Marie Burroughs's Success—Mason Makes a "Hit"—Our Regiment at the Grand—Emmett Nice Week—The Billiardists—Crumbs.

Marie Burroughs played a Salt Lake audience last night for the first time as a star. She has been seen here many times before and it can be said to all truth that she never left us without having deepened the impression she had previously made. In Parthenia the play in which she made apparent her with young Melvin, in Juliet and Romeo, where she and Mankant and each similarly were, and last but by no means least, in the Merchant, in which she shared the honors with Mr. Willard, she gave us at all times the picture of a beautiful woman endowed with a charming actress—a combination that seems to be growing rarer and rarer nowadays. It was the success she made all over the country with Mr. Willard that decided her on venturing forth as a star herself, and with two such plays as the Prodigal and Judah, she is very well equipped for the venture. The former is by the gifted Fiske, author of the Nancy Mac. Tangerey, and while it is not as strong as that wonderful play, and while we think that it does not afford Miss Burroughs the opportunity she has to display what is a play full of exquisite interest, with some notable character studies, with a strong moral, and with an elevation, that at the end of the third act, that is immensely effective. Miss Burroughs here was not certain cale, and her acting and taking together seldom shone to fuller advantage. In her great scene she really had the power of making her audience think they saw her grow pale under that very spot. Miss Burroughs's company is equally strong and capable. Mr. Kellard is an actor of peculiar methods, but of undoubted talents, needed perhaps for a good part of a character by Willard, whose parts he plays. Mr. Mason, an old friend, plays the manly, straightforward roles in which he seems to be perfect, with all the power and mannerisms of years, when he did the same sort of parts in Palmer's company. Miss Parry was a most excellent Jessie, and Mr. St. Maur, another well known name, a typical Simon Iscot. Miss Lester and Mr. Abbott played two women, contrasted somewhat in the Shylock in Daly's company, especially the acting of the latter, some was specially successes.

Louis Messer, aside from being a gentleman and an excellent actor, says Chicago Tribune, is the fortunate man that he is a card tosser. It comes from the West that he entered one a railroad waiting-room full of knights, who insulted some women in his company. It will be recalled that Mr. Messer sways the floor of the Hotel Metropole in New York on two occasions last spring, using a human being as a broom.

In Judah tonight Miss Burroughs has the role of Vashti Dallas, a minor reader, which we think to be her finest impersonation, and with Mr. Willard, Miss Burroughs made Judah the great success of his engagements in America. It is by Henry Arthur Jones. We look for an audience even larger than the handsome one of last evening.

From Five classes to ten consecutive nights at the Grand Opera House this evening, a record unparalleled in local theatricals, and on Monday, the anomaly, Our Regiment will be given.

Next Wednesday evening in the Sixteenth ward hall, the opera Pecunia, which was produced last Wednesday, will be repeated with a charming cast, in which the theater orchestra, Mr. Ashworth and Miss Ruth Eldridge will take part.

We are more than glad to learn that W. H. Thompson, who made such a hit here in Owing the Wind, is coming West again. A New York paper says: William H. Thompson's marvelous performance of a nonchalant [illegible] Mr. Wontrow is an again after a week's illness.—W. T. Carleton is singing in Trial by Jury.—A little girl was heard to say after last night's performance of The Profligate, "Mamma, I know a place where they have a bad winter time."—John Spencer will be home next week.—Digamon Beyner is at work on the Pirates of Penzance.—Professor Kenna is still living over Pinafore, it has lasted always characteristics the "First" piece. The new stock of the Grand Opera House is being surprisingly well enrolled to.—Why Joseph Wilkes Wilkes also or an occasional note in Kate Field's.—The dates of the Evening Master are the 11th, 12th and 13th.—The town is humming for a good again.—Nellie McHenry will be here again on the 11th.—Mr. Kellard is very much like Willard, but still more like what he is himself.—Mr. Mansfield is the sort of an Actor.—Neil Harrigan's son—he who acted so fairly in Salt Lake—has just die.—Stuart Robson has a new unexcoupled Lightfoot's Wife.

In Woodland.

On the evening of Washington's birthday the Upper School of Woodland district, Summit county, gave some exercises in the meeting house to a very large and appreciative audience. The program consisted of thirty-five numbers, consisting of songs, music, recitations, dialogues, tableaux, etc., by the pupils.

At Mrs. Mary Ann Moss's residence the pupils and about 75 friends and patrons surprised the teacher, Mr. R. C. Watt, and through the leadership of Mrs. A. E. Keeler an excellent program, consisting of music, recitations, dialogues and remarks, was eagerly listened to. Afterwards the parlors were occupied by the young people in a dance.

A dramatic company is about to be organized, so, in future, Woodland may be relied upon in furnishing enjoyment other than the dance, in entertaining the community. R. C. W.

Maloney, Wife and "Nurse."

A few months ago, says the San Francisco Chronicle of Wednesday, T. F. Maloney, a wealthy New York contractor, had his wife and his business friend, U. U. Valentine, arrested at El Paso, Tex., charged with larceny and embezzling money. Last night all three were just as happy and contented in each other's company at the Palace hotel in this city as could be. They formed a traveling party which arrived on yesterday morning's overland, and they took some of the choicest apartments in the hotel. They will remain here a short time and then proceed East by the southern route.

Coming Out This Month.

The following prisoners will be released from the Utah penitentiary during the present month:

March 2d—F. L. Wilson, sent up from the Fourth district court on August 5, 1893, two years for grand larceny.

March 5th—E. E. Bass, sent up from the Third district court on December 4, 1892, three years for burglary.

March 8th—W. H. Walker, sent up from the Third district court on May 3, 1894, one year for burglary.

March 10th—M. G. Watts, sent up from the First district court on October 13, 1894, six months for a lottery.

March 22d—Jacob Wands, sent up from the second district court on May 22, 1894, one year for burglary and grand larceny.

March 23d—Samuel Alights, sent up from the second district court on May 23, 1894, one year for forcibly entering a United States penitentiary.

March 27th—Lorenzo Hanks, sent up from the First district court on February 25, 1895, thirty days for unlawful cohabitation.

March 31st—Chas. P. Mellen, sent up from the Fourth district court on August 13, 1893, two years for burglary.

The Diamond.

Articles incorporating the Diamond Mercantile company have been filed with the county clerk by W. H. Bennington, of Pocatello; M. E. Cummings, Seward H. Fields, Samuel B. Walker and Henry Walker of Salt Lake City, for the purpose of carrying on a general merchandise business at Diamondville, Uinta county, Wyoming. The capital stock is $12,000, divided into 120 shares of $100 each, of which Seward H. Fields owns 70 shares, Henry Walker 25 and the remaining 15 each. W. H. Bennington is president, M. E. Cummings, vice-president, S. H. Seward, secretary and treasurer.

The Loss Adjusted.

The insurance adjusters have published their list of ascertaining the loss sustained by Upham & Walsh-ster, from the big fire which visited their premises recently. The firm will get $35,621 on stock and $500 on the fixtures, making a total of $36,121.

Catarrh

In its Worst Form

Life Almost a Burden

A Glorious Change Due Solely to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. C. King
Galena, Ohio.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease, and therefore it can only be cured by a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read what it does for others: "Catarrh in the head, so that I was very miserable. Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me good." Mrs. C. King, Galena, Ohio.

"Catarrh. From a painful hard cough which kept me from my rest, Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me good. The cough came on so much less, and I can now sleep all night without coughing. I know it was only a matter of time, when it would have made me a confirmed consumptive."

Bronchial Consumption.

"I was nearly worn out with a hard cough and night sweats. I was given up by my physicians. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me." Will and Hoyt, Spring Fork, Ind., and Lexington, Ind.

PUTNAM NAIL CO., Springfield, Mass.

GENTLEMEN:—Enclosing a few leaves of the 19th inst., we state that I have used the Putnam Nail and have found it the best one to use in my shop with one new shoe I will get when my horse has to be sent back to Kentucky. Please send me 1 doz. more of the Putnam Hammer-Pointed Nails. I know what they are, and know what I am about when I write this. Very respectfully yours,

C. B. Morgan

The Putnam Nail is the only exclusively Hot-Forged and Hammer-Pointed nail.

Look in your smith's chesing box. If the nails have smooth edges for the whole length they are the PUTNAM, for they are Hammer-Pointed and are not sheared.

The above stands, from a whole repository, for the best, and is a guarantee that the Putnam nail, while experimenting for nails, is a Putnam nail, while experimenting for nails, is a Putnam nail, while experimenting for nails, is a
