A CALL!

County Central Committee and Club Officers.

The County Central Committee, the several precinct committees and the officers of the various Clubs of the People's Party in Salt Lake County are hereby requested to meet at the Social Hall, in Salt Lake City, on Friday evening, May 29th, 1891, at 8 o'clock, to consider whether in view of the present political situation it will not be for the best interests of the people to cease the maintenance of the People's Party, so that each citizen may unite with one or the other of the great national parties, according to his individual convictions and preferences.

F. S. RICHARDS,
Chairman.

A CALL.

Territorial Central Committee of the People's Party.

A meeting of the Territorial Central Committee of the People's Party of Utah is hereby called to convene at the Social Hall, Salt Lake City, on Wednesday, June 10th 1891, at 2 p. m., to consider the present political situation.

F. S. RICHARDS, Chairman.

FRAGMENTS.

The High Priests will meet in the Social Hall on Saturday at 2 p.m.

IN the Third district court yesterday afternoon, the jury in the case of James Hamilton, charged with an abominable crime, acquitted the defendant. This was the second trial of the accused for the same alleged offense, the jury in the first instance having disagreed.

A PETITION is in course of signature at Ogden, headed by nine of the jurors who sat on the trial, praying that clemency be exercised towards James Griffin, convicted the other day of voluntary manslaughter. Among the signers are many of the leading men of the city.

MRS. MCCOY, of 153 West, Fourth South Street, writes that the News as a complaint of being annoyed by the unruly conduct of certain children in the neighborhood. If the conduct described by our correspondent is as she states it to be, she has good cause to complain. Parents residing in the locality would endeavor to prevent a continuance of the nuisance.

A PARTY of ladies and gentlemen left the city last night for Alaska, via the Union Pacific. They went in a special Pullman, the "Silver City," which will be run through without change to The Dalles, at which point the steamer will be taken for the ride down the Columbia river to Portland, and thence on to their destination, Sitka. The trip will probably occupy about forty days. The company is as follows: Mrs. William Jennings, two children and maid; J. A. Eldridge and wife, Mrs. J. R. Farlow, Mrs. Geo Eldredge, Mrs. W. W. Riser and two children, Mrs. Geo. Miss Ida Brown, Mrs. W. Geo. Mr. John G. Bechtel, Mr. H. S. Arms, Mr. J. Gledhill and Mr. Dawes.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

No Sabbath schools at ward meetings will be held in Salt Lake City on Sunday, May 31, in consequence of the annual conference of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Associations convening on that date. The people of the State are requested to attend this conference.

The bali mojah, or death plant, of Java, has flowers which continually give off a perfume so powerful as to overcome, if inhaled for any length of time, a full-grown man, and which kills all forms of insect life that come under its influence.

JOINT BUILDING PLANS.

Approved by the City Council at a Special Meeting Last Night.

THE SPECIFICATIONS AND DESIGN.

The Cost of the Building Not to Exceed $250,000.

A special session of the City Council was held last night for the purpose of considering the advisability of accepting the plans submitted to Architect Monheim et al. for the proposed joint public building. Mayor Scott presided.

The following members answered to roll call: Richard, Spafford, Parsons, Heath, Wohlenbiehler, Pendleton, Armstrong, Hall, Noble, Cohn, Anderson, Lynn and Jensen.

THE JOINT BUILDING REPORT.

The following report presented at the meeting of the Council on Tuesday night was read:

The subjoined motion was unanimously carried at the meeting of the joint city and county building committee, held at the Mayor's office May 26th:

That the joint city and county building committee recommend to the City Council and County Commissioners the plans of Messrs. Monheim, Bird & Proudfoot of Salt Lake City, Utah, be accepted, on condition that he furnish a full set of plans, specifications and detailed drawings and enter into a contract with bonds that will be satisfactory to the City Council and County Court. GEORGE M. SCOTT, Chairman.

James Anderson, Acting Secretary.

An informal recess was then taken for an hour, when the Council proceeded to examine the plans, specifications and general design of the building. Another hour was spent in awaiting the arrival of the contract from the hands of the typewriter.

The contract between the city and architects stipulates that the city shall pay 2 per cent. of the cost of the building on the acceptance of plans, 15 per cent. as the work progresses, and 15 per cent. on the completion of the building. The architects are to put in a bond of $15,000 that the building will not cost more than $250,000, with 5 per cent. added. If an advertising the bids exceed the above amount, the city will have the right to reject the plans without paying anything to the architects, or have them revised without extra charge.

SPECIFICATIONS.

The foundation is to be built of Utah red stone.

Walls above foundation to be lined with Kyune stone on the outside, and on the inside with hard-burned brick. Stone and brick to be bound together with iron anchors.

All rooms to have six-inch thick cement concrete, and on top of this to be 7/8 inch with hard wood floor on top. All partitions in the building to be of brick, and small partitions of terra cotta. No wooden partitions will be in any part of the building. All vaults to have cement floors, and all fire-proof.

First floor above basement to be fire-proof.

All laths to be used in plastering in the building to be iron. All the plastering to be three-coated work, hard coat to be hard finish. All corridors and halls as shown by plans to be tiled with American tiles. All floors except halls and corridors to have two-inch blind floors and seven-eighths hard floor on top. All wainscoting in corridors and halls to be of ornamental copper plating. All stairways to be of iron. All door frames of hard wood, also window sash. Window frames of clear pine. Casings on doors and windows of hard wood, best style of Eastlake finish. All rooms with wooden floors to have moulded hard wood base.

Prior to adjournment some unimportant discussion took place, after which the contract was ordered signed subject to the approval of the County Court.

THE CRAZE SPREADING.

An Inmate of St. Mary's Hospital Attempts to Sever His Throat With a Knife.

The suicide craze is extending with alarming rapidity. Successful and unsuccessful attempts at self-destruction have been made at the rate of one per day for the last eight days in this Territory.

The last would-be taker of his own life, so far as known, is an inmate of St. Mary's hospital in the city, named Stephenson. He was brought to Salt Lake from Park City on April 8th, and taken to the hospital to undergo treatment for a fractured leg. Since that time he has been confined in the general ward and has frequently exhibited symptoms of melancholia. The last few days he has been ill-tempered, more so than ever.

By some means he obtained possession of a knife, and yesterday afternoon some of the patients and attendants were alarmed at strange sounds emanating from that part of the ward in which Stephenson was confined. A rush was made toward his cot by the attendants, who found the unfortunate man lacerating his throat with a knife. The weapon taken from him, blood spurted in every direction, but the wound was not serious enough and the man made as comfortable as possible. It was not thought last evening that the wounds were dangerous, but communications with the hospital board elicited the information that recovery is exceedingly doubtful.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST

Over Michael O'Brien, who was Drowned at the Warm Springs Yesterday.

An inquest was held by Coroner Harris last night, at the undertaking parlors of S. D. Evans, over the body of Michael O'Brien, who was drowned in one of the Warm Springs plunge pools yesterday while bathing. It was learned that the deceased came from Frisco, Utah, about six weeks ago, and has been registered at the White House in this city ever since. He became loaded in the mines a short time ago, and was undergoing medical treatment therefor. His physician advised him to indulge in Turkish baths at the Warm and Hot Springs, which he had been doing with beneficial effect for the last three weeks. Yesterday morning he made his customary visit to the plunge, and in company with three friends entered the water. O'Brien had been drinking some and was slightly intoxicated, but, being a good swimmer, he took his last plunge. Some of the party felt a remarkably short time, much to the pleasure and astonishment of the companions. The water was very warm, registering 108 Fahr., and it was not long before a decidedly weakening effect was made on O'Brien and he climbed out of the water and sat on the edge leading into the pool. His companions also left the tank and proceeded to their dressing rooms. About five minutes afterward one of them returned to the bath and called to O'Brien, without getting a reply. Search was instituted and O'Brien's body found in the water at the bottom of the pool. He was taken up and a physician sent for. A vigorous and unsuccessful attempt was made to resuscitate him.

At the inquest Mr. Byrne explained that the deceased had undoubtedly become dizzy while sitting on the steps and fallen head foremost into the water, striking his face on the cement bottom.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the foregoing facts. The body was turned today.

Third District Court.

Before Judge Zane this morning, in the case of John H. Hughes vs. Ida Hughes, time to pay the first month's alimony was extended till June 15th, 1891, and to pay the attorney's fee until July 1st.

John W. Jones vs. Salt Lake county. In this case the findings of fact were waived and a decree quieting title was granted by consent.

Adam Dunyon vs. E. R. Clute et al. Leave to withdraw the additional list of plaintiffs was filed.

The case of the People vs. Abraham Hordos, grand larceny, was continued for the term.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON'S VERDICTS.

Robert Moore and Sarah Belton were sentenced to three months' imprisonment for adultery.

The charge against Mary Christiansen, charged with a breach of the peace (a continuance from Commissioner Norrell's court) was dismissed at the request of the complainant.

The next case called was that of the People vs. George Lucas, Mrs. George Lucas and Mary Christiansen, charged with a breach of the peace and using insulting language. The defendants were represented by Mr. E. B. Critchlow. The complaining witness was W. A. McKenzie, who alleged that the defendants had insulted his wife, mother and children. The entire trouble grew out of the poisoning of a dog belonging to Lucas. It was "a stern thing to a beagle" after all. When the testimony was all in, the defendants' attorney moved for a dismissal, and the court so instructed the jury.

The case of Ellen Howard vs. James Howard, grand larceny, was dismissed on account of the absence of the prosecuting witness.

Amusements.

"As in a Looking Glass" was presented last night in the Salt Lake Theatre by the Lillian Lewis company. It was not so good an attraction as on the previous night. The play was well received by those present.

Tonight the Lucca Opera company will give "The Three Black Mantles," at the Salt Lake Theatre. Persons who have seen this amateur company already perform in the "Black Mantles" say the work was excellent.

On next Monday night the "Lilliputians" will be seen for the first time at the Salt Lake Theatre. The advance sale indicates that the house will be unusually crowded. It is a show which interests all people alike, and young, or old, should enjoy seeing these wonderful midget actors, who have a world renowned fame. The excellent play, "The Burgomaster of Pfunzel Gasse," is sure bright and entirely entertaining. Sale of seats will begin Saturday.

DOMESTIC UNHAPPINESS.

A Case of Adultery With Some Strange Surroundings.

John H. Howard and Ellen Howard were arraigned before Judge Zane, this morning, in the Third district court, on an indictment charging them with adultery on December 7th.

Mr. Hamilton, with whom was Mr. Matsis, of Ogden, appeared for the defendants.

In his opening statement to the jury on behalf of the prosecution, United States Assistant District Attorney Stephens said this was a case of more than ordinary importance. He expected to prove by the evidence that Mr. Everitt, the husband of the female defendant, and his wife came to this country from England about three years ago. They had been married some twelve years, and lived happily together until some months after arriving in America. The parties settled at first in Ogden, and there became acquainted with Howard. The petitioner having an opportunity of working in Salt Lake City, he came to the claim, his wife remaining in Ogden and keeper furnished rooms. Howard, before this time, used to call at the house almost every week. After Mr. Everitt's arrival in Salt Lake Howard often visited Mrs. Everitt, and made a point of staying at the house when in Ogden. Mr. Everitt eventually provided a home for his wife in the city and brought her down here, leaving up to that time totally ignorant of anything wrong between his wife and Howard. Upon the arrival of Mrs. Everitt and her young daughter in the city, Howard, the male defendant, invited her to stay at his house for a day or two, until the home provided by her husband was quite ready for occupation. While at Howard's house Everitt's daughter found her mother and Howard in the bedroom of the former, though not in any compromising position, but apparently there was no occasion for Howard being there at 10 o'clock in the morning. Subsequently he left the house, and in company with three friends entered the water. O'Brien had been drinking some and was slightly intoxicated, but, being a good swimmer, he took his last plunge. Some of the party felt a remarkably short time, much to the pleasure and astonishment of the companions. The water was very warm, registering 108 Fahr., and it was not long before a decidedly weakening effect was made on O'Brien and he climbed out of the water and sat on the edge leading into the pool. His companions also left the tank and proceeded to their dressing rooms. About five minutes afterward one of them returned to the bath and called to O'Brien, without getting a reply. Search was instituted and O'Brien's body found in the water at the bottom of the pool. He was taken up and a physician sent for. A vigorous and unsuccessful attempt was made to resuscitate him.

HE CARE TO AMERICA.

But She Refused to Cross the Atlantic After Him.

The divorce suit of John D. Patch vs. Mary Ann Patch, on the ground of desertion, came before Judge Zane this morning, the petitioner being represented by Attorney Murphy.

It appeared from the husband's statement that the parties were married in England in the year 1881, and afterwards resided together at St. Albans. In 1888 the petitioner decided to emigrate to this country in order, as he states, "to better himself," but the wife positively declined to accompany him, and he came to America alone. He repeatedly wrote to her to join him, and offering to send the money necessary to defray the expenses of the journey. Letters were now sent from her before to apply to the husband to cross the water, and saying, "I still think I can better-if here than I should be in this country." In one of the letters Mr. Patch urged her husband not to buy land as he had said he thought of doing, in the hope that she would come to him. "Do not lose your money," she wrote, "and come home. For I do not like it in this place. I do not know what I shall do if you are not here soon." "If you will come home," she pleaded in another communication, "we shall settle down and be happy again." In another letter she wrote that even if the petitioner possessed "all the gold of the Indies" it would not induce her to go to America. "I have enough," she added, "I have had quite enough of foreign life to last me a lifetime."

In answer to the court, the petitioner said he had always been ready to provide a home for his wife and child out here, and had done all he could to induce her to come to him.

Judge Zane granted the decree.

Meritorious Poetry.

There is in Utah a generous proportion of poetic talent. Some of it has as yet received but a small share of just recognition. Some of the productions of home ability in this line of literature may not be of that exquisite or polished character which exciting critics and fastidious taste demand. The great Shakespeare himself is said to have made to shine with undimmed lustre, however, to some of our home authors.

This thought was recently suggested by the perusal of an original poem entitled "The Border Scout." It was published as long ago as 1887, but escaped the attention of not long since. Our readers, if children, will suggest that this production is not free from crudities, it contains passages that are remarkable for strong thought and vigorous, yet fairly thrill the susceptible reader. They breathe the soul of poetry and are almost equal to passages in the works of some of the finest authors. One of the chief charms of "The Border Scout" is the facility with which the scene of the subject changes from the serene to the furious, the placid to the terrible, thus keeping the interest of the reader enchanted throughout.

We are pleased to learn that it is the intention of the author of this poem—Mr. Ellen Jensen, of Manti—to improve and amplify it and then republish it in the columns of the Young Women's Journal.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE.

Mrs. Dr. Crain Seriously Shot: It is Said to be the Work of a Burglar.

An exceedingly strange and mysterious shooting occurred at 58 South Third East street, at 12:45 this morning. As a result, Mrs. Dr. Crain, who has lived alone in the house in the rear, will, it is said, lose her left arm, if indeed death does not follow.

The occurrence, which is shrouded in a pall of mystery, is related in substance as follows: At the time and place mentioned Mrs. Crain was sleeping in her room on the second floor of the house, when she was suddenly startled by a noise in the parlor. Instantly she sprang from her couch and drew the curtains which separated her bed room from the parlor. As she did so she suddenly came in contact with a burglar, who had effected an entrance through the front door, by turning the key with a pair of pliers. Ellen Jensen, who is the intruder avoided a physical encounter with Mrs. Crain by springing backwards. The report of a pistol immediately followed the act, and Mrs. Crain instinctively guided her left arm with her right hand as she felt a stinging sensation and discovered that blood was seen shed. The assassin could not have been more than a few feet away, as Mrs. Crain's night clothes were badly burned. As she was shot she cried loudly for assistance and her assailant fled.

E. F. Roberts and family reside in the north half of the house, and her cries soon brought them to her side. Roberts ran to the house and hastened to her bed, and Dr. Pinkerton sent for. He responded promptly to the call. The unfortunate woman was moaning piteously with pain when the Dr. arrived. He administered a sedative and proceeded to dress the wound. It was found that the bone midway between elbow and shoulder was badly shattered.

The bullet of a 32-caliber revolver was found in the carpet. The police were promptly notified and made a search through and around the premises. The key, which it is alleged had been turned in the lock, was closely examined, but showed no evidence of having been tampered; neither was there any discernible trace of anyone having entered or left the place.

The officers returned after their fruitless search for a clue, with the firm conviction that the alleged burglar will never be discovered.

There were strange rumors rife on the street today as to the story related above.

A Monster Grape-Vine.

The largest grapevine in the world is that growing at Oya, Portugal, which has been bearing since 1802. Its maximum yield was in 1864, in which year it produced a sufficient quantity of grapes to make 165 gallons of wine; in 1874, 140 gallons, and in 1884, only 108 gallons. Last year it seems to have taken an extra spurt, the enormous juice of the grapes it produced again exceeding the 100 gallon mark. It covers an area of 5,383 square feet, the stem and the base measuring 6½ feet in circumference.

BLACK EYE ERADICATOR.

HOW THE DISFIGUREMENT CAN BE BEAUTIFULLY REMOVED.

"Three out of every four cases of black eyes are caused by accident," remarked a well-known black eye eradicator to me.

"To what kind of accidents do you more particularly refer?" I queried.

"To falls of all kinds. There is the man who falls up the elevated railroad steps. Then there is the individual who knocks his eye against the lamp post. Housewives, too, have their bumps and bruises; in fact, they are among my most frequent visitors. The amount of money I make out of the people who nave disagreements with their friends."

The best thing for a black eye, according to this man's experience, is hot water, but it must be set after the injury is received as possible. A black eye is due to congealed blood settling in the numerous arteries which surround the eye. The application of hot water tends not only to reduce the swelling, but to dispel this bad blood and to restore the eye to its normal appearance.

"I have also," said the man, "a root which grows only in England, which will perform the same duty as hot water in one-quarter of the time. I scrape this finely and plaster the affected part with it, a proceeding which I repeat every half hour. It takes from two and one-half to eight hours to effect a cure, but it is there permanent.

"The slightest tap will sometimes cause a black eye, especially in sound-faced people. Light complexioned people are more subject to it than dark people or people exposed to the weather."

"Is raw meat any use?" I asked.

"None whatever. It is a popular fallacy, as is also the idea that oysters never treat a case until it is at least twenty-four hours old, so that the blood has time to settle. If treated before a second edition of the complaint is sure to make its appearance.

"Another peculiar fact about bruises is that when the forehead is injured the congealed blood invariably settles around the eyes. Again, a blow on the left temple has been known to cause a black mark around the right eye."

At this point of the conversation a well dressed gentleman entered and presented his left eye for inspection. It wasn't at all lovely. In fact it resembled nothing so much as a black eye. Having, I thanked the man for the brutes the "professor" curtly remarked:

"I will take three hours and cost $1."

"All right," returned the visitor as he divested himself of his coat and collar. Lying down on the lounge the plaster of root was soon in position.

"The only time I have an increase of business," remarked the professor to me, "is on the 1st of January, when many people suffer from alcoholic exhilaration and fall down and thus injure the windows of their souls.

"Some people haven't time to spend in regular treatment, so I am often compelled to paint the black spot with oil paint to match the complexion, and as a temporary expedient this does very well."—New York Telegram.
