Though her life was cut short in Utah, during the few months she wase privileged to live in Lehi, she made a host of friends who had learned to love and esteem her, as was evidenced by the largely attend-ed funeral, the many beautiful floral tributes that were laid on her casket, and the many words of kindness and sympathy that were spoken over her remains, by those who had known her in her native land, and had witnessed her noble, God fearing life. KILLED WHILE OUT HUNTING.

James L. Reeves Accidentally Shoots Himself. Special Correspondence.

Cumberland, Wyo. Dec. 23.—On the afternoon of Wednesday, Dec. 21, while out hunting, James L. Reeves, a coal miner, accidentally shot and killed him.

The man was from Kentucky, and was six feet four and a half inches high. In company with a boy named John Lloyd, he went out in the after-noon of the above date hunting rabbits, He had killed nine rabbits and was walking along holding the gun by his side, with the muzzle upward and both triggers raised, when the tenth rabbit jumped up. In attempting to bring the gun to his shoulder, one barrel was discharged, the load hitting him above the ear on the right side of his head. He fell and never regained conousness, dying about seven hours

Last March a young man named Thomas Edwards of this place, shot himself over a girl whom, on his recovery, he married. This young man slashed his wife with a razor in Ogden some time later; while later still, he finished himself in Omaha.

In July last, next door to the Edward's house, George H. Petersen, a man 67 years of age, shot and killed himself. HOW THE RUSSIAN MOUJIK IS INSTRUCTED.

The cut shows the manner in which the ignorant Russian peasant is made to believe that the war in which so many of his friends are engaged is being conducted. Owing to the newspaper censorship and the suppression of all accounts of Russian disaster, the peasants are dependent to a considerable extent upon these cartoons for their knowledge of the progress of the war. In the caricature herewith reproduced, which was distributed liberally throughout the rural districts of the empire, a huge Russian peasant is seated with his arm around an equally huge gun. The man's legs stretch out across Manchuria. A little French soldier stands behind the left leg, and John Bull supports a tiny Japanese soldier. Uncle Sam looks on with evident interest.

MANUFACTURING DIAMONDS.

The reward of the inventor who can produce artificial diamonds is so tempting that the Moisson experiments with the electric furnace, which were inaugurated some eight or ten years ago, have been continued until the present day. They are now being carried on in the laboratory of the Sortense of the Sor bonne, in Paris, with ever-increasing success. The first diamonds made by the electric furnace were of microscopic size and few in number. In fact, they were so minute and uncommon that it took a great deal of repeated experimenting to secure enough specimens to demonstrate beyond a doubt that the brilliant crystals were actually dia-
