaks for his creatures of the house of representatives, and that there will be no tariff legislation.

ONE MAN MAY BLOCK.

With far-sighted political judgment President Roosevelt has won for himself the personal regard of the members on the Democratic side of the United States senate. Practically all of those senators are ready to vote for railroad rate legislation. To a superficial observer it would seem that the president might thus easily secure railroad rate legislation, by having a large majority of the senate favor that proposition which he is so much interested. But gentlemen experienced in national affairs know that one single senator can block legislation during the term of his physical endurance. They also know that 16 or more senators, under the rules of the senate, can prevent any legislation to which they are opposed. The organized railroad interests of the country, under the direction of some of the shrewdest business men of this republic, and with the backing of their many millions of dollars, are contending on the everlasting opposition of 27 senators to railroad rate legislation. Under the existing circumstances it seems unlikely that there can be any railroad rate legislation. Inasmuch as these two items are the most prominent that will be brought before the Congress, and as they seem to be foredoomed to defeat, the statement is bluntly reiterated that the coming session of Congress will not enact any legislation of national importance.

Croup.

A reliable medicine and one that should always be kept in the home for immediate use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will prevent the attack if given as soon as the croup becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. For sale by all druggists.

SUCCESS ASSURED.

Manufacturers Will Hold Another Rousing Meeting Tuesday Night.

An enthusiastic meeting of the newly organized Jobbers and Manufacturers' association, will be held at the Commercial club Tuesday night next, its purpose being to hear the report of Messrs. Hewlett and Critchlow on their trip to Denver, and to devise means to further the interests of the association. That the scheme is catching on and promising to become epidemic throughout the west, is evident from the following taken from a recent issue of the Denver Post:

"Western goods for western people," is the slogan of the Utah Jobbers and Manufacturers' association, and O. H. Hewlett, president, and John Q. Critchlow, assistant secretary and manager, are spending a few days in Denver as guests of the Albany hotel to become better acquainted with Denver and Colorado business men.

"Salt Lake is coming to the front since the boosting spirit has become prevalent there," said President Hewlett this morning. "We find that the main drawback is the unjust discrimination of the railroad freight rates and we intend to work with Colorado to abolish it."

"The Post has opened the paper mills near Denver, and the output should be used by every western newspaper. The Salt Lake papers are boosting for the west and they will fill in line and will order their supplies from The Post mill. We think it is due The Post to have every paper consumer in the West buy paper from the Denver paper mills to show an appreciation of the public spirit that has been shown."

"I received the assurance from Mr. Moffat that his road connecting Denver and Salt Lake, would be completed in a very short time. He stated that it was the dream of his life to join the two cities by the most direct route. Salt Lake is very fortunate in this regard, as it was the dream of Senator Clark's life to connect Los Angeles and Salt Lake. His dream has been accomplished, and when Mr. Moffat's dream has been fulfilled it will be a matter of only five or six years until Salt Lake will double its present population of 85,000 people."

"The victory of the American or anti-Smoother party at the recent election has given great impetus to business in Salt Lake. We have our banks lending to over flowing with money and our clearing house receipts are increasing very rapidly. Every one is boasting for a greater Salt Lake and what we

CHRISTMAS STORIES.

Utah Writers Contribute Leading Articles to Eastern Magazines.

Two of Utah's writers are represented in the Christmas numbers of eastern magazines. One of them is Miss Emily Clower, whose story, "The Star," won the prize in the "News" prize contest of last year, and her story, entitled, "The Hidden Hoof," occupies the place of honor in the Short Stories Magazine for December. While one of its illustrations, the figure of a Banquet Indian, is used also for the cover design of the journal.

Miss Clower's story is a story of western ranch life, and is graphically and cleverly told, the plot and incidents dealing with experienced and old hands with whom the tale climber deals are typical and effective throughout. The story will be read with pleasure by all who are interested in the life of the west.

The other writer is Mrs. Morris L. Rich, whose story, "The Christmas Spider," which last year came near dividing the "News" prize with Miss Clower's story, "The Christmas Spider," is distinctly a clever effort, and the good opinion of the editors is published in the fact that it is chosen for their special Christmas number. Both ladies are to be congratulated on their success.

FUNERAL TOMORROW.

Funeral services over the remains of George Coulam, whose sudden demise was noted in last night's "News," will be held from the Elvetham ward assembly rooms, Sunday, at 12 o'clock noon. Friends generally and members of the ward church in particular, are invited to be present. The members of the Fifty-seventh regiment of Seventy are also invited to attend the funeral in a body. The remains will be viewed from 10 till 11:30 at the residence, 735 east Second South street.

WOMAN PREACHER.

A Practical Doctrine.

"My home was broken up some time ago," writes a venerable lady from Ohio, "and I spent my life going about visiting my children."

"But when I go I take my Position pot and a supply of the food eaten along with me. I cannot take the risk of being without it, for I firmly believe that were it not for Postum Food Coffee I would not be living today."

"I began to use it four years ago. For several years prior to that time I was a great sufferer from stomach and heart trouble and headache. I consulted the best medical talent, but medicine did me no good, and my condition seemed to grow worse instead of improving, till I was practically given over as a confirmed invalid."

"Finally a doctor suggested that I stop coffee drinking, and although I was loath to do so, I complied. I was visiting in a hotel in Ottawa, at the time. He was a Postum drinker, and at his urgent recommendation I began its use. It did not appeal to me at first, but I found that this was because it was not boiled long enough. When it was made right I relished it."

"In due time, after the coffee effects had passed out of my system, I began to get better in every symptom. My stomach ceased to trouble me, and digestion became normal. My heart action was restored to a healthy status, the head-aches and nervousness grew less frequent and severe, and at last ceased altogether, and now I am well and strong, as few persons are at my advanced age."

"Be sure that I preach the Gospel of Postum everywhere to those I meet. I have converted many, especially my own children and grandchildren, who have all been made healthier, livelier and heartier by the use of Postum."

to submit to an operation. Before doing so he made a short trip to Chaux Territo, on Lake Geneva. The weather being very fine, he took daily walks in the sun, lasting several hours, whereby the afflicted ear was exposed to the southern sun. After eight days the doctor noticed, to his surprise, that the margin of the cancer sealed off slowly and left a smooth surface. He at once attributed it to the effects of the sun rays and used them now systematically. For several hours daily he exposed his ear to the rays of the sun, and after a few weeks the whole swelling had sealed off and had left a smooth surface.

EXPLANATION OF EFFECTS.

Dr. Hirschberg explains the effects of this treatment in this way: The normal skin is browned by the sun, as the epithelial cells under its influence absorb coloring matter from the blood. This "browning" serves as a protection against the burning effects of the sun. The cancer cells, which do not possess the quality of absorbing and blood substance, die off, as the sun destroys them. The winter in the highlands, according to Dr. Hirschberg, is a very important curative factor. The intensity of the sun rays increases with the altitude, the percentage of vapor decreases, and the air in such altitudes (Chaux lies about 3,600 feet above sea level) is free from germs, and exposure to the sun in winter may be made for many hours. Such exposure could not occur in summer on account of sunburns. Sun baths in the high mountains are therefore of great curative power, and it is to be hoped that in the future more attention will be paid to them. That the rays of the sun can be of direct curative benefit was shown through experiments at Altitude, where in some cases it was possible to give relief in tuberculosis of the larynx, and even curing it, by direct application of the sun rays.

NEW SHOE CONCERN.

The Christenson Shoe Co. are announcing elsewhere in this issue an opening event for Monday from 2 until 7 p. m. This new concern is located at the Old Newman Shoe Store, 124 Main street. A new and complete stock of shoes is very tastefully and systematically arranged, and so that by means of numbers the salesman can find any shoe wanted instantly. Everything about the store looks good. The store is under the management of Mr. Norman Christenson, who is an Ogden shoe man of 12 years' experience. Mr. Juan Castana is floor manager.

WARREN FOSTER TO SPEAK.

Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, Warren Foster will deliver a lecture in Federation of Labor hall on the subject "The Practicality of Being Practical." Admission is free, and everybody is cordially invited to attend. A good musical program will be given. The meeting will be open for discussion, and questions at the close of the lecture.

In Thousands of Homes Pe-ru-na Is the Family Doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Plamann and Children.

A Happy Family, Kept Well and Hearty By Taking Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Alvina Plamann, 1719 Walnut street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "I am now able to do my housework again, and have a good appetite. I have used thirteen bottles of Peru-na and one of Manalin."

"My husband and children are also in good health. We always keep Peru-na in the house. I thank you a thousand times for your advice."

An Enemy to the Home.

CATARH is the natural climatic enemy of every home.

Over every home hangs the inevitable certainty of catarrhal invasion. No home is entirely free from it. Every person is subject to it.

It would be no exaggeration to say that two-thirds of the homes of America have suffered more or less from this invisible, almost omnipresent enemy, catarrh.

Peru-na is the natural protection of the household.

It is intended to relieve catarrh and catarrhal diseases in any and all of their phases.

A Safeguard Against Colds—Would Not Be Without Peru-na.

Mrs. Anna McSweeney, 235 N. 8th street, Kansas City, Kas., writes:

"I would not for anything do without a bottle of your Peru-na and Manalin in the house."

"Your medicine is a safeguard against colds, for I have given it to my children and they are in the best of health."

"My little daughter, Catherine, the one you have been treating, has such an appetite that I enjoy watching her eat."

"Before taking your treatment, she would eat scarcely anything. I can never be grateful enough for what you have done for our darling, Catherine."

These letters praise Peru-na for its efficient protection of the family against catarrh.

Young and Old Take Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Lotty Carr, 1191 6th avenue, Des Moines, Ia., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to write you a few words of the great good Peru-na has done in our family, both for young and old."

"I think your medicine and treatment will do just what you say they will, if your excellent advice is carefully followed. May you prosper in your good work."

The Many Phases of Catarrh.

Catarrh may appear in the household in the form of a slight cold or cough, an attack of la grippe, or even hay fever. Peru-na meets these invasions squarely and repulses the enemy before it gains a foothold.

Therefore, Peru-na is a household remedy. Used at the correct time it often obviates the necessity of continued doctoring.

Perhaps in no other way can the wisdom of economy and foresight be so forcibly expressed as in keeping on hand a bottle of Peru-na to protect the various members of the family against the encroachments of catarrh.

We have on file thousands of testimonials from heads of families, located north and south, east and west.
