MILLING AND MINING.

Thatcher Mill Depot in this City.—Mine Notes.

The announcement is made that the Thatcher Mill and Elevator company of Logan will establish a depot in Salt Lake City for their mill products. The location agreed upon is the old school house just within the Eagle Gate. At that place will be the distributing point for the flour and other mill products of the company which are placed upon this market. It is not long since the company put in $50,000 worth of new machinery, and made extensive improvements to meet the demands of their ever increasing market.

The company has also taken a bold business step to keep its branch of industry well to the fore, and has made arrangements for an ample supply of Cache Valley wheat to work on. This grain stands in the rank which is accorded superiority over most other wheat of the Territory, and among the best of its class in that raised on the Lewiston and Preston flats, in Northern Utah and Southern Idaho. Almost the whole of this season's wheat crop in that section has been contracted for by the Thatcher mill, and consequently the products of much of the best grain in the Territory will be sent by the company.

SAN JUAN MINING FEVER.

Mons Peterson, of Moab, San Juan county, does not think the recent gold excitement in his locality, and the crowding in of prospectors, even if they had to come away disappointed at not finding large quantities of gold, did any injury to that section of country. He says: "It was a grand occurrence for our people. We had been cut off from the commercial world so long that it was impossible for the farmers to dispose of their products, but the influx of people made a market, and as a natural sequence the country was never in such a prosperous condition. In the Blue and La Sal mountains some rich copper discoveries have been made and a company has been organized to operate them. The Rio Grande and Southern Pacific companies have surveyed a line that will tap this district. We have also just as good a fruit country as California and now that we have an opening for markets we are encouraged to pay more attention to fruit culture. The cattle business is excellent, times were better nor money more plentiful."

DOING WELL.

E. L. Hanak, well known in Salt Lake as a former fruit merchant, but for the past eight months in the mining business at Pine Grove, Nevada, writes favorably on business. He represents the Gold Recovery company, which is operating on gold tailings at Pine Grove, and is making lots of money by getting out $4.50 to $5 per day. The company has decided to put in a lot of new machinery, and that has been the reason for Mr. Hanak's presence in Salt Lake at this time. He has ordered the machinery, which are neither what is known as the California process, and will await their arrival in this city, which will be in a few days. He will then take his departure for Pine Grove, and put the machinery into place and operation.

NOTES.

Work is to be resumed in the Greeley mine, in Little Cottonwood canyon, next week.

The Daly mine has declared its regular dividend of 25 cents per share, payable June 20.

The Real Estate exchange committee that is canvassing for prizes for the exchange excursion to Saltair on the 23d, is meeting with good success in getting contributions.

Peter Held is in from Fish Springs and reports everything going along in good style at that camp. There is nothing special to the way of change. The output of and development in the mines is a good business, and there is no cause of complaint.

Deputy Marshal Wallace came up from Eureka last night, and he and Deputy (Boss) Cannon returned to the mining camp today. They report everything quiet down there, with a prospect of a speedy settlement of the difficulties that have existed. This is being brought about through the departure from that district of the radical element among the striking miners. If matters go along in their natural channel for a while it is anticipated that everything will be amicably adjusted.

ABOUT SALT LAKE.

A California Editor Says It Is a Beautiful City.

The California editors who were here a few weeks ago are telling their people of their trip to the Fair, and make mention of their stay in Salt Lake. Of this, Mr. Dalton, editor of the Benicia New Era, says: "A stay of one day was made at Salt Lake City, where we were entertained by the Press club and the Board of Trade. A special train was run to the Great Salt Lake, and that vast inland sea was viewed with admiration and awe. Addresses were made by Governor West, ex-Governor Thomas, George Q. Cannon, of the Presidency of the Mormon Church, and other prominent men. Hon. J. A. Filcher, of Auburn, president of the California Press Association responding. A sumptuous collation was served by the Salt Lake Press Club, in the hotel at the lake. In the afternoon a visit was paid to the Mormon Tabernacle, and an organ recital listened to. The Mormon Tabernacle is one of the architectural curiosities of the world and was erected under the direction of Brigham Young, who designed a house of worship in the form of a huge umbrella. The building is a remarkable one, and the acoustic properties so perfect, that a pin dropped near the altar was plainly heard at a distance of 115 feet. The organ is said to be one of the largest in the world; it was built here and cost $105,000. The entire party were then driven about the city in conveyances, and a visit was paid to Camp Douglas, the U. S. reservation, where there is stationed some eight companies of soldiers. The fire department gave an exhibition drill, and surprised everybody by their promptness and apparent efficiency.

"Salt Lake is a beautiful city and has many magnificent streets and buildings, the streets are from 100 to 150 feet in width, and are well kept. Coal, lime, cement and building rock abound hereabouts. At 6.30 our train left for Chicago over the Union Pacific road. A stop was made at Denver, Colorado, on Thursday, where the association were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce. * * * The Denver people, like their Salt Lake neighbors, extended to us every courtesy, and our stay at both places was most enjoyable and enlightening."

The Event Last Night.

The Tramio Candy Co. opened its new grotto on First South street last evening with a flourish of trumpets and a tinkling of cymbals, followed by such ministrations to the inner man as makes him smile and rejoice and ask for more. The crowds that sought for admittance were altogether beyond the capacity of the house and would have been had it been any other resort less capacious than the Salt Lake Theater; but they were well disposed and all who catered were so well entertained that the jostling and elbowing previously experienced were forgotten and all went merry as a marriage bell. The callers embraced a large number of invited guests, and no one went hence without either feeling or expressing his gratification, in many cases doing both, over the improved attraction which affords so much in the way of harmless enjoyment. The place has been greatly improved; is neat, clean and attractive throughout, and will doubtless deserve the patronage it is sure to receive. The "solid comfort" and all others provided are the latest and most attractive additions to the fine art of confectionery.

Forwarded Today.

The remains of E. S. Davis, who died in this city on June 11th, were embalmed yesterday and forwarded in a copper casket to Lowell, Massachusetts, by Skewes & Sons, this morning for burial.

BACK FROM CHICAGO.

Utah People Have an Unpleasant Experience on Their Return Home.

Mrs. Emmeline B. Wells and Mrs. Zina D. Young arrived in the city about 1 p. m. today from Chicago, over the U. P. railroad, after a somewhat eventful journey. The train by which the ladies traveled was something like ten hours late, having been delayed by a series of accidents. It should have reached here at 3 o'clock this morning.

The first trouble occurred on the morning of the 14th (Wednesday), when within twelve hours' ride from Chicago. A passenger train going east had been wrecked during the early morning, the brakeman killed on the spot and the engineer badly crushed. The engine was completely demolished, and although the passengers were badly shaken up, none of them were seriously injured. This caused a delay to the train for the west of about three hours.

At noon yesterday, just this side of Laramie city, the engine of the train on which Mrs. Wells was a passenger broke down. A further stoppage of two hours occurred, while another engine was brought from Laramie.

The third delay, this time of about five hours, was due to a freight train having been wrecked and the line blocked near Rawlins, Wyoming.

Mrs. Ruth D. Young stopped off at Ogden to visit her son. Among other Utah people on the train were Hon. Geo. W. Thatcher, wife and daughter, R. J. Mackintosh, wife and niece, and Mrs. Dr. Beatie and daughter.

During her visit to Chicago (for which she started from this city on May 10th) Mrs. Wells was quartered at the Palmer House at the same time as the Princess Eulalia was registered there. Mrs. Wells, during her visit to the World's Fair city, attended the woman's congress, the arts congress, the international congress of charities and correction and other meetings of an interesting character.

She speaks in glowing terms of the Columbian Exposition, and says it is one of the finest sights she has ever seen.

Jury Still Out.

The coroner's jury was still out at 4.30 deliberating on the matter of the killing of Lamont, with no prospects of arriving at a decision for some time.

WITHIN OUR GATES.

J. W. Shurtliff and ex-Mayor Fred J. Kiesel of Ogden dropped down this way last evening, the former going to the Templeton, the latter to the Knutsford.

Mrs. Willis, wife of the Bonneville governor of Idaho, is here on her way to the big show at Chicago, visiting around among relatives and friends in the meantime.

George M. Smith, a sheepman of Grantsville, Tooele county, is not the observed of many observers was the observed many things hereabout today.

R. C. Lund, Democratic politician, capitalist and all-round citizen of Utah's Dixie, who has been here several days, started on the return to his home in St. George this morning.

J. H. Clark, of the American Fork Creek, was relieving the stocks of merchants hereabout today, having in view the enlargement of the amount of goods carried by his institution. There was still something left at latest advices, although Mr. Clark was attending strictly to business.

S. L. Hanak, for years well known as the proprietor of the green grocery on the street just east of Dooley's, but of late years engaged in mining enterprises in Nevada, was seen here today where he is looking after machinery for further working there.

A. C. Beckwith, of Evanston, Wyoming, is in Salt Lake for a short time. The gentleman is one of the wealthy citizens of that state and by appointment of Governor Osborne holds the position of United States senator, though his title, like that of the appointees from Washington and Montana, has not yet been passed upon by the Senate.
