FROM WASHINGTON.

Utah's Delegate Introduces Another Bill in Congress.

A NEW FREE COINAGE MEASURE.

The Tariff Discussion.—Reciprocity with Mexico Urged.—Hornblower Renominated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Delegate Rawlins of Utah has introduced a bill to extend the time for making proof on desert land to five years.

A NEW FREE COINAGE BILL.

Bland today introduced a free coinage bill repealing that part of the act of 1873 preventing the coinage of silver dollars, and re-enacting the coinage act of 1837. Bland expects the committee on coinage will report an absolutely free silver bill to the House.

The House ways and means committee will take up the Wilson bill on Monday.

Between now and next Monday the Democratic members of the committee will prepare a measure for making up the estimated deficiency of $50,000,000.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Voorhees will have charge of the tariff bill in the Senate. At a meeting of the committee this morning the Democratic members announced their intention to take up the tariff question immediately. Voorhees urged the members to use all expedition in consideration of the question, so as to be able to report promptly on the bill as soon as it comes from the House. The Wilson bill will be used as the basis of the Senate committee's labors, and will be quite closely followed. The chairman appointed Jones of Arkansas, Vest and McPherson, Democrats, and Allison and Aldrich, Republicans, a sub-committee on the tariff bill. The investigation will be conducted by the Democratic members of the entire committee as a party organization.

FOR RECIPROCITY WITH MEXICO.

Petitions were presented to the Senate by Vest, one from the Merchants' exchange and the other from Spanish clubs of St. Louis, setting forth that the present government of Mexico is friendly disposed toward the United States and urging the importance of reciprocal trade relations. They ask that the tariff rates be so modified as to permit this, and if it can be done, that a commission be appointed on the part of the United States, to deal with a similar commission from Mexico on the subject.

NOMINATIONS.

The President today renominated W. B. Hornblower to be associate justice of the Supreme Court, also J. R. Procter, Ky., to be civil service commissioner.

THE STATE BANK TAX.

At a meeting of the House banking committee, surprise was expressed at the absence of any reference to repeal of the state bank tax in the President's message. Johnson, of Ohio, said there was nothing further for the committee to do. Springer said this afternoon it was doubtful if a state bank law will be reported.

THE LEHIGH VALLEY STRIKE.

It is Declared Off.—Concessions on Both Sides.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—The strike on the Lehigh Valley will be declared off at daybreak. Concessions were made on both sides.

FURTHER DETAILS.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 5.—The correspondence which led to the termination of the strike was made public at an early hour this morning. In a letter to President Wilbur the strikers asked the following: "If the existing strike is declared off will the Lehigh Valley company agree to take back as many of the old employes as they have places for, without any prejudice on account of the fact that they struck, or that they are members of any labor organization; that in re-employing men formerly in its service, the available time shall be so divided among the men so re-employed that they may feel that they are again in the service of the company and self-supporting; that in making promotions hereafter the company will make no distinction as between men now in its employ and those so re-employed, on account of seniority in the service or otherwise; that when the employ of the road committees from the various classes of employes shall have their grievances considered and justly treated, and that in employing men in the future the company will give preference to former employes when the strike is declared off."

President Wilbur, in reply, said: "The Lehigh Valley company agrees to the suggestions made, and, in the event of the strike being declared off, will abide by them. We recognize and willingly respond to your modification of our former understanding, that the available time may be divided so that the men re-employed may have a certain source of support."

A CRONIN STORY.

A Catholic Priest Said to Know Something About the Murder.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—A story is going [illegible] to the effect that a Catholic priest will be put on the stand in the Coughlin case, who will give the details of a confession made to him by Patrick O'Sullivan in prison, tallying perfectly with the story of the conspiracy as alleged to have been told by Mrs. Foy, as related in these dispatches a few days ago. It is said the defense will ask the court to give instructions that Mrs. Foy's story is not to be considered before the jury, on the ground that it is hearsay irrelevant.

SUING GEORGE GOULD.

A Young Girl Claims Some of His Money.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Zila Nichols, a 15-year old girl, began an action against George J. Gould in the superior court today, to recover damages in the sum of $40,000. The [illegible] charge is having seized a check for that amount which he had given her and which he refused to return. It does not appear how she came in possession of the check, but Judge McAdams of the superior court has appointed Albert Hausman guardian for Miss Nichols in the action.

Favoring Glove Contests.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 5.—This evening the city council passed to a second reading an ordinance permitting glove contests, only one councilman opposing the ordinance. It provides that the contestants shall use five ounce gloves and the contests shall be under the supervision of the chief of police.

A Jury Bribing Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—The case of jury bribing in connection with the murder trial, which commenced against state Senator William Dunn and Frank McManus, was dismissed this morning. McManus and Dunn were summoned to appear before the grand jury today and it is learned from their friends that they intend to make a confession regarding the whole affair implicating Curtis, his attorney and three jurors.

A Dishonest Bookkeeper.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Nathan Schloss and Henry J. Schloss, composing the firm of J. Schloss & Co., manufacturers of and dealers in clothing, made an assignment. The liabilities are over $300,000 and the assets considerably less. The firm's bookkeeper, James H. Louis, is a prisoner at the police headquarters, charged with embezzlement and attempting to commit suicide. Louis has been an employe of N. J. Schloss & Co. for eighteen years. He received a large salary, in addition to a portion of the profits. It is claimed the books will show a shortage of over $70,000.

Murder and Suicide.

OMAHA, Dec. 5.—Martin Anderson, cellar man in the grocery house of Hemsted & Hansen, murdered an unknown woman in the cellar of the store this evening and then cut his throat fatally. Nothing is known of the causes of the tragedy. About 8 o'clock passers-by heard the woman scream "Help!" "My God, he's killing me!" Andersen had used a paving stone and literally pounded the head of his victim to a jelly. After he had finished the murder, Andersen took a dull pocket knife and severed his wind pipe. He died from loss of blood.

INTERESTING FROM ABROAD.

The Causes Leading to the Present Brazilian Revolt.

Murderous Work at Sea.—A Bavarian Lieutenant Marries a Princess.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—[Copyrighted by Associated Press.]—The Times tomorrow will publish the following, dated November 14, from its correspondent at Rio de Janeiro: In reviewing the causes which led up to the revolt the correspondent says, with the fall of Dom Pedro the aristocracy withdrew all connection with the government, and the wealthy men in office were replaced by needy adventurers, whose sole object has been personal gain. President Peixoto opened his administration well, by cancelling the decree permitting the Bank of the Republic to continue the emission of notes, which had been done in the interest of a ring of speculators; but the hopes of reform were soon disappointed when he began removing the governors of states in an underhand manner. Thence onward he took the bit in his mouth and made a series of blunders and set aside the spirit and letter of the Constitution in every way.

The correspondent then proceeds to tell of President Peixoto's alleged breaches of faith regarding Rio Grande do Sul, by persecuting those who had been engaged in the revolt, which action led to the president's rupture with Admiral de Mello, who resigned the office of minister of marine in consequence.

The correspondent further states that on November 7th the insurgent leaders held a conference on board the warship Aquidaban and discussed the question of re-establishing the monarchy in Brazil. It was then shown that the states of Pernambuco, Bahia, Santa Catharina, Rio Grande do Sul, San Paulo and an important section of the city of Rio de Janeiro favored a return to the monarchy. It was thereupon decided that the efforts of the insurgents be directed to that end.

A Brazilian in high office has just remarked to the Times correspondent that he believed the end of the war would see a finish of the Peixotian system of government in Brazil, no matter which side won.

A PIRACY CASE.

Story of the Shocking Crime of Two Brothers.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—A dispatch to the Standard from Paris, referring to the trial of the South Pacific piracy case at Brest, gives the following details of the mutiny on the Ninette Alice: On the night that the Rorique seized the schooner, Joseph Rorique had the watch from 8 o'clock till midnight. He was joined by his brother and the murderous work at once began. The native Captain Cars was stretched upon the deck asleep and was shot and thrown overboard. The report of the pistol and the splash of the body of the captain as thrown into the sea aroused Supercargo Gibson and Cook Mirey. The Roriques called Gibson to come on deck and he was also shot and thrown overboard. A little later Mirey was summoned to come up and obeyed, trembling with fear and begging for his life, promising the brothers that he would keep the secret if his life were spared.

The second day after the murders Alexander Rorique ordered Mirey to give each of the five Kanakas forming the crew a glass of rum. Only two of them would touch the liquor and they died on the same day. The remaining three, fearing an attempt at poison, refused to partake of food for several days until at last they became so terrified by the threats of the Roriques that they jumped overboard and were drowned.

On the arrival of the vessel at Pon[illegible] the Rorique brothers and Mirey, under changed names, went to a tavern for dinner. Mirey, during the temporary absence of the murderers, begged the inn keeper to summon him to the governor. Before this could be done the brothers returned and ordered Mirey aboard the vessel. He refused to obey and on their attempting to force him the guard was called and Mirey denounced the Roriques as murderers. All three were arrested and after Mirey's confession had been heard were all turned over to the French authorities.

Italy's Ministry.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The correspondent of the Daily News at Rome says the new ministry makes a deplorable impression. The ministers, with the exception of two, have no especial ability, and some of them figure in a bad light in the recent revelations in connection with bank scandals. Already signs of internal discord in the cabinet are showing themselves. Zanardelli chose his associates at random, without regard to their principles.

In South America.

LIMA, Dec. 5.—The legation of Ecuador and the consulate of the republic here and at Callao have been closed and the minister from Ecuador and the consul at Lima have taken refuge on the British ship "Hyacinth." The archives of Ecuador now in Peru have been placed under German protection. The delimitation of the frontier of Ecuador and Peru will be submitted to arbitration.

A MODERN ROMANCE.

Marriage Between a Princess and a Baron.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—A dispatch to the Standard from Vienna says: The marriage of Princess Elizabeth and Baron Sigfried-Baltenheim took place in the presence of the respective families. The princess and baron met at a court ball in Munich, and fell in love. In spite of all the entreaties of her relatives the princess refused to give him up, although Prince Regent Leopold was decidedly opposed to the alliance, and in order to break the match removed Baron Sigfried-Baltenheim, a lieutenant in the Bavarian army, from Munich to Metz.
