Amusements.

Rose Coghlan has been so long identified in the minds of our theater-goers with roles like that of the adventures in "Forget Me Not," that it is more than a relief to see her as the central figure in a play with a noble and uplifting theme, like that of "The Greatest Thing in the World." As has already been explained, "The Greatest Thing in the World," is, in the eyes of the two clever ladies who are responsible for the play—Harriet Ford and Beatrice DeMille—a mother's love for her son, and around this idea a play of enchanting interest has been constructed.

Miss Coghlan assumes the part of the devoted mother. One of her sons is plunging along the downward track, and the story is devoted to showing how the mother reclaims him. Besides this there are several charming love stories between the younger people, and the mother herself is sought in marriage by two men who, it must be said, conduct their courtship in rather statesmanlike fashion. Miss Coghlan herself does some admirable acting. She is surrounded by the best company she ever presented to us, the principal member in which is Mr. Sidney Irving, whose delineation of the erring son was finely done throughout. The other boy, the comedy role, was ably well drawn by Mr. House. Mr. Pratt is a polished actor, but his reading of his role was somewhat icy for a lover of his persistence. Mr. Shea as McFarland, and Miss Gloy present charming pictures of two charming girls.

The presentation will be seen for the last time tonight, and should be witnessed by a much larger audience than that which attended last evening.

Miss Coghlan's play, "The Greatest Thing in the World," is that which Mr. LeMoine starred last season. The part of McFarland is the one originally assumed by Mr. Harold Russell of this city.

"A Woman's Sacrifice" was the bill at the Grand last night. And it will be the card for the remainder of the week. To those who like the melodramatic form of amusement with the carmine hues toned down and the forked lightning transformed into the harmless flash, "A Woman's Sacrifice" answers the purpose admirably. It went to fair business last night, but to fair business only. It is good enough for strong patronage. It tells simply, but effectively, the story of a misguided wife, the outburst of mother love, and wrong made right after many years and much sacrifice and suffering. The heroine was Miss Elliott and excellently robed and pretty she was as the Bar.

HERPICIDE'S MISSION.

It Takes Away the Dread of Birthdays.

Nothing is more annoying to men and women of middle age than to see those unmistakable signs of age—thin hair and wrinkles—approaching. But science has discovered that these conditions are no longer "unmistakable" evidences of old age, for the dandruff germ theory proves that even very young people may suffer hair loss, while those of advanced age may retain their abundant locks to a ripe old age. Newborn's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and removes the risk of appearing old before your time. Save your hair and your feelings by using the genuine Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Sample in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Z. C. M. I. Drug Co., Special Agents.

ones Anna Kotek. Her poison scene was her best work. James Corrigan passed before the footlights in another character role comedy of course. The result was entirely pleasing to his now numerous Salt Lake friends. He was cast as Raphael Marillo, artist and all round good fellow. The generous reception he was accorded told a story of appreciation in a manner that can but encourage still higher endeavor. Mr. Sossa's impersonation of Baron Kotek was a faithful one, and with one or two exceptions the remainder of the male members of the company were acceptable. Miss Selwyn made a charming Olga, and Pauline Maitland a really captivating husband catcher, while little Mabel, as the child, added one more hit to the many she has made since her arrival in Salt Lake.

The Great Belgian Violinist Walker.

At the Grand Sunday with the Orpheus club, New York with Held's big band the company consists of Miss Katherine De Vere, the celebrated pianist; Miss Dorothy Walworth, dramatic reader; Miss Jean St. Remy, soprano soloist, and the celebrated Bernhard Walther who ranks as one of the finest violinists of the day, together with Held's Concert band of 40 of the best musicians of the city. Tickets on sale at Smith Drug store, concert at 8:30. A. S. Zimmerman, manager.

Ward Entertainments.

The Mill Creek Dramatic company will present Chas. Townsend's laughable comedy, "A Family Affair," in the Mill Creek meetinghouse tonight, tomorrow night and tomorrow afternoon. A rare evening's entertainment is assured when it is given at the meetinghouse. The performance are given under the direction of the ward amusement committee. Those who will take part are Messrs. Albert Smith, Bruce Calder, Roy Hill, Chas. Hamilton, Misses Marie Helm, May Hamilton, and little Roland Smith.

East Cough Medicine for Children.

When you buy a cough medicine for small children you want one in which you can place implicit confidence. You want one that not only relieves but cures. You want one that is unquestionably harmless. You want one that is pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all these conditions. There is nothing so good for the coughs and colds incident to childhood. It is also a certain preventive and cure for croup, and there is no danger whatever from whooping cough when it is given at the first signs of the disease. It has been used in many epidemics of that disease with perfect success. For sale by all druggists.

KINDERGARTEN AID FUND.

Entertainment for its Benefit Last Night Was Very Pleasing.

A large audience attended the kindergarten piano aid fund last night, in the First Congregational church, and quite a sum was realized. A feature of the evening was the appearance of Mrs. Hamberger, the elocutionist, who gave four readings with marked effect, and secured a very favorable impression. The musical was another interesting feature, and was danced by Robert Ganz, Edgar Myers, Royal Dustin, Esther Daugherty, Elizabeth Butler, Nell and Rollin Oliver and Margaret Maroney, youngsters ranging from 3 to 6 years, whose efforts caused much merriment. The musical part of the program included the Oberon overture, "Old Boston," Boston and New England songs by Prof. Radcliff, in his usual masterly style, Miss Esther Allen played a violin solo, and J. W. Curtis sang twice.

"Loch Lomond" was given by a quartet including Mrs. Price, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Evans and Mr. Curtis. Mrs. Stanley Price sang the closing number of the program, "Lorelei," with organ accompaniment by Prof. Radcliff. Misses Judith Evans and the other accompanist of the evening.

Loss of Appetite.

A person that has lost appetite has lost something besides—vitality, vigor, tone.

The way to recover appetite and all that goes with it is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla—that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion and makes eating a pleasure.

Thousands take it for spring loss of appetite and everybody says there's nothing else so good as Hood's.
