GEORGE W. WILSON IS ON TRIAL

For Assaulting Little Girls—The Mabry Case—Robbers Sentenced—The Dieter Scandal.

George C. Israel and Mrs. Belle Dieter were before Judge King in the third district court this morning, to plead to the indictment charging adultery. Henry Dieter, the woman's husband, was also present in the court room. Mrs. Dieter and Israel pleaded not guilty to the accusation. Judge Powers, attorney for the defendants, asked for a reduction of bail in the case of the woman. Israel's bail is fixed at $2,000 and Mrs. Dieter's at $1,000. Judge Powers thought the woman's bond was exorbitant, as it was not likely that an early trial could be had, and surcuses could not be furnished. Judge Powers then gave the husband of the woman an unmerited beating, stating that he had met her in a house of ill repute, had lived with her as his mistress, and then had married her and lived on the proceeds of her shame. Finally his treatment became so cruel that she had to leave him. Judge King thought this made no difference in the charge now made, and left the bond at the figure stated. Israel and Mrs. Dieter were remanded to the custody of the marshal, and were placed in the penitentiary to await trial.

A SHOCKING CASE.

The trial of George W. Wilson on a charge of assault with intent to commit rape, was taken up again this morning. The proceedings during the examination of Lelia Carney, the little girl Wilson is accused of assaulting, were most painful. The child sobbed silently the whole time she was in the witness chair, and it was with the utmost difficulty that she could be induced to give testimony. Her story was flatly denied, in which she told a damaging story against the defendant, which implied actions toward her in connection with the affair. Captain Dunyan also testified to the statement of the girl to the police, and to admissions by the defendant to himself. Sergeant J. M. Kellogg testified to about the same facts, as did also Policemen H. M. Lacey. The case was given to the jury this afternoon.

MABRY AND O'REILLY.

The adultery case against Rev. W. H. Mabry and Mrs. O'Reilly was called up, but the defendants were not present. The whereabouts of Mabry is unknown. By consent of the attorneys the case was continued indefinitely.

M'DONALD'S TRIAL.

Frank M. Donald, ex-policeman, was called on the charge of assault with intent to murder Emil Backeris, and his consent for Monday, Nov. 18.

GIVEN FIVE MONTHS.

Last evening the jury convicted J. M. Wood of assault with a deadly weapon upon a man named Manheim, who was a rival for the favors of a woman. Wood was sent to the county jail for five months.

ROBBERS SENT UP.

Salt Lake's citizens who must go out after nightfall will feel grateful to Judge King for his policy towards sneak-thieves. Two of these, John Mesmola and Frank Robinson, pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon to robbery, as stated in the NEWS, and later in the day said that they were ready to receive sentence. Mesmola was given six years in the penitentiary and Robinson six years and six months. The extra half year was because of Robinson's assault on Officer Raleigh when the arrest was being made.

A FOOTBALL'S ARRAIGNMENT.

James A. Reid, who held up Messrs. Thomas and Mitchell at different points on the street about two weeks ago, and who shot Mitchell in the shoulder when he attempted to defend himself against the robbery, was ordered before Judge King before the close of court yesterday afternoon and pleaded not guilty to one indictment accusing him of assault to commit murder and two charging assault to rob.

ANOTHER VILE CRIME.

C. A. Larsen was also before the judge for a heinous offense. He was arraigned for an assault to rape. A plea of not guilty was entered to the charge.

GENERAL ORDERS.

In the case of Frank Thompson, executor, vs C. E. Brainard et al; default of defendants was entered, and a decree of foreclosure of mortgage securing a debt of $1,602.

Mary J. Barton et al vs S. H. H. Clark et al, Union Pacific receiver; judgment was entered by consent in two cases for $10,500 for the killing of Walter S. Barton, in this city, on the 16th of October last.

Wasatch Mining company vs Wm. Jennings et al; order of reference thereto to Thomas Marshall.

In the case of Raleigh vs Stewart, default of defendant was entered, and judgment given for plaintiff.

NOTES.

During the trial of George W. Wilson today all jurors except those selected for the case were excluded from the court room, so that they could not hear the evidence to prejudice them in either of the other three cases of a similar nature on which he may be tried at this term of court.

The jurdicos and U. S. commissioners' courts give very little evidence of business, either civil or criminal, the past few days.

Judge King has frequent occasion to calm the ruffled feelings of attorneys nowadays, to keep them from unpromptly spats. But he does it in a dignified and effective manner.

Choir Concert.

A very enjoyable concert was held last evening in the old farm house at Forest Dale. The program which was rendered was arranged under the auspices of the choir and was enjoyed by all who attended. Apostles F. M. Lyman and Brigham Young were present and spoke concerning the historic building in which the pleasant affair was held; also encouraged the ward members in their efforts to create interest in music and a love for the Gospel.

A pleasant feature of the evening's entertainment was the presentation of a beautiful ebony silver-mounted baton to Elder N. S. Timpson, choir leader, by his juvenile Sunday school class; also a handsome music stand by members of the choir. The affair was a gratifying success and all present hope for more of a similar character.

Order to Keep the Body.

"Hold body. Will leave today on No. 8." Such was the message that Coroner Offenbach received this afternoon from W. L. Aikins, Winnemucca, Nevada, brother of C. J. Aikins, the Bingham miner who was killed as mentioned in last night's NEWS. The train referred to is due here at 8:30 tomorrow morning.

The body of the deceased now lies in Evans' undertaking establishment awaiting the brother's arrival. An inquest was held over the body yesterday, the jury considering of H. W. Parmer, Con. Driscoll and A. Donaldson. Their found that his death was accidental and that no blame could be attached to anyone.

Going to Logan.

The High School football team, consisting of fifteen members, and a number of their friends leave on tomorrow morning's Union Pacific train for Logan, where the High School boys will contest with the Agricultural College students for the football championship.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES.

Held at the Latter-day Saints' College Today.

The anniversary exercises in honor of the beginning of the tenth year of the institution's existence, were held at Latter-day Saints' College this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The assembly rooms were decorated with the college colors, blue and gold, symbolically representing the motto of the school: Truth and Worth. The windows and doors were artistically draped with these colors, and altogether the hall presented a pleasing appearance.

The exercises were opened by the choir singing the hymn: "Softly leans the sacred dawning."

Prayer, instructor Chamberlain. Misses Alice Boering and Eva Musser beautifully sang the duet, "Hasten, my soul."

A letter from Dr. Karl G. Maeser was read, explaining his absence as expressing a wish that the college should progress till it attain a position of eminent worth among the educational institutions of the land.

Elder Wm. R. Dougall briefly recited the circumstances leading to the establishment of the college. The Latter-day Saints had long felt the need of an institution in which the principles of the Gospel could be taught. Dr. Maeser, of the Brigham Young academy, was consulted, and he furnished a teacher to take charge of the school—Prof. Willard Done. Part of the old Social Hall was obtained in which to conduct the school. Later the number of teachers was increased and all the rooms of the building were used for class purposes. There were many obstacles to overcome, but notwithstanding these, the institution increased in influence, and today it is doing a work of great importance to those brought under its charge.

Instructor Joseph Nelson followed, giving a short history of the institution. Dr. Maeser was nominally the first principal of the school, though Prof. Done conducted the school work. At end of the third year Dr. James E. Talmage became principal, and other instructors were engaged. In a short time the Social Hall was vacated on account of insufficient room, and the present quarters were obtained. We have now outgrown the present accommodations, and are seeking equipments suitable for the important work done by the school.

A charming instrumental selection was given by Miss Katie Rumsey.

Elder David McKenzie then addressed the students. Man is essentially a social being; each person has social duties. That education which best fits us for our duties is the best education. Our first duty is to our God; such a school as the Latter-day Saints' college has the purpose of inculcating that duty. It is not enough merely to know our religious duties; this knowledge must be translated into habits. Only then are we sure to keep the path of duty. We have duties not only to God and to our fellowmen but also to ourselves. One important requirement is to keep our bodies in good condition. Avoid overwork—all overwork is work lost. Nature is a strict accountant and makes us pay duly for all physical follies. Intellectually, seek to organize the truths you gain, for organized knowledge is a means of power.

Elder McKenzie closed by referring to the difficulties encountered by the college. These difficulties will prove of benefit in the end. Friction is needed to polish the diamond; so we shall find the college shall come from its severe trials all the better for the ordeal.

A song, The Sweetest Story Ever Told, was pleasingly rendered by miss Lennie Savage.

Miss Maria James read an essay on the subject "Our Fast Meeting." She referred to the personal value of fasting also to the intellectual and moral as well as the characteristically religious value. By its power we are able to feel for our suffering fellows. In the fast meetings held in the College many strong testimonies have been borne by the students; and the Spirit of God obtained in these meetings is carried by the students into their daily lives making their common duties pleasant stepping-stones to heaven.

President Willard Done spoke of the nature of the college.

The boy always assumes the same man before he is an actual man. He likes to look ahead to that point which he will later reach. So the Latter-day Saints college has taken the name college, before the institution is actually a college; but like the boy, we are soon to reach that grade which truly deserves the name college. The last official step taken by the college board was the beginning of a work which shall end in the establishment of the following departments: (1) A college, with president, including a four years' course. (2) A normal school, with principal, including technical work in pedagogy. (3) A preparatory school, with principal, including work between eighth grade and freshman year of college. (4) A business school, with principal, including all work in commercial and related branches. (5) A normal training school, with principal, including the sixth and sixth lower grades as necessary. (7) A kindergarten, with principal and corps of workers.

All departments are to be supervised by the president.

Miss Maud May Babcock recited a humorous selection, illustrating the old method of studying elocution.

It was announced that in the evening a reception would be given to the students by the teachers. Former students are invited.

After singing by the choir, instructor Brigham Perkins offered the benediction.

From Idaho.

Judge J. H. Beatty, who was assistant district attorney for Utah under P. T. Van Zile, and who is now on the Idaho supreme bench, was a visitor to Salt Lake today.

Fire in Farmers Ward.

A telephone message received at the fire station at 2:50 this afternoon, called the department to the residence of Selectman Christopherson in Farmers ward, between Eleventh and Twelfth South streets. The origin or nature of the conflagration was not known, but no time was lost by the fire laddies in speeding away to the rescue. When the NEWS went to press the department was still at the scene of action and no information regarding the conflagration could be gotten by telephone.

Opened a King's Tomb.

King Rena's body was recently exposed by an accident in the cathedral at Angers. In repairing the choir workmen broke through the roof of the vault in which were two coffins. The wooden cases had been rotted away and the leaden cover of the one containing the old king of Naples and duke of Lorraine and Anjou had been torn off. The skeleton had a crown of thin gold about its head, and in its hand the scepter and globe, which, being of bronze, had turned green. The other coffin, containing Queen Isabella, was intact and was not disturbed. After the inspection the vault was sealed up again.—Paris Register.

UTAH'S DELEGATES.

Men Who Will Attend the Trans-Mississippi Congress.

APPOINTMENTS MADE TODAY.

Acting Governor Richards Designates Ten Citizens—Right of the Mayor and Chamber of Commerce.

The near approach of the holding of the great Trans-Mississippi commercial congress, the work of which Utah, in common with the rest of the West is so much interested in, has resulted in the appointment by Acting-Governor Richards of a list of ten delegates whose duties it will be to attend the deliberations of that body beginning at Omaha on the 20th inst. The appointments were made this afternoon, and if the rights of the city and Chamber of Commerce are enforced Mayor Baskin and President Bacon will each append a delegation also. Acting Governor Richards's appointments were by proclamation, a part of which reads as follows:

The executive committee of the Trans-Mississippi commercial congress having requested the Governor of Utah to appoint ten delegates to represent the Territory in the next session of the congress at which it is proposed to consider numerous questions of vital importance to our people.

Therefore, I, Charles C. Richards, acting governor of the Territory of Utah, do hereby appoint George Q. Cannon, W. S. McCornick, Thomas G. Webber, Lewis W. Shurtliff, Lafayette Holbrook, Thomas D. Dee, E. A. McDaniel, W. H. Culmer, William Creer and Chilton Miller, delegates to represent Utah in the session of said Congress to be held at Omaha, in the state of Nebraska, the twenty-fifth day of November, 1895.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, NOV. 14, 1895.

The Hague Case Still On.

This is the fourth day of the Hague trial, and there is no indication of how soon it will be concluded. After the NEWS report was mailed yesterday, Charles L. Bond, of Salt Lake City, and J. H. Krause, of Ogden, gave expert testimony in regard to the signature and the writing upon the notes. Mr. Krause was cross-examined at length in regard to the meaning of the "Ingram B" entry. This is the entry which is claimed to be falsely made for the purpose of deceiving.

W. I. Brown was next called. He was a director of the bank in 1893 and '94. The Ingram Bros. note was not endorsed W. I. Brown had not been endorsed by him, and he did not think the endorsement was a simulation of his signature.

This morning Mr. Brown was recalled for further cross-examination and testified that in October, 1893, he paid a note at the bank of $618, in the following manner: Note on Ingram Bros. to $500, interest on note $15, another note $60, and his check of $43.

Chas. D. Clinton, who had been a bookkeeper in the bank in 1893, was called and testified that the Ingram B. entry, according to the appearance of the book, was made in the handwriting of Alma Hagge on the 3rd of January.

A. H. Ingram, one of the Ingram Brothers, testified that he had not signed the Ingram Brothers' note. Neither he nor his brothers, John E. Ingram and Thos. H. Ingram, had any transaction jointly with W. I. Brown.

Thos. H. Ingram and John E. Ingram, the other two brothers of Ingram Bros., testified similarly.

Death of Benjamin Bachman.

Benjamin Bachman departed this life last evening at his residence. He has been suffering from kidney trouble for some time and has been confined to his bed for about two weeks, during which time he has also suffered from stomach disorder. The deceased was aged 59 years three months and eight days at the time of his death. He was born in Schoenburg, Bavaria, and was the youngest of fifteen children, fourteen of whom are now living at ages ranging from 70 to 98 years. One brother lives in San Francisco and the others in New York. When 15 years of age Mr. Bachman came to New York, and to Utah at the age of 20. He has lived in Provo most of the time since then and has been well and favorably known in the Territory, having held the positions of clerk of the First district court and deputy U. S. marshal in charge of this district for several years. He was a man of kindly and helpful disposition and his many friends will sincerely mourn his loss and condole with the bereaved family. He's wife and all his children, four sons and two daughters, surrounded his bedside as his spirit took its departure.

A Correction.

The report in the NEWS a few days ago announcing the death of Judge Giles, of Heber, was erroneous in that the deceased gentleman was a younger brother of Judge Giles, William Giles. He was a highly respected resident of Heber, having lived there since the commencement of the settlement. A wife and children survive the departed. The cause of his death, which took place last Monday, was rheumatism of the heart.

Notes.

Several skulls and a complete skeleton have been discovered by Joel A. Johnson while plowing in the Old Fort field. It is believed they are the remains of Indians.

R. K. Thomas and David John are remodeling their hotel building in this city. The first floor will be lowered to a level with the sidewalk with the intention of making the first story suitable for a store.

The Brigham Young Academy is finishing their business block known as the Central building. The building, which is a big, fine one, was completed up to the saves during boom times, about four years ago, by a company from which the academy has obtained possession of it.

S. S. Jones and C. E. Loose have been appointed representatives to the trans-Mississippi congress, by the chamber of commerce.

The doctor was on his way to Oregon to look out for a suitable place in which to locate and practice his profession.
