LUDOVICO LANA.

AN ANECDOTE OF MODERN SICILY.

In the summer of 1811 I was traveling in Sicily, and in crossing the island from Girgenti to Palermo, paid a visit to the town of Castrogiovanni, built on the site of the ancient Enna. After a ride of some hours under a scorching sun, and in a state which fully explained the metamorphosis which sundry nymphs of the classic ages underwent in the same lovely land, when by some powerful agency they melted away into fountains, it was with infinite satisfaction that I saw before me my destined resting-place.

Not a tree had I passed for hours which afforded as much shade as a cabbage leaf—all was desolate and uncultivated, and the flowery plains in which Proserpine was gathering nosegays when Pluto acted so very like an unconstitutional king, and in a manner which no gentleman out of the Emerald Isle would have dreamed of, forcibly abducted the daughter of Ceres; in these self-same meads all was as brown as I burnt up as a rabbit warren in the month of August. I could however calculate at least upon shelter from the sun, if the old town afforded nothing else, which is often the case in the interior of Sicily. But I had better hopes, for a friend at Girgenti had given me letters to the Abbate Guttadouro, who would, I was assured, find me better quarters than any locanda could give; and that to the latter I could consign my servant and the mules.

Castrogiovanni stands upon a high isolated hill, and is surrounded by old walls and towers. The celebrated temple of Ceres stood, it is said, on a similar hill, divided from that on which the town is built by the valley in which the abduction of the young lady aforesaid took place; but there are no more remains of the temple left than there are of the chariot wheels by which she was borne away—the last remnants of the celebrated fane having been removed to build some of the old churches in the town. On entering the place—which seems to have retrograded in civilization for the last two thousand years, till it has arrived at such a state as would be considered indictable by an English jury as dangerous to passengers, either biped or quadruped—I was surprised to see so little interest shown on the arrival of a stranger, as in most of these classic spots a host of mendicants assail him on one side and guides on the other, each eager to catch fresh prey, and appropriate the spoil, whilst the idle and unemployed, who form at least nine-tenths of the population, and the hosts of the miserable locandas (the worst specimen of inn in the civilized world), swell the crowd; at Castrogiovanni affairs seemed quite in another state, and all appeared occupied in some weighty matter of general interest. The beggars forgot to hold out their hands, and the cicerone to proffer the benefits of their local and classical erudition. We passed unnoticed through the street, and could scarcely bribe a half naked urchin to guide us to the house of the abbate, to whom I had an introduction. When we arrived the good priest was not to be found, but his housekeeper invited me to enter, and promised me that my letter should be delivered immediately, as the abbate was readily to be found. Close at hand was the Cruce Blanco, one of the best locandas in the town, and thither I sent my servant with the mules, awaiting in patience the return of the master of the house, which was not long delayed. He was very kind, offering his house and all that he had with the accustomed Sicilian ceremonial, and it was arranged that I should become the guest of the abbate, whilst my servant remained at the inn for two or three days. I then learned the cause of the unusual excitement in the town. A brigand, belonging it was said to the band of the celebrated Ludovico Lana, had been arrested, and it was expected that he would make disclosures of great interest when condemned to death, which it was decided he should be by the judge and other authorities before the trial took place or a question was asked. He had been arrested on the deposition of a dying man, who had been robbed and mortally wounded on the road between Castania and Castrogiovanni; but the accused stoutly maintained that at the time mentioned he had been employed as a porter at Palermo. Unfortunately, he had neither time allowed nor the means of procuring the attendance of witnesses, and the judge had fully made up his mind beforehand, as is very generally the case, and the sentence was passed just at the time of my entering the town; all the world, therefore, were assembled about the tribunal, and employed in discussing the merits of the case, which accounted for the deserted state of the streets, never at any time crowded with population. Soon after my establishment with my host, my servant returned from the locanda, and congratulated me on my good quarters, more particularly as a very great personage had arrived a short time previous, and who occupied, together with the unfortunate man just condemned, all the thoughts of the innkeeper and his family. I inquired who the great unknown might be, and was told that he was a fine-looking young man, about twenty-eight or thirty years of age, in the uniform of an English officer of rank, and attended by two domestics. He had arrived from Palermo; and though from his dress he appeared to be in the English service, yet his accent and dialect were evidently Maltese, which circumstances strongly excited the curiosity of the worthy landlord, whose house was seldom visited by persons of such distinction. The stranger had asked the distance from Castrogiovanni to Palermo, and was told about seventeen miles. He then ordered dinner, and desired his attendants to see to the horses, as he should proceed that evening to the place of his destination. The host ventured to represent to his excellenza the danger of the route, at which the traveler laughed, and asked in what the danger consisted.

"Had his excellenza never heard of Ludovico Lana?" inquired the innkeeper.

"Ludovico Lana! And who may he be?" was the reply.

"Oh, Signior! the most terrible brigand is the island, and who just now will be more furious than ever."

"And why so?"

"One of his band has just been arrested and condemned to death here, in Castrogiovanni, and Ludovico is capable of setting fire to the town, and cutting all our throats."

The stranger laughed at the alarm of his informant, and asked when the execution would take place.

PEOPLE'S VERDICT

Over Half a Million sold and in use!

SINGER'S

New Improved Silent

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES

ARE

The Best in the World,

Because all of them are in constant use, while a very large proportion of other makes are no used, owing to their being partially or utterly impracticable.

THE SINGER

NEW FAMILY MACHINE

Has been brought to perfection, regardless of time, labor or expense and is now incomparably the best Sewing Machine in existence.

It is simple, compact, durable, beautiful, quiet, light-running, and capable of performing a range and variety of work never before adapted upon a single machine; using either coton, Twist, Linen or Cotton Thread, and sewing with equal facility the very finest and coarsest materials, or anything between the two extremes, in the most beautiful and substantial manner.

The New Improved Attachments for Hemming, (any width) Braiding, Embroidering, Gauging, Gathering, Cording, Tucking (at the same time) Self-Sewing, Binding, etc., are novel and practicable, and have been invented and adjusted especially for this Machine.

Folding Tops and Cabinet Cases.

New designs of the unique, useful and popular Folding Tops and Cabinet Cases, peculiar to the Singer Machine, are in every variety of Wood, such as black Walnut, Mahogany, Rosewood, Satinwood, and from the plainest to the most elaborate pattern as to finish. The Machines themselves are also highly ornamented with pearl and gold to correspond with their tables or cabinets.

In the Singer the work is fed or passed through the Machine in the natural direction, as the hands from the operator, permitting her to sit in a natural and healthy position. In many other Machines the work passes from right to left, or the reverse, compelling the operator to sit in a bent and unhealthy position, and thus causing weakness of the back, etc.

The Singer uses a SHORT STRAIGHT NEEDLE, which is not liable to break or miss the stitch. Many other Machines use a long crooked needle, which is liable to break and to miss the stitch.

In the Singer Machine the Shuttle is carried, thus avoiding nearly all wear. It requires no oil, and does not soil the thread or goods. Other Machines drive their Shuttles, in a race, thus causing great wear, and requiring oil, soiling the thread and goods.

On the Singer, the Tension on both the upper and lower threads is absolutely under the ready control of the operator, thus rendering the Machine always available for good sewing, which is not the case with any other. Many so-called cheap Machines are really worthless, and so are many of their new peculiarities and supposed advantages.

The SINGER is the Oldest Practical Sewing Machine,

Being about twenty years in the market. Having been constantly improved by the employment of the most skillful talent of the age and unlimited capital has been invested (all unnecessary pride set aside) in the Very Latest Inventions and Improvements. It is the only Machine sold on Honest Claims, as all its parts are Practical and will do all that is claimed for them. Some other Machines are Greatly Complicated, to do Useless and Silly things, and these are rendered liable to Constant Derangement. The Singer Seldom or Never gives Trouble, but is readily and easily learned by those who utterly fail on other Machines.

SINGER'S

Sewing Manufacturing Machines

Claim the same advantages over others of their class as the new Family Machines. These old and well-tried Sewing Machines are applicable to all kinds of Sewing and Tailoring, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, etc., and run in the most perfect and reliable manner without trouble to the operator.

HAVE ARRIVED!

A Full Assortment of those

Beautiful and Unrivaled MACHINES.

(The numbers on which show a manufacture of between Five and six Hundred Thousand.) Consisting of the Different Varieties made by the Singer Manufacturing Company and we shall sell at Eastern Prices, with addition of Freight only. To accommodate parties who cannot pay all down, we will sell on

EASY MONTHLY INSTALMENTS

So that all may possess one of these Blessings.

For the convenience of our Patrons we have engaged the services of a gentleman who has had twenty years experience and is one of the most skillful experts in the world in repairing and adjusting Sewing Machines. He will put each Machine in complete and practical running order before it leaves the Institution and will also impart to purchasers all needful instruction, so that they can at once commence work.

We resort to no trickery whatever to sell Sewing Machines, but allow their Great Merits to recommend them. We can do this, as the demand for them is so great that although the Singer Company make more than all other first-class companies combined, they cannot nearly fill their orders, and are compelled to still extend their Gigantic Works.

We having been so fortunate as to secure the

General Central Agency,

For this Territory, we extend a cordial invitation to all to come and see the Machines, whether they wish to buy or not. See all others, but do not buy without you examine the Singer.

We Guarantee every Machine we sell to give entire satisfaction.

7-30 GOLD LOAN

OF THE

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

RAPID PROGRESS OF THE WORK.

The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad, (begun July last,) is being pushed forward with great energy from both extremities of the line. Several thousand men are employed in Minnesota and on the Pacific Coast. The grade is nearly completed 266 miles westward from Lake Superior; trains are running over 130 miles of finished road, and tracklaying is rapidly progressing toward the eastern border of Dakota. Including its purchase of the St. Paul and Pacific Road, the Northern Pacific Company now has 413 miles of completed road, and by September next this will be increased to at least 560.

A GOOD INVESTMENT. Jay Cooke & Co. are now selling, and unhesitatingly recommend, as a Profitable and perfectly Safe investment, the First Mortgage Land Grant Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. They have 30 years to run, bear Seven and Three-Tenths per cent. gold interest (more than 8 per cent. currency) and are secured by first and only mortgage on the ENTIRE ROAD AND ITS EQUIPMENTS, and also, as fast as the Road is completed, on 23,000 ACRES OF LAND to every mile of track, or 500 Acres for each $1,000 Bond. They are exempt from U. S. Tax; Principal and Interest are payable in Gold. Denominations: Coupons, $100 to $1,000; Registered, $100 to $10,000.

LANDS FOR BONDS. Northern Pacific 7-30's are at all times receivable at PAR PER CENT. ABOVE PAR, in exchange for the Company's Lands, at their lowest cash price. This renders them practically INTEREST BEARING LAND WARRANTS.

SINKING FUND. The proceeds of all sales of Lands are required to be devoted to the re-purchase and cancellation of the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company. The Land Grant of the Road exceeds Fifty Million Acres. This immense Sinking Fund will unconditionally cancel the principal of the Company's bonded debt before it falls due. With their ample security and high rate of interest, there is no investment, accessible to the people, which is more PROFITABLE OR SAFE.

EXCHANGING U. S. FIVE-TWENTIES. The success of the New Government 5 per cent. Loan will compel the early surrender of United States 6 per cents. Many holders of Five-Twenties are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties, thus realizing a handsome profit and greatly increasing their yearly income.

OTHER SECURITIES. All marketable Stocks and Bonds will be received at their highest current prices in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties. EXPRESS CHARGES on Money or Bonds received, and on Seven-Thirties sent in return, will be paid by the Financial Agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc., can be obtained on application at any agency, or from the undersigned.
