DROWNED IN A CELLAR.

A Two-Year-Old Child at Murray the Victim.

Rescued Promptly, Yet All Efforts at Resuscitation Failed in Their Purpose.

Murray, seven miles south of this city, was the scene of a lamentable fatality last evening. A two-year-old child in a family named Anderson fell into a cellar which contained about two and a half feet of water. The little one was got out in a very few seconds, and in much less time than drowning ordinarily takes place. It evidently had suffocated, however, and appeared to be dead. Means for restoration were applied, but to no avail, and resuscitation could not be effected.

The Last Bicycle Races.

When the bicycle races at National Park on the State road ended last night the half mile record for this Territory had been broken by Weller, who reduced it to 1:09 3-5. The one mile novice race went to Carl Haibal in 2:46 2-5. The event of the occasion was the half mile race reserved [illegible] which Weller won, with Evans closely following and Jensen third. In the boys' half mile handicap Coffin won. In the [illegible] 2:25 Evans led in [illegible]. The mile race, 2:50 class, went to [illegible]. The tandem [illegible] handicap prize was won by Harrington, who was the only competitor. Green was the victor in the five mile handicap, which was run in 16:30. In this race Jensen pressed the winner very close. He was followed by Callow, who came in third.

AGAIN AT WORK.

The Horn Silver Again Puts on a Force of Men—The Northern Floods.

The force of men which was temporarily laid off by the Horn Silver, owing to the delay in material caused by the floods in the northwest, has been put to work again, and the task of reconstructing the mill and hoisting works has been resumed and is now being crowded towards completion. The partial cessation was caused by failure to get lumber from the Wood river country. A supply has been received from Baker City, so that work can go on uninterruptedly.

C. W. Nibley, whose company furnishes the lumber, is in the city, and says that while their mills on Wood river were cut off from railway connection by the floods, no damage resulted to the company. The mills were kept running, but for some time it has not been possible to get the lumber out, so the orders received had to be filled as quickly as was convenient from the company's mills on the other side of the range. Now that the water has gone down no trouble is anticipated in the filling of orders.

THE SILK INDUSTRY.

Two Japanese Experts Are Making a Local Beginning.

Thomas Kitsunuma and his brother, T. Katogi, from Japan, have recently located in this city, and will engage in silk culture. Mr. Katogi is skilled in the business, having been engaged for a [illegible] twenty years in studying every branch of the culture of silk, and is considered a very competent gentleman in this important industry. The present movement was inaugurated some time ago through the efforts of some of our well known citizens.

The parties named have three kinds of silkworms on hand, two of which produce two crops a year and the other one crop a year. The worms represent different stages of growth, and are [illegible] ninety. The aim this year will be to get the worms distributed as widely as possible through the Territory, and the promoters of the scheme are confident that the climate offers unusual advantages for the cultivation of the worm, as the mulberry is now found quite extensively in various portions of Utah. Japan is considered too damp for the successful spreading of the movement, but our climate [illegible] mild and dry is much more favorable to its promotion.

They will have eggs to dispose of in about four weeks, and are anxious to encourage the project by every means in their power. Any person wishing to study this important industry is invited to call, and information will be cheerfully given. The business is now carried on in a north room of the Bee Hive house. In about three weeks some silk will be on exhibition, which the public are invited to examine. The gentlemen are very courteous, and will be found ready to give any desired information.

The News is requested to say to any person having mulberry leaves, that such will be thankfully received.

HOME FROM A MISSION.

In Pennsylvania Conference.—Encouraging Reports from Scandinavia.

Elder John Q. Critchlow, of Ogden, made a call on the News today. He returned home last week from a mission, on which he left May 7, 1892. His field was in the Northern States mission, where he was assigned to labor in the Pennsylvania conference. His time was about equally divided between the States of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. He had fair health and enjoyed himself in the performance of his missionary duties. The treatment he received from the people generally was very good. There were some threats on the part of persons inclined to be lawless, but nothing of a serious nature. The people do not show much interest in religious affairs, their attention being occupied chiefly by worldly matters, especially in the present very dull times. There were some, however, who were desirous of hearing and receiving the Gospel.

Elder August Carlson also called today. He returned to his home in Ogden about three weeks since from a mission in Scandinavia. He left home Jan. 23, 1892, and on arriving at Copenhagen was assigned to the Stockholm conference. After a few weeks there, he was called into the Copenhagen office to labor on the Scandia Stjernan, where he remained several months. He was again called to the conference, over which he subsequently was made president, which position he occupied until his release to return home.

Elder Carlson gives a most encouraging report of the work in the locality where he has labored. There is a great deal of interest manifested by the people, and many requests come for Elders to preach. Meetings are held without hindrance, and good halls can be obtained where formerly it was not possible to hire them. There has been no opposition to meetings since the efforts, some time since, of a minister to close up the Sunday school, Bible classes, Mutual Improvement Association and Relief Society meetings and gatherings of the Saints are held regularly now, and everything is in a most prosperous and encouraging condition.

No Jurisdiction.

In the case of Sibley vs the Merchants' Protective association Justice of the Peace Harvey decided this morning that a justice's court has no jurisdiction.

Police Arrests for a Day.

The police this morning arrested eight "tank-bums" tourists who came into the city on a U. P. box car. The charge of trespass was preferred against them and they will have a hearing on Monday.

"White Hat Sam" is the title of a [illegible] guest of Solomon Kimball, who was taken into custody on Commercial street charged with drunkenness and committing a nuisance.

George H. Ward and Harry Jones, a pair of hard looking customers were run behind the bars this morning on a charge of vagrancy.

Ah Chung, the proprietor of a gambling and opium den on Plum alley, was arrested by Chief of Police Pratt today. He secured his release by depositing $50 with the desk sergeant.

No Police Court Today.

Police Justice Smith having hied himself away to the shades of the Weber on a fishing tour, there was no court held at the city hall to hear the cases of petty offenders today. His Honor, however, will return in time to set the wheels of justice moving on Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Methodist Mission Conference.

The following report of the third day's proceedings has been handed in for publication:

The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. G. C. Wayman.

At 9:30 Bishop Merrill took the chair, and the secretary read the minutes of the second day's session. Reports were heard on Epworth League and Woman's Home mission. The report of the treasurer was read, adopted and ordered printed in the minutes. The report showed $[illegible] raised during the year for benevolent objects.

The following visitors were introduced to the conference: Rev. R. G. McNiece, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, this city; Rev. W. F. Hawkes, superintendent of the Congregational work for Utah and Idaho; Dr. Earl Cranston, publishing agent of the Western Methodist Book Concern, and Dr. J. W. Hamilton, general secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education society.

The report on temperance was read by one of the committee, warmly discussed by several of those present, including Bishop Merrill, then recommitted for revision.

Dr. Cranston addressed the conference on the work of the Book concern. He reported the completion of the main part of the new building at Cincinnati, costing about $[illegible], and all paid for out of the proceeds of eight months' business of the house.

Dr. J. W. Hamilton then addressed the conference on the work of the church among the colored people of the South. He said he represented the only disinterested and unselfish society in the M. E. Church. Work for other societies gave promise of financial returns. Being an unselfish work it should enlist the sympathy of all Christians. He said that 800 black babies are born in this country every twenty-four hours, and that the population is outrunning the facilities for their education. Since the emancipation of the black race their number has doubled in this country, increasing from four millions at that time to eight millions at the present time, and of that eight millions less than a half million live in the twenty-eight Northern states. The illiteracy among the negroes of the South was gaining on the means of education. The state has practically abandoned them, though for 250 years a robbed force of all they produced. The state schools in the south, being founded on the plan that colored teachers must teach colored pupils, and appropriating not more than five mills per head for the education of all the population, white and colored, such facilities were not to be depended on. The church must take up this work, and especially the great Methodist church must do its part. He said it was no little honor to be a Methodist these days since she was a little Methodist. He spoke of the lynchings of colored men and criminals in the South as an attempt to punish crime with crime, which always resulted in lowering the community guilty of such practices. To educate the negro is necessary, and a patriotic business. Dr. Hamilton closed his address by stating that he would speak in the First M. E. church on the same subject Sunday night.

The report of the committee on education was read, and action on it deferred to Monday's session. After announcements the session adjourned, with the benediction by Dr. Hamilton.

At 8 p.m. there will be a temperance mass meeting addressed by Rev. M. Jeffrey, Geo. D. Jayne and John G. Clark.

Sunday School Union.

The Sunday school officers and teachers of this Stake will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock, in the Fourteenth Ward Assembly Rooms.

An interesting program has been prepared and the Twenty-first Ward choir, led by Brother Thomas McIntyre, will furnish excellent music during the services. All interested are cordially invited.

Superintendents will please make this announcement in their schools tomorrow. J. H. Parry, Sec'y.

ELMER B. W. CLARK

His Body is Forwarded to Grantsville Today.

Suffering from an Internal Abscess, An Operation Proves Unsuccessful.

Today Undertaker Joseph E. Taylor forwarded to Grantsville the body of Elmer B. W. Clark, the eighteen-year-old son of Joshua R. Clark, a well known resident of Tooele county. The deceased has been suffering for some time from an internal abscess, and was brought to the hospital in this city to receive attention. It was decided that a surgical operation was the only chance of saving his life, and though even this expedient was doubtful of success it was resorted to as a necessity. The operation was performed on Thursday, the 14th inst., but was unavailing, and the young man never rallied. The primary cause of death was [illegible].

The deceased was the first to pass away of a family of ten children. He was an estimable young man, and the bereaved family have the sympathy of a host of friends in the affliction which has come upon them in the departure of a beloved member of their flock. The funeral will take place at Grantsville tomorrow (Sunday).

Educational Notes.

Prof. F. W. Metcalf, superintendent of the Deaf Mute school, returned yesterday from a six weeks' trip to the East, where he visited fifteen of the largest and best schools in the country. He states that he had a very profitable visit, and undoubtedly the Utah school where he is engaged will receive much benefit from the results of his observations.

The exhibit at the University, by the first year students, to which attention was made in the News of last evening, will close this evening. The display includes a fine botanical feature, as well as specimens in great variety in zoology, structural maps, including maps of Utah, Palestine, the New [illegible], France, etc. The display in topography comprises views of mountains and valleys, scenes in Iceland, and many other interesting objects. The work has been under the direction of Miss A. E. Breitenstein, instructor in drawing in the University.

In the report yesterday of the High school exhibit, an error was made inadvertently in not giving credit in one instance to the right person. It should have been stated that the excellent display in the sciences was under the direction of Mr. Andrews, that of the modern languages being under the direction of Mr. Stuckler.

Democratic Society Delegates Meet for Organization Purposes.

Owing to the failure of the Territorial Democratic convention to conclude its labors within the time expected, it was considerably after 3 instead of 2 o'clock when the delegates to the Territorial society convention assembled in the Theater.

They were called to order by Judge Henderson, who stated that the purpose of this society convention was to elect officers, to take preliminary steps to secure a complete organization of Democratic societies, in vigorous and continuously vital [illegible] Democratic principles, "and to instruct such other business as might come before" the delegates.

Each Democratic club and society in the Territory was entitled to five delegates and one additional delegate for every twenty-five members of such organizations that were in "good standing."

Judge Henderson referred to the early conditions of the Democratic party in this Territory and contrasted the difference between the then and the [illegible] and complimented the [illegible] of Utah on the change that has come.

In the absence of A. T. Schroeder, secretary of the Territorial society, George E. Blair was chosen to temporarily fill the position.

Governor West, in a speech full of vigor and enthusiasm, nominated for president of the Territorial society Judge H. P. Henderson, the present incumbent of that office.

The convention was declared premature for the reason that the regular organization had not yet been effected. A committee on credentials was accordingly appointed, and a recess taken pending their report and the effecting of a permanent organization.

OGDEN.

Ogden, Utah, - June 16, 1894.

Home Industry.

The interest in home manufactures has had the effect to increase the business of one of the oldest factories in the Junction, that of the Ogden City broom factory. This home industry was started in October, 1873, under the management of H. B. Scoville, and continued, not very successfully, however, until 1881, when it was closed for a time, but was put into operation again in 1892, with the son of the former proprietor in control, and under his management the concern has been made a growing success. The factory employs ten men and now turns over [illegible] dozen per month, with [illegible] turning out twice as many. Not only is the product of the factory being sent all over the Territory, but it even finds its way to the East. The brooms are of excellent quality.
